"Furthermore, I can positively state that Moore did not enter the Detroit meet. I received telegrams from officials asking me to urge Moore to enter. The latter informed me, however that he would be unable to leave his work. I so notified the Detroit officials

"Moore has been unable to compete in outdoor meets this year because of the demands of business of his time. His only appearance in competition thus far has been against Thunberg and Gorman in two races at Madison Square Garden.

NEW INTERCOLLEGIATE RECORD FOR 100 YARD SWIM MADE

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The intercollegiate swimming record for the 100 yard dash was broken here today in a meet between Yale and Dartmouth, James D. Bronson of Yale, making the distance in 53 9-10 seconds. Yale won the meet 35 1-2 to 26 1-2.

The intercollegiate record for the 150 yard backstroke was unofficially shattered by James A. House, Jr., of Yale, but he was disqualified for making illegal turns. He finished five yards in front of McCaw of Dartmouth, whose time, 1 minute 48 3-10 seconds, in itself faster than the intercollegiate record, was automatically disallowed.

Princeton Fencing Schedule

PAULEN PLANS TOUR OF AMERICAN TRACKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Adrian Paulen, Holland's middle-distance star, who made his American indoor debut at the Millrose games last night, arranged today to compete in twelve additional meets which will take him from coast to coast as well as to Canada.

In making this announcement, national headquarters of the amateur athletic union also disclosed that two others of the invading quartet of European athletes, Hubert Houben, German sprinter, and Gordon Goodwin, English walker, who will leave for their native lands next week.

Houben's permit expires with his competition in the Boston A. A. meet tomorrow night and he is booked to sail for Germany February 11. Goodwin, whose only American appearance was made in the three-mile walk last night, in which he finished third, sails for home February 13.

Paulen's transcontinental tour is subject to approval by Holland athletic authorities but this is expected to be a formality inasmuch as the arrangement is sanctioned by the A. A. U. here.

The "Flying Dutchman" will make his next appearance in the Boston A. A. meet. He will conclude his tour by making a special trip from the east to Houston, Texas, to compete in the Rice Institute relays on March 16, through friendship for the Rice track coach, Ernie Hjertberg, who trained Paulen as well as Holland's other athletics for the 1924 Olympics.

The intervening dates fixed for Paulen follow: Feb. 10, Newark A. C.; Crescent A. C., Brooklyn; 13, Wilco A. A., Brooklyn; 22, Southwestern Association, A. A. U., New Orleans; 27, Southern Pacific Association A. A. U., Los Angeles; March 4, University of Iowa; 6, National A. A. U. championships, Chicago; 8, Michigan championship, A. A. U., Detroit; 16, Knights of Columbus, New York; 20, 91st A. A. A., Hamilton, Canada.

TWO LENGTHEN RACES IN POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Proponents of greater endurance tests for college oarsmen in the annual championships at Poughkeepsie have scored another point with the decision to lengthen the junior varsity from two to three miles, effective in the 1926 regatta on June 28.

The change was disclosed today by Maxwell Stevenson, chairman of the board of stewards of the intercollegiate rowing association, in announcing that formal invitations to the regatta had been sent to seven institutions outside the organization.

Led by Mr. Stevenson, the stewards last year restored the distance of the varsity race to four miles and he explained today that the "Jayvee" distance was increased to provide a test which would better fit oarsmen for participation another year in the varsity contest. The distance of the freshman race remains at two miles.

The invitations extended by the members of the association, Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania and Syracuse, have gone forward to the naval academy, 1925 varsity winners; University of Washington, 1923 and 1924 varsity champions; University of California, Leland Stanford, University of Wisconsin, Princeton and Massachusetts institute of technology.

NATIONAL LEAGUE FAVORS SALARY RAISE FOR LANDIS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—National league club owners not only favor renewing Baseball Commissioner Landis' term of office for a ten-year period when his present contract expires in 1927 but they also desire to increase his salary, now $50,000 a year.

The Magnets did not go on record on the salary question at their mid-winter sessions Wednesday, when they gave the commission a vote of confidence but William L. Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, was quoted today by the New York Sun as saying that "Landis can write his own ticket, so far as the national league is concerned."

Veeck expressed the opinion that it would not be fair to offer the veteran former jurist a new contract without providing an increase in his salary, now paid pro-rata by the sixteen major league clubs.

The Chicago Magnats also was quoted as asserting his belief that the American league cannot avoid the issue put before it on Landis when the club owners of the junior circuit meet in Washington next week. In other baseball circles, however, belief is held that the American league will not put itself on record at this time.

DRIVING FINISHES FEATURE RACING ON MANY TRACKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Driving finishes stirred racing throngs at Miami, New Orleans and Tijuana tracks today, with favorites scoring in feature events.

Dudley and Flag of Truce raced neck and neck from the start of the six-furlong Sarasota graded handicap at Miami, the latter wearing down the son of Light Brigade to win by less than a length. The race was run in 1.13 1-5, one of the fastest sprints of the meet.

Two dollar tickets on Mable C. paid $28.40 in the second race at New Orleans, the winner surprising track experts who had figured her strictly a "mud horse." The third race developed the most sensational finish of the afternoon, however, with Prattle coming from behind to pass Asuli and Alleen P., in a close finish.

Paddist came tearing down the stretch to overtake Great Luck in the Tijuana feature handicap at a mile and a sixteenth after running at an irregular pace early in the race.

DELANEY OUTPOINTS RISKO IN SECOND BOUT IN THE HEAVYWEIGHT DIVISION

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., outstanding challenger for the world's light-heavyweight championship stepped into the heavyweight ranks for the second time within a month and decisively outpointed Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, in a ten-round fight at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Risko, a rugged, shifty heavyweight, came into the ring weighing 189 pounds, 19 more than Delaney. With a style which recalled the wild rushes of Luis Angel Firpo, Risko threatened to sweep Delaney to the canvas, but the clever Bridgeport man nimbly sidestepped and crossed with right and left, jarring the Clevelander with every blow.

In the second round, Risko rushed Delaney off his feet, crashing him to the canvas in a collision. Most of the way Delaney was content to stand off and box his way out of trouble. He was hurt repeatedly when Risko was fortunate enough to get within range and land with his right.

Risko, with a record of having never been knocked off his feet in 18 professional fights, was the aggressor right from the start, never giving Delaney a chance to lead, but he was too erratic in his timing.

The Preliminaries

Eddie Anderson, of Laramie, Wyo., won a judges' decision over Steve Smith, Bridgeport, Conn., featherweight in the first of three ten-round matches. Anderson weighed 128 3-4 and Smith 130. Anderson was the aggressor and landed the cleaner blows.

In a four-round bout, Mike Esposito, of Stamford, Conn., won a decision over Georgie Cuneo, New York bantam.

In the second of the ten-round exhibitions, Chic Suggs, of New Bedford, Mass., selected by Tex Rickard as leading bantamweight of 1925, won the verdict over Abe Goldstein, of New York, former world's champion. Suggs weighed 118 1-2, Goldstein one pound less.

Suggs outboxed and outpunched the former 118-pound king, discoloring both eyes.

Ruby Goldstein, of New York, defeated Johnny Cecconi, of Scranton, Pa., in the six-round semi-final. Goldstein weighed 134 1-4, his opponent 133.

Walker Beats Shugrue

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Archie Walker, New York, won a decision over Johnny Shugrue, of Waterbury, in their 10-round bout here tonight. Walker proved much too clever for his rival. The men are lightweights

SCEPTRE, FAMOUS RACE HORSE IS DEAD

LONDON, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The famous racehorse, Sceptre, died today. Sceptre had been regarded by many racing authorities as the greatest mare of the past fifty years. She was the winner of many classic races, although she failed to win the derby, and won a fortune for a former owner, Robert Sievier. It was recalled that Lord Glanely at whose stud farm Scepter died, sold the mare in 1923, to an Argentine breeder for 500 pounds, but protests here led to cancellation of the deal.

Sceptre was 27 years old.

At Newmarket sales in August 1917, Sceptre was sold to her sixth owner, Sir W. Tatem, for $13,125. An earlier owner had paid $125,000.

As a two year old Sceptre won two races; at three years of age she won six races of a value of $115,975; at four years old she won $63,165. After three successful attempts the following season she was retired to the stud.

Among the stakes won by Sceptre were the St. Leger, the Oaks, the two and one thousand guineas and the Duke of York.

MISS BROWN-MRS. MALLORY WIN DOUBLES FINALS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Miss Mary K. Browne and Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, both former national tennis champions, today won the doubles finals of the Heights Casino invitation tournament, defeating Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., and Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere of Boston, 6-4, 6-1.

The doubles victory was a second triumph of the day for Miss Browne, who advanced to the singles final by defeating Mrs. Corbiere, 6-3, 6-4. Tomorrow Miss Browne will play the deciding match with Miss Bayard, who scored a sensational three-net victory over Mrs. Mallory yesterday in the semi-final contest.

Following the title match tomorrow, Miss Browne will pair with Francis T. Hunter in an exhibition mixed doubles contest with Miss Bayard and Vincent Richards.

C. F. C. Vs. Brauman's Stars

Saturday evening at 7:30 the C. F. C quintet will meet the Brauman's All-Stars on the Y. M. C. A. court. As both teams have won the majority of their games a stiff battle is expected.

For the C. F. C., Lambert and "Zeke" Leffingwell will see how many baskets they can cage. Ludlow will attempt to out jump his opponent, while Brown and Armstrong will try to keep their opponents from scoring.

The All-Stars will use Brauman, Blinderman, Budnick and Pascouche and a dark horse.

Nutmegs Challenge

The Nutmegs challenge any fast basketball team in this section for a game during the coming week on the latter's court. They would like to hear especially from the Battery B or Taftville Nordica teams. Answer through this paper as soon as possible.

PROBABLE WINNER OF HANDICAP IS UNDECIDED

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Race experts were divided tonight in selecting the probable winner of the New Orleans handicap for $30,000 added, to be run at the fair grounds track here tomorrow. More than 30,000 persons are expected to witness the classic. The purse is the largest on record for the annual event.

Twenty-seven thoroughbreds, including the cream of the handicap division, are entered. The field probably will be narrowed to sixteen starters before post time. Sir Peter, owned by Mose Goldblatt, of Cincinnati, ruled as a slight favorite tonight. Indications were that Scratch, entry of E. E. Leichleiter; Corn Cracker, owned by F. Trotter and Almadel, of the stable of H. P. Headly, also will be favored to finish in the money. Fair weather and a fast track are predicted for the race, which will be at a mile and a sixteenth.

WESLEYAN WINS FROM N. Y. U. IN SWIMMING

MIDDLETOWN, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Wesleyan university taking first in each of seven events defeated New York university 52 to 10, in a swimming meet here this afternoon.

Brooks won both the 40-yard and the 100-yard swims. Other winners were: Murtfeldt 440-yard swim; Martin, fancy diving; Captain McAduo, 150-yard back stroke; Yarrow, 220-yard breast stroke. The Wesleyan team which won the 150-yard relay was composed of Brooks, Bodel, O'Malley and Murtfeldt. None of the events was won in record time.

FORMER CADDY WINS MIAMI AMATEUR TITLE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Fifteen years ago on the public links of New York city, a little Italian caddied for a champion Gotham golfer. Today the little 28 year old youngster Joe Ford, defeated his friend, Bill Wallace, now a prominent Chicago player, 3 and 2, for the Miami Beach annual amateur golf championship over the Bay Shore course.

WOULD OPEN TAX RETURNS TO PUBLIC INSPECTION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Opening of tax returns to public inspection was urged in the senate by members of both parties today as the tax reduction bill was subjected to seven more hours of debate.

For the second day, a decision went over on the provision in the bill for repeal of the section of the present law allowing publication of amounts of tax payments and Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, in charge of the measure, announced he would force night sessions next week to hasten disposal of the measure.

Opponents of the repeal, who are countering with a motion to declare the full return public records, instead of merely the amounts paid, held the floor throughout the day, and while the debate was held strictly to this subject, some managers of the tax bill private charged a filibuster was under way against it.

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, who led the fight today for opening of tax returns to public inspection indicated tonight, however, that he expected to vote tomorrow on the provision.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

MACCABEES

Forsaking the time honored custom of breaking ground for a new building with an engraved silver spade, Supreme Commander A. W. Frye operated a steam shovel to start construction on The Maccabees new international headquarters and home office building in Detroit. Obeying his manipulations of the levers, the mammoth shovel turned the sod by biting out a cubic yard or more of frozen dirt, lifted it over the heads of the national, state and city officials who took part in the ceremony, and neatly deposited it in a waiting truck. The work thus begun in the modern way is continuing at top speed and the structure when completed will be the finest home office building owned and operated by any fraternal benefit association in the world.

The Maccabees building will be fourteen stories high and of pure American design, exemplifying truth in architecture it will be faced with Indiana limestone and the plan of recessing the upper stories instead of building flush with the street maked every room an outside office. The mammoth vault in the basement in which will be kept the Maccabees $26,000,000 reserve funds will be lined with "Don Metal," a substance impervious to the highest known temperature, resisting successfully a degree of heat far above that produced by an electric arc. The Maccabees' offices will occupy five floors, and will include lodge rooms and an auditorium seating one thousand people.

Since the recent merger with The Ladies of The Maccabees, The Maccabees is one of the largest as well as financially the strongest fraternal benefit associations in America, with 250,000 members, more than $23,000,000 assets and 5,000 lodges in every state and in Canada. The new headquarters will be ready for occupancy on January 1, 1927.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

The past few meetings of White Cross council, No. 15, have shown a most lively interest on the part of all the members in the council and its activities. This state of affairs is most encouraging to the officers and those in charge, who especially appreciate this spirit of co-operation.

Two outstanding events during the month of January were the roast pig supper, given under the personal supervision and attention of James P. Sheridan and the initiation of a large class of candidates at the meeting held January 18th. The former event was one of those affairs which will linger long in the memory of those partaking of it, for it was a pronounced success in every way. The latter event speaks for itself in as much as it shows the healthy growth, which necessarily must follow an organization that is on a firm and dependable foundation.

At the last regular meeting held on February 4th with Grand Knight Thomas P. Shea presiding, the members were most highly entertained by a talk on "Modern Banking Methods" by Harry M. Powers, cashier of the Merchants National Bank, and also a member of the council. Mr. Powers' talk was replete with information of value to each and every one of his listeners and called forth much comment from those present both as to the fund of information received and the masterly acquaintance with his subject displayed by the speaker.

For the next meeting to be held on February 18th a real treat is in store for the members, for on that evening the chaplain, Rev. John J. Reilly will give an illustrated talk. The mere mention of the speaker's name is assurance of a crowded home on this evening. Following Fr. Reilly's talk, a smoker will be given for all the members.

Plans are also underway, although yet in the formative stage, for a dramatic production to be given after the Lenten season by the combined dramatic talent of Mercier Assembly, Ladies of Columbus and White Cross council, Knights of Columbus. The keen interest in this event shown by the members of both these organizations in the forth coming production augurs well for its success, both from a dramatic and financial stand-point.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

The regular meeting of Clara Barton Tent, No. 7, was held in Buckingham Memorial Tuesday evening with the president, Miss Gladys B. Newbury, presiding. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The mystery package was awarded to Mrs. Lucy G. Mac Dougall. It was voted to have an invitation whist for just the members and their friends Tuesday evening, Feb. 9. An invitation from Sedgwick Post, No. 1, G. A. R., to attend an oyster chowder dinner Saturday, Feb. 6, at 1 p. m., was read and accepted. It is hoped that a good number will attend. The meeting closed in the usual form with the salute to the flag.

ENGINEERS' AUXILIARY

The Ladies' National Auxiliary, Unity No. 7, N. A. S. E. celebrated its third anniversary in January, by having an open meeting and inviting the engineers and their wives of the association. A large number responded. A bountiful supper was served at 7 p. m., after which, Sister Hughes of Bristol, Conn., secretary of the National Auxiliary, spoke of the pension fund and its ways and means. Also Brother Holland, past state president, of the Men's N. A. S. E. gave a short talk. Applications were received after which whist was played and dancing enjoyed until a late hour.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, is to have an open meeting at its next regular meeting Wednesday evening in Steinert hall when one of the big attractions to be provided in the lecturer's hour will be an address by Dr. John H. Evans on "Activity of the Near East Relief Work in the Caucasus." An amusing sketch, The Peak Sisters, which will be conducted by Mrs. E. Grace Fowler, will also be on the programme of the evening, making the whole an especially entertaining and instructive period for the grange members and their friends.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

Mercier Council, No. 12, held a meeting in their rooms on Broadway Tuesday evening. Miss Elinore Donovan presided. An invitation had been issued to attend the installation of officers of the Baltic Council, but this has been postponed because of the weather and will take place Tuesday, February 9. Members wishing to attend will leave on the 5:45 p. m. trolley from Frank'n Square. Any member who hasn't already purchased tickets for the pre-Lent card party may obtain them from Miss Margaret Daley. Plans for the play to be given after Easter are in progress.

ODD FELLOWS

The regular meeting of Shetucket lodge, No. 27, was held Tuesday evening with a large attendance. The routine business was disposed of under the direction of Noble Grand Frank R. Jones, after which a class of candidates was initiated in a fitting manner. The mock trial, which was commenced last week, was omitted, owing to the initiation, but will be resumed in the near future.

Next Tuesday evening Shetucket lodge in conjunction with Uncas lodge, Obwebetuck lodge of Willimantic and those from Jewett City will receive an official visit from the Grand Master of Connecticut and other grand officers, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. A supper will be served after the meeting by the ladies of Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

Buckingham council, No. 14, held a meeting marked with much enthusiasm, Wednesday evening, at Cadillac hall, called to order at 8 o'clock with Councilor George E. Faulkner presiding.

An invitation was received from Roosevelt Council of New London, for the members of Buckingham council, to attend the presentation of a flag to New London high school on February 19. All the brothers were urged to attend and make New London's first attempt a success.

Washington council of Noank sent an invitation to the Norwich degree team, and asked to have the degrees worked in Noank this month. The invitation was accepted and it was decided to attend Noank council on February 23, as this is the first open date. There is to be a Dusty Knight initiation in New London on Saturday February 6 and several candidates are to be initiated from Norwich. The members were informed that Brother C. Cheeseman of New London has passed away. Brother Cheeseman was an ardent follower of the Dusty Knights, and will be greatly missed.

The degree team was informed that practice is to be held Wednesday evening.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary of Fletcher Post, American Legion, were entertained Monday night, at the home of Mrs. John B. Oat, 101 Cliff street. There was a good attendance despite the stormy weather and considerable business of importance was transacted.

Two new members were taken in and it was voted to contribute the sum of $5 to the Navy and Marine Memorial to be erected in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Frank Kimball, chairman from the auxiliary for the joint whist and pinochle, reported that this would take place about the middle of February at Buckingham Memorial, the auxiliary to join with the Woman's Auxiliary of Hourigan Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in making it a success.

The welfare committee reported that a number of caps had been knitted and had been sent to disabled veterans at the Norwich tuberculosis sanatorium and that more were being made for disabled veterans in other local institutions.

Following the meeting the hostess served coffee, nut bread sandwiches and cake, and a social hour was enjoyed.

EAGLES

Norwich Aerie, No. 367, held its regular meeting at the aerie's home on 6 Cliff street, Monday night. Several applications were presented at this meeting. Communication from the organization department was read stating that Judge O'Donnell was assigned to Norwich Aerie for Monday, March 1. That will be a regular meeting night of the aerie. Judge O'Donnell is one of the best speakers the organization department has and it will be well worth while for every member of Norwich Aerie to make a special effort to attend this meeting.

An official circular from the grand worthy president was read and he asks every member to try and get at least one new member so as to make this the greatest membership gain in history of the organization.

The pinochle committee has made arrangements for a ladies' night to be held on Tuesday, February 16. Whist, pinochle and modern and old fashioned dancing will complete the program. The new initiation committee reported progress for the class initiation on February 27.

GROTTO

Nemrod Grotto discussed plans for a ceremonial in March when its regular meeting was held Monday evening in Grotto hall when there was a good attendance and Monarch Edmund Hindle presided. It is expected that there will be a large class for a ceremonial and that it will be made an unusual event in the Grotto's year. The members had their attention called to a social event which is planned for next Friday when an evening of whist, pinochle and dancing is to be conducted.

ODD LADIES, M. U.

The regular meeting of Loyal Victory Lodge, No. 4, was held in Steinert hall Thursday evening with Noble Grand Mary Greenhalgh in the chair. Routine business was transacted. The whist was postponed to Feb. 18.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA

Lady Buckingham council, No. 14, held its regular meeting Thursday evening at the Buckingham Memorial which was opened in due form by Councilor Katharine Blanchard with a good attendance in spite of the storm. The councilor appointed the committee to have charge of the supper on Feb. 30. At the close of the meeting, the council was entertained by a piano recital which was very much enjoyed.

STEADFAST EFFORTS TO RENDER AID TO SICK MAN

LYNN, Mass., Feb. 5.—(AP)—After three Lynn physicians had tried in vain to fight their way through the snow drifts to the home of Alfred F. Chatterton in Lynnhurst today, one of them finally reached the house where Mr. Chatterton lay critically ill, by walking two miles and a half on snow shoes.

The police had sent a patrol wagon to try to break out a road for the physicians, but this had failed, although Patrolman Maurice J. Keenan got through on foot with medicine after a two hour struggle through the drifts. One of the physicians had obtained a sleight and was trying to get a horse when he learned that his fellow physician had got though with snow shoes.

The sick man had a temperature of 105 degrees when the doctor arrived.

STIPULATION IN MARRIAGE CONTRACT OF DORIS STEVENS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—A stipulation that husband and wife be full partners and share equally their joint net income will be contained in a marriage contract for which Doris Stevens, feminist, president of the national woman's party and wife of Dudley Field Malone, will seek legislative sanction.

Miss Stevens announced today she was challenged to draw up such a contract by Arthur Garfield Hayes, attorney, on behalf of an engaged couple who asked for such a contract.

Miss Stevens said women should be regarded as partners bringing labor-capital to their husbands money-capital and should be entitled to share the profits when all expenses were paid.

THUNBERG BREAKS RECORD FOR THE THREE-QUARTER MILE ICE EVENT

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Three new world's records were placed on the books of the international ice skating union in the opening day of the international championship meet on Lake St. Clair here today. Two of the marks are credited to Leila Brooks, of Toronto and the other was made by Clas Thunberg of Finland, Olympic title holder.

Skating against time in a three quarter mile exhibition, the Finn found the lake ice to his liking, and, although bothered by the turns, made up the time in the straight aways. He was clocked at 3:00 4-5, bettering the old mark of 3.03 1-5 held by Joe Moore.

Miss Brooks first record was made in the half mile senior event for women when she covered the distance in one minute and 3-5 seconds, bettering her own time made at Toronto last year by one and 3-5 seconds.

In the next event, the Toronto skater covered the one eighth mile in 44 and 3-5 seconds, which is two and 3-5 seconds under the record set by Gladys Robinson in 1921.

The two victories gave Brooks a wide margin in points over her nearest rival for international honors. Eddie Reed, of Chicago and Paul O'Brien of New York city are tied for points in the international events with 30 each. Reed took the one mile senior event while O'Brien was victorious in the 220 yard sprint.

Drastic action was taken by officials of the International Skating union against Joe Moore, of New York city and Charles Gorman, of St. Johns, New Brunswick. Both were indefinitely suspended for failing to honor their entries in the meet here. Gorman was entered to defend his international title won recently at St. Johns.

BURNED TO DEATH IN NEW YORK HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 5.—Harry S. Haggett, of New York, who came to Westerly two years ago and purchased three acres of land in Hopkinton and built a cellar near the Hopkinton town house, was found burned to death in a rooming house on East 58th street, New York, on Friday. Mr. Haggett was a contractor and builder, who did carpentry work in and about Westerly. A law suit, in which he was the plaintiff, against George and Sarah Tanner of Hopkinton, is on the docket in the Third district court in Westerly. A telegram received in Westerly late Friday evening gave information of Mr. Haggett's death.

The annual dinner of Westerly Masonic club No. 176, John O. Mills, president, was enjoyed on Thursday evening in the Knights Templar armory banquet hall of the Masonic Rooms on High street. Despite the snow, 160 members enjoyed the dinner provided by the club chef, Henry A. Stahle of Pawcatuck and chairman of the committee in charge, consisting of Capt. Walter H. Davis, Charles M. Lamb Farquhar Smith, L. G. McLaren, D. Everett Hoxie, G. L. French, Henry M. Clark, Byron Taylor and Samuel Bailey. The following was the menu:

Grape Fruit Maraschino
Olives Pickles Celery
Roast Beef Brown Gravy
Roast Potatoes Mashed Turnip
Rolls
Apple Pie Ice Cream
Coffee

Following the serving of the dinner an adjournment was taken to the new United Theatre on Canal St., where a reserved center section block of seats were roped off for the Masonic club members. The entertainment presented was a moving picture program and comedy singing, dancing and acrobatic numbers by a juvenile company of twenty of "The Providence Kiddies' Follies."

The ninth snow storm of the winter season and larger than all the others so far combined to visit Westerly this winter was the one which began shortly after 11.30 o'clock on Wednesday evening and continued almost uninterruptedly through the following day and night. About 2 o'clock on Thursday morning the employes of the Westerly highway and Rhode Island state road departments began the work of clearing out the road ways with truck ploughs, in the business center of Westerly a large force of men shoveled snow into trucks to be carried to the river. Later in the day the steam trains began to be delayed by the snowfall. The Westerly town clock on the manual training building on Union street and the Washington Trust building clock found the wet snow which struck their exposed faces too much to "handle" and simply stopped. Some of the early employes of the street cleaning department, which were recruited at short notice, also followed a similar procedure.

The Westerly Physicians association, with President Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, presiding, met at the Elm Tree Inn, Pawcatuck on Thursday evening to hold their annual meeting which followed their dinner. Officers elected were:

President, John Champlin, Jr.; vice president, J. Gordon Anderson; secretary, William A. Hilliard; treasurer, John Champlin, Sr.; censor for three years, Walter J. Grenolds.

The meeting was attended by all but two of the Westerly physicians. Business was transacted, the address of the evening, as usual, being made by the retiring president, Dr. Michael H. Scanlon.

Judge Oliver H. Williams was on the bench Friday morning for the first session of the Third District court in Westerly since his reelection he having become qualified to act at the first of the month. His present three-year term follows a service of 18 years, previous to the incumbency of the past three years by Judge Michael J. Turano. Beside him as he faced the court room, were large baskets of flowers, the gift of admiring friends, as was also a leather brief case, a gold mounted fountain pen and a box of cigars. The clerk was Herbert P. Clark, who succeeds M. Walter Flynn, Jr., court clerk for the past six years. Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell was the court officer.

Court session began at 9 o'clock, there being no cases tried, after the docket was called. The session was over in a very few minutes. Attorney Clarence E. Roche was the only member of the bar present, and later to her representatives came, also a number of citizens, who felicitated Judge Williams on his reelevation to the bench.

At her home, 28 Moss street, Pawcatuck on Wednesday night, occurred the death of Mrs. Etta May (Chapman) Friend, 66, widow of Julius L. Friend, following a shock suffered a year ago, since which time she has been in failing health.

Born in Westerly on May 12, 1859, the daughter of George P. and Dimaries (Brooks) Chapman, she had resided in Westerly the greater part of her life. Her husband having died in 1913, she is survived by three sons, William Eccleston of Wakefield, R. I., Frank Fried of Westerly and Arthur L. Friend of Louisville, Ky., besides a daughter, Mrs. Frank L. Holdredge, a brother, George P. Chapman and a sister, Mrs. Edward W. Taylor, all of Westerly. Another sister, Mrs. W. F. Edwards, resides in Newport, R. I.

Funeral services were held on Thursday morning at 8.30 o'clock for Mrs. Louise Roffo, wife of Donato Roffo, who died last Monday at her home, 144 Canal street after a two days' illness. Following the funeral at the home, a requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. Henry M. Bruno, S. M., at the Immaculate Conception church. Interment was in St. Michael's (new) cemetery, the bearers being Anthony Barbone, Anthony Salemano, Eugene Turano, Adolf Cussupa, Joseph Urso and Patay Luazi.

Louise Canna was born in Travesio, Italy, on May 22, 1885. She came to this country with her parents when she was 13 years of age, and for a number of years lived at Monson, Mass. With her husband she came to Westerly about seven years ago to make her residence.

Besides her husband, Donato Roffo, she is survived by three sons, Donald, Joseph and Ribert Roffo; three daughters, Jessie, Vera and Virginia Roffo; her father, Anthony Canna of Springfield, Mass.; three brothers, John, Louis and Arthur Canna, all of Springfield, Mass.; five sisters, Mrs. Mary Randall of Providence and Miss Josephine Canna, Mrs. Margaret Cuzone, Mrs. Albina Perry and Miss Eva Canna all of Springfield, Mass., as well as four nieces and a nephew.

The social and whist on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the choir of the Church of the Immaculate Conception was a very successful event and over 200 were present to enjoy the evening's program.

There were sections for both bridge and straight whist and cards were played from 8 until 10.30. The prizes in the straight whist section were won by Francis Crotty and Miss Mary Healy and the bridge prize winners were Edward J. Butler and Mrs. Thomas Shea.

Following the whist refreshments were served and then followed a brief entertainment program which included readings by Mrs. Joel Sherman and vocal selections by Martin H. Spellman, Miss Rose Bannon and Thomas V. Clancy. Mrs. Frank G. Ahern was the accompanist.

By deed recorded in the Westerly town clerk's office it appears: Feb. 15, 1926, John R. Healey to James H. Neugent and wife Edna N. Neugent, a lot of land on the west side of Franklin street.

New Haven Railroad Inspector Frank Sinas of Providence, who had been recently transferred to the territory near Westerly, returned to Boston Friday morning after a business visit in Westerly. He was accompanied to Providence by Federal Inspector William J. Ahearn of Westerly.

Dr. Champlin, Sr., of Westerly, was a Providence business caller Friday.

Miss Mae Moore of Pawcatuck was a visitor in Providence Thursday evening.

Miss Dorothy C. Beckert, teacher in the public school of Westerly, returned to her home in Boston, for a week end visit on Friday night.

Thursday's weather was thought to be the worst experienced so far this winter. A London fog could have been no worse than the driving, blinding sleet and snow which fell all day. Business was naturally very dull and no fishing boats left the harbor.

On account of the deep snow and bad weather generally, the school officials gave the pupils a whole day off Thursday.

William London of Pawcatuck was in town on business Tuesday.

MYSTIC

The worst snowstorm of the season commenced about 10:30 p. m. Wednesday night and the trolley company soon found it was necessary to have the big snow plow going all night and as the storm increased the smaller snow plow was put to work and they were on the job all day Thursday. While the plow was working Thursday forenoon it was derailed near Pine Point bridge, causing a delay to trolley traffic for a short time. Considering the severity of the storm the trolleys did well to maintain the service they did. Workmen in employ of the town of Groton and Stonington were busy on the principal streets and the force of men employed by the state were busy on the state road. Automobiles had a perilous time travelling in the snow, many skidded and having narrow escapes from accidents. In many places it was difficult to pass other cars as the snow had drifted so badly.

High school scholars here who were brave enough to go to Stonington were dismissed after the first period and sent home. Broadway school was dismissed before noon and Mystic academy at noon.

Charles H. Denison went to Mystic academy Thursday to take Miss Elenor Fish home. Soon after he left the building the auto skidded, throwing Miss Fish off the seat and inflicting slight bruises. Mr. Denison had the auto under control and averted an accident.

The Monday club is to meet with Miss Helen Wilbur, 45 New London road. Mrs. George S. B. Leonard will read a paper entitled Glory O' the Dawn.

F. G. Wheeler is confined to his home by illness. W. C. Morgan has been substituting for him on the rural route.

Mrs. James W. Pollard has recovered from her illness sufficiently to enable her to be around the house.

Those having radios spent some of the dreadful day Thursday listening and one heard that Plymouth, Mass., was cut off from telephone and telegraph service.

Local members of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots have received notice of the annual meeting to be held at the New Haven Lawn club on Friday Feb. 19th. The annual reports will be given, officers elected and a luncheon served at 1 o'clock. After the business is transacted they are invited to The Peabody Museum and Professor Richard Sevan Lull, director, will conduct a tour of the museum and deliver an address. A list of the new members is sent out and among them is Mrs. Frederick S. Weld (Edith Wooster) of 56 School street, New London.

The engagement of Miss Dorothy Priscilla Lord, of Norwich, to Robert Morgan Avery, of Norwich Town, is of interest to people here as she was a resident here at one time when her father was connected with the telephone exchange.

Evangelist Lewis E. Smith will close his services at the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday. He will speak and sing at 10:30 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. will tell his life story. It is expected the church will be filled to hear him.

Chapman Technical school honor roll just published contains the name of Miss Betty Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Wheeler, of West Mystic avenue. She is at the head of the list of 27, with an average of 97 per cent. Dwight Knox, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Knox, of High street, is on the list, his average being 90.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Just fifty years ago this week a part of the old volunteer fire department of Norwich responded to an early morning call for help at a disastrous fire in Jewett City, which resulted in a loss of about $40,000. The Norwich apparatus was rushed to Jewett City on a special train over the Norwich and Worcester railroad. The same week the body of Hon. H. H. Starkweather, who had died in Washington, was brought to Norwich and the funeral was held from the Central Baptist church, with burial in the Yantic cemetery. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of February, 1876, are as follows:

Monday, Jan. 31, 1876—The remains of Hon. H. H. Starkweather were brought to the city Saturday night on a special train from New Haven. Col. Thomas A. Scott of the Pennsylvania road furnished his private car for the purpose as far as Jersey City and from New York, through the courtesy of Mr. Bishop and Mr. Reed one was prepared by the N. Y., N. H. & Hartford road which was very elaborately and beautifully dressed in mourning. The funeral takes place at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Central Baptist church. Prayers will be said at the house at 11:30 a. m., to which the public will not be invited. Immediately afterward the body will be removed to the church where it will be exposed to view from 12 o'clock until 1:30 p. m. The funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Messrs Bond, Spalding and Davies, the last gentleman making the address. The interment will take place in Yantic cemetery.

Since leap year came in the girls have struck a new idea and now they have cards printed for ordinary invitations. One of them sent to this office yesterday reads: "May I C U home tonight?" Of course you may and we only wished we lived ten miles farther off and were lame and had to walk slow.

At the union meeting tomorrow, in the Central Methodist church the Rev. H. D. Northrop, of Hartford, has been invited to preach. Mr. Northrop is said to be an eloquent and impressive speaker. He is also to speak in the park chapel in the afternoon at 4:15.

Tuesday, Feb. 1, 1876—Postmaster General Jewell visited the local post-office yesterday and expressed himself as very much pleased with what he saw. He was introduced to the employes and made a hasty inspection of the inside facilities for doing the work. He congratulated Postmaster Bidwell on the good management and cleanly appearance of the office.

Congressmen Ashe of North Carolina and Stevenson of Illinois were taken through the mill at Taftville by a leading republican yesterday, and having never seen anything of the kind were very much pleased.

Mr. Noss has made additional enlargements to his restaurant and kitchen on Water street and is now able to accommodate a small tea party of a thousand at a couple hours notice.

Wednesday, Feb. 2, 1876—The last of the meetings held in connection with the effort to raise the necessary funds to induce Mr. Corbett to establish his manufactory here will be held in the town hall hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Judge Foster will be present and will speak on the subject and other gentlemen it is expected will be heard in favor of the movement. Norwich cannot afford to lose the opportunity now offered to increase her industrial interests.

A Norwich man has invented a new cigar lighter. It is an ingenious little notion. You touch a spring and a fuse comes out of a box and sometimes it burns and generally it doesn't. But if you carry matches in your pocket to light it when it goes out, you will find it a very convenient machine to have round.

The Norwich Rifle Club—The coming year promises to be one of unusual interest to riflemen, and the Norwich club, taking time by the forelock, are making extensive arrangements for work and practice as soon as the season opens. Negotiations are in progress for a new range, at which there shall be accommodations for spectators and early in the spring the members hope to occupy it with weekly meetings. The club have received an invitation from Col Gildersleeve, of the National Rifle association to attend the proposed grand rifle tournament this year.

Thursday, Feb. 3, 1876—About four o'clock yesterday morning a large barn situated on the land of A. D. Sturtevant, in the rear of the old Lee house, on Washington street, was found to be on fire. The alarm was given on the West Side, but as it was blowing and raining hard at the time, it was not heard at first in the city, and some minutes elapsed before the city hall bell was struck. By this time the fire was well underway and the flames shooting up strongly, gave the impression that it was a very large one. The firemen rallied with remarkable promptness considering the hour and got the fire under control before it had spread to the entire building. The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark dropped from a tramp's pipe.

The violent rain of Tuesday night was followed yesterday by a furious gale, one of the heaviest that is remembered in this section. Much destruction to trees and shrubbery was done and the damage to property was considerable. The telegraph wires were down in many places. We hear of no serious accident to anybody.

J. M. Gardner from Gamewell's fire alarm works was in town yesterday, inspecting the new telegraph and boxes.

Friday, Feb. 4, 1876—The annual fair and festival of the Universalist society will take place in Breed hall next week. This is always one of the most enjoyable of the public social entertainments and promises this year to be as successful as ever.

At a recent meeting of the society of Andersonville prisoners, measures were taken for preparing a badge to be worn by the members, and Hiram Buckingham, a member of a committee appointed for that purpose, has prepared a design which has been adopted. The society will have a reunion in this city on April 12.

It is proposed to test the efficiency of the new fire telegraph and the department by giving an alarm sometime in the watches of the night. As it is intended to be a surprise to the firemen, the date is not announced.

A mounted courier who arrived in this city at half past three this morning, brought word that Jewett City was on fire, and summoning assistance from our fire department. The Congregational church and several other buildings were in flames when he left. He was 35 minutes in coming down.

Saturday, Feb. 5, 1876—Destructive fire in Jewett City; Loss about $40,000. —The main points in reference to the fire in Jewett City, to make brief mention of which our press was stopped yesterday morning, are these: The fire is supposed from all indications to be the work of an incendiary and was first discovered in the rear of the building owned by H. H. Olin. The alarm of fire was first sounded about one o'clock. The flames soon spread to the house occupied by Hon. J. K. Tracy and to the congregational church. The authorities deemed it advisable to send for assistance to Norwich. Mr. Andrews, superintendent of the Norwich and Worcester railroad, gave immediate orders for the preparation of a train to carry the local steamer and in an incredibly short space of time they arrived at Jewett City. In the meantime, the fire, as if by a miracle, had been stayed, and when the steamer arrived it was under control, having consumed three buildings, and causing a loss of about $40,000.

The sleighing, yesterday, the first of the season was not remarkably good, though it was improved by everyone who owned a sleigh and horse flesh.

A company of glass blowers occupied Breed hall last night.

PLAINFIELD

The Christian Endeavor society is to hold its service at 7 o'clock Sunday evening and will be led by the pastor, Rev. W. C. Prentiss, assisted by Curtiss E. Phillips. This will be the last opportunity for young people to join the society and become charter members.

There was a large attendance at the cottage service held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Eva L. Pike. The topic was Miss Helen F. Gallup.

Earl Butler has resigned his position at the Lawton Mills and returned Friday to resume his studies at Storrs college.

Several young men are in Plainfield, staying at the Lawton Inn, who have been sent here by the United States Society of Entomology to locate the gypsy moths. They arew orking under very difficult conditions owing to the recent severe snow storm.

It keeps wives as busy providing things for the inner man as it does husbands in providing things for the outer woman.

How great the love for those held dear.
—Old Mother Nature.

When Peter Rabbit told Nanny Meadow Mouse that Danny was over in the hen-house he was simply guessing; but it was a very good guess. You see, in his hasty look around Peter had decided that with Black Pussy after him that was the one place Danny could go and be safe, if he didn't go to the barn. Nanny was sure Danny hadn't gone to the barn, and Peter was equally sure Danny had gone to the hen-house. Of course this was all supposing that Black Pussy had not caught Danny. Peter took care not to remind Nanny of such a possibility.

Peter sat up once more and looked around this way and that way and every way very carefully. Then slowly he hopped toward the hen-yard, with Nanny running at his heels. When they reached the hen-yard Peter pointed out to Nanny how easily Danny could have slipped through the wire and so escaped from Black Pussy. Then Peter went all around the hen-house with Nanny at his heels and nowhere could they find even a wee hole. If Danny was in that hen-house there was no way for them to know it that night.

"Oh!" cried Nanny. "Isn't it wonderful"

Can you imagine how disappointed Nanny Meadow Mouse was? How she did long to get into that hen-house. She slipped through the wire of the fence into the hen-yard and so she found the little door through which the hens went in and out. And while she was sniffing along the edge of that closed door she smelled a familiar scent. It was the scent of Danny Meadow Mouse. She squeaked right out with joy. Then what do you think she did? She began to use those sharp teeth of hers. She began to gnaw at a corner of that door.

Now you know gnawing makes a noise. No sooner did Nanny begin to gnaw at the corner of that little door than Danny Meadow Mouse inside the hen-house heard it. At first it startled him. He thought right away of Robber the Rat. He wondered if Shadow the Weasel had driven Robber out of the big barn and if Robber was trying to get into the hen-house. Very quietly Danny stole over to that little door and listened. In a moment a squeaky little voice cried "Danny!"

"Nanny!" cried Danny, in an equally squeaky voice.

Then you should have heard the sound of that gnawing. Nanny gnawed from outside and Danny gnawed from inside, and the way the little splinters flew from the corner of that closed door was a sight to see. In a surprisingly short time there was a little hole through there and they could touch noses. They did touch noses. They did it again and again. You know that is the Meadow Mouse's way of kissing. Then they went to work again and if the tiny splinters had been flying fast before it was nothing to the way they flew now. Pretty soon that hole was big enough for Nanny to squeeze through.

Such a happy time! Nanny had to tell Danny all about her adventures and Danny had to tell Nanny all about the things that had happened to him, and in between they had to rub noses. Finally Danny led Nanny to his own little home in the unused nesting box in the far corner of the hen-house. "Oh," cried Nanny, "isn't it wonderful!" Then they rubbed noses again.

So it was that Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse once more were together; and in some ways better off than when they had lived in the big barn, as for Peter Rabbit, he went back to the dear old brier patch that night, very well satisfied with himself. And why shouldn't he have been? He had been too smart for Reddy Fox and he had brought two of his little friends together again.

POETRY

Sailing the Mississippi at Midnight

Vast and mysterious the night of heaven
Keeps on the (falling) still hours;
And forward, forward, in solemn darkness,
As if to the sea of the lost we go.

Now drawn night the edge of the river,
Weird-like creatures suddenly rise;
Shapes that fade, dispelling outlines,
Baffle the gazer's straining eyes.

Towering upward and bending forward,
Wild and wide their arms are thrown,
Ready to pierce with forked fingers
Him who touches their realm upon.

Tide of youth, thus thickly planted,
Wally in the eddies onward you swim,
Thus on the shore stands a phantom army,
Lining forever the channel's rim.

Steady helmsman! you guide the immortal!
Many a wreck is beneath you piled,—
Many a brave yet unwary sailor
Over these waters has been beguiled.

Nor is it the storm or the scowling midnight,
Cold or sickness or fire's dismay,—
Nor is it the reef, or treacherous way.

But when there comes a voluptuous languor,
Soft the sunshine, silent the air,
Bewitching your craft with safety and sweetness,—
Then, young pilot of life, beware!
—Walt Whitman.

Woodcraft

Once in ten years the woodman with his axe
Felling slim undergrowth from stubby holes,
Shall bare the auburn flooring of the copse,
Its ridges, and the sandy rabbit-holes.
Then shall he pare the twigs, and set in stacks
His tall young ash and stripling chestnut poles,
That presently shall serve the wreathing hops.
And he shall peel the bark of shorter wood
Clean as a cat in pattens, smelling good,
And sharpen to a point for stakes and spiles.
The whittled slivers flying as he chops,
And lash the shaven wood in ready piles,
For this is woodman and his livelihood.
—V. Sackville-West, in The London Mercury.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The camel lives from forty to fifty years.

A single cocoon has approximately two miles of silk fiber.

There are still in existence in New England old blue laws which forbid women to smoke in public.

The widow of the poet Bjornson has just celebrated her ninetieth birthday anniversary at her home in Norway.

The new city water supply reservoir of London, covering about 623 acres and holding nearly 7,000,000,000 gallons, is the largest ever built with artificial embankments.

Enos Miller, of Lancaster, Pa., had watermelon for his Christmas dinner, having preserved several fine specimens in his cellar, and they are said to have tasted just as they did last August.

Charles G. Miller, of Minneapolis, Minn., after a busy life of seventy-nine years, now that he has a little leisure time at his disposal, is learning to play the piano. After he had taken five or six lessons he broke his arm, but while he is waiting for his arm to knit he practices his exercises with one hand.

One South Salem radio enthusiast has a loud speaker which he made frm a large seashell. The shell, which is in itself a valuable possession and has been in the man's family for years, has been connected simply with a bit of rubber tape and some wires. It is a most satisfactory, as well as attractive loud speaker.

Clocks with square dials and no hands are used in London's railway stations. The time is indicated by figures which appear in two small panels in the center of the square. As each minute passes a new figure is let down automatically and the hours change the same way. On the new clocks the time appears just the same as it does on the timetables and is easier to read at a distance.

When a Norwegian sea captain towed a whale into Long Beach, Cal., harbor for exhibition, United States revenue men sought to collect 1 cent a pound, that being the duty on fish brought in under a foreign flag. It meant $1,400—more than the captain hoped to collect from admissions. Then an idea struck him. Taking a dictionary to the collector's office, the captain proved that a whale wasn't a fish at all, but a mammal, and there was no tax on mammals. The captain made it stick and the show went on.

Shanghai again has a public headsman, and as in Manchu days, his ghastly handiwork is being exhibited on the borders of the international settlement as a gruesome warning to the potential spy and criminal. Since the invasion of the Shanghai area by Sun Chun-Fang's Chekiang soldiers two public decapitations have taken place, in one a spy suspect was put to death. The other was a triple execution, three men, convicted of having committed a robbery, being beheaded. In each instance, the bodies and heads were on public exhibitions near the Shanghai North Railway station. The head of still another victim, a spy suspect, was brought to Shanghai from Nanking. After being exhibited for two days in a bird cage at the railway station, it was returned to Nanking.

It's the little things that count—especially in the primary arithmetic class.

The Dying Californian

Sent in by Taffy and Delilah Deal

Lay up near, brother, near, for my limbs are growing cold,
And thy presence seemeth dearer when thy arms around me fold;
I am dying, brother, dying, soon you'll miss me in your berth
And my form will soon be lying 'neath
the ocean's briny surf.

Harken to me, brother, harken, I have something I would say
Ere this veil my vision darken and I go from hence away.
I am going, surely going, but my hopes
in God are strong,
I am willing, brother, knowing that He doeth nothing wrong.

Tell my father, when you greet him,
that in death I prayed for him—
Pray'd that I might one day meet him in a world that's free from sin;
Tell my mother, God assist her, now that she is growing old,
Tell her son would glad have kiss'd her, when his lips grew pale and cold.

Harken to me—catch some whisper;
'tis my wife I speak of now;
Tell, O tell her, how I miss'd her when the fever burnt my brow;
Harken to me, closely listen, don't forget a single word,
That in death my eyes did glisten when the tears her memory stirr'd.

Tell her, then, to kiss my children, like the kiss I last impressed,
Hold them fast as last I held them,
folded closely to my breast;
Give them early to their Maker, putting all their trust in God,
And He will ne'er forsake her—He has said so in His Word.

O my children! Heaven bless them!
They were all my life to me,
Would I could once more caress them,
ere I sink beneath the sea;
'Twas for them I crossed the ocean—
what my hopes were I'll not tell,
But they have gained an orphan's portion—yet He doeth all things well.

Tell my sisters I remember every kindly parting word,
And my heart has been kept tender by the thoughts their mem'ry stirr'd;
Tell them I never reached the haven
where I sought the precious dust,
But I've gained a port called Heaven,
where the gold doth never rust.

Urge them to secure an entrance, for they will find their brother there.
Faith in Jesus and repentance will secure for them a share;
Hark! I hear my Savior calling—'tis, I know His voice so well,
When I'm gone, O, don't be weeping,
Mother my last farewell!

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

Club No. 5: Many thanks. Just as nice as it looked.

GETTING ABOUT SOME NOW

Social Corner Sisters: Just a line or two as it's so long since I have written but I saw a request for any one who had the poem The Dying Californian to please send it to the Social Corner Page for publication. I knew I had it but was not able to look for it, but came across it a day or two ago. Perhaps it's too late now for any use but will send it.

I have gotten now so I can get about the room a little, some of the time on one crutch but not able to do my work yet or be on my feet but very little and only with my crutches then. Have not been out of the house even onto my front piazza since the 18th of last August but do not suffer severely now as I did for four months, nor suffer all the time. Have so much to be thankful for and do not feel like complaining at all. For several weeks my husband has been under the doctor's care. For the last three he has been serious ill with trouble with his heart but is more comfortable now.

I received 75 Christmas cards. I don't think I shall ever get them all answered. I want to thank you each one for remembering me also the sister who sent me the calendar. I presume it is the same one who has sent me one for the past three years but as there is never any name I have never known who to thank.

I wish the name might accompany the cards calendars, etc. It makes them more satisfactory I think.

With best of wishes for the editor and every sister I am still,

UNCLE JOHN TAKES A RIDE.

Dear Cornerites: When I lived on the farm and drove into town I used to think what a convenience the trolley cars were; but since I have been living in town and have become a regular patron of the cold storage sardine special, I am sitting in the seat with the mourners.

Did I say sitting? Well, sometimes. Most of the time, however, I am hanging on to one of those slings they have hanging from the ceiling for the pedestrians who have to walk while they ride. "Step forward, please." I think they must have square wheeles, too, the cars I mean, for frequently and sometimes oftener, we all take a nose dive towards the motorman during which we sometimes find ourselves draped around somebody's neck for a necktie. Fortunately the passengers and pedestrians are packed like sardines so we can't fall very far.

And cold! Whew! I sometimes wonder whether we are riding in a trolley car or a refrigerator or a wheel barrow.

ROXANNA KEABLES.

GRAHAM BREAD STEAMED

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Club No. 5 had a perfectly lovely time Wednesday, Feb. 3, at their meeting at the Buckingham. Of all the mix-ups you ever heard of. Fun, there was bushels of it. Everyone seemed to have a good time trying to have a grand march. There was a double quartette which tried to make merry, singing old fashioned songs. We had 64 out-some number. We had a perfectly wonderful dinner with Elva, as hostess and as many as eight maidens helping.

I have a fine recipe for

Graham Bread Steamed: Two-thirds cup white flour, 1 cup graham flour, one-half cup molasses, pinch of salt, 1 level teaspoon soda in little water. Then mix soft with part milk and water, use raisins if you want. Steam two hours in oven. If use a coffee can for the bread in a kettle half full of hot water.

CLUB NO. 3'S DONATION DAY FEB. 10

Dear Social Corner Members: Lest we forget! also lest some member overlooked last week's letter I repeat that February 10th is Donation day at chamber of commerce rooms, Willimantic, where you'll find your way by the yellow bow as of old.

To new members or those who perchance do not know, this custom was started by Tidy Addy and the donations are divided between the Welfare bureau and Salvation Army. We devote this day to keep up the custom in her memory. Long ago this was decided upon, it has been voted on, and will be carried out this year, as in previous ones as she carried it out.

It is a good work. Let the attendance be large that we may make this go over the top, even to a larger extent than last year, help is ever needed, but the present needs are great.

Am always interested in good radio programs, and enjoy Mrs. Weeds lectures. You know she gave a few Don'ts for brides January 28th that gave us all who heard it a good laugh. Yet the points were correct.

Here are a few we might consider:

Don't stand in doorway to our dining hall; don't get in the corner and block the waiter's passing, above all, if you are not on committee don't stay in the kitchen, the hostess and her helpers need all the room, and we do not care to have it said, "Oh, I didn't know so and so was serving. Why I thought they served before!"

I congratulate our hostess Wyllwick on her excellent dinner last time and above all on your patience, which some of us knew was sorely tried.

Three cheers for Wyllwick and her loyal aides.

Last but not least, to those who have not been solicited, please bring cakes and pickles or money, also bring your own dishes, knife, fork and a spoon. Ever and always for the good of the Corner.

NEIGHBOR EVERREADY

INTERESTED IN QUILTS

Dear Social Corner Friends: As I read of the sisters piecing quilts it touches a work which I enjoy.

My earliest recollection of learning to sew was in making blocks which were sewed "over and over" and made of four squares. I soon graduated from over hand, but the fascination has always remained.

When patch work came to the front again I was ready to take it up, and recently made five quilts, and have given four to my friends.

Two were crazy Block work, one state house steps (this pattern was given me by Sister Free Air) and one Cracker pattern.

Sister Olga: Would like very much to see your blazing star quilt; think it must be very handsome. You have the march on me to piece four last summer.

I wish to thank Club No. 3 again for the beautiful potted plant sent me in March when I was ill. The bulbs were taken care of and repotted in November and now I have the lovely English hyacinths in full bloom again. Sunday had them in church for others to admire.

Aunt Sarah: Wish it had been possible for me to attend your club meet Feb. 4th. Best wishes to all

ELIZABETH

OTHER DAYS ON THE HUDSON

Social Corner Editor: Once more I will send my letter to the Corner. I just couldn't resist sending an answer to Nyack, as I lived for ten years across the Hudson, in Irvington, Nyack. Do you remember the time the dear old Hudson was frozen over, I think it was in 1903? I was about eight years old at the time. I and my little school chum walked across to Nyack that Sunday and of course neither of our mothers knew of it and when we came back they were waiting for us on the shore. We didn't try it again, that's all. Do you remember the big icebergs that came down the river that year and one of them got stuck right at Irvington? Such crowds of people came from all around and climbed up and had their pictures taken on them. I love to read of anything from around my old place. It brings back the times and good times I had there.

My mother did all her shopping in New York city, and it was a treat when she took one of us with her. I went to Irvington high school, the only school there, and when you graduated from there you were ready for college. Do you remember when Helen Miller Gould, had her sewing school for the children every Saturday? I attended that and say, what good times she used to give us children. She was my brother's Sunday school teacher also. How us girls used to wish she was our teacher. Nearly every week she entertained her class at Lyndhurst and what presents she used to give the boys! I have some of her books here that she gave my brother. She was such a kind, plain woman. Every Saturday she would come and shake hands with all of us and attend prayer with the sewing class.

I remember when the yachts used to anchor at Mathewson's Park when my two brothers would swim out and around them, when all the children used to swim in the dear old Hudson. Guess I will close, now until next time.

ORANGE AND PURPLE

HOT DRINKS

Dear Sisters of Social Corner: Have not written in a long time, but will write to wish you all a happy New Year, if it is not too late. What lovely weather we are having for winter, excepting for a few cold days we have had. It was so cold I pity the poor little children that had to walk any distance to school. These are raw days, yet so many youngsters are started out in the morning, with no hot drink to warm them against the weather. Children should not have coffee. But there is instant Postum, made with hot milk and those who have tried it, think it is wonderful.

A teaspoon of Instant Postum, in a cup, (hot) not boiled milk poured over it. A moment's stirring, a little sugar, and you have steaming before you the best hot drink in all the world for children.

Add this drink to the breakfast fruit and cereal for your children. It is prepared in a moment and it will round out the meal "There'll be no more fretting for the drink father has.

And when you bundle these small bodies, and send them away with a kiss and hug, you'll know they are fortified against the nine o'clock blues.

With best wishes for all.

STARLIGHT. (Dec. 15.)

SUPPLIES POEM WANTED

Dear Editor of the Social Corner: Am sending in The Dying Californian Social Corner Sister has asked for it. We used to sing it at home long ago. Imagine my surprise when I saw by Saturday's paper, I had been awarded one dollar for my brown bread. Many, many thanks for same.

TAFFY.

TRAINING CITIZENS OF TOMORROW

Dear Members of the Social Corner: First of all, I wish to thank the member for the pretty calendar, but I feel that I hardly deserve it. The arrival of another little boy has made letter writing almost a lost art.

I have been very much interested in all the letters and would have enjoyed commenting on them if time would permit.

Three cheers for Lulac Wylie and his Christmas babies.

I don't know whether to say "his" or "her" nor have I the slightest clue as to his identity but I do know he deserved a lot of credit for making so many happy. I have often thought that if I were single or were married and had no children I would feel that if I were morally bound to do my share toward training the citizens of tomorrow, but how many people there are who, when you make that suggestion to them reply, "Oh, I certainly do, I pay my school tax, and always give something when I am solicited for a good cause."

But how many childless women are there who would go into her neighbor's house where the mother was tired out and nervous from the continued responsibility hour after hour and say, "Go up stairs and lie down for the afternoon and I will clear up the work and take care of the children." Fresh from other surroundings and with the peace of mind that knowledge that she is doing a good turn brings, she would get the work done in short order and the children would be the better for the change.

How many women who spend afternoons without number playing whist or bridge would think of giving up that time to doing the weekly sewing for a large family? There are many large families where the mother has to do all the family sewing to keep down expenses, that are not charges of the town by any means, but who would certainly appreciate a helping hand, and what an amount of work might be done by a group of women in one afternoon! No, I don't believe in whist or bridge parties. They are a waste of time.

Have enjoyed the letters about children and would like to see the topic discussed, "What is the matter with the young people of today?"

Cretia: Have meant to ask you more about the man who caught your cow on the railroad track. I think I have a relative over the back yard fence. While you are gadding around why don't you drop in for more than a "Hello?"

The sisters may not know that Samantha is ill. She was one of those who met on the camp ground at Married and Happy's and formed Club No. 1. It was her chrysanthemum which suggested the Social Corner Yellow, I believe. She has been sick since Thanksgiving, had pneumonia at Christmas time and is not able to sit up yet.

Some one spoke about Bible stories for children. As a child, I was a great reader but had a very meager store of books to choose from; consequently I didn't choose, I read them all from Spurgeon's sermons to those books of Bertha M. Clay. The latter type I wish I had never seen because they gave me the wrong idea of life and that is, "and then they were married and lived happily ever after." There was another class which I read but how I hated them! They were in the Sunday school library and were all about goody-goody girls and boys and fairly oozed with morals. I never have read "Little Men" and "Little Women" and a lot of other books because I didn't have access to them. The few good books I read over and over. One that I enjoyed very much was a large book of the stories of the Bible in large print and nicely illustrated. If any one reading this has access to the Westminster Sunday school library and knows the name of that book or if it is there now I wish he or she would let me know. It was nearly worn out 20 years ago so probably it is gone now. I have tried in our own library to get a good Bible story book for my children but can't find any suitable.

Lola: Do you remember those books as well as you do the apples?

Sincerely,

PERSIS.

MAKE YOUR TRAYS

Dear Sisters: You have visited sick rooms without doubt, where the medicine glasses and bottles were set upon the table, leaving sticky rings or stains upon its cover; or where an array of saucers or plates to prevent this have possibly caused a shortage in the china closet. Again: your own ice water pitcher has proved a source of annoyance when thoughtlessly left upon the bare top of your well polished table. Yet the addition of a tray to the list of bed room necessities could have prevented both the appearance of untidiness, the soiling of the tablespread, or the marring of the furniture.

Trays are such pretty things I marvel we do not covet them in numbers. And they offer such an opportunity for the exercise of individuality and artistic taste in their creation, that the woman who likes to watch pretty things grow from under her fingers should certainly rejoice over the possibilities they offer to her.

Make them not buy them. Certainly, your own bedroom tray may exactly match draperies or fit into the color scheme of your room. A bit of flowered cretonne left from the curtains can be taken to the framers and framed in a white enameled molding, with slender gilt handles; or a square of embroidered linen like your dresser scarf can be similarly treated. A bit of wide beaded ribbon from the remnant counter will make you a wonderful pretty tray and coaster to match. The expense of framing is comparatively slight. And, indeed, if your attic or storeroom can furnish you with a discarded picture frame with flatted deep rim, whether white, gilt, mahogany or walnut oval, square or oblong—you need not even call in the services of the picture framer. Select the material you are to use for the tray and cutting a piece of card board the size to fit your frame, mount the material upon it by gluing it around the edges—stretching it perfectly smooth. After placing in the frame, put in the backing, just as for a picture, securing with small brads. Have the backing as smooth as possible and over it stretch a piece of dark felt or soft material to prevent the tray from scratching the table. Glue this at the extreme edges of the frame, and if it stretches unevenly trim to fit. Brass or copper handles may be put on; these may usually be found at the ten-cent store, or perhaps you have an extra pair of draw pulls you can use instead.

For your guest-room, in its summer surroundings, a tray made by mounting a flight of gay butterflies between two sheets of glass in a mahogany or silver gilt frame will be exquisite in its decorative effect. Pressed ferns, wild flowers, fir branches between glass are equally attractive and even easier to mount.

FEEDING THE BIRDS

Dear Social Corner Friends: It has been a long time since you heard from me, but there has not been much to write about. Just now I am enjoying the birds who come for my suet, seeds, and bread crumbs. I have a piece of suet nailed on the outside window sill, and spread sunflower seeds on it too. The chick-a-dees, nuthatch, and woodpecker come many times a day for them. The chick-a-dees is real sociable, and happy but the others don't have much to say. This fall there were two chick-a-dees which would come into my hand and get the seeds, but it is too cold now to coax them. It is fun to feel their little feet in your hand. Last year the English sparrows would try to eat the sunflower seeds, but did not know how to crack them to get the meat out, but this year they have learned the trick and the poor chick-a-dees have to share with them. The tree sparrows like the fine bread crumbs, and this morning I saw the nuthatch eating bread, also under off of the grape vine to wash it down I suppose!

The starlings are the most quarrelsome, they waste a lot of time, swearing and fighting, when they might be enjoying their food. They all make me think of different types of people.

A Social Corner Member: Thank you much for the very pretty calendar.

Anne D: We do enjoy those summer chats don't we? Wish we could do it now!

C. J. H.: Suppose you and Keziah had a good time Sunday. Nice day, wasn't it?

Inu: Haven't heard from you in a long time. What is the matter?

ROBERTA.

REMEMBERS MR. CADY.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: What a variety of weather we are having, but taking it altogether we have not had such a bad winter, and as the old saying goes, "variety is the spice of life," so let us be thankful.

Last Friday was calendar day for this month, so if the weather that day is any indication of what we will have this month I think we will have plenty of spice.

We are having some very nice poetry, don't we, and I wish to especially thank Geraldine for the one she sent on "Mother." That was beautiful and so true.

And we are having lots of interesting letters, but still there are many that could write lovely letters and they don't.

So Olga you have pieced your first quilt? Well that's just what I have been and am doing, and its my first, a silk one for little Susie. I don't think that I have ever done anything that has fascinated me so. I hate to put it away when I pick it up.

Kitty Lou: The sweet peas and rose are as fresh as when I put them in the vase.

Social Corner Member: Please accept thanks for cute calendar.

Did some one ask for the poem, The Dying Californian? I am glad to be able to send it.

Well Pisces, Sister Susie can remember Gurdon Cady, the old prompter, for I danced just once when a very small child when he prompted.

He was a personal friend of my father and happened to come to prompt at a dance in the town where we lived and as the hall was about three minutes' walk from us I teased father to take me and de did, and took me in the grand march and danced one set with me. My, wasn't I proud. I talked so much about it that after I had grown up, once when I went to visit at my uncle's house they took me to see his grave and the interesting monument he had erected before he died.

He was a big man, but light as a feather and jolly.

When I learned to play the piano my aunt bought me a sheet of music about Mr. Cady, and I'd give anything if I had it now. This was the chorus: Swing your partners, right and left, Ladies change, now whirl; Jimmie Johnson keep your eye, Off Peter Perkins' girl; Eight hands 'round. Well I'll be bound, Who tripped up that lady, Forward and back, now let her go, All ready, Mr. Cady.

Hope to see a good crowd of visitors and members at Club No. 2's anniversary meeting.

Yours I'T the good of the Corner,

BLACK EYED SUSIE.

ANOTHER RUG MAKER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I think it is time for me to get busy and do my bit for the Corner page. First I want to thank the sister or whoever it is that sent me the pretty calendar. This makes the third year I have received one. They were all very fine and this one is dainty and sweet. Also I have been going to ask for a Social Corner pin if they are not all taken. I am reminded of them every time I attend the meetings and then forget about it.

I see by the Bulletin some of the sisters have been improving their time this winter. As for myself I have been so busy braiding rugs I have not had time to be sick or lonesome or to fret about the weather. The time has slipped away very fast. I have just finished my fifth rug, began my first Nov. 2nd and finished the fifth one February 2nd. Two have gone to Amherst, Mass., and two to Providence, R. I.

If it isn't too late I would like to say we had a good time at our last meeting—an excellent dinner and well served. On account of the crowded condition we could not get around to visit with each other as much as usual but most of us have learned that when we can't do as we would like we must do the best we can, when we get back to our old quarters we shall know better how to appreciate a large room.

I always read the poetry on the Corner page and the poem sent in by Aries appeals to me. There is another by the same author I think will appeal to many hearts. Now I will close this letter and give the other sisters a chance. Best wishes for the corner from

LITTLE SISTER

ENDORSES DELIGHT'S DESSERT

Dear Social Corner Sisters: How much I enjoy the nice letters of late. So glad to see a letter from Delight. I tried her recipe for pineapple dessert, it is delicious, so good that I did not want to eat anything else. Shall never forget the time we met at her home and I still have the hardy "mum" and strawberry, geranium she gave me.

Betsy Bray: I've often thought of the good food that is wasted at our gatherings, I think just as you do about it.

Norma: Your letters are appreciated very much.

Rickerty Ann: Your letter was great, I could not find the 30th chapter of 1st Corinthians as there are only 16, so I read the 13th.

Whirlwind: Have patience and you will get what you are looking for.

Bonie: I'm with you, as I would go to club No. 5, if it was another day. Feel it my duty to cling to Club No. 2, as I was present when it was organized. Best wishes to all

ENJOYED CORNER MEETING

Dear Social Corner and Sisters: I must write and let you know how much I enjoyed the Corner meeting Wednesday. What a swell dinner we had and everybody was in the best of humor. We all did ample justice to the dinner I think.

Wurdy Bell enjoyed herself better after the dinner looking for pretty things and I will be sure and get the feathers she wants. She is a good sport. Was sorry I had to leave so soon after the dinner, as I was interested in Calamity Jane's program for I know it was all right. She surely can dance and sing all right.

Think I have written enough for this time so will ring off with good luck and best wishes for the Corner.

MID-CLOVER.

CHATTY LETTER FROM WHITE CLOVER

Dear Editor and Corner Friends: Now I have been a long time getting started to write a letter to the Corner, but here it is at last. Did the sisters know that Katy Did was in Florida? So many of the sisters have gone there. I wish I could go. I hear from her most every week. She sent me a book of views from Daytona Beach. That is where she is now. It must be some place. Well, Forgive. I came near being a widow, also my husband was planning to go with a man to Florida, but this man went two weeks before he expected to go. They made plans to go the first of Feb., for a month but this man owns a place there and he had to go right away on business and as my husband was not feeling very good he had to stay at home.

Gene has moved to Pennsylvania, a girl friend of her's told me.

Wild Rose: I am glad to hear you are better. I wonder if you went to church today. One of my neighbors went to the State grange. I have cousins that belong to the grange.

Olive: Did you know I dropped out of the W. R. C? I have an honorable discharge card so I can join again some time.

I have some household hints that may help the sisters: A teaspoon of lemon, squeezed into a cup of hot water in the morning, is an excellent liver corrective.

Lemon juice, with olive oil, is far superior to vinegar for salad dressing equal parts for blending.

Alcohol will restore the color to a varnished surface that has been stained by placing hot articles thereon.

To boil a cracked egg, wet egg and rub salt well into crack or all cavity if shell is broken.

To remove stains of ink, wash carefully with pure water and apply oxalic acid. If the latter changes the dye to a red tinge, restore the color with ammonia.

To prevent starch from souring when boiled, add a little sulphate of copper.

To remove an obdurate screw, apply a red hot iron to the head for a short time, the screwdriver being applied immediately while the screw is hot.

Whirlwind: Was glad to get a letter from you. I will do as you suggest in wearing the article. Ha! Ha! Will close now with best wishes to all. Hope all the sick and shutins will soon be better.

WHITE CLOVER.

DONATION DAY FEB. 10

Dear Social Corner: Just a line this lovely morning after the storm, to extend my belated thanks to a Social Corner Member for the pretty calendar. The lovely bluebirds makes me think spring is almost here in spite of the old tradition that if the ground hog sees his shadow we are to have six weeks more of winter. He certainly has seen it, if he was out, for the sun was shining very brightly.

Don't forget our donation day next Wednesday, February 10. Let us hope that our dear departed sister Tidy Addy who started our donation day, knows that her good work is still going on. The articles are to be divided between the Welfare Bureau and Salvation Army. Out of respect to her let's not have any argument about it this year. They are both worthy organization and should have our help.

If any one of our sisters is not satisfied with this way they had better stay away and send their donation to whichever organization they wish it to go for there will be no other way. Whatever is brought, will be divided.

Whitwyck: What a nice time we all had last month. Was sorry I had to leave so early, but duty called me elsewhere.

Aunty No. 1: Hear you are moving again. Hard work to keep my fingers on you.

Chauffeur: Doesn't your car need attention before long? Always know I'll get a little visit then. Saw by the paper that your hubby was in the fiddler's contest.

Once more many thanks for the pretty calendar. It's on my desk where I use it every time I write a letter. It is both useful and ornamental. With very best wishes for the Corner.

ELIZA JANE.

FAIRMOUNT CAKE

Dear Social Corner Friends and Editor: As it is the first of February I said I must write a letter to help keep the page full so here it is.

Ora: Where were you last month? Maple Leaf: I wore my apron and looked for myself.

I am sending a nice recipe for a cake which is called

Fairmount Cake: 2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 cup of shotening, 1 1-4 cup of sugar, 1-3 cup of milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 eggs, 1-2 cup cocoanut, little salt, sift flour and baking powder 3 times, beat shortening and sugar, salt to a cream, add milk and vanilla, then the flour a little at a time. Beat until smooth, add eggs one at a time, stirring and beating after each one is added. Bake in a greased loaf pan in a moderate oven one hour. Cover with icing and sprinkle with cocoanut. Hope some one will try it and let me know the result in the Corner Page.

I would like a pin if I am not too late. Thanks for same.

Hopink all that are sick are getting well and that those in trouble will soon be over it. We all have our share, some a little harder to bear than others while trusting to Him who does all things well. Will say good night and God bless you all.

CRIMSON RAMBLER CHATS

Dear Corner Friends: As today is such a miserable day outside decided to spend a few moments chatting with you.

Dearie: Thanks for the uke and mandolin solos. I enjoyed them ever so much; come again.

Joan: Are you to have that book on evolution to read? If so, will you loan it to me long enough to read it? I will return it in good condition. You know the one I mean, you mentioned it in your letter. I hope you can get it. Did you want those enclosed articles returned? If so I shall do so very soon. How did you enjoy those articles on Beeswax and Shoemakers Wax. Aren't they the limit?

Has any of the sisters seen or heard from Suzilla? I fear she has strayed away, been lost or stolen.

E. L. M.: Have I your number now? Black Eyed Susie: In looking over one of those papers in the last bundle, which by the way came to me safely, I saw an article written by one of the Social Corner sisters several moons ago and I'm wondering if you recognized the writer when you read it. The one you spoke about in your last letter.

Maple Leaf: How art thou? Hope all are well. How is your daughter?

Lorna: What has become of you? You never write any more.

CRIMSON RAMBLER

THE NEW INVENTIONS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Happy New Year to you all, it it is not too late. I want to thank the member who sent me the nice calendar. It is very sweet and pretty and I have it here on my writing desk. I enjoy the nice letters from all the writers very much. Every one is so busy with their duties it is not always easy to find time to write, but tonight as I sit here listening in at the radio it has sort of inspired me to write, I think.

Where are three new inventions going to take us? Aren't they the most wonderful of all! How can the voices and music come in on the waves of the air. The electric washer, toaster, flat and sweeper live only in memory, but isn't it nice that we can remember them, and how sweet they seem to us. We had the pleasure of Oliver Locke taking dinner with us today. We missed Old Fashioned Mother at the Christmas gathering. You don't know what a nice time you missed. Well, guess I will ring off now, as I want to leave plenty of room for the other members to write. As ever,

YELLOW DAISY.

CLUB NO. 5'S FEBRUARY MEETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: The weather man had a grouch on Feb. 3, but did not prevent 69 Social Corner members, with their guests, from meeting at Buckingham Memorial. A right jolly crowd they were. Elva was a lovely hostess and with Kasia, Prudence, Truia and Alta, served a most delicious dinner of escalloped oysters (prepared by Oliver Leaf and Alta) escalloped potatoes, baked beans, beets, rolls, whipped cream and orange cake, mince, cranberry, lemon meringue pies and coffee. We sang the Doxology before eating our dinner and (Blessed be the tie that binds our hearts afterwards.) Well it seemed as if we could not be hungry again very soon, but as we have the habit of eating suppose we shall be. Honey Dew very kindly played the piano for the Social Corner double quartette (Calamity Jane leader and directress) a new feature in our entertainment which was very much enjoyed by all present. The grand march that nearly all had a part in, was very pleasing. A few humorous readings ended our entertainment.

The financial report was very satisfactory. Prudence's whist that she gave for the benefit of the Social Corner, added to the treasurer's accounts. Pleased to see Ta and Inez, Nimrod and Iris, The Lone Man and Chauffeur. Mig had an attachment with her also, the more the merrier. Ducky is to be our hostess at our next meeting. We are planning to have as our guests veterans of the Grand Army, also champion fiddlers. Might have old fashioned dances. We closed our meeting by singing God be with you till we meet again.

Long live the Social Corner.

WURDY BELLE.

A CHAT WITH THE SISTERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I saw where Country Sister inquired after me. I will answer as I used to when my teacher called our names in the morning to see who were absent. Present! I haven't lost interest in the Social Corner Page. Though I haven't contributed to the page I love to get them, I received several copies from my daughter yesterday. No, I didn't go to Florida but many of my friends did.

Country Sister: Have you a married daughter in the village of N. S.?

Sister Joan: Do you know how Ga Ga is? Is she still at 18 Union street. The poem you sent in, These and Others, was fine.

Dorothy Bradford: I passed by your house Dec. 23, on my way to my daughter's in N. S. Your window full of lovely plants looked so cheerful on the outside. Why don't you come to the front and say hello?

Sister Don Ledro: am in your city and some day when I am up your way I shall come and knock at your door. So Don't be frightened. I wonder where Sister Student and Silvia are? Haven't seen any reports from them in a long time.

Best wishes to all.

CALL IN THE OLD TIME WRITERS

Dear Social Corner Members: What a day for the groundhog to see his shadow! Well I suppose whichever way it is, we'll have to take what comes to us. I'm sorry not to meet with you this time as I had planned but slippery walking keeps me shut in. I never did like to perform stunts.

I wish to thank a Social Corner Member for my dainty calendar I received around Christmas time. I have eight of them that all came from the same source, from year to year. I like to look them over and be reminded of the years gone by.

I wish we might hear from some of the old members and revive up some of the old times. "Nat's" pigs, Jluf's dried apple pies, Ready's Woodbox, and many other interesting topics. All these new members would fall in line and what interesting letters we would have.

Biddy: Pleased to see you; come again. Try to meet with us in March.

Welcome to all new members. Sympathy for all who are in trouble or bereaved.

AUNTY NO. 1.

LINENS FOR HOPE CHEST

Dear Cornerites: Here is a list of household linens for the "hope chest." I think some of the readers and sisters might appreciate it.

Ten to twelve sheets, 10 pillow cases, 3 spreads, 4 blankets, 2 or 3 comfortables, 12 hand towels, 12 wash cloths, 6 glass towels, 6 bath towels, 6 guest towels, 6 tablecloths (4 will do), 24 dinner napkins, 3 tea sets, 2 centerpieces, 5 buffet scarfs, 3 bath mats.

Then there are personal linens: Six night dresses, 6 combinations, 6 brassiers, 4 petticoats, 2 dressing sacques, 2 negligees and 1 bridal set, consisting of one night dress, 1 combination, 1 brassiere, 1 petticoat, 1 dressing sacque, 1 negligee, 6 holders plain, 3 fancy holders, 1 linen bag for soiled collars and handkerchiefs and 1 linen bag for buttons.

KITTY LOU.

BOILED ICING

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: What a lovely time we had at our last meeting Feb. 3rd. Between 60 and 70 members were present at Club No. 5 and such a delicious dinner. The grand march started promptly at two p. m. all members falling in. The double quartette also favored us with several selections.

Wurdy Belle: I will try to remember the feathers to add to your collection. Will send in recipe for Boiled Icing: 1 cup granulated sugar, 3 small tablespoons cold water, 1 egg white. Put in double boiler and beat all the time with egg beater until stiff enough to spread on cake.

Best wishes and success for the New Year

TRUTH.

CANDY AND COOKIES

Dear Social Corner: Perhaps you will like to try these recipes:

Uncooked Fondant: Mix the unbeaten white of one egg with 2 tablespoons of cold water. Add sugar enough to mold (about 4 cups confectioners' sugar) and knead until creamy. Flavor with vanilla.

Raisin and Nut Paste Balls: Steam 1-4 cup seeded raisins, the grated peel of an orange, 10 prunes, 6 figs and 1 teaspoon lemon juice over hot water for one hour. Cool, then chop or grind quite fine and add 1-4 cup chopped nuts. Form into small balls and roll in mixture of 1-2 cup crushed zwieback and 1-4 cup granulated sugar, until covered.

Chocolate Almond Balls: Blanch 1-2 pound almonds, dry and put through an almond grinder or chop very fine. Mix with 1 cup sugar and add to the stiffly beaten white of an egg. Form in small balls and put aside to dry for an hour or more. Dip into melted chocolate (2 squares bitter or sweet) and roll if desired, in little chocolate curls which can be bought at any candy store.

Sugared Cinnamon Almonds: Stir 1 1-4 cups sugar in 1-4 cup hot water until it is dissolved. When this sirup boils add 3-4 cup unblanched almonds and 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon and let the nuts simmer slowly in the sirup. When it gets very heavy and is about to sugar add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, remove from the fire and stir the nuts vigorously to keep them separated. The delicacy of the nuts is greater if they are toasted slightly in the oven with 2-4 teaspoon of butter before being added to the sirup.

Coconut Condensed Milk Cookies: Mix 3-4 pound shredded coconut with 1 large can sweetened condensed milk. Drop the mixture from a spoon onto a buttered tin. Bake the cookies a delicate brown in a moderate oven. A square of bitter chocolate may be added to this recipe if chocolate cookies are preferred.

MAJESTIC.

"CLEANING OUT"

Dear Social Sisters: Had having a single interesting thing to say. I am sending in this monologue which I hope some of you may enjoy. It is entitled "Cleaning Out."

Yes, Henry, I think you all quite right. Our house is too full of things. We ought to have a bi- cleaning up and throw away every thing we don't use. Let's begin today! I'm so glad it's rainy so that you can't work and the children are in school. We'll go over the drawers and closets in the spare room and dispose of a lot of things.

Now you begin at the dresser while I set the room to rights. What's in the little drawer? Oh, letters and papers. You can put most of them in the waste basket.

Mercy me. No! You mustn't put that in! That's Bobby's writing set that he got for a prize in school when he was five years old. Oh, I don't know that he cares about it, now that he is 14, but I care! Look at the cunning sprawly writing.

No, those can't be burned up. Those are the notes I took at the State Federation of Women's clubs when I was a delegate. And that's my old diary I kept when I was in the eighth grade. No, you can burn those up.

Goodness, what are you throwing away now! Those are Cecelia's merit cards. She thinks everything of them or did before she got into high school No, we can't destroy those.

Oh, Henry, take that out of the waste-basket right away! Only a ten-year-old calendar? Yes; but the picture of the little boy on it looks exactly like Bobby when he had curls. I wouldn't lose it for a five-dollar gold piece. And those are Madge's letters from Europe and too interesting to throw away. And those are Bobby's and Cecilia's compositions. Henry, I believe you had better let me clear out that drawer and you take the lower ones.

What are those white things? Those are petticoats. No; we haven't worn them for three or four years; they are too full for the present styles. Shall we dispose of them? Why, Henry, see all the goods in them; how extravagant you are! I've always been meaning to make them over, but when I needed a new one it's been easier to buy one that didn't need making over. And that's the dress Cecelia wore when she graduated from the eighth grade. No, she can't wear it now, but I'll make it up some day and use the embroidery. And those are baby cloths that were so cunning I had to keep them. Bobby's little shirt! Cecilia's nightgown! She could hardly get two fingers in the sleeve now. The little dress she wore when she was christened, and Bobby's first little white mittens. Oh, I couldn't throw away those! How unfeeling you are! Henry, I guess you had better let me clear out the dresser alone, and you and I will go at the closet.

Now just look at that pile of old hats! If there's anything in this world it's foolish to keep, it's old hats. Get them down, every one, Henry! No; I can't burn up the white plush one; it cost $10 just for the shape. I'm going to have it cleaned and relined some day. You may put that back, Henry. Yes, I think I must keep this little, close one; it's so convenient. And that big one I want for a picnic hat. And the wide one is so becoming I mean to trim it over. And the black one? Oh, I guess I'd better keep it; I really need a black hat. There's that old one of yours you can burn up. You want to keep it? Well, it is a pretty good one.

Let's go at the closet books. Oh, I don't believe it's any use taking down the dresses. It just makes me feel distracted. No; we don't wear them now, but they are all so good to make over, and just thing, if we ever needed them! There's that old suit of yours. We might dispose of that. You want to keep it to go fishing in? All right.

Henry, I don't feel like cleaning out today. Let's stop. It makes me feel bad to throw so many things away.

With best wishes to all.

SASSY.

GREETINGS FROM PRIMROSE

Dear Social Corner Folks: Just a few lines to thank the sisters who remembered me during the holiday season and also A Social Corner Member for a lovely little calendar. I have it on a shelf in the living room where I can see and enjoy it every day. It has been said that we may get along with last year's suit, umbrella, auto-

MRS. ELISHA L. PALMER BEQUEATHES LIBRARY TO NEW LONDON COLLEGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 6—The will of Mrs. Cornelia Kissam Palmer, of New London, formerly of Montville, widow of Elisha L. Palmer, who died several weeks ago, was admitted to probate at a hearing by the probate court this forenoon. The instrument, which was drawn Aug. 16, 1921, and a codicil drawn May 10, the following year, bequeaths practically the entire estate of testatrix to her three children, Courtland K. Palmer, Adelene Alice Lee and Emilie Gertrude Palmer. The codicil cuts off the former wife of Courtland K. Palmer. The brother-in-law of the testatrix, George S. Palmer, and William H. Reeves of this city, and Ralph H. Meicar, Uncasville, are appointed executors of the instrument, without bonds. The will provides that the inheritance and succession taxes be paid from the body of the estate.

The will provides that all of Mrs Palmer's jewelry, personal effects, silverware, china, pictures, rugs, furniture and all other articles for personal wear and use or household furnishings, excepting the books of the testatrix be bequeathed to her children, Courtland K. Palmer, Adelene Alice Lee and Emilie Gertrude Palmer and that the same be divided equally between the heirs.

The library of the testatrix is bequeathed to Connecticut College for Women for the permanent use of the college and to be known as "The Elisha L. Palmer Memorial."

To Mrs. Agnes K. Capron, sister of the testatrix, is bequeathed $5,000.

Howard Kissam, Richmond, Va., $3,000; Edward A. Kissam, Somerset, Ky., $3,000; Adelene K. Watt, Brooklyn, N. Y., niece is bequeathed $3,000; Caroline E. Kissam, Chicago, sister-in-law, $1,000; Andrew Maher, of this city, for many years a trusted employe of the testatrix, is bequeathed $1,000; to the New London Day Nursery is bequeathed $2,000; the children of Mrs. Gladys Latimer Lyman, of Montville, are bequeathed $1,000 each; E. Louise Loosley, New London, $150; Elizabeth W. Sweet, New London, $150; Catherine Kiley, New London, domestic long in the employ of the testatrix, is bequeathed $500; Catherine Sheehan, another domestic, is bequeathed $500; Minnie Rice, New London, is bequeathed $150.

Subject to the foregoing bequests and to the payments of the testatrix's just debts and expenses of settling the said estate, the testatrix gives and bequeaths one-third of her property, both real and personal and no matter of whatsoever nature or wheresoever located, to the National Bank of Commerce, of New London, and William H. Reeves and Ralph H. Meicer, of Uncasville, as trustees, under the following trusts; "To have, hold and manage said one-third of my property during the lifetime of my daughter, Adelene Alice Lee, to invest the same, to sell and convey any part thereof, real or personal, at their discretion, and to pay as deemed best by said trustees from time to time. It is not my intension to give to my daughter any right or title to said trust fund or its income that will enable or allow her to transfer, pledge or assign the same to others." Payments are to be made semi-annually, or oftener, and receipts taken from the testatrix's daughter. Upon the death of Mrs. Lee the trust reverts to the testatrix's surviving children.

Another one-third is bequeathed to the testatrix's son, Courtland K. Palmer, in trust and with the National Bank of Commerce, this city, and William H. Reeves and Ralph H. Meicer Uncasville, as trustees and upon the same provisions as those that pertain to the daughter's one-third interest in the rest and residue.

The remaining one-third is bequeathed to Courtland K. Palmer and the testatrix's grandchildren.

The amount of the estate has not been made known.

Stavros F. Peterson, 80 Nathan Hale street, and State, street merchant, whose residence was visited by thieves last month and while Mr. Peterson was in Europe, today appeared at the police station and requested that the police resume their investigation of the burglary in an effort that the thieves be apprehended. At the time of the burglary clothing, silk shirts and socks were taken and after the police had conducted an investigation a single day, an employe of the Peterson store, who stated that she represented Mr. Peterson in his absence from the city, requested that no further investigation be made. Following the recent return to New London of Mr. Peterson it became known that his cottage on the Niantic river road, Waterford, had also been entered and that a quantity of choice wines had been stolen. Three young men have already been apprehended for that alleged crime.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Henry R. Bond, 491 Pequot avenue to be returned to the owner. The license was recently suspended and following the automobile Mr. Bond was driving being in collision with a machine owned and driven by W. D. Fessler, Bellevue place, corner of Ocean and Glenwood avenues both cars being damaged.

William Howard was fined $50 in the police court today for a mix-up on Bank street some fortnight ago when girls complained that Howard molested them in the street. They called Policeman Clifford, who was in civilian attire nearby and he took Howard into custody. Then a friend of Howard, one O'Neill, interferred and in the squabble Howard got away. He later returned and gave himself up to the police. Judge Prince suspended execution of the judgment today, but gave Howard some advice as to his future conduct.

It is understood that the police are securing testimony ag to the life of Benjamin James, the negro who is in custody awaiting trial for an assault upon a minor female child not yet 15 in this city some months ago. The evidence secured is declared by the police, to be of the most convincing sort that James is not the sort of fellow who should be at large and permitted to have the freedom he has enjoyed. If the evidence the police claim to have is correct, James is an adulterer and a bigamist. James, when he was committed to jail, represented that he could obtain a bond for $3,000 if the court would set the bail at that amount, but this Judge Prince declined to do.

Mrs. Lydia Avery Harris, wife of George C. Harris, died this afternoon at her former home, 255 Pequot avenue, death ending an illness of about a year. She is survived, besides her husband, by two sisters, Mrs Graham Keeney and Mrs. Josephine Gray, this city; a brother, George Avery, Hartford, and three daughters, Mrs. George Griffith, Providence, Mrs. Harold Hickman, Buffalo, N. Y., and Mrs. Horace Arnold, Shanghai, China. Mrs. Harris was a descendant of the original Avery family, which settled here during the early New England days and was a daughter of the late Jared M. Avery, a veteran of the Civil war and, after whom the Jared R. Avery tent, Sons of Veterans has been named.

Miss Mildred S. Smith, Willetts avenue, is spending a few days in New York.

Assistant Postmaster Edward T. Corcoran, Bank street, departed this afternoon for Miami, Fla. At New Haven Mr. Corcoran was joined by Nathan Mahoney, a former resident of New London, and they will remain in the south for about two weeks.

Mrs. Robert A. Bitgood is spending several days with friends in Hartford.

Miss Delia Mahoney, director of the local Diocesan Bureau, Jay street, who has been abroad two months, has arrived in New York, and will return to New London within a few days.

A horse owned by Max Konechik, Poquonoc road, which was being driven from Poquonoc to New London, dropped dead near the Amery memorial, Poquonoc, this forenoon. It is believed that the animal was subject to a weakened heart and the exertion of pulling a delivery wagon caused its death.

Alfred F. Hedgdon, 74 Ramsdell street, Groton, who has been confined to his home a week because of grip, has resumed his duties as foreman of the Groton Water department.

Carlos Barry, cashier at the Union Bank & Trust Co., who has been confined to his home at Quaker Hill, a fortnight, because of a severe attack of shingles, resumed his duties today.

The residence of Fred White, Marshall place, was believed to be threatened with fire this forenoon when an oil burner gave indication of exploding. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Chief Charles Rose and the Northwest Hose company responded. By the time the firemen reached the scene of the supposed blaze, it was determined that there was no need of their services. During the run of the hose company the apparatus became disabled and interrupted traffic for about an hour on Jefferson avenue. For the apparatus became disabled while on the rails of the trolley company. The pumper, however, was put in working condition during the day and is again in readiness to respond to alarms.

The little daughter of Albert J. Phillips, 18 Cutler street, was bitten by a strange dog this afternoon and the girl's father lodged complaint with the police. The complaint was turned over to Dog Warden John Sweezy for investigation.

The funeral of Judson Connover, 82, formerly of Hartford, whose death occurred Wednesday at the residence of his mother, Mrs. Alice R. Connover, 43 Belden street, was held this afternoon at 15 Masonic street. Services were conducted by Rev. Isaac B. Walters, pastor of the A. M. E. Zion church. The body was sent to Hartford where the interment will take place.

John J. Foley, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Foley, 142 Crystal avenue, died last night at the Lena hospital where he had been under treatment but a short time. Master Foley was stricken with appendicitis about a week ago and was removed to the institution, but because of his condition an operation was deemed advisable. Besides his parents the young man is survived by two sisters, Mrs. James Powers and Miss Bessie Foley, and a brother, Robert Foley, all of this city.

POLICE REPORT OWNERS FAILING TO CLEAN WALKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 6.—The public safety department today started the strenuous task of removing ice and snow from the highways and sidewalks. In order to prevent accidents which might bring suits against the city. A force of automobile trucks and shovelers were put to work on State street and intermediate streets and before the day was over the major portion of snow had been removed from State street, between Bank and Huntington streets. On Main street and Meridan streets the greater part of the accumulation of snow had also been removed.

This afternoon the police received instructions to notify all property owners to cause their sidewalks to be freed of ice and snow and as a result the walks are in better condition than in a long time for where the snow has not been removed the sidewalks have been sanded or ashes placed. However, this evening Patrolman Thomas Cavanaugh reported that the long stretch of sidewalk on Howard street, owned by Benjamin L. Armstrong and that part of the highway across the Shaw's Cove bridge was without protection of any sort whatever. Patrolman William Riordan also reported that the owner of the property, corner of Main and John stre s had been ordered to remove snow from the sidewalk but that no attempt had been made to carry out the order, also that a stretch of sidewalk on Atlantic street, between North Bank and Water streets, was in a dangerous condition.

BOARD OF COMPENSATION RUNS UP AGAINST SNAGS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 5—The board of compensation of New London, started to conduct hearings this morning as to whether property on the west side of Bank street would be damaged by the establishment of building lines. It is represented that some of the property will be benefitted, and at an attempt to conduct the hearing today, one real estate owner admitted that he was of the opinion that the benefits his property would acquire would equal any damages it would sustain. Other property owners, represented by attorneys, held that they were not prepared to go on with the hearing and said they desired to produce evidence as to damages the proposed building line would impose upon them. Messrs. Gavitt and Twomey and the estate of Richard P. Freeman will claim heavy damages and they propose to show this as a fact to the board members. It is in the former Freeman estate building that the Crown theatre is located and under the sidewalk machinery is located. Whether that machinery is to be interferred with is not known outside of the confidants of the owners and attorneys. The Gavitt property is set far back from the sidewalk or from the proposed line, for the walk there is more than 15 to 20 feet in width. It is the claim of the owners that they will be restricted from using that part of the sidewalk for building purposes which Gavitt owns, and upon which he has been paying taxes many years. The City National bank is in somewhat the same predicament. Up and down the street the city is to encounter objection to the establishment of the line as proposed, so that there is not certainty now as to whether the city will go forward and establish the building line where it is proposed to make it. If the change is to involve lawsuits that will be very expensive, there is said to be doubt whether the plans will be carried to consummation.

A woman thinks her husband is the wisest man on earth the day he leads her to the altar.

Highway Tree Conference

The first Connecticut highway tree conference, which is to be held under the auspices of the Connecticut Forestry Association and the Yale School of Forestry, in New Haven, at the School of Forestry, on Saturday, Feb. 6, will bring together a large number of influential people and organizations to discuss the improvement of the landscape conditions of our roadsides.

The morning meeting will consist of a round-table discussion, at which Col H. S. Graves, dean, Yale School of Forestry and president of the Connecticut Forestry association, will preside.

The afternoon meeting will have a set program, at which the work which other states have done in improving the beauty of their roadsides will be discussed.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
New York

Stocks irregular; Union Oil of California soars on merger rumors.

Bonds steady; activity centers in traction issues.

Foreign exchanges mixed; franc slightly lower.

Cotton lower; bearish visible supply. Sugar easy; increased spot offerings. Coffee declined importers selling.

Chicago

Wheat firm; unfavorable southwest crop news.

Corn easy; bearish foreign reports.

Cattle dull; steers scarce.

Hogs irregular; light weights higher and active.

MARKET CLOSED IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 6(AP)—Heavy week-end profit-taking by professional traders checked the upward movement of prices toward the close of today's stock market, but not until after about a half a dozen shares had attained record high levels. Closing quotations disclosed considerable irregularity, with total sales again exceeding 1,000,000 shares.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported little change in the trade situation. Bradstreet's states "business seems to be moving forward on an even keel, with but slight variation of pace and nothing in sight to cause alarm to the average merchant or manufacturer." Dunn's reports "the present lack of further growth of business in some directions does not lessen confidence in the situation generally."

Some of today's selling probably was inspired by a desire on the part of large operators to reduce commitments, pending publication of the stock exchange figures on brokers' loans, which are expected after the close tomorrow. Despite the calling of an additional $10,000,000 in loans by New York banks, presumably to strengthen their reserve position, call money held steady at 5 per cent. with loans available in the "outside market," as low as 4 1-2. Easier rates are looked for next week.

Heavy accumulation of Union Oil of California, which was reported to be for the account of large banking interests in connection with some unrevealed merger plans, sent that stock up four points to a new high record at 46, but it eased off to 45 at the close. Atlantic Refining advanced over two points on a small turnover but most of the other popular oils showed only fractionall changes on the day.

Motors displayed another temporary outburst of strength but were unable to maintain their gains in the late wave of selling. Hudson closed 5-8 higher at 116 1-2 after selling two points above that figure. Chrysler touched 52 3-8 and then eased to 51 1-8, up 1 1-2 on the day. Jordan, White and Mack Trucks showed fractional net gains but closed a point or more beolw their earlier high levels.

General electric established a new record high price at 350 1-2 and then sold off to 347 for a net loss of 1 point on the day. New peak prices also were attained by Allied Chemical and Omnibus, while Third Avenue, Wright Aeronautical, International Business Machines and a few others exceeded their previous peak prices this year. Good buying also was noted in general American Tank Car, Standard Gas and Electric, Savage Arms, F. G. Shattuck and United Fruit.

Rails showed a slightly firmer tone, but speculative activity was confined largely to the low and medium priced issues "Katy" common closing over a point higher at 45 and Lehigh Valley showed a net gain of 2 3-8 at 83 1-2.

Commodity markets were irregular. Wheat futures closed unchanged to a cent a bushel higher, a sharp rally taking place in the late trading. Cotton was 2 to 17 points net lower. Raw sugar was unchanged, but futures were slightly lower, and coffee options closed 13 points higher to 9 points lower.

Call money held steady at 5 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates fluctuated within rather narrow and irregular limits. Demand sterling and French franc ruled practically unchanged at $4.86 and 3.75 cents, respectively. Greek drachmas reacted 5 points on realizing.

WEATHER

Conditions

The Atlantic coast storm has moved northeastward to Newfoundland, with little change in intensity during the last 24 hours.

Except for light local snows or rains Saturday in the lower lake region, the weather will be generally fair Saturday and Sunday in the states east of the Mississippi river. There will be considerable cloudiness Saturday, however, in the middle and northern sections. The temperature will rise Saturday throughout the Washington forecast district.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook and Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Diminishing northwest becoming moderate to fresh southerly and weather fair Saturday.

New York Telephone company records showed an increase in wire traffic while the city was snowbound, ranging from 10 to 32 per cent. Calls in the business district were little heavier than usual, but in the residential and suburban sections the increase was marked. Some suburban towns in Westchester county reported increases as great as 36 per cent.

Forecast

For New England: Increasing cloudiness with rising temperature Saturday. Sunday generally fair.

GREENEVILLE

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the Greeneville Congregational church was held Wednesday evening in the Sunday school room in the church. Thirty-five members were present and after the business session the meeting took the form of a Valentine social. Two new members were enrolled during the meeting. At the close of the meeting refreshments of three kinds of sandwiches, cookies and coffee were served by the committee, Mrs. Charles Meech, chairman, Mrs. Leonard Prentice, Mrs. William Pitcher and Mrs. J. W. Semple. The committee for the nomination of officers of the society comprises Mrs. Levi Gorton, chairman, Mrs. Annie Spencer, Mrs. William Pitcher and Mrs. Paul Zahn.

TAFTVILLE

State roads were broken through Friday by the big road scrapers of the State Highway department, and the village streets were opened up by men employed by the local mills, under the direction of Foreman E. W. Yerrington. Trolley service began to run again about on time, the only trouble the trolleys experiencing was when automobiles were stalled on the tracks and were unable to get away because of the big snow banks on either side of the rails.

As usual on the first Friday of the month, there were special devotions in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus at Sacred Heart church.

Plans have been completed for a supper and social evening to be given next week in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church, by the Ladies Benevolent Society of the church.

Elliot Grover is spending the mid year vacation at his home on North Third avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John Knight of Port-Chester, N. Y., are the guests of Mrs. Knight's father, Joseph Tetreault and family of Providence street.

Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis spoke at the weekly noon hour service at the Schwarzenbach-Huber Co. of Norwich, this week.

Arsene Daigneault has resigned his position with the spinning department of the Ponemah company.

Master John Monty of Riverside Grove is a patient at the William W. Backus Hospital at Norwich.

Because of the stormy weather, the joint carnival being conducted by the Sacred Heart church and the Army and Navy club in Parish hall, had to be postponed Thursday evening.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Ponemah Wheel club which is usually held on the first Tuesday of the month was postponed for a week.

The topics at the Congregational church on Sunday morning and evening will be in Keeping Arthur the Christian Endeavor Thought Observed Throughout the Word.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH OBSERVING FAMILY SUNDAY

"Family Sunday" is to be observed at the morning worship service at the Central Baptist church, in recognition of the taking of the baby Jesus, forty days after his birth, to the temple by Joseph and Mary. Families are asked to sit together. Little children will be cared for in the nursery upstairs. The morning topic will be "Home and Church," and the Lord's supper will be observed. At the evening worship hour Mrs. Genevieve Ray-Bethel, formerly member of a great Philadelphia choir, will sing a number of negro spirituals. Special delegations will be seated in the center of the auditorium, Laurel Hill district, under the direction of Harry Kromer and Preston, under the direction of Deacon Storms. The message will be "The Master's Idea of Greatness."

HELP!

Members of the Norwich Fish and Game Association are requested to make every effort to relieve the Game Birds during the present severe conditions. Food will be supplied by the Yantic Grain Co., upon presentation of membership card or through a letter from any official of the Norwich Fish and Game Association.

SNOWBALL FROLIC RESULTS IN BAD ACCIDENT TO SMALL BOY

Struck by a motor bus in Central avenue, near Hickory street, about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, Charles Belecki, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Belecki, of 154 Prospect street, sustained a fractured pelvic bone and lacerated right knee. He is a patient in the Backus hospital where he was sent by Dr. Paul F. Gadle after the doctor had attended him where the accident happened. The break in the pelvic bone is a serious one as there are three fractures.

The bus was one of the New England Transportation company's, running between Norwich and Putnam, and was operated by Orrin V. Hodgson, of Noank. The driver reported that the injured boy was one of several who were playing with snowballs in the street. The Belecki boy, in dodging away from a big snowball which another boy was about to throw at him, ran out into the path of the bus, was hit by the fender and was pushed along ahead of the car. The driver came to police headquarters with Officer John Carroll to make a report of the accident. The boy was taken to the hospital in the ambulance after the doctor had been called.

TWO FORECLOSURES ARE GRANTED IN NEW LONDON

A number of motions were granted, judgment entered in two cases, while others either went off the list or were continued, at Friday's short calendar session of the superior court, before Judge Allyn L. Brown, in New London.

Judgment for the plaintiff in the amount of $10,749.18 was entered in a foreclosure motion in the case of the Savings Bank of New London against Edward M. Sweeney, administrator of the estate of the late James Sweeney The judgment was on property and was ordered sold on Saturday, May 1.

Judgment in the amount of $3,328.19 was ordered in favor of the plaintiff in the same case upon another adjourning piece of property. The same time was set for sale and Thomas McGinley was appointed a committee of sale. An attorney represented the estate of the late Senator Frank B. Brandegee, which held a lien on the property.

A motion to amend the complaint was granted in the case of Frank Wyrod against the Safeguard Insurance Co., of New York, and others. A similar motion was granted in the case of Frank Wyrod against the World Fire and Marine Insurance Co., and others.

Disclosure of defense within one week or judgment was ordered in the case of the Brunswick Balke Collender Co., of New York, against Sharaf, and others. Attorney Morris Lubchansky represented the plaintiff.

The Textile Engineering Co., against the Braided Thread corporation; motion to expunge; motion for more specific statement.

The Textile Engineering Co., against Still; motion for more specific statement.

The Textile Engineering Co., against Still; motion to expunge; (a) with respect to answer of Braided Thread Corp.; with respect to answer of G. B. Still; motion for more specific statement with respect to answer of Braided Thread Corp.

Witchewski against The Falls Co., and others; appeal from compensation commissioner; judgment on the record.

The following cases went off:

Simonowitz against Fairbrother, and others; disclosure of defense or judgment.

Patti against Woolworth Co.; disclosure of defense or judgment.

Fyzo against Zahaba; judgment of default for failure to plead.

THREE BANQUET SPEAKERS FOR UNIVERSALIST Y. P. U.

A banquet for the young people of the Universalist church will be held Saturday night, in the dining room of the church. This banquet holds much interest for the members, anticipating as they do, the presence of three members from the outside unions, Miss Doris Barnard, of Hartford, secretary of the state board; Miss Alsace Crosbie, Tufts college, editor of the Y. P. C. U. Magazine Onward; and Donald Sleeper of Boston. Mr. Sleeper is a member of the Universalist denomination, a national officer of the young people's organization, an ardent enthusiast in the work, and by reason of extreme perserverance and industry, has fitted himself to be admitted to the Massachusetts bar at an early age. He will be the speaker of the evening, and his interesting personality, well known by many of the local members, promises an address of value. Miss Crosbie and Miss Barnard will also talk on the phases of their respective feild of action.

The service Sunday morning at the usual hour is also of unique interest, in that it will be conducted entirely by the young people. It marks the end of a week of increased activities and emphasis upon the work of young people in the church, customarily called Young People's Week, and it has been the splendid practice of the members of the organization within the past few years to perform all offices of the morning service, on this particular day. The order of the service with its participants will be:

Invocation, Miss Hattie Fowler; Responsive Psalm, Miss Hattie Fowler; Alternate Choral Responses, John Bell; Prayer, Hugh Laird; First Scripture, Miss Alice Parsons; Announcements, Miss Betty Pike; Offertory, Miss Betty Pike; Hymns Miss Helen Hannigan; Benediction, Hugh Laird; Ushers, William Mitchell, Lester Crowell.

The speaker for the service will be Donald Sleeper and his interesting message is eagerly anticipated by the members of the young people's organization.

WORLD COURT LUNCHEON TO HAVE HARTFORD SPEAKER

Lincoln's birthday is to be made the date for the postponed World Court luncheon at the Waureagan hotel, according to an invitation just issued by the Norwich committee, which is composed of Rev. A. N. Foster, chairman; Mrs. Willis Austin, Max Hanover, James C. Macpherson, and John J. O'Rourke.

The speaker will be the Rev. Charles F. Carter, of Hartford, a resident pastor of Hartford, who has long been a student of international policies and is in close touch with the present situation. He has lately returned from a conference at Washington and an interview with President Coolidge. The recent favorable action on the world court bill by the United States senate, may be a turning point in the history of American diplomacy. However, in its final passage, the bill carried the "Swanson reservations" and the "Hughes-Coolidge reservations" and the effect of these reservations on the attitude of the forty-eight other nation members of the world court is yet to be seen.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED FOR COLCHESTER WOMAN

Esther L. James of Colchester was granted a divorce from John Oxley James, of New Rochelle, N. Y., on the grounds of desertion, by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court at New London Friday. The plaintiff was also granted the custody of one minor child. Judge Charles A. Gallup represented the plaintiff. The couple was married March 19, 1914, and desertion was alleged since 1916.

MORE USE IN WINTER OF CONNECTICUT AUTOS

Indicative of the increased tendency to use motor vehicles throughout winter seasons is the fact disclosed at the state motor vehicle department that nearly 25,000 more cars are registered for use in Connecticut today than there were a year ago. The number of additional people who have decided to drive through the winter is as large as the number who registered motor vehicles in Connecticut during the entire year twelve years ago.

The record for the first ten days of any year is considered a fair indication of the percentage of winter drivers. By January 10, of this year, 158,119 motor vehicles had been registered in Connecticut, as compared with 127,812 registered in the corresponding period of last year, or an increase of 30,307. Registrations for the remainder of the month were proportionately less, which is the case every year. Most of those who have decided to drive throughout the winter start out with the beginning of the year and usually equip themselves with registration certificates before the expiration of the old year. This growing tendency contributes largely to the annual increase in the issuance in December of registrations for the new year.

The increase of winter drivers this year is larger than ever, and may be due in no small degree to the mild weather of December and early January. The increased sales of enclosed cars is also a factor, while the constant extension of hard smooth highways and of the area plowed by the state highway department after snow storms undoubtedly influences the tendency further.

Of the 30,307 additional cars registered by the tenth year, 26,557 were pleasure cars. The winter traffic problem is considerably affected by the increase.

FORMER NORWICH WOMAN ORGANIST IN ROCHESTER

A former Norwich young woman, Miss Ruth Sullivan, who is now organist at St. Luke's Episcopal church, Rochester, N. Y., participated in a musical vesper service last Sunday in which selections were rendered by the organists from three churches under the auspices of the western New York chapter of the American Guild of Organists. She rendered as the postlude, Bonnet's "Reverie," and a chorale by Jongan.

Miss Sullivan the daughter of Mrs. Lida Turner Sullivan and the late Augustus T. Sullivan, and formerly resided here on Slater avenue.

Ten Inches in Groton

Groton borough Friday dug its way out of ten inches of snowfall which piled up during the terrific storm of Thursday. In spite of the unusual violence with which the storm struck, little damage was reported. Traffic was hindered to the greatest extent in the Eastern Point section, which was exposed to the storm more than any other portion of the town. The borough snow plow, a large truck with plow attachment, was set to work Friday morning, while a force of men was engaged in clearing walks and side roads.

Entertained for Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Keenan, of Fifth street, entertained recently in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quilty of Hartford. After cards, dancing and games a supper, salads, cake, coffee fruit and ice cream was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Mary Nolan.

FORMER MEMBER SPEAKS TO HI-Y CLUB MEETING

The local Hi-Y club held one of the most active and best attended meetings Friday evening at 6 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. that it has had in its history. With President Frank Mousley presiding the meeting opened with one verse of America. Grace was asked by one of the members. A splendid supper was served by Mrs. Sandberg. Places were prepared for thirty members but thirty-six made application for supper, so consequently two late arrivals found it impossible to secure eats. Three new names were proposed for membership at the short business meeting. One of the oldest members of the Hi-Y club was present at the meeting and President Mousley called upon him for a few words, and Stanley Vaughn responded with some very fitting remarks. He expressed the thought that the present members would not realize how much the Hi-Y would mean to them until they had been away for a time and then returned to its fellowship with old friends and chums.

The club divided into two groups for Bible study under the leadership of Henry D. Johnson and Rev. J. H. Graham. The meeting adjourned at 7 o'clock.

A large attendange is expected for next week's meeting, as it was announced that F. A. Stanley, State Boys' Work secretary, will be the guest of honor and speaker. Special music will also be included in the program. No member will want to miss this meeting.

UNIVERSALIST YOUNG PEOPLE ON SLEIGHRIDE TO LAKE

One of the events of Young People's Week at the Universalist church was held Friday evening, in the form of a sleigh ride which the Storm King most conveniently made possible. The members of the church union formed a merry party over the snow banked trail to Gardner Lake, and when they reached there, a most welcome luncheon was prepared of hot coffee, sandwiches and hot dogs. Games and a merry social hour completed the best sleigh ride in many years. The union is very appreciative of the hospitality of the Oat cottage, which was their stopping place at the lake.

STERLING MAN DROPS DEAD SHOVELING SNOW

A resident of Sterling, Frank P. Babcock, dropped dead Friday in his yard, where he had been engaged in cleaning the walks and paths of their snow. Mr. Babcock had evidently been suffering with heart trouble and in shoveling the snow he over-exerted himself for his death was sudden. Mr. Babcock had been a fireman in the Sterling mill for a number of years and was leading a retired life. His wife died suddenly about nine months ago and surviving him are two or three children. He was 71 years old.

Died at 95

The John D. Avery family, of North Stonington, went Monday with the body of Mrs. Avery's mother, Mrs. Abigail C. Rice, to Meriden, where funeral services and burial took place. Though nearly 95, Mrs. Rice had the appearance of a person many years younger and was active to the last, dying suddenly without illness.

NORWICH TOWN

The delightful weather Friday, was in marked contrast to the almost unendurable conditions all day Thursday and the preceding night.

With the heavy fall of snow, drifting in many places as fast as it fell, and the howling wind Thursday was a tedious day for those obliged to venture out and face the storm.

The efficient management of Henry F. Gorman, supervisor of state highways, was manifested, when a force of men employed by this department worked from early morning Thursday continuing throughout that day and evening, keeping the state road open to traffic, on the section leading from Norwich toward Colchester, as well as other state roads. On the highway mentioned the snow plow made trips as late as 10:30 Thursday evening, practically covering above twenty-four hours' labor.

Because of this automobiles were not so badly inconvenienced as were pedestrians, who seeking the highway to travel over, when trying to enter homes from the roadway were forced to wade through high drifts.

In several locations in Norwich Town birds in large flocks were fed by kind-hearted people. At one home on Town street, a flock of starlings and other birds, ate up more than a loaf of bread. So hungry were these birds that they would light on the window sill and plead for something to eat. The woman of the household has on several occasions purchased oats, etc., for the winter birds.

Regarding the icy conditions of the state highway early Monday morning, a former Norwich Town resident, in coming to Norwich from New Haven, stated that for the many years he had been a traveling salesman, he having driven an automobile through all kinds of weather conditions, Monday was the most hazardous driving he had ever experienced. While driving exceedingly slowly in places where there was an incline, cars over which there could be no control, practically slid down hill. This driver jumped out of his car four times as a precautionary measure. On the last occasion two other cars were ditched in the same location, all receiving more or less damage, jammed fenders, broken wheels, etc. A Connecticut company bus running between New London and New Haven, was stalled sidewise nearby, having slid down the hill in the position, causing it to be disabled on running into a big pole.

In observance of Christian Endeavor week, a recognition service with special programme, for Dr. Francis E. Clark, is to be held Sunday evening at seven o'clock, in the Norwich Town chapel, under the auspices of the prayer meeting committee, Mrs. Burton Jopson, chairman, of the First Congregational Young People's Christian Endeavor society. This will take the place of the regular Sunday evening service.

In the First Congregational chapel Friday evening at six o'clock, under the auspices of the Home Missionary society, the first supper for 1926, was held and was largely attended, about seventy-five being present.

The arrangement took the form of a Valentine supper, delicious menu including grapefruit cocktail, meat loaf, mashed potato, pickles, beets, rolls, assorted cake and coffee. The pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, said grace. Valentine decorations with red runners on the tables, also large red candles, two op either end of the large tables and one in the center of each small table made an attractive setting. The committee comprised Mrs. David M. Dean, chairman; Mrs. Earl Browning and Mrs. Frank S. Wheeler. Helpers in the kitchen were Mrs. Albie L. Hale, Mrs. Clyde M. Beebe, Mrs. Michael Buckley, Mrs. Charles P. Learned and Mrs. Charles Schwenk. The waitresses were Misses Lucile Browning, Dorothea Buckley, Grace Wheeler, Rose Durr, Doris Browning and Marion Buckley.

SET-UP FOR TELEPHONE DEMONSTRATION

WILL GIVE DEMONSTRATION OF TELEPHONE SWITCHBOARD

Arrangements have been made by the Chamber of Commerce for a novel entertainment to be given in the Community House at 8 o'clock next Tuesday evening, when a demonstration will be given of the operation of a telephone switchboard. The Chamber of Commerce has secured the co-operation of the telephone company and this demonstration, which has been given in several places of the state, has met with favor everywhere, because it helps teach the proper use of that useful instrument and is highly entertaining and amusing.

Twelve persons take part in the demonstration. A miniature switchboard is set up and in the first part of the program the operators show how a telephone call from one subscriber to another is handled. Other operators demonstrate on the switchboard how toll line calls are handled and there also is a complete explanation and demonstration of the so-called A-B service.

Following the demonstration of the switchboard, which embraces explanations of the many phrases commonly used by operators, such as "The line is busy," "They do not answer" and others, and the various reasons why these situations arise, a laughable sketch is presented by other actors and actresses taken from the ranks of the telephone workers.

In this sketch many amusing situations develop and they never fail to bring a hearty laugh from the spectators. One short skit shows the trouble that is caused by talking indistinctly into the telephone when a cigar is in the caller's mouth.

Of course, the purpose of arranging this demonstration is to give the public better understanding of the trials and troubles of the operators, their honesty in attempting to give the subscriber the kind of service which each desires. But above all, the demonstration seeks to impress upon the public the fact that with their co-operation, better service can be given to the greater satisfaction of the telephone workers and the management of the company.

Following the demonstration, the experienced operators, who take part in it, hold their places at the switchboard and answer any questions which those in the audience wish to ask. However the crowd is then permitted to come up for a closer inspection of the apparatus and after each performance many have done this and have learned some of the mysteries of telephone operation by which they have been puzzled.

The demonstration is accompanied by a program of motion pictures. On the whole, it is a splendid entertainment and the demands upon the telephone company to present it are growing in number.

MISSION ANNOUNCED TO BE HELD AT CHRIST CHURCH

Announcement was made Friday night that a mission is to be held in Christ Episcopal church beginning on February 10th at 7.30 o'clock and concluding February 14th, by Rev. D. Robert Bailey, a mission father. He is one of the mission fathers especially trained for the preaching and healing missions. Father Bailey was with James Moore Hickson, the noted Englishman who spent a year in this country holding healing missions. Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong, rector of the Christ church, has issued an invitation to the people of Norwich to attend the mission gatherings. The mission programme will be announced in The Bulletin early next week.

Father Bailey has sent the following letter to the parishioners and friends of Christ church:

The mission, which, under God, I am to hold in your parish beginning Wednesday evening, February 10th and closing on Sunday evening, Feb. 14th, will depend for its success upon your prayers and mutual cooperation. Your rector and I want to try and make God and His church more real in your lives and I hope you will use me in every way that will help you. Use the question box freely and see me personally that I may directly help you with your doubts and fears. The great realities are, God, the Soul and Eternity, and if we can manage to get a firmer hold on these, lesser things will take care of themselves.

Help to send the children to the afternoon mission at 4.15 each day and bring all your friends and acquaintances to the evening services and let us all show a greater zeal for the spread of Christ's kingdom. Only in this way can you strengthen your own souls and find God's peace which passes all understanding, and which the world can neither give nor, thank God, take away.

UNDERTAKER CAME NEAR BURYING WRONG TWIN

It was learned Friday that an undertaker's mistake this week came near resulting in burying the surviving one of twin babies of a West Side Hebrew family which was taken to the cemetery instead of the twin that had died. The infants were only a few days old.

When one of the twins died, it was learned Friday that Kive Swatsburg was summoned to perform the duties of undertaker. As Hebrew custom provides for burial as soon as possible after death, the undertaker came to the house with little delay and conveyed what he supposed was the body of the dead infant in a coffin to the cemetery, where he awaited the arrival of the grave digger.

The father of the babies returned home during this interval, discovered that the wrong child had been taken, and then reached the cemetery in time to avert the burial of the living baby.

The burial of the dead infant was then accomplished but the exposure which the other had suffered brought on pneumonia and it died a few days later.

CITY CONTINUES BATTLE AGAINST SNOW BLOCKADE

Continuing their battle against snow clogged streets employes of the street department were at work all night Friday clearing out lower Franklin street of the snow piled alongside the curbings while city ploughs were opening up other streets in the city. The department made considerable headway during the night season when the streets were practically clear of traffic.

Stores, business houses and concerns using automobile trucks carried on business under difficulties. Deliveries have been greatly delayed since the avalanche of snow hit Norwich. Grocery and other store trucks have been hard hit, especially in making deliveries on streets off the main thoroughfares of the city. In a great many cases drivers found it necessary to leave their strucks on the main streets and carry their deliveries to houses on the side streets.

Rail and trolley traffic was running practically on schedule Friday and Friday night and the bus lines were beginning to get back to normalcy.

SENT NORWICH COAL TO DAUGHTER IN BROOKLYN

Mrs. Ethel Goldberg Austin, who lives in coal-less Brooklyn, N. Y., is fortunate that she has a father who lives in Norwich, where coal is to be secured. Samuel Goldberg, who lives on Goldberg avenue, came to the rescue of his daughter this week when he learned that she was out of coal and could get none. Hiring one of the J. H. Ford Co., motor trucks, for which he paid $75, he loaded it with five tons of coal here and sent it to Brooklyn to deliver the coal to his daughter last Tuesday. When it arrived with the coal, the whole neighborhood where Mrs. Austin and her husband, a doctor, live, was in a furore and wanted to know how Mrs. Austin could get coal when they couldn't. Her explanation that "father did it" was sufficient.

Although the cost of the coal and the truck, with some incidentals, made the coal cost him about $35 a ton, Mr. Goldberg was well satisfied to pay the price to keep his daughter and her family warm.

POST WILL GIVE DINNER TO WOMEN ORGANIZATIONS

At the invitation of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., all members of the Woman eRlief corps and the Daughters of Veterans, who can accept the invitation, are to be guests at a dinner at the Buckingham Memorial today (Saturday). Dinner will be served at 1 o'clock, with an oyster chowder as the seasonable number on the menu, and it is expected that there will be a large delegation from each society.

EPISCOPAL BISHOPS NOT IN ACCORD ON VOLSTEAD ACT

Bishop Manning in New York Does Not Believe the Volstead Act Should Be Modified at This Time—Rev. Charles Fiske, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Central New York, Speaking as an Individual, Denounced the Volstead Act—Believes That It Has Increased Drinking Among Young People, Has Brought About Disrepect For the Law and That It is Class Legislation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Prohibition was the foremost topic in church circles today. Several ministers discussed the subject in their sermons, referred to the statement last week by the Rev. James Empringham, secretary of the Church Temperance society of the Protestant Episcopal church, that the society now favors modification of the Volstead act to legalize light wines and beer.

Bishop William T. Manning, in his sermon in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, said the society had no official authorization or any right to speak in the name of the Episcopal church, and that the church as a whole still maintains its stand in support of the prohibition law.

The Rev. Hartley J. Hartman, pastor of the Methodist church of Sea Cliff, Long Island, who took a trip to Rum Row with three other ministers to see how the coast guard was enforcing prohibition, said in his sermon tonight that the doughty guardsmen were being successful in their campaign.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of America, speaking in the Central Methodist church in Yonkers, dismissed the statement of Mr. Empringham as having no significance as an expression of the Episcopal church's attitude.

Bishop Manning said undue importance had been attached to the statement issued in the name of the church temperance society.

"It is a voluntary association," he asserted, "and its statements have only such weight as may attach to those of any voluntary organization. They are not to be taken as representing the mind of the Episcopal church. For some years past the church has scarcely been aware of the existence of this society and it has not been regarded as having weight and influence in the church."

Calling attention to the resolution adopted by the house of bishops in New Orleans last October, supporting the prohibition law and calling upon members of the church to obey it, Bishop Manning said that no action by the convention since that time had suggested any change in its sentiment upon the subject. He said that his personal convictions on the subject remain the same after careful consideration of the evidence presented by both those who favor and those who oppose prohibition.

"I do not hold," he said, "that to drink wine or other intoxicant, in moderation, is in itself a sin. But I believe that the prohibition law properly enforced will make us a healthier, stronger and better people, and I do believe that these laws can be and ought to be enforced, and are being more and more generally observed in the country as a while.

"I do not believe that the Volstead act should be modified at this time. When the law is being so observed by all that we can be assured that its modification would not mean its pratical nullification; when its modification is desired by the sincere friends as well as by the enemies of prohibition, some modification of it may and probably will be made."

He urged the clergy of all churches in this country to join in a crusade for voluntary action in support of the law.

The good results of prohibition, he said, were seen in the present coal strike, with its "entire absence of disturbance and disorder as a result largely of the prohibition laws."

Mr. Hartman described his trip to Rum Row with the three other ministers. They spent two days on different coast guard craft and witnessed the capture of one rum running boat after shots had been fired.

"The land forces of prohibition," said Mr. Hartman, "may have plent, to excuse them for not drying up the country more rapidly, but our hats are off to the coast guard who, without offering a complaint or an excuse, are doing their stuff and drying up the Atlantic.

"A year ago there were eighty large ships anchored in the Atlantic off New York with cargoes of illicit liquor which they endeavored to transport to the small rum runners in swift boats, who tried to land it ashore. On this business the coast guard has waged ceaseless and effective warfare so that today there are but two vessels on Rum Row and they are so closely guarded that it is well neigh impossible to land a single case of liquor."

Describing the capture of the rum boat by the cutter Seminole on which he and other ministers were aboard, Mr. Hartman said.

"The Seminole had just been relieved by the Seneca and was on her way in to the base at Staten Island, when the look-out reported a suspicious looking vessel about a mile away. All glasses were turned that way, the course altered. All hands were on the deck. Wireless telephone communication to the other ships and stations failed to reveal the identity of the boat. A warning shot from the three inch gun was sent across her as a signal to stop. Instead she took warning and, changing her course, started toward the Long Island shore with all possible speed. Further shots failed to stop the boat. Establishing her suspicious character. Wireless telephone to the stations on the Long Island shore and mainland, with specific directions as to location and direction, brought out the speedboats which soon overhauled the culprit and had the boat and the crew at the base when the cutter arrived."

The three other ministers on the trip were the Revs. O. M. Geer of Westwood, N. A. Workman of Teaneck, and F. D. Buttenbaum of Guttenberg, all of New Jersey. G. W. Reiter of the Anti-Saloon League, also was a member of the party.

Mr. Wheeler in his church address in Yonkers said "the nation outside New York is wearied by the propaganda from persons and organizations in this state assailing prohibition."

"Those states which are loyally supporting the constitution," he said, "have no intention of surrendering because a liquor group uses a few wet states as broadcasting stations for their misrepresentations. Neither this state nor New York city is one-tenth as wet as they pretend."

The church temperance society, Mr. Wheeler said, would "leave no noticeable vacancy by its widely advertised withdrawal from the prohibition ranks," because it did not represent the attitude of the Episcopal church at a whole. Discussing enforcement, he assailed "bargain counter lines" and criticisms of the law by alibi officials," saying they were an encouragement t ocriminals.

Austen G. Fox, chairman of the Moderation League, Inc., today made public to fight any attempt to pass another state enforcement act.

The Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, former rector of the Church of the Ascension and one of the outstanding modernists of the Episcopal church, denounced the statement issued in the name of the church temperance society, in a sermon at St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwrie. He said $2,000,000,000 had been saved the nation by prohibition, and expressed admiration for the 14 bishops who scored the temperance society's move for legalising light wines and beer.

"Wait until 100 per cent. Protestants get hold of this question at the polls," he said, "and the enemies of prohibition will see a sight to terrify them."

The Society of Restauranteurs of New York announced today that at its annual dinner Tuesday night it would start a movement for modification of the Volstead act. Congressman Philip J. Hill, of Maryland, Mayor James J. Walker of this city and William H. Sayton, national chairman of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, were announced as the principal speakers. Paul Henkel, president of the Restauranteurs, said the majority of the hotel and restaurant men in this city favored modification.

BISHOP FISKE SEES HARM IN VOLSTEAD ACT

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Endorsement of the recent pronouncement of the church temperance society urging modification of the Volstead act was voiced here today by Rev. Charles Fiske, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of central New York.

Bishop Fiske emphasized the fact that he was speaking as an individual citizen in denouncing the Volstead act. He made an earnest appeal to lift high the general moral ideals of the country, not through laws but through the work of the church and its ministry.

Pleading for breadth of mind he asked "for a return from the moral bigotry to a liberal mindedness which will recognize that men may differ as to the methods by which moral reforms can be brought about through equally conscientious as to the need of reform; and for the understanding of the true functions of the church as a moral teacher and not a moral policeman."

After endorsing Dr. James Empringham's attitude, Bishop Fiske said:

"I have come to the conclusion that the Volstead act has resulted in worse drinking conditions among young people than we had before, and that it has increased enormously among them the use of strong distilled liquors often poisonous and dangerous, that it has corrupted officials, has brought about an increased disrespect for law and is class legislation discriminating against workmen in industrial cities, worst of all discriminating in favor of the rich who can get what they want and against the poor. To me the sad thing in the present situation is that ten years ago, by patient teaching, we had made wonderful progress toward temperance and now we are losing ground.

"Ten years ago we had made such progress that most people regarded drunkenness as disgusting and pitiable. Now we are in danger of relaxing on legislation to enforce sobriety, with the result that evasion of the law is regarded as a clever joke to be applauded rather than a crime to be condemned. Nobody wants the old time saloon back, but many people dislike and hate the bootlegging substitute."

JAMES A. STILLMAN AND HIS WIFE ARE REUNITED

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Fowler McCormick, son of Harold F. McCormick, Chicago financier, will be pictured in The New York American tomorrow as the unknowing "God from the machine" who brought about the "psychological changes" in the lives of James A. Stillman and his wife, Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, which led to their reunion and their present "second honeymoon" aboard the steamship Olympic.

To Fowler, whom Mrs. Stillman told the newspaper was the "man who taught me how to fight" the former Fifi Potter has given credit for effecting the change in her mental attitude that made reconciliation with her husband possible after their years of bitter court fights.

But Fowler, also, was the one who prevented for six weeks, the final reconciliation, Mrs. Stillman said that the young man who had aroused her to "a realization of herself" heard of the advances her former banker husband was making and her intentions of accepting, he opposed the step strenuously on the grounds that it "was too great a concession" to make.

Mr. Stillman, he held, having been vindicated in his husband's long suit for divorce, and being hopefully confident of winning her own suit for divorce filed recently, was abdicating just when she was able to "give the knock-out blow and dictate terms."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Bay Rum Was Seized

HONOLULU, Feb. 7.—(AP)—An autopsy completed late yesterday revealed that the death of six soldiers at Schofield barracks recently, was caused by their drinking bay rum, which contained wood alcohol, and that the containers were unlabelled. The military authorities said they found the bay rum was sold at the post exchange. The entire supply was seized.

BUSINESS GENERALLY IS BETTER THAN A YEAR AGO

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Confidence in the business outlook remained unshaken last week in the face of conflicting trade developments. Activities in some of the public industries were reported to be slackening but this development was offset by tangible evidence of improvement in other quarters. Conditions during the first month of the year generally were more satisfactory than a year ago.

Despite lessening interest in stock speculation and a smaller movement of commodities, January bank clearings, according to Bradstreet's tabulation, exceeded those of December by about $142,000,000, establishing a new high record. The total for the country as a whole was more than three per cent. above that of January, 1925, and was exceeded only once before. With the turn of the month, the stock market showed promise of resuming its upward movement which was interrupted in January and investment funds continued to pour into the bond market at a rapid rate.

Reports from the steel industry indicated a definite slackening of new buying and the pace of mill operations. Shipments in January, it was estimated, exceeded new business, pointing to the possibility of a slight decline in the volume of unfilled orders at the end of the month.

Despite fears that automobile companies would have difficulty in keeping up with last year's record business many manufacturers reported the best January on record based on sales and shipments.

That the depression in the textile industry has not been entirely overcome, however, was indicated by the ommission of the Pacific mills dividend for the first time in about forty years.

RUSSIAN INVENTS RAY THAT WILL DESTROY AIRPLANES

LENINGRAD, Russia, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Professor A. N. Boyka, of the uRssian magnetic observatory, announces the invention of an apparatus which, by means of the reflection of powerful rays of heat, will destroy airplanes, or dirigibles while they are in flight. His appliance, he says, will project concentrated heat waves a distance of 25 miles, losing only one-third of their previous strength.

Professor Boyka asserts that his invention puts the mysterious "Mathew's Rays" in the back ground, and his intention is to offer the invention to the Red army.

Inventors in several countries have put forward claims since the World war on mysterious "ray" devices with which they insisted death could be dealt at varying distances to opposing personnel, or destruction to armament. In every case the claims failed to stand up under official test.

The alleged invention of H. Grindell-Matthews, an Englishman, gained the widest publicity in April, 1924, he announced the perfection of a "diabolical ray" which would prevent the operation of aeroplanes in a wide area. The British government, after exhaustive tests, declared it harmless.

Grindell-Matthews came to the United States in August, 1924, and under tests by American experts, the "ray" failed to harm even mosquitoes in the Long Island marshes, where it was tried out.

Edwin R. Scott, an inventor of San Francisco disputed the Britisher's claim to the death ray invention, asserting he was the original discoverer of the apparatus. He subsequently offered his invention to the American government but his request to be permitted to test his rays on airplanes and ships was declined.

C. C. RITZ, 42, ELOPED WITH 16-YEAR OLD GIRL

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The New York York American will say tomorrow that Charles C. Ritz, 42, son of the founder of the Ritz-Carlton hotels, eloped on Friday with Miss Elizabeth Pearce, 16, of Forest Hills, Long Island, only to have his bride taken from him by her mother when they returned for the parental blessing.

Mrs. Clifford Pearce, the girl's mother, is said by friends to have threatened annulment proceedings. Reports that such a marriage was favorably regarded by Mrs. Caesar Ritz, widow of the hotel builder, had been in circulation for some time, but it was said that Mrs. Pearce obtained a promise from Ritz not to attempt to marry Elizabeth until she was 18.

Ritz was visiting at the Pearce home on Friday when he and Miss Pearce went out, presumably for an automobile ride. Now we are in danger of relaxing on legislation to enforce sobriety, with the result that evasion of the law in regarded as a clever joke to be applauded rather than a crime to the condemned. Nobody wants the old time saloon back, but many people dislike and hate the bootlegging substitute.."

EXPANSION IN PRODUCTION WOULD REACT ON FARMERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Declaring the farmers generally are in a better position today than at any time since 1920, the department of agriculture, in a statement tonight on the farm outlook for 1926, said that "any general expansion in production this year would tend to place farmers in a less favorable economic position than at present."

There was little likelihood, the department said, of a larger domestic and foreign demand for agricultural products. On the contrary, there were indications of a possible decrease in the demand the latter part of the year.

"No reduction in farm wages may be expected," it was added, "and the cost of farm equipment will probably remain at present levels. Sufficient funds will be available for agricultural credit in most regions at about the same rates as in 1925."

SENATOR CHAMBERLAIN REPORTED SERIOUSLY ILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A doctor and a nurse were called tonight to the bedside of Former Senator George E. Chamberlain, of Oregon, who was reported to be seriously ill.

Reports that Mr. Chamberlain, who headed the senate military committee during the trying days of the World war, had suffered a stroke of paralysis and was dying could not be confirmed since orders were left at his hotel that the family was not to be disturbed.

Watchman Beaten to Death by Burglars

Silk Goods Valued at Several Thousand Dollars Stolen in New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Four negroes were arrested tonight on a charge of slaying William B. Young, a night watchman, in a silk loft, following a clue given police by Miss Mary Pinyon, check girl in a supper club.

Miss Pinyon noticed four negroes loading silk loot into a taxicab while on her way home this morning and notified the police.

The watchman's head was crushed and a jimmy was found near the body. Silk valued at $3,000, was stolen.

SATISTICS OF EARNINGS OF CLASS ONE RAILROADS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The bureau of railway economics, maintained here by the railroads, announced tonight that class one carriers during the year 1925 earned on their property investment, as computed by them, a return of 4.33 per cent. The Net operating income of these roads—the income left after paying operating expenses, taxes and equipment rentals, but before interest and other fixed charges are paid—was placed at $1,136,973,477 against $986,844,996 in 1924.

This increase, the bureau held, was due not only to additional freight traffic, but "also to increased efficiency and economy in the operation of the railroads, largely the result of enormous capital expenditures made during the last four years."

The bureau made public these figures: 1925 gross operating revenues $6,186,608,566 against $5,987,662,225 for 1924; operating expense $4,583,246,375 against $4,659,764,310; maintenance expenditures $2,093,617,038, an increase of about $30,000,000; and federal, state and local taxes, $363,262,000, an advance of $15,717,000. Of 14 of the carriers operated at a loss, five were in the eastern district, one in the southern and eight in the western.

FAMILY OF EIGHT WERE OVERCOME BY COAL GAS

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Death, in the form of soft coal gas fumes, was robbed of eight victims early this morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Swenson, at 398 Grove street, when their seven year old son, Rudoiph, was awakened and his cries aroused other members of the family. The parents left their bedroom to go to their son's aid but the mother collapsed on the way. As other members of the family awakened they each lapsed into unconsciousness until only the father was conscious. He managed to stagger to a telephone and call a doctor who found him in a semi-conscious condition when he reached the home. Eric, 13, and Florence, 17, were taken to the City hospital for treatment. The family said that the chimney which contained much soot and that the soft coal, caused the near tragedy.

TO ANALYZE MATERIALS OF COLLAPSED FOUNDRY

NEW BRITAIN, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Samples of concrete, brick and other materials were taken to police headquarters today from the ruins of the North and Judd foundry, which collapsed Thursday, killing eight men, to be analyzed as a step in the investigation into the catastrophe being conducted by Prosecuting Attorney Joseph G. Woods.

The tangled mass of steel and bricks, the clearing away of which was halted yesterday by order of the prosecutor, was photographed from many angles today. Tomorrow the engineering department of the city will make a survey of the walls which remain standing to find their elevation. Specifications are to be turned over to the prosecutor.

Senate to Start Drive on the Tax Bill Today

Are to Meet at 11 A. M. And Stay in Session Until 10 P. M. Till Bill is Passed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Mangers of the $352,000,000 tax reduction bill will start a drive tomorrow calculated to bring about passage of the measure by the senate before the end of the week.

For the first time this session, the senate will be asked to stay in session at night, Chairman Smoot of the finance committee announcing today he would continue a program of meeting at 11 a. m., and quitting at 10 p. m., until the bill is passed.

Both republican and democratic leaders have insisted that the bill should be passed this week so as to assure tax reduction by March 15, when first tax installments on 1925 incomes are due.

Only one of the three major controversial provisions of the bill has been fought out so far—reduction of the maximum surtax rate to 20 per cent. A vote on another, proposed repeal of the provision allowing publication of tax payments, will be asked tomorrow after which the fight is expected to center on the third main point—proposed repeal of the inheritance and gift taxes.

In this connection, the treasury department today made public statistics showing that $110,758,934 was collected from the inheritance, or estate tax as it is termed in the bill in the calendar year 1925, as against $106,381,220 the previous year.

New York state, with $44,018,420, reported the highest collections. Pennsylvania was second with $10,037 158! California, third, $7,562,555; New Jersey fourth, $5,773,676, and Massachusetts fifth, $5,700,015. Nevada reported the lowest.

Although confident that the recommendation of the finance committee for repeal of the inheritance tax will be approved by the senate, proponents of the provision privately admit they do not expect the house to agree to such action in the end.

Treasury statistics showed also that $105,773,054 was collected the last calendar year from the corporation capital stock tax as against $82,989,103 the United States has voted to repeal the capital stock tax and to offset the loss by a one per cent. increase in the corporation tax of 12 1-2 per cent., effective on incomes of 1025 and payable this year.

House leaders also have served notice that they are strongly opposed to repeal of the capital stock levy on the basis of making up the loss in revenue through an increase in the corporation tax.

LOST RACE WITH DEATH TO BEDSIDE OF MOTHER

FITCHBURG, Mass., Feb. 7.—(AP)—A race with death has been lost by Harold H. Holden, of this city. His mother, Mrs. Mary Holden, has died while the steamship speeding her son to this country from Russia, is still two days out from New York.

MUSSOLINA WARNS GERMANY AGAINST ANTI-ITALIAN WORK

Italian Premier Warns Germany That Fascist Italy Can, if Necessary, Carry Her Flag Beyond the Brennen Frontier, But Never Backwards From Where It Flies Now—Was Provoked by Recent Speech of Dr. Held, the Militant Bavarian Premier, Who Called Upon All Good Germans To Help Them Fellow Countryman in Southern Tyrol.

ROME, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's speech in the chamber of deputies yesterday, in which he warned Germany against the anti-Italian campaign carried on in the Reich, was characterized frequently in political circles today as almost equivalent to a declaration of war against Germany. All day long Mussolini's words of warning were discussed, and his speech was declared to be one of the best, certainly the most significant, of his International statements since the Curfu incident. All the newspapers agreed that the speech was such a thorough going embodiment of the spirit of Fascist Italy that comment was considered superfluous, almost impossible. But the Tribuno di Roma and Messaggero lengthily analyze its international significance.

The Ultra-Fascist Impero, in triple headlines says: "No comment on Mussolini's speech; it is necessary that it remain with us in its nude Roman potency," but it spreads across its full sheet a quotation from another of the premier's addresses: "Brennero is not the point of arrival, but the point of departure."

The fateful words which were uttered by Mussolini in the thronged Italian chamber were an unmistakable warning to Germany and had particular reference to a recent speech of Dr. Held, the militant Bavarian premier, who called upon all good Germans to help their fellow countrymen in Southern Tyrol, now under Italian sovereignty by virtue of the treaty of St. Germain.

Mussolini's speech was remarkable for its detail and clearness and gave the fascist premier another chance to display his knowledge of fascist diplomacy of direct action, and this he did with old-time fervor, much to the approval of the fascist deputies.

The climax of his tirade against Germany came at the end, when he exclaimed:

"Fascist Italy can, if necessary, carry her flag beyond the Brenner frontier, but never backwards from where it flies now."

Mussolini launched into the subject of the present relations between Germany and Italy at the request of Rosorto Farinacci, his lieutenant and general secretary of the fascist party.

Irony and comedy enlivened the dramatic oratory of the premier. He created much laughter in referring to the German complaint of the alleged removal by Italy of the monument of the German poet Walter at Bolzano, which charge he declared was an untruth, adding that while Herr Walter's poetry was quite mediocre, his monument was still standing. But the Italian people by public subscription would build a monument to Cesare Battisti, the Italian patriot, who was executed by the Austrian in the World war.

"It is a lie also that the monument to Empress Elizabeth at Bressanone was burned down. You may have heard of concentrations of fascist expeditions, and in the German newspapers you could read horible descriptions of violence committed against German tourists, you hear of apologies which this Italian government was to have addressed to the German embassy in Rome regarding anti-German manifestations by students. All these are stupid lies.

"But if all that was not sufficient to cause what the Germans call 'stimmung' feeling not sufficient to gratify what they call 'gemuetlichkeit' (contentment)—knowing their half materialistic and half weeping sentimentalism (laughter)—they invent the fable of how the tyrant Mussolini forbade the erection of Christmas trees by the Germans in the upper Adige. This, too, is a life, idiotic and ridiculous."

The premier went on to discuss the threat of a possible boycott of Italy by German tourists, and declared that nobody should have the delusion of conquering Italy in this way, and he added: "If tomorrow this boycott should become effective and formidable, and with the tacit consent of the responsible authorities, we will accept this boycott in the square, and our reprisals will not be in the cube. Sometimes it is necessary to pay with two eyes for the loss of one, and with a whole set of teeth for the loss of one tooth."

With reference to Dr. Held's speech in the Bavarian diet, in which Premier Mussolini quotes him as saying—"We must do all we can to ameliorate the situation in South Tyrol, and all who can must support the Germans in the Upper Adige, and I myself protest in the most energetic manner against the brutal violences in South Tyrol" Mussolini exclaimed: "I declare that this speech is simply unheard of—unheard of from a diplomatic point of view, for even before the war there was never a question of German South Tyrol. The treaty of St. Germain (between Italy and Austria) gave us that territory, and in that territory we simply apply our Italian laws. That which the Roman Italy has done is nothing compared to what other nations have done. Today even Czechoslovakia enforces the use of the Czech language among the Germans and German newspapers there.

"Let us ask what Pan-Germanism would have done to us in case of a German victory. Germany would have demanded large territorial and mohetary indemnities and the compulsory use of the German language even in outright Italian speaking regions. They would have expelled all irredentists, confiscated their property and installed German schools. That is what would have happened to Italy from those who protest.

"To the German nation, we say, as we say to all peoples, the fascist people want to be your sincere friend, a friend by looking in your eye, a friend with your hands up, a good friend, but outside of 'kultur'.

"I wish I could be understood by all who should understand my words, so that the Italian government need not pass to a more concrete reply. This would be given tomorrow if the German government assumed responsibility for that which has happened and which may happen in Germany."

RAID OF A DISORDERLY HOUSE IN FAIR HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A raid by police last night on an alleged disorderly house in Fair Haven, led to four arrests, to the recovery of goods stolen in Branford last Thursday and the seizure of nearly forty gallons of alcohol in Fair Haven and to information which resulted in another raid in East Haven.

Three policemen entering the house occupied by Mrs. F. L. Webster, in Fair Haven, arrested her and two men, Frank Pisani and Louis Durso, both of East Haven. Searching the house the officers found between thirty and forty gallons of alcohol and two expensive radio sets and a supply of radio tubes which were identified as goods stolen from J. T. Sliney, of Branford.

The men, who, police said, confessed to the thefts of the articles, are being held for further investigation. Mrs. Webster is being held under bond of $2,000 on a liquor law violation charge.

POLICE ARE USING TWO TOBOGGAN AMBULANCES

QUINCY, Mass., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Snow is so heavy here that police have bought two toboggans to be used for ambulances.

The city hospital is on a hill, and the street leading to it is impassable with drifts. Ambulances bringing patients to the institution are halted at the foot of the hill where firemen with the sleds meet them, and the patients are transferred. Before the police hit upon the toboggan idea stretcher bearers met emergency cases.

MEMORIAL GIFT TO BOSTON DICKENS' FELLOWSHIP

BOSTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The fireplace from the Charles Dickens suite in the historic Parker House, where the author received his Boston friends on his visit to this country, has been presented to the Boston Dickens' fellowship. It was preserved when the hotel was razed recently, at the suggestion of Mrs. De Forrest Danielson, who as a little girl was one of those to meet the creator of the Pickwick Papers. It is planned to add the fireplace to other Dickens' mementoes and place them in the Boston Public library.

WALLINGFORD MAN CHOKED FOLLOWING COUGHING SPELL

WALLINGFORD, Feb.—(AP)—While eating supper last night, Andrew Toth, 57, choked on his food and died following a coughing spell. His death occurred before a physician could answer a call. Although the man had had heart trouble for several years, the medical examiner said that death had been caused by choking. Toth is survived by two sons. He had been living with one.

GOING TO PROPAGATE CLAMS, SCALLOPS AND MUSSELS

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Science has stolen another march on Mother Nature. It has learned how to propagate from egg to adult little-neck clams, soft-shelled clams, scallops and mussels.

The New York state conservation commission, which last September announced that it had successfully domesticated the wild oyster and was raising it by hand, so to speak, in the Glen Cove hatchery, has also turned the trick of bringing up the other varieties of shell fish.

Propagation of clams and scallops in the fishery tanks, the commission explained today, was only a logical step from the foundation lead by William Firth Wells, conservation biologist and sanitari, who perfected the oyster culture work. So far the various stages in the raising of these additional dinner table specialties have been isolated, but the commission asserts that with adequate equipment it can turn out shell fish of all sorts that will never have known the native haunts of their forbears.

"In other words," said Mrs. Wells, "we are in a position to start a shell fish genealogy, never before has it been possible for a little oyster to know who its parents were, to say nothing of its grandpa and grandma. Now, however, we have some lusty youngsters at Glen Cove that have a real family tree and that can claim descent from the first artificially propagated oysters the world has ever seen."

The conservation commission believes that Mr. Wells' discoveries will not only assist a failing industry—for the business of taking shell fish constantly becomes more precarious because of the uncertain supply—but will also increase a very desirable food.

FIRE EXPLODED BULLETS OF WORCESTER POLICEMEN

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Flying bullets set off by the heat from a fire in a row of lockers containing policemen's clothing and equipment provided firemen with a dangerous blaze at police headquarters here this afternoon. Cartridge belts containing shells burned and more than 100 pullets went off. The firemen braved the bullets and put out the fire with chemicals.

SCHOOLS AND THEATRES CLOSED BY SCARLET FEVER

LEBANON, N. H., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Schools, churches and theatres here are closed while the local health authorities are fighting further spread of a scarlet fever epidemic. Forty three cases of the disease have been reported.

Even many outlying districts in this section awoke broke through the snow [illegible] Sunday for the first time since the blizzard last Thursday. Many back roads in the towns of Ashford, Hebron, Scotland and Hampton were choked with drifts six or more feet high and several farmhouses continue to be marooned. In the "Windhams" there are many residences off the main highway which have not been reached by automobiles. The J. Raymond Smith home in Windham Center is among these.

Four mills located in the deep woods were completely isolated by the storm. For over two days Frank A. Phillips of this city, who operates five saw mills in nearby towns failed to get word from three of them. He rested satisfied, however, that the men were hot in need.

The business section of Main street was dead on Sunday morning due to the excellent work of the city street department. Superintendent Gord inaugurated his force of men. As fas the fall Thursday it was plowed off into the gutter. Friday and Saturday every available man was on the job and Sunday morning Main street was clean. Assisted by mild weather and some sunshine the last vestige of the storm had practically disappeared on the thoroughfare by noon Sunday.

George Neff, 65, representing Tolland county, was declared winner of an old-time fiddlers' contest staged here at a local theater Friday evening. Thirteen contestants sought the honors for their respective towns. Mr. Neff won the district and county championship at Rockville about one week ago. The town of Windham was represented by Henry W. Fray, 68, Hallerville; Jonathan F. Whitford, 78, Eastford; Joseph Superneault, 56, Putnam; Henry Richardson, 68, North Windham; Eugene Cote, 65, Willimantic and Fred W. Cunningham, 74, Willimantic. The seven entrants on the Tolland team were: James Doherty, 66, Rockville, Asher N. Read, 61, Rockville; Arthur Wood, 55, Mansfield Center; Patrick Breen, 60, South Coventry; Frank Blish, 65, Hebron; Frank M. Hall, 55, Mansfield Hollow and George Neff, 63, Tolland. The total ages of the thirteen entrants was 810 years, an average of 62 years.

F. Frank Cunningham was master of ceremonies for the evening. The judges were Robert E. Fletcher, orchestra leader, Joseph F. Gaudreau, director of St. Mary's church choir and James Haggerty, old-time connoisseur of string instruments. Those who played in the finals were, Frank M. Hall, George Neff and Frank Blish of the Tolland team and Henry Richardson, Jonathan P. Whitford and Eugene Cote of Windham. Cote and Fray were deadlocked for second place and the former named victorious. The final awards were, George D. Neff, first; Eugene Cote, second; Frank Blish of Hebron, third. Master of Ceremonies Cunningham presented the prizes. A feature of the program was the appearance of Leonard Davis, eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Davis of this city. The child played the following selections on the violin in a remarkably finished manner: Pal of My Cradle Days, Let Me Call You Sweetheart and Gavotte in A Minor.

The three gypsy fortune-tellers, Katherine Kreuse, 36, Mary Marka, 30 and Angeline Kreuse, 26, all married, who were placed under arrest Friday afternoon by County Detective William H. Jodoine and Constable Alfred P. Alix were presented in police court Saturday morning and ordered to leave town at once after their cases had been settled on the payments of costs. They paid the assessment of $18.16 and said that they would start within a short time for Worcester, Mass., which they claim to their home. The three women

With an old-fashion square and contra dance contest as a program of feature entertainment a well attended dance was held at the town hall Friday evening by the Youth's Welfare association of St. Mary's parish. Orchestral music was by the Melody Boys. James Connolly prompted for the old time numbers. The dance sets were headed by John B. Ethridge of Eastford and Fred Thompson of this city and each danced three old-fashioned figures. Howard Green acted as prompter for the Eastford set and E. B. Howlett for the local team. The judges, Edward Lounsbury, James Conolly, and Arthur West awarded the silver loving cup to the Ethridge team. After taking his prize Mr. Ethridge issued a sweeping challenge to any old-fashioned dancing set in New England to engage in a contest with his team.

The committee in charge of the dance the proceeds from which will be devoted to furnish year-round sports for local youngsters, was composed of Edward N. Grenier, chairman; F. J. Bergeron, secretary; and Louis C. Vegiard, secretary.

James Friery, always a good fellow at heart but known as a terror to the police when drunk up to some few years ago when demon-booze broke his great strength, gave himself up to the police here late Saturday as a vagrant. For some years he has alternately made his home in this city and Putnam. Friery, who has been a trusted inmate of Brooklyn jail on various occasions is expecting to return there this Monday following a hearing in police court.

Alistair Macgregor of Scotland, who died at St. Joseph's hospital last Thursday afternoon was born in Yankton, South Dakota, August 3, 1890, a son of John L. and Lillian Fuller Macgregor. PLAINFIELD

At a recent meeting of the Plainfield grange a very interesting programme was rendered as a memorial to Abraham Lincoln. A light attendance was recorded on account of the bad weather. The lecture hour was in charge of Lecturer Mrs. Irene Genereux.

Howard Wilcox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Wilcox, of Plainfield street, is working in Providence and is living at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Warner.

Rev. W. C. Prentiss and Rev. George H. Reese attended the conference of ministers, held at the Congregational church at Putnam. Dr. Charles L. Goodell, the secretary of the Federation of Churches of America, representing the 28 denominations gave a very interesting address. The session was attended by all the local ministers and an unusually large audience.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Prentiss of Holyoke, Mass., were visitors at the home of their brother, Rev. W. C. Prentiss for a few days this week.

A large delegation from Plainfield attended the Plainfield High School vs. Killingly basketball game and witnessed one of the most exciting games of the season. Much interest was centered on this game as it is considered the feature game of the season.

Sunday will be observed as Lincoln Sunday at the Congregational church and the Lincoln club will attend the morning service in a body.

Traffic was entirely closed on the state road until a late hour Friday and several of the roads around the village are still closed on account of deep snow drifts.

The fourth anniversary of the Lincoln club will be observed this Monday evening at the meeting to be held in the vestry of the Congregational church. A supper will be served by the O. J. S. society and Rev. Charles H. Rickets of the Greeneville Congregational church will be the speaker. The subject of his address is to be The Moral Grandeur of Abraham Lincoln. A musical program has been arranged by the entertainment committee and special music will be rendered by the Lincoln club quartet.

At the afternoon session of the town court on Friday Edward Greene, of Plainfield, was found guilty of a charge of selling liquor and was fined $50 and costs. An appeal to superior court was taken and Judge Torrey released Greene on bonds of $300. He was arrested on Sunday Jan. 31 by Officer Urquhart of the state police barracks at Danielson on the evidence secured by James Low, a special officer of the state police force. This case will come up at the April session of superior court together with the appealed case of James Walker, for whom Greene is a witness.

James Greenhaigh of Plainfield, who was also tried before Judge Torrey at the same session on charges of selling liquor and maintaining a gambling place, pleaded guilty to both charges and was fined $50 and costs on the first and $10 and costs on the second, which be paid.

MYSTIC

At the Union Baptist church Friday evening the monthly covenant meeting was preceded by a business meeting, at which time four deacons were elected. Those elected were J. Harold Thorp, George S. Richmond, Albert L. Wheeler and Elmer C. Hall. In this church the deacons continue in service during their life, unless they resign. It is planned to have the younger ones assist the older ones, some of whom feel they cannot always be present. The church clerk, Mrs. Julia B. Coates, read the minutes from the records of the five elections held since the two churches were united, August 31, 1861, forming what is the present Union Baptist church. The following is a correct condensed report that will be of interest to the younger members. At the time of the union of the Second and Third Baptist churches of this village, August 31, 1861, forming what is now the Union Baptist church, three deacons from each church served until the first business meeting February 3, 1862. At that time four deacons were elected. Albert Edgcomb, George N. Wright, William H. Potter, Nathan G. Fish. The second group of deacons were elected February 1, 1868. These were Horace Clift, William H. Smith, Leander Wilcox, John Gallup Just one of these is living, Horace Clift. The third election was held January 4, 1886, when Robert P. Wilbur, J. Alden Rathbun and John O. Fish were chosen. All of these have passed on. The fourth group were elected July 15, 1896, being Elias F. Wilcox, Louis P. Allyn and John G. Packer. Mr. Packer passed away three years ago. The fifth election took place January 5, 1919 when Manning M. Miner, and Jesse H. Wilcox were the choice of the church. The sixth election in the 64 years of the United church was this recent election. The difficult traveling kept many away but those present were all united and a spirit of harmony prevailed. A few other items of business were transacted and after prayer all went up into the auditorium to see it lighted up with the new electric fixtures. Three chandeliers hang from the ceiling and are of the latest design. It is planned to have a reducation service when the reconstruction work is completed, when the new deacons will be welcomed into their new duties. Men are expected today (Monday) to commence setting up the organ. The church is looking forward with bright hopes for the future. Deacon Jesse Wilcox was present for the first time since his accident last November.

Mrs. Carl C. Cutter has been confined to her home with a severe cold since her return from Florida.

Seneca Eldredge and son, Junior, of New York, are visiting their cousins, the Misses Emseline and Jessie Fish, on New London road.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Griswold and Mrs. Adelaide Griswold, were visitors in New London Friday.

Charles E. Cameron has been confined to his home by illness the past few weeks.

The boys and girls had skits and sleds out since the snow. Some are getting quite proficient on the skits and enjoy the sport.

DANIELSON

HIGHWAYS ARE SLOWLY OPENING FOR TRAFFIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 7.—The process of digging this section of eastern Connecticut out of the snow banks continued during all of Sunday, and when hundreds of workers had finished an arduous day much remained to be done. However, great progress had been made by nightfall. The route from Danielson to Hartford and from Danielson to Providence was open. Motorists said the going between Danielson and Providence was very bad in places, but it was possible to get through. On the Hartford route conditions were vastly improved and reports had it that state trunk lines were open all the way to the western part of the state.

Things were no so good to the south. The Connecticut company had suspended service between Danielson and Norwich, as to through trips, though coaches were covering the territory between Danielson and points in Plainfield. On the flats south of Bishop's crossing a section of highway for an approximate distance of 1500 feet had drifts from four to six feet in height. Machines were getting through, but the Connecticut company did not regard conditions down there sufficiently safe to handle the usual traffic. The line, it was said Sunday afternoon will be in operation again Monday morning.

During Sunday crews of men with trucks and horse-drawn sleds were clearing the snow embankments from Main street. This snow was hauled down to Franklin street and dumped off the bridge into the Assawaga river. There was a mountain of it in the river bed when the day's operations came to a close.

Over near the Ennis place on the route between Danielson and Brooklyn a crew of men was engaged all day Sunday in digging out huge drifts. There was an open lane: a one way route, through which traffic was moving from early morning and by nightfall this had been materially widened. There were no delays to traffic on account of the operations going on there. A state highway plow was working in the district all day. The route to Hartford will offer few if any serious delays to traffic this morning.

East of here Rhode Island crews worked all day Sunday improving conditions for travel over the route to Providence. This route is still strewn with stalled cars, or was Sunday, some of these machines having been tied up since last Thursday. One hears tales of the hard battles that many a motor car driver waged with the storm in many cases with the storm the victor. A public service operator got his machine back to Danielson from Providence Saturday afternoon after having been held in the Rhode Island city since Thursday. His car chewed up three sets of chains under the harrowing efforts to get through, an effort that had to be abandoned in the height of the storm.

Motor coaches were getting over the route between Danielson and Providence Sunday, but the traveling was not too good and some of the coaches carried men with shovels to aid as might be required in getting them out of hard going.

People out in the country districts within a few miles of Danielson are still snow-bound. It is not an unusual thing, one hears, to meet a man riding horseback along these routes in a sortie for mail or provisions. The drifts are so high in some places that even a sleigh cannot be used.

Six years have elapsed since any snowstorm caused the traffic tieup and other inconveniences that Thursday's near-blizzard brought. Some roads in the outlying sections are worse than others. The gale played strange pranks in distributing the burden of snow. It favored some places and was rude to others.

A checkup Sunday afternoon indicated that considerable progress had been made in breaking out numbers of country highways, but there are many more to receive attention. It now seems likely that a full week from the time of the storm will be required to get traveling conditions back to the winter normal.

MANY CHILDREN SAMPLED FIRST HOME BREAD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 7. — Danielson experienced a near bread famine over the week end. This was due to bread manufacturing concerns being unable to get their trucks through from Providence, Norwich, North Grosvenordale and other communities that serve Danielson with its daily ration of the staff of life. It appears that bread making has become something of a lost art with hundreds of Danielson housewives. They buy their bread ready-made, as they do their candy, their hosiery and their house dresses. A situation like that developing Friday was a bit disconcerting to them, not that most of them are incapable of making bread, but because they have sort of lost the knack of it and have to stop and think twice before going ahead with the recipe. However, no one starved to death. Danielson has bakeries of its own and they boosted their production to relieve some of the special demand made upon them. In many a home utensils long in disuse were brought out and put into service. Be it said that much excellent bread was produced, and mention of this carries no hint of disparaging the bread now generally served from bakers in the households of Danielson—and surrounding communities. With travel lanes again open, Danielson will get its regular ration of bread from out-of-town today. It is likely this also will be true in other communities on the routes that the trucks cover in serving Danielson.

The town of Killingly will be very much interested, because it has a subsidiary of the great concern, in the consolidated balance sheet of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company for the year ending December 31, and just made public. This statement shows that the Goodyear company, owner of the Goodyear Mills, Inc., of this town closed the past year with a surplus of $30,659,893, and that the twelve months were the most successful in the history of the corporation. The earnings of the company the past year were $21,000,000. The corporation has assets of $193,237,022. A detailed statement will be available for stockholders, numbers of whom are residents in this town, within a short time. The splendid showing of the company during 1925, is certain to be very pleasing to them.

Since 1930, when the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company weathered the greatest financial storm in its history, it has made a wonderful recovery and is again one of the most successful and greatest earning corporations in the country.

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of his son, William B. Potter, in Brooklyn, funeral services for Joseph K. Potter were conducted by Rev. John R. Pratt, of the Brooklyn Congregational church. During the service William H. Brown sang in the Sweet Bye and Bye. The bearers were William B. Potter, Sherwood B. Potter, J. Dyer Potter, Dr. F. T. Baldwin of Putnam. The body was entombed at the South cemetery in Brooklyn. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

A great mass of snow, sliding from a section of the roof in the rear of the town hall building, crashed onto a fence and knocked it over. The snow incidentally filled a newly excavated path that Chief John McFarland arranged to be dug out, and this required that the work be done all over again.

Business men reported a reduced volume of trade on Saturday, and charged this as largely due to the difficulties of travel. While roads were open to some of the communities that make Danielson a trading center, not many people ventured to chance travel under the difficult conditions.

Motorists are inclined to criticise people who take to the roads when there are good sidewalks available, but they can hardly apply their criticisms at many points in Danielson where property owners have not as yet died of exhaustion from digging out the walks. While the majority have cleared their walks and done a very good job, there are others who have left them untouched and show no signs of cleaning them.

Members of the Ladies' Reading circle are scheduled to meet with Mrs. A. C. Greene this (Monday) afternoon.

Friday of this week brings Lincoln's day, an event that is observed in the schools of Killingly each year with patriotic exercises. There will be a general display of flags in town.

Scores of men have earned welcome revenue since last Friday clearing walks and highways of snow. The town and the state have had crews of men engaged in this work and much more was available from individuals.

Patches of bare ground were showing Sunday afternoon, after several hours of thawing weather, on stretches of state highway that had been scraped almost bare of snow.

Barbara L. Krugen, new state secretary of Girls' clubs in Connecticut, will be presented to the members of the Danielson club Tuesday evening when she comes here to visit the organization. Tuesday also will bring the drive for new members to a close. The contest has been under way for some time between club members divided into two teams captained by Miss Catherine Brennan and Miss Mary Peters. At a whist held by the club the past week first honors were won by Miss M. J. Mendell. Other honors went to Mrs. H. J. Briere and to Mrs. A. E. Williams.

Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department has made a survey of the streets of the borough to note their condition and inform himself as to any difficulties that might be encountered in getting heavy apparatus to any given point in case of fire. Chief Woodward said Sunday afternoon that he believed the apparatus can get to any part of the borough with the snow removal work that has been done and continues under way. As a precaution and to meet any emergency there is a sleigh loaded with hose at the central fire station and there has been for several days.

At Baliouville Sunday morning the death of Mrs. Emily LaRose, 42, wife of Eli LaRose, occurred. The couple have no children. Mrs. LaRose was a native of England, but had been a resident of this country for years.

Who Is Your Skinny Friend, Ethel?

Tell him to take Cod Liver Oil for a couple of months and get enough good healthy flesh on his bones to look like a real man.

Tell him, it's the only way to take those grave-like hollows from his cheeks and neck.

Tell him he won't have to swallow the nasty oil with the nauseating fishy taste because the McCoy Laboratories of New York, are now putting up Cod Liver Oil in sugar coated tablet form.

Ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. Lee & Osgood and every druggist sells them—60 tablets—60 cents. Any man or woman can put on five pounds of healthy flesh in 30 days or your druggist is authorized to refund the purchase price.

One woman put on 15 pounds in six weeks. Children grow robust and strong—Feeble old people feel younger in a few weeks.

Be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine and avoid imitations.

NOANK

Mrs. Ruth Newell, teacher at Mystic oral school is home for a few days.

Coasting on Prospect hill is being enjoyed by the young people of the village. Many double rippers and sleds were in use and the coasters travel beyond the railroad tracks.

O. Jenesen has been discharged from the coast guard station at Watch Hill and has returned to his home in the village.

Daniel McCarty of Bridgeport was in Noank Friday.

A large porpoise was recently washed ashore at Groton Long Point. It was first seen by carpenters working around the shore. The porpoise weighed about 100 pounds and was the first one seen around here in several years.

An auto owner in a sedan car got stuck on Prospect hill Friday afternoon. The steering gear broke and the car had to be towed to the nearest garage.

Roy Abate is in New York to attend the wedding of his cousin. Mr. Abate is to be best man at the wedding.

Frank McDonald is visiting with relatives in Stamford.

Edward Mahoney of Montville was home over the week end.

Judd Adams has returned home from Providence.

The condition of Capt. Joseph Sistare remains about the same.

It may take nine tailors to make a man, but one bookmaker can break him.

PUTNAM

R. F. D. ROUTES STILL BLOCKADED BY SNOW

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 7—Postal service on the rural free delivery route out of Putnam was almost cut out during Friday and Saturday. One of the Woodstock carriers had to leave his car in a snow drift and make his way back to the state highway carrying his mail. The car remained where it was until Friday afternoon. Bert Bosworth, who has part of Woodstock on his route, did not attempt to cover it for two days. Bertrand Andrews made a trip every day through the Thompsons but did not attempt the cross roads. He left the mail for certain sections to some one on the state roads and he telephoned the people to whom it was addressed.

It will be several more days before the routes can be fully covered.

The funeral of Wesley Luster, colored, took place Sunday from his home on Railroad street, and was conducted by the Rev. Nathan D. Burton, of the Methodist church. The bearers were Worth Howard, Gerald Harris, Frederick Randall, James Lee and Robert Shaw. All but the last are from Norwich, members of the colored lodge of Odd Fellows, of Norwich, with which Mr. Luster was connected. uBrial was in West Thompson cemetery.

Putnam is digging itself out from under the storm that left it bound in snow last Wednesday and Thursday. The streets in the business section has been cleaned and the residential streets hav been gone over with scrapers so that automobiles and horse drawn vehicles, mostly sleds and sleighs, may traverse them. All of the highway busses are running again but off the state roads the snow is still several feet deep. Postal rural carriers can only cover a part of their routes.

The heavy closed-in automobile of Clarence Cleveland, owner of the mill at Quinebaug, Conn., was towed through Putnam, Saturday afternoon, to the home of its owner at Quinebaug, from Wauregan hill, where it had been "parked" for two days and a half. Mr. Cleveland said that he had no fear of its being stolen while left alone as he had exhausted every effort to extricate it from the snow drifts. There were six other cars that were in the same plight in the same locality, a mute reminder of the ferocity of the blizzard that prevailed for 30 hours in this vicinity.

Lombards & Sons have filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy with a United States commissioner at New Haven. Their market was in one of the store rooms of the Stombelis block that was damaged by fire last week. but their store had been closed for six weeks. They list their liabilities at $8,886.97 and their assets at $1,585.35. One of the largest creditors is the First National bank, of Putnam, now in the hands of a receiver, which had loaned them money on an endorsed note.

The building at the foot of the Phoenixville hill, that for many years, long before the coming of the automobile, was used as a general store by the late Simeon Wheaton, has been destroyed by fire, entailing a loss estimated at from $2,500 to $3,000. To every one in the vicinity, Wheaton's store was one of the landmarks of the main traveled highway. After his death several years ago, a new store building was erected just around the corner and the old structure was converted into tenements.

The funeral of Mrs. Edward Arnold, who died Tuesday at her home in Georgiaville, R. I., was to have been held in the cemetery at West Thompson on Friday. Leon S. Walker left here Friday morning with a motor hearse, for Georgiaville, but it was evening before he returned to Putnam. Committal services were postponed until Saturday.

Nearly every motor car driver who tried to drive from Putnam to Providence, Thursday or Friday, had to give up the attempt. A number of solesmen used automobiles during those two days over the Putnam and Providence highway. On reaching the Rhode Island line they turned back. Some went to Danielson and tried that road but were blocked when they reached the borders of Little Rody.

The Putnam Rotary club members who went to Danielson, Thursday night, to attend the Charter Night of that club, had a strenuous experience They got there in fairly good time by way of a public service bus but they came home in a caboose of a freight train.

The honor list for the Thompson Hill school for the month of January is as follows: Ninety to one hundred per cent., May Law, Alfred Broughton, George Vegman, Elna Jensen, Alexander Maitland, Jr., Arthur Ware and Grace Withey. Eighty to eighty-nine per cent., Jennie Brobot, Elois Logee, Esther Stevens, Elna Law, Elizabeth David Sherry, Vincent Kaminski, Latham Morse, Sarah Ballard, May Withey, Helen Johnson and Raymond Smith.

Exalted Ruler James E. Murray and Past Exalted Ruler Lucous P. Merriem attended the meeting of the Past Exalted Rulers' association, B. P. O. E., of Connecticut, which was held at Meriden. Mr. Murray became a member of the association at that session.

Captain Mae Pilling, of the Salvation Army, has returned from a visit with friends and relatives at Hartford.

Walter LaCroix, of Hartford, has been visiting relatives, in Putnam.

JEWETT CITY

CALLED TO MIND WORST FIRE SEEN IN BOROUGH

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 7—An item in the Fifty Years Ago column in Saturday's Bulletin, telling of the memorable trip of the old Norwich fire company to Jewett City, proved to be the incentive for many stories and reminiscences here, as the older residents recalled the fearful incidents connected with Jewett City's biggest fire. Just fifty years ago this week, a little past midnight on Saturday morning, William Harvey, who watched the boat train at that time, in accordance with state law, discovered fire, with a good start, in the basement of the Hutchinson and Stead store, a flat-roofed three story wooden building, that stood on the present site of the Congregational parsonage.

Mr. Harvey ran up and down the streets shouting and pounding on the doors, first having awakened John R. Tracy's family, who lived in their home, on the same foundation where John H. Tracy's house now stands.

People slowly awoke and turned out, for it was a bitter night to discover a great fire already roaring through the Stead building and far beyond bucket brigade control.

The Second Congregational church, then of wood, replaced during the second summer following by a brick structure, was the first building below where the fire started. Away up under the overhang of the eaves, this fine edifice ignited from the intense heat, then it went out, only to kindle again and in less than an hour it had burned to the foundation. Meanwhile on the northside, the J. R. Tracy house was a mass of flames. At this time, when it seemed the whole village must burn, Norwich was asked for aid by the selectmen.

The late James O. Sweet and the late John Fitch, by superhuman effort and from the roof of the house now owned by Dennis Barnett, checked the flames further advance toward the south.

These men were kept drenched with water by others with pails, while they lay along the ridge pole, and kept putting out the little blazes that kept breaking out in the shingles.

On the north side of the Tracy house, stood the residence of Andrew Ensworth. Ready hands draped all its side toward the fire with heavy old fashioned rag carpets, which men tore up from the floors inside. These kept drenched with water passed up from the G. A. Haskell well in the rear, finally stopped the northern advance. By now, the company arrived from Norwich with 5,000 feet of hose, 20 men and the old Wauregan on a flat car.

The engine wasn't unloaded, the nearest water they could have pumped from was the Pachaug river, at the Ashland bridge. The men were ready, willing and anxious to help, but the awful menace to the town had been conquered by man power alone.

John Fitch lived in the house now owned by Miss Beauregard. His wife was sick unto death in her bed. Phineas Boyle, proposed to get powder from the Slater mills, and blow up Fitch's house.

John Fitch, then took his stand by the side of his dyng wife, shouting "If you blow my house we go up with it." Men came and moved Mrs. Fitch, bed and all, across the way to the George Wilcox house, while her husband fought the fire. The loss was then figured at $40,000. Were the same buildings to burn today, the loss would be with reckonings baed on the present cost of construction, close to $100,000.

P. St. M. Andrews, superintendent of the Norwich and Worcester railroad, gave a clear iron, and Dan Preston, made the run wit hthe Norwich engine from Ferry street to Jewett City in 15 minutes.

FIDDLING CONTEST CONCLUDED A DRAW

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 7—The audience which filled Finn's theater to its capacity Friday evening was rewarded with a real treat. An old-timers fiddling contest was teh attraction and it was contest was the attraction and it was City may well be proud of the three old time fiddlers who took part in the contest—Coler Tatro, Edmond Bechard and George Rathbun. The contest began with each of the fiddlers playing the same two tunes—"Turkey in the Straw" and "The Irish Washwoman." Then each contestant was allowed to play a number of his own selections. These included many of the well known old time tunes, such as Arkansas Traveler and Fisher's Horn Pipe with many others too numerous to mention. The winner was to be determined by the applause of the audience, but it was soon evident that it was to be a very difficult task to pick a winner. The applause was so evenly divided between Mr. Bechard and Mr. Rathbun, that each of them was forced to play an extra tune to see if a winner could be chosen. Even then the applause was evenly divided. The management then announced that instead of giving one first prize as had been planned, that two first prizes would be awarded, one to each contestant and that another match will be held in the near future between these two fiddlers, for the purpose of picking a winner. At that match, a committee of three judges will select the winner.

The managers are planning another fiddling contest in the near future, at which time any fiddler under the age of 60, that plays by ear only, is to be eligible.

J. C. Creamery, stockholders meeting, Thurs. Feb. 11.—Adv.

On Sunday Eino Kerjala of Pachaug, made a trip to the borough on skis, with push pikes and all, in true Apline fashion. He took only eight minutes from his home to F. H. Gilbert's.

Old friends were greeting Jeremiah Sullivan Saturday. Formerly a resident of Jewett City, now of Providence, Mr. Sullivan had been in Norwich to attend the funeral services of Mrs. Mary Healy. Forty years ago Mr. Sullivan was one of the leading tenors in this end of Connecticut. Many here now can recall his great success here, when in local small theatricals he sang "Oh How is the Major Gilfeather?"

Sunday the Connecticut busses were only able to run shuttle service between Jewett City and Norwich. This morning, (Monday) the regular schedules will be resumed.

Now- we all know

The formal 1926 exhibits of new motor-cars have been made. The veil has been lifted from new productions. The plans of builders of competitive cars have been disclosed. Mrs. Winifred Hansen, who has been spending the winter in Boston, has returned to spend the remainder of the season with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Alcott.

Parker P. Baldwin, Civil war veteran, who has been seriously ill, is somewhat improved.

Mrs. Harry C. Cross is in the Middlesex hospital, receiving treatment for an abscess in the ear, the result of a severe attack of the grip.

The East Haddam grange celebrated its 39th anniversary Wednesday, Feb. 3rd, a dinner was served at noon and the meeting was held in the afternoon.

Mrs. George Champion, who has been quite ill, with throat trouble, is improving.

Mrs. A. D. Smith has been entertaining her sister, Miss Emma Stark.

ROAD SOCIETY

Miss Mollie Palmer has gone south for a stay of some weeks with friends in Tampa, Orlando and St. Petersburg.

Arnold Marshall, of M. I. T., was guest of A. G. Wheeler over Sunday.

Mrs. Emmeline Allen of Quiambaug, who has been ill with rheumatism for some weeks, has improved so much, that she is about the house and will leave for Westfield, Mass., soon, for a visit with relatives.

Miss Emyline Billings of Mystic, was recently an over night guest of her cousin, Miss Linda Wheeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Wheeler spent an evening recently with Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wheeler at the borough.

Mrs. F. C. Dixon attended the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Mills, at Hopkinton city, last Sunday.

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth Patten of Old Mystic and Middletown, was held last Tuesday with burial at Elmgrove cemetery.

Harry Flood of Potter Hill was at Maple Lawn on Monday.

Mrs. Seth N. Williams and Miss Grace D. Wheeler were in Mystic on Wednesday and attended the meeting of Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R., held in Masonic hall. Miss Wheeler gave a talk on historic rocks.

KEEP HYDRANTS UNCOVERED

During the season of heavy snows and cold weather, especially when there is much of the beautiful on the ground, the advice is invariably excellent which urges extra care in the guarding against fires. There are various dangers which it is well to keep in mind and avoid. There are precautions which can be taken well in advance of bad weather and these accompanied by a reasonable amount of care in running fires and the use of inflammables the number of fires can be kept at a minimum.

The heavier the weather the slower must be the response of the fire department. Adverse conditions botner the firemen quite the same as others, and for that reason some attention needs to be given during the days of deep snow and street and sidewalk cleaning to the hydrants.

It doesn't help the firemen a bit to have them buried in snow. They are neither aided in locating them or in making connection with them by being forced to dig about in a man or storm made drift to get at the fire plug.

For the most part the failure to shovel around a hydrant or the covering of it with snow from the sidewalk or the street is done thoughtlessly. Hydrants are not used as often as the sidewalks or the streets but when they are needed they ought to be where the firemen can get at them without loss of time in digging them out. It is not improbable that certain hydrants would be kept free of snow after every storm throughout the season and not be needed. That might represent needless work but for the fact that there is no telling when the hydrant is going to be required and it is far preferable that the small amount of time required in keeping it free of snow should be given than to fail to do it and suffer from the effects of delay.

It only requires a brief time to take many precautions of this character but they pay large dividends when it comes to the prevention of delays or even the prevention of fires.

FLYING REGULATIONS

Flying machines are not exactly numerous these days in this neck of the country. The situation is far from being the same as that which surrounds the automobile, but there is need nevertheless for establishing rules for air travel and the standard aeronautic safety code which has been drafted and approved is a logical outcome of the situation.

In this code are the traffic regulations, rules, signals, pilot qualifications, requirements as to design and the provisions concerning manufacture, testing, operation and equipment of all kinds of aircraft.

As the sailing vessel is given the right of way on the ocean, so the balloon is given the right of way over all aircraft, the dirigibles and planes being treated alike. Machines are required to observe the rule of keeping to the right and two machines are expected to keep more than 1500 feet apart in order to insure safety.

Rules of any kind, whether they concern the sea, the highway or the air call for cooperation. Regulations are intended for observance and for most persons the knowledge of their existence and what they are is usually sufficient to insure compliance.

One might suppose that with all the great outdoors to fly in there would be no need for getting in each other's way, and there probably would if there was care but those doing stunts, those taking chances and those who are inclined to show little respect for the rights of others always make regulations necessary.

Making regulations and enforcing them are not the same thing. In connection with aviation it is pointed out that all fliers must know the importance of respecting the rules for when there is an accident in the air all hope should be abandoned. And yet it might be also pointed out that those who are killed at railroad crossings know what they can expect when care is lacking and yet they continue to get in the way of trains and are swept into eternity. Some such drivers can be expected to guide airplanes and endanger self and others even though there are regulations.

THE DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

If the holding of the disarmament conference at Geneva depends upon the settling of the differences between Switzerland and Russia relative to the killing of Vorofsky, a Russian representative at Geneva, and the decision of Switzerland not to apologize or pay an indemnity is final, the prospects of a conference at Geneva that will include Russia dwindle. Russia has maintained that it will send no other delegate to Switzerland and it seems likely to stick to its decision. Concerning that there might be little interest outside of the two countries if it were not so that Russia's participation is desired in the disarmament conference.

Russia, it is to be realized, is the big and powerful nation that would make it impossible for other nations to disarm unless it also agreed to similar action. The fear of Russia has kept others armed and constantly preparing for their protection. Whatever is done in the way of disarmament must be done jointly.

The attitude of Switzerland doesn't make the conference impossible but it does make it necessary to hold it elsewhere than in Geneva, or in any other Swiss city. Russian participation in the conference would not by any means mean Russian dominance. In fact it might not mean Russian agreement, but in a matter to which all of Europe should subscribe there can be little thought of leaving out the biggest country and expect to have other nations ignore the fact that it has and is ready to use its powerful war machine.

Shifting the placing of the conference would not adjust the differences between Russia and Switzerland, but it would eliminate the Russian objection to attendance that now exists. The evident finality of the Swiss decision should be the signal for the league of nations to get busy and pick out a new meeting place. One of the reasons for further delay has been removed and it ought not to be expected that Russia will be left out because of its differences with the government at Berne.

SPEEDING TAX BILL

When Senator Smoot insists that the senate works nights in order to speed up action on the tax bill, he is being driven to it by the tactics of those who are seeking to delay action or trying to force action against the committee report and in all probability a substantial majority of the upper house.

He is entirely correct in forcing the senate to long hours in order to get action upon the measure in which the whole country is interested and which needs to be passed this week in order to provide sufficient time for the conference that must follow with the house and the arranging, printing and distributing of the tax blanks upon which the taxpayers must make return by March 15.

Let the opponents express their views. There is no other desire, but that does not mean that they should resort to methods which are intended to cause delay and prevent the early action which is sought.

There are those who are given to obstruction, if they can embarrass they are happy. By some curious method of reasoning they seem to regard that as doing their duty. Even when they are fully aware of the fact that they cannot succeed, because the majority is opposed to them, they are unwilling that the senate should be allowed to vote upon certain measures. There is no justification for such action. If the invoking of the cloture rule is necessary again let it be applied but it is to be hoped that the night sessions, or possibly the threat of such a step, will be sufficient.

The tax measure should be moved along as rapidly as possible. The senators have their minds made up and the country wants the benefits which will be contained therein.

AMERICAN SHIPPING

When Chairman O'Connor of the shipping board makes his "appeal to the American exporters and importers, well knowing that enough cargo in the hold and enough passengers on the deck will make a permanent American merchant marine, and nothing else will do it," he takes the very same stand that an English importer did when he demanded that his goods be shipped in English ships and nothing else.

A large part of our exports and imports are still going in foreign bottoms. There was the time before the war when we depended almost entirely upon foreign vessels for such purposes, and those were the days when we were hollering for an American merchant marine.

Now that we have the vessels which can be kept busy, although we have too many which cannot be, we still find that foreign competition is serious and it is not surprising that the chairman of the shipping board directs attention to the matter. What he says doesn't apply solely to the government owned vessels but to merchant vessels in private hands.

Rates are what invariably govern when it comes to shipping. While the English may demand the sending of goods in their vessels regardless of the rates, the American attitude is not always developed along such lines. Repeatedly it has been shown that we want a merchant marine, but we don't seem to want to pay what is required under our laws to meet foreign competition and thus keep it going. Our shipping laws do not help in this respect and there is no disposition to support a subsidy that would make up the difference in the rates.

WOMEN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Many hostesses add a whole clove and a slice of lemon to a cup of tea, to improve the flavor.

Delicious afternoon tea sandwiches are made of cream cheese and nuts on brown bread.

For an open sandwich of broiled ham and poached egg, try a cream sauce containing chopped muahrooms.

A cloth dipped in linseed oil and wiped over polished furniture will greatly improve its appearance.

The white meat of a roasted turkey or chicken will be much better if the bird is placed breast down in the roaster.

A little dried lemon rind added to an apple pie, gives it a delicious flavor.

A little glycerin rubbed around the glass stoppers of bottles will prevent them from sticking.

A large glass baking dish when overturned on a platter makes a good airtight container for cake or bread.

Jewelry should be dried in jeweler's sawdust after cleaning. The sawdust may be bought in boxes from jewelers.

Sift flour before measuring it. Otherwise it will be too tightly packed and the amount used will be too much for the recipe.

Instead of risking cracks by placing dishes to warm in the oven, wash them in hot water, dry and put on the table at once.

Rinse glassware in hot water containing several teaspoons of household ammonia, to produce a high polish. Dry it with a soft cheesecloth towel.

Before removing a soiled table cloth and napkins look for fruit stains and put camphor on them, then wash the same as any white goods.

A kettle holder to which is attached about a yard of tape is very useful when one is working in the kitchen. Tie the tape to your waistline and then the kettle holder will be ready at hand whenever you want to take anything hot from the stove.

LESSENING THE WORK

Many housewives have more kettles and saucepans to clean than there is any necessity for. In the many cases when canned vegetables are to be used without creaming they can be heated by putting the unopened can in boiling water for fifteen or twenty minutes. Butter and other seasoning can be added after the food is poured into the dish in which it is to be served. In this way it is possible sometimes to prepare an entire meal without using any kitchen utensil except the large kettle in which the cans have been boiled.

MAKES GOOD POLISH

Candle ends when too small for further lighting purposes should be placed in a jar and melted down, then mixed with sufficient turpentine to make a soft cream and used for polishing linoleums and stained floors.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Ear ache is extremely common among infants and little children. The slightest exposure to cold or draughts may cause great pain to a child too small to explain "where it hurts."

Water abstracts the natural oil from the hair, so that people whose scalps are deficient in oil should be careful not to wash their hair to death. Once every three or four weeks should be sufficient to keep dry hair clean if it is brushed well every day.

If you're blessed with thoroughly healthy hair, brush it for half to three-quarters of an hour the night before the shampoo. This stimulates and loosens the scalp, and induces a generous supply of oil, which might make the hair too greasy if it were not shampooed soon afterward.

Don't let the baby play with talcum powder cans or the can of stearate of zinc. The box may not be tightly closed and baby might inhale some of the powder. Stearate of zinc if taken through the nose and mouth into the lungs is likely to prove fatal.

CARE OF HANDS.

The greatest cause of chapped hands in winter is strong soap. Soap may be excellent for washing dishes, and not too strong for clothes if properly used, may be ruinous to hands. The fact is that a soap selected merely because it is good for household cleaning is never kind to hands, and a soap mild enough for hands is not strong enough for all kinds of housework. You must strike a compromise somewhere along the line.

A good thing to do is to use a fairly mild soap for dish washing—a soap that you would not consider too strong for a bath. Have on hand some stronger soap—some of the soap powders are excellent for this purpose. When you have any sticky dishes or pots and pans make use of this soap, but do not touch it with your hands. Have a spoon ready for this purpose. Once you get in the habit of looking on these things in this light the matter becomes easy. You certainly ought not to discard a good soap powder or scouring material just because it hurts your hands when used carelessly. Ammonia is unkind to hands. But it is possible to use ammonia frequently and not let it touch your hands at all. For cleaning wash basins it is excellent. You can pour tablespoon in the basin of water and then with a little dish mop kept for that purpose clean out the basin and the edges of the bowl. Then rinse out the mop thoroughly before touching the hands to it.

SLIP COVERS.

We all enjoy covering our good furniture with slip covers during the summer, but did you ever think of making an attractive cretonne slip cover for the shabby chair that is tucked in a corner and not thrown out because it is so comfortable? It would not cost nearly as much as having it upholstered and yet would present a very nice appearance.

BOTTLE CLEANING.

Mix soapy water and coffee grounds together and pour into the soiled or discolored glass water bottle. Let stand for a while, shake vigorously every now and then and finally wash and rinse. Splendid results.

REMOVE THE BUTTONS.

When covering a discarded piece of underwear into a duster or cleaning cloth, be sure that the buttons and hooks and eyes are all off and avoid nasty scratches on floors and furniture.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The accepted bodice for spring is the straight or slightly tucked one.

The simple slipon glove is still the choice of the really smart woman.

The draped crown, whether it has a brim or not, is the important feature of the new millinery.

Georgette is a highly favored fabric for party frocks for little girls, sharing honors perhaps very evenly with taffeta.

If all the coats could be counted it is believed that numerically the flares and straights would come out exactly even.

For sport wear there are very modernistic looking frocks of jersey printed in geometrical designs that are extremely amusing.

A simple headdress is in the form of an agrafe composed of alternate sections of black onyx and rhinestones.

The latest flat envelope bags are decorated with one or two bars of one's favorite melody. Those tunes are chosen which are accompanied by words so familiar as to make it unnecessary to reproduce them.

Evening head dresses of bandeau are becoming much more elaborate. They give the appearance of massiveness even if they are light in weight, even though they are encrusted with jewels either real or synthetic.

Applique work assumes a place of importance in laces and various treatments of this idea are featured. All manner of combinations are exploited, an interesting example being a cream lace with applique of taffeta outlined in contrasting color or in gold.

Shantung and tussah silks in white and pastels strike a high style note among the blouse fabrics. Checked silks are newly featured. Most pronounced in the sense of being staple, is the use of flat crepe and crepe de chine, with radium and silk broadcloths included.

NEW STYLES CALL FOR MODERATE TINTS

Reversing sharply the bright, sometimes violent colors of the last seasons, the new silks will bring back the pastel shades with more vitality.

The first things for spring, brought out to meet the requirements of the Palm Beach season, will be done in entrancing violets, mauves, greens and turquoise blue. In some of the floral designs the most delicate and the richest of all the motifs, an occasional top note is introduced in the vivid Russian colors, with a startling and artistic effect.

In these floral designs there is a great variety. Some are large with the conventional flowers and leaves one sees in ecclesiastical embroidery. Some have dainty quaint little posies sprinkled over delicately tinted background. Others are printed in flowered borders.

LINGERIE FOLLOWS STYLES

Styles in lingerie keep up-to-the-minute pace with fashion in dress. The boyish bob and knickers are matched with the pajama night suit; and the tight, straight line frock is slipped over little underthings, still are snug and straight.

SEWING HINTS

Sew a tiny tape on the wrong side of a garment before you embroider a buttonhole scallop. This makes a firmer finish.

Large sheets that have become worn in the middle should be torn in halves and what were the two outer edges joined together. The shabby part, which is now the outside, should then be trimmed away and the raw edges neatly hemmed.

When stitching on fine materials on the sewing machine, don't take a chance of the sheer material puckering, but place strips of paper under it and stitch through the paper as well. The paper will pull off when finished, leaving the sewing perfectly smooth.

A most convenient method of holding a ball or spool of cotton while crocheting is to pin your handkerchief to the four corners fast to your skirt, and then slip your ball into the little pocket thus formed. The cotton will pull easily and keep clean, and there is no danger of its rolling away.

A BOUDOIR CAP

The ordinary boudoir cap is not becoming to every woman. In fact, a mob cap usually suits only the very young or the frankly old. But here is a simply made cap that is delightful for those of the many "in between" years.

Take half a yard of ribbon four inches wide and make a neat hem at each end. This forms the center of the cap from forehead to nape of neck. Then two lengths of lace are required, each 25 inches long and 4 inches wide. Gather each piece into a rosette, pulling the center quite tight. Join each rosette neatly and invisibly one either side of the center headpiece. There should be no gathers on the outer edge of the rosette resting quite plainly on the edge of the ribbon. This leaves about 6 inches of each rosette to form the lower edge of the cap. Sew a wee posy of flowers in the center of each ear piece, and, if desired, tiny flowers may be sewn at intervals where the lace joins the ribbon.

THIS PIN CUSHION IS QUICKLY MADE

A useful little pin holder can be made very quickly and very attractively. Use an empty powder box for the foundation and cover it with a piece of chintz, cretonne or ribbon. Attach the material to the box with glue or paste, and bind the edges with tape or narrow ribbon.

KEEP THEM APART

All fruits and vegetables will keep better if laid separately on the shelf. Then the over-ripe will not contaminate the others nor will one article spoil many more.

SOGGY CRUST

The mixture of the pastry may be correct but the pie not cooked quite long enough and the result—sogginess. The pie should be baked thoroughly and browned well to be insured against this condition.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Women who can claim to be the best workers in their trade will be honored with a Legion of Honor medal by the French government.

Thirty-six million women from 24 nations will be represented at the sixth quinquennial convention of the International Council of Women to be held in Washington next May.

Four women have won the "Rome prizes," entitling them to reside at the Villa Medici, a Rome school under the French Academy, followed by one year of travel study.

Proofreading is the most lucrative employment for women workers in New York city where they earn $63 a week for 45 hours at night and $60 for day work.

Miss Judiah C. Waller of Chicago, first woman radio broadcaster, has a scrapbook of clippings, telegrams, letters, etc., commenting on the way her station sent out President Coolidge's Harding memorial address and will present the book to President Coolidge.

Nearly 9,000,000 American women work for pay. There are over 1,000,000 in the professional class, 21,300 in the public service, 1,500,000 in clerical positions, 2,000,000 in manufacturing pursuits, 1,300,000 in domestic service, 1,000,000 in farming occupations, 5,300 bankers and brokers and 14,000 insurance agents and real estate sellers.

MAKES GOOD PACKING

If there is any danger of water pipes freezing, wind or pack them with old newspapers. They won't freeze easily then.

CORDS EASILY MENDED

When your cord on the electric iron becomes worn and frayed try bandaging it with adhesive tape. It will last months longer.

RECIPES

Bacon Fritters: Bacon fritters make a savory side dish for luncheon. Cut quite fine six slices of cold fried bacon and mix with one tablespoon of grated onion. Cut the crust from half a loaf of stale bread, soak for a few minutes in cold water, squeeze dry and crumble quite fine, mixing it with the fine crumbled inner portion. Season highly with salt, pepper and a pinch of powdered thyme, add four tablespoons of melted suet or dropping and mold into small flat cakes, flouring them well. Fry in a pan in a little hot dripping.

Brown Veal Knuckle: Purchase a meaty veal knuckle. Cover it with boiling water, add half a teaspoon of salt, a small white onion stuck with two cloves and a dozen peppercorns and simmer slowly until very tender. Transfer to a dripping pan, cover the top with very thin slices of larding pork and brown in a quick oven. This will take nearly an hour. Make a gravy with the pot liquor, using browned flour to give it color.

From Small Beginnings

John Lowe, Tutor of the Washingtons

In the days of the Colonies, schools were few and far between. In the largest settlements the schools were poorly equipped and poorly taught. There was no regular system of education, and no unified public support of schools. Prosperous families often lived on great estates, remote from neighbors. Such people were obliged to employ private teachers for their children. That was the case with the Washington family.

For their day, the Washingtons were landed proprietors, and lived on their estates. When George Washington visited one of his brothers he found there a young Scotchman, named John Lowe, who served as tutor. The family took an unusual interest in the Scotch youth, for John Lowe was an unusual man. In a time when education was hard to obtain he had obtained it by his own efforts. His father had been only a man employed to work in gardens, but somehow the boy had developed the wish to become something higher than a gardener. He had borrowed books, studied hard, and had finally sent himself through Edinburgh University. Then, filled with ambition and willing to meet adventure or to wrestle with fate, John Lowe left Scotland, and went to the American colonies. There he found work as a tutor, finally securing his position with the Washingtons.

Meanwhile, in his lonely hours, far from home and people, he wrote poetry that has come down to us, still carrying its quaint appeal. One of the saucy Colonial girls flirted with him until he fell desperately in love; then she left him for another man, higher in station. In a sort of revenge he married her sister. Thus into the life of the gardener's son there came ambition, struggle, advancement, adventure and love. That is the story of one of the first schoolteachers in America.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, selected as one of the chief technical advisers to the American delegation in the preliminary disarmament discussion at Geneva, is a veteran officer of the U. S. Navy and a former commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet. Admiral Jones was born in Virginia in 1863 and was graduated from the Naval Academy at the age of 21. He commanded the Scorpion, the Birmingham, the Tennessee, the Rhode Island and the Florida before reaching Flag rank. During the World War he first commanded Squadron 1 of the patrol force, Atlantic fleet, then division 4 and the Newport News division of the cruiser and transport force. In 1919 he became Vice Admiral of the Atlantic fleet, commanding the battleship force, and two years later was made commander in chief. Admiral Jones was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for meritorious service during the world war.

Stories That Recall Others

Near Sighted

The insidiously enchanting gown was merely a sliver slip of a thing. It gave it a sober sobriety, focused her feminity and made her one of the world's foremost contradictions.

But alas, the window decorator began to lift an arm from the model as the deft and debonair male pedestrian began to edge his way toward the curb. He was near sighted.

The Battle of the Deacons

There was some rivalry between the three denominations in the village, and the deacons, it was said, missed no opportunity to get ahead of each other. A visitor to the village who had heard of the rivalry got the impression that this feeling was being expressed in the services when he passed along the street Sunday morning and heard "Will There Be Any Stars in My Crown?" being sung in the first church, "No, Not One; No, Not One," in the second and the hymn being rendered in the third was "Oh, That will be Glory for Me!"

COPY OF GUTENBERG BIBLE TO BE SOLD IN AMERICA

A copy of the Gutenbe Bible, the first Bible printed with movable type and one of the most coveted bibliographical treasures in the world, is to be sold at auction in New York, according to announcement by Mitchell Kennerley.

Although cable reports were received last summer that this copy of the famous Bible, known as the Melk copy, might be sold in this country, it was not known until Wednesday that it had actually come to America and was to be offered for sale.

Mr. Kennerley said that he expected the rare book to bring at least $75,000. In 1923 the Rosenbach Company paid $43,350 for a copy of the famous Gutenberg Bible at a sale in Sotheby's in London. At the Hoe sale in the Anderson Galleries in April, 1911, Henry E. Huntington paid $50,000 for a copy on vellum.

The Melk copy is so called because it was owned for 300 years by the Benedictine Monastery of Melk, Austria. The monastery recently decided to sell the book and sent out notices to book dealers. It was finally obtained by Edward Goldston, London book dealer. Last summer when Mr. Kennerley was in London arranging for the transfer of the Leverhulme collection to New York, Mr. Goldston offered the Bible to him for sale in this country.

This may be the last perfect copy of the Gutenberg Bible ever to come on the market, Mr. Kennerly said. The books said to be four times as rare as the first folio of Shakespeare. Some forty five copies of the Gutenberg Bible are know, of which more than twenty are imperfect. Only four other copies (and two single volumes) are still in private hands. One of these is imperfect and two are practically promised to public libraries.

The Melk copy, which is said to be perfect, is in two volumes, bound in brown calf, about 1700. Other copies of the first Bible printed by Gutenberg are in the New York Public Library, the library of the General Theological Seminary and in the private collections of J. P. Morgan, Henry E. Huntington and Joseph E. Widener.

Miss Julia S. Groo, of Portland, Ore., who won a national essay contest, which netted her a $25,000 prize has had 400 proposals to share her luck for the rest of her life.

CONTPACTING BAD DEBTS SIN OF THEFT, SAYS PRIEST

"Whoever contracts a debt which he has no intention of paying, or knows he will not have the ability to pay, is guilty of the sin of theft—hence violates the Seventh Commandment," declared Rev. Myles P. Galvin, preaching at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday. Father Galvin was continuing his instructions on the Commandments, particularly the Seventh, "Thou shalt not steal." It was Sexagesima Sunday, the epistle read in all the masses being 2 Corinthians 11, 19 to 12, 9, while the gospel was Luke 8, 4-15, the parable of the sower. Father Galvin spoke of the Seventh Commandment as differing from all those which precede it, from the fact that while God forgive infractions of the other six on confession of sorrow and promise of amendment, the Seventh demands besides contrition the promise and performance of restitution.

Briefly, if a child steals, and is unable to restore what he has taken or kept, his parents or guardians must make restitution. That which is given back by any thief if not the actual article stolen, must be its full equivalent in value. In case the thief would make restitution, yet the person whose goods he has taken be dead, the equivalent must be given to his heirs. If the theft has been of money, the original sum with full interest must be given back. In case it prove impossible to find the person from whom one has stolen, the obligation remains just as binding; the goods or money taken must be given to the poor, to some worthy organization, to the church—for full restitution must be made. A just God will not forgive injustice to one's neighbor, through taking or keeping that which it not one's own. Complete restitution must be made and at once, if possible.

Later, Father Galvin assisted Rev. John J. Reilly, who had read the low mass, in giving holy communion to the usual large number of men, women and elder children; the 1926 confessions in this parish are evidently starting out to make a new high record, as hundreds every Saturday afternoon and evening seek the advice and ministrations of the three "physicians of souls" whom the bishop has placed in charge of this great parish.

During the services the Junior choir sang the hymns very pleasingly, directed by Organist Henry J. LaFontaine.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Henry Wilson

After an illness of some duration, Ellen Slattery, wife of Henry Wilson, died Saturday afternoon about 2 o'clock at her home, No. 99 Franklin street. Mrs. Wilson was born in Ireland but most of her life had been lived in this city. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Antone Martin, a sister Mrs. John Halpin and a half-brother, James Barry, all of Norwich.

Mrs. Wilson was well known and had many warm friends who deeply regret to hear of her death. She was a member of St. Patrick's parish.

FAILED TO CONVICT WITH MIRROR TESTIMONY

Testimony drawn from a mirror failed to convict Joseph A. Burr of New London on a charge of reckless driving when he was arraigned before Deputy Judge Frederick W. Jacques in Waterford town court Friday. Burr was arrested on the afternoon of Jan. 29 by State Policeman Joseph J. Bobnick of the Groton barracks.

According to the arresting officer, Burr was driving along the New London-Norwich highway and was trailing a large gasoline truck and another automobile when he pulled out of line and passed the two machines. The state policeman passed the defendant just before the latter turned out to pass ahead. The officer stated that he saw Burr's action through the mirror in his automobile.

Burr testified that at the point where he passed the two machines, he had about 300 feet of clear vision ahead and that there were no other machines approaching. Deputy Judge Jacques ruled that the defendant be discharged.

YOUNG BOSTON ATTORNEY SPEAKER AT CHURCH

Donald Sleeper, young Boston attorney, who is one of the national officers of the Young Peoples Christian Union, was the speaker Sunday morning at the Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist), when the services were conducted entirely by the young people as the final part of the observance of young peoples' week.

The church service was carried out as follows: Invocation, Miss Hattie Fowler; responsive Psalm, Miss Hattie Fowler; alternate choral responses, John Bell; prayer, Hugh Laird; first scripture, Miss Alice Parsons; announcements, Miss Betty Pike; offertory, Miss Betty Pike; hymns, Miss Helen Hannigan; benediction, Hugh Laird. The ushers were William Mitchell and Lester Crowell.

UNDER ARREST ON SUSPICION OF SETTING FIRE TO HIS CANDY STORE

Charged with arson, Zesse Costwles, also known as Besses Costules and more commonly as "Charlie" is at liberty under bonds of $3,500. His case will be taken up at the city court session Tuesday morning. The arrest of the man followed after a fire of incendiary origin had been discovered early Saturday morning at his store, The Olympia Candy Kitchen, No. 20 Town street, Norwich Town.

It was about 3:15 o'clock Saturday morning that the fire department was called on for help at the candy kitchen fire. Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft and Callman Forest Lewis responded from the central station and the Yantic fire company also responded. Upon arrival the firemen found that William H. Kinney, owner of the property, Michael Bulkley and William House were fighting the blaze with pails of water. The fire was well under control and it was but the work of a few minutes to extinguish it. A peculiar odor was noticed in the store and in one section of the store three or four small paper cartons containing liquid were found. The cartons were set about six feet apart and were connected with wicking. Under each container was a box of matches. Part of the matches and containers was destroyed by the fire but there was evidence enough to indicate that the place had been set on fire.

The local police were notified and as the store is outside the city limits Constable Lucius Fenton was notified by the local police. Constable Fenton conducted an investigation. The liquid proved to be alcohol and there were two cans of ether with holes punched in the tops. The alcohol, containers and ether were taken in charge by Constable Fenton.

About 4 o'clock Saturday morning, Constable Fenton and Officer John Dunion of the local police force, arrested Costwles at his home on Forest street, getting him out of bed. He was taken to police headquarters and locked up on a charge of arson. When he was presented in court Saturday morning the case was continued until Tuesday morning, bonds being set at $2,500. James Sellas furnished the bonds for the accused who formerly worked for Sellas as candy maker. Attorney Edmund W. Perkins has been retained as counsel for the accused man.

City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins with Constable Fenton visited the store after the court session. The fire was discovered by a group of young men who happened to drive by the store on their way to Norwich from Willimantic. They woke Mr. Kinney and neighbors and aided in putting out the fire. The damage to the building and contents is estimated at about $1,000.

Costwles denied that he had anything to do with setting the fire and knew anything about it. In speaking Sunday of his movements and people he had seen Friday night said that George Gorman was at his store until 10.15 Friday night, leaving about that time. Gorman was frequently at the store and a week ago took inventory for Costwles, the total being about $2,000. The accused man said he stayed at the store for about half an hour after Gorman left, leaving the store about 10.45, with the intention of catching the trolley car for the city at Harland's corner. But he missed the trolley and walked to the city, passing Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Taylor near the top of Broadway hill. He went to Sellas lunch where he met Mr. Gorman and then went home.

Costwles said that he had the door of his store fastened with a padlock besides the regular lock on the door, and he had been told by the firemen that the padlock was not on the door when they arrived but the door was fastened by the other lock. He said that the containers in which the alcohol was found were not the kind he had in his store.

O. C. Gardner said Sunday night that he saw Charlie closing up the store as Mr. Gardner rode by in the Colchester bus at 11.40 on the way to his home in Bozrah.

News of the arrest of Charlie had brought forth offers from several sources, it was learned, to testify for him as character witnesses. One of these who declared that he could not believe Charlie would set fire to the store told of Charlie being in business in Danielson about ten years ago, where he got into financial difficulties and failed. Instead of going into bankruptcy and compromising with his creditors, this man stated that Charlie went to work in the mill and eventually paid up all his bills in that way.

RESERVOIR WATERSHEDS ARE NEEDING MORE GUARDS

Several water companies in Connecticut have found it necessary to increase the size of their reservoir patrols during the past year in order to avoid trespassing on their property, according to the Connecticut committee on public service information. The public has invaded the sanctity of the watersheds more in 1925 than ever before it has been found. This situation is attributed by G. Y. Gaillard, president of the New Haven Water company, to the growing use of automobiles and the tendency of people to roam afield.

The increasing concentration of Connecticut's population in cities has led people to seek the "wide open spaces" whenever the occasion is afforded. The family piles into its auto and wheels off for a picnic in the country. Picnic spots and wild woodlands are becoming fewer each year, however, and are now difficult to find. Reservoir watersheds with their cool ferns and fragrant pines are indeed enticing to anyone seeking a picnic spot, and seeing no reason why they shouldn't be put to that use the family disembarks and settles down on the bank of a refreshing looking reservoir for the day.

Many fail to understand why this should not be permitted, but long experience has taught the water companies that the public health can easily be endangered when trespassers are permitted on the watersheds. Picnic refuse is always left behind, nuisances are committed, and the life of the pine trees is endangered by the building of fires beneath them. In order to prevent the danger of impure water and damage to watershed land, it has been necessary for the water companies to increase the number of guardians on their land and thus to protect the public drinking supply.

GROTON FIREMEN PLAN TO BUY THEIR OWN TRUCK

Unable to obtain an appropriation from the borough of Groton, the Pioneer Hose company of Groton will turn to its own resources to procure a squad wagon, according to plans formulated by the company at its monthly meeting last week. Action taken by the firemen in executive session consisted of authorizing the appointment of a committee to negotiate for the purchase of a truck. Foreman James A. Stitt was elected with power to appoint the committee.

The Pioneer company's apparatus at present consists of one truck with hose and chemical equipment. According to the firemen, when the apparatus is called out to the scene of a fire the truck leaves its quarters in Pleasant street before firemen have time to reach headquarters. This results in frequent shortages of men in fighting fires. It could be arranged with a squad wagon, they say, to send the truck out immediately upon receipt of the alarm, and then pick up the men with the auxiliary truck. The proposal to obtain a squad wagon has met with unanimous approval of members of the company.

Present plans indicate that the company will purchase a truck chassis from its own funds. Materials will be bought and a body will be built over the chassis by mechanics and carpenters who are members of the company.

Should the company succeed in its plan, it will have an independent apparatus which can be used in answering alarms from outside the borough limits. Under present conditions, the company must obtain permission from Warden George R. Hempstead, before responding to calls beyond the borough limits.

YOUNG PEOPLES UNION CELEBRATES WITH BANQUET

William S. Huber, president of the Young Peoples Christian Union of the Church of the Good Shepherd, was toastmaster, and the principal speakers were Miss Doris Barnard of Hartford, secretary of the state board, and Donald Sleeper of Boston, a national officer, at the banquet at 6.30 Saturday evening at the church in observance of young peoples week. Covers were set for 35 and an excellent menu was served. After the speaking programme an hour of games was enjoyed.

A Sunday paper pictured Master William H. Prothero, 3rd, member of Christ Church Vested choir, Norwich, son of Assessor and Mrs. Fred G. Prothero. It was noted that the boy's grandfather, the late Wm. G. Prothero of Greene avenue, Norwich, was at one time organist of Christ church, Hartford.

MAKING AUTO OFFENSES PROVE LOW MENTALITY

HARTFORD, Feb. 7—(AP)—One of the two broad lines the state is taking to cut down the number of motor vehicle accidents is to make its highway system so safe that only people of low degree of mentality need to be caught by conditions, says Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Stoeckel in a letter to Walter P. Chrysler, of the Chrysler corporation. The other is to bring up the mind quality of operation by education in the problems to be met.

These statements were made by Commissioner Stoeckel in response to an inquiry as to "the most important work Connecticut is doing to cut down the number of motor vehicle accidents," and a request for the enumeration "of two or three ways in which your state has reduced the number of accidents."

The first line, according to the commissioner, constitutes safety engineering and is being put into the Connecticut highway system by Highway Commissioner MacDonald "by straightening curves, by betterment of grades by preparation of sight lines for what the scientists call an assured clear course, by fencing and by almost every conveniable adjustment of highway for safety."

As to the latter method cited, the Connecticut motor vehicle department has, since its formation in 1917, made a specialty of attempting to get the problems of motor vehicle operation before the public in order that the public may understand the complications of traffic and, in general, keep ahead of the new problems constantly arising, the commissioner wrote. In view of this constant education of the public mind, through semi-weekly releases from the department to the newspapers public speaking on the subject, information in the department's monthly bulletin and special communications to the churches and public schools, it has become odius and shameful to be convicted of a motor vehicle offense, according to Mr. Stoeckel's reply.

Sang Negro Spirituals

At the Sunday evening service at the Central Baptist church the congregation heard with a great appreciation the singing of negro spirituals by Mrs. Genevieve Ray-Bethel, formerly a member of a large Philadelphia choir. The singer's selections were given with much feeling and in fine voice. She fir t sang two numbers, Swing Low Sweet Chariot and Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen. For the offertory she rendered Fear Not Ye O Israel. Later in the service she gave I Want to be Ready and after the sermon by the pastor, Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, she sang Go Down Moses.

FOOTBALL PAYS UPKEEP OF COLLEGE ATHLETICS

CAMBRIDGE, Feb. 7—(AP)—College football may be the much overemphasized sport that many contend it is, but nevertheless it is acting as practically the sole support of the long list of other scholastic sports, according to figures made public by the treasurer of Harvard university in his annual financial report.

Gate receipts for the 1924 football season totalled $557,157, of which $293,868 was a net profit. Baseball also showed a favorable balance, clearing $15,901 over expenses. Tennis courts made a profit of $1,747, but the varsity team ate up $3,000 in expenses.

From the earnings of the football eleven came the money necessary to support the varsity crew, track, hockey, soccer, squash, fencing, wrestling and the host of other minor sports which claim little or no paying attendance. Deficits of the crew alone amounted to close on $46,000, while track took in but $15,000 and spent three times that amount.

Basketball, which generally claims a goodly attendance took in but a third of its cost.

Of the total income from Harvard athletics for the 1924 season, amounting to $685,028.02, the football customers contributed over a half million dollars. The cost of all sports amounted to $632,738.56, leaving a favorable balance in excess of $52,000.

HOFF WILL TRY TO BREAK RECORD AGAIN

BOSTON, Feb. 7—(AP)—Charley Hoff, Norwegian star, isn't satisfied to have shattered the world's indoor vaulting record twice within three days. He's going to try it again.

That was the word that the man who cleared the pole at 13 feet, one and a half inches at the Boston Athletic association games last night left as he boarded the train for New York. He is to compete in the Newark games this week.

"I'm feeling fine," Charley told Albert Geiger, Jr., chairman of the athletic committee of the B. A. A. The athlete discounted stories that high blood pressure would affect his future activities. Geiger said Hoff considered the condition, which was announced by a physician who examined him while in training at Hanover, N. H., as nothing serious.

Hoff's feat last night has never been equalled in indoor competition. Competing against such a superb vaulter as Sabin Carr of Yale, the Norwegian not only broke the record which he had made two nights previous at the Millrose A. A. games in New York, but cleared the bar by six inches more.

He boosted his Millrose record by half an inch. The previous record had been an even 13 feet.

"I'm going to do even better," Hoff told admirers who surrounded him in the clubhouse at the conclusion of the games. The genial athlete speaks English with more than a fair degree of ease.

Following Hoff to New York is his special 16 foot pole, which he had made in preparation for his effort at new honors after he found there were no sticks in this country long enough for him. He used the pole last night.

Hoff was the only foreign star to shine at the B. A. A. games. Adrien Paulen, Holland's middle distance flash, and Hubert Houben, German sprinter, both were shut out. Houben's defeat was his fourth in as many starts in this country and marked the end of his United States campaign.

COURSE IN SCIENTIFIC EATING AT KANSAS COLLEGE

HAYS, Kas., Feb. 7—(AP)—A course in scientific eating has been established at the Kansas State Teachers college here.

"A person is not educated unless he knows how to select a properly balanced meal," explains Miss Ethel M. Snodgrass, head of the home economics department, who is teaching the students to eat scientifically.

Etiquette is not taught in the class, which meets once a week. Miss Snodgrass believing that students learn at boarding clubs the proper use of the knife and fork.

URGES CORRECT ENGLISH AS AN ECONOMY FOR TAXPAYERS

DETROIT, Feb. 7—(AP)—Not to be outdone by enterprising business, education is offering cash bonuses on its stock in trade.

"Speak correct English and save yourself money," is the appeal that Miss Clara Beverly, supervisor of English in Detroit schools, is holding out to the taxpayer.

"English as it is mis-spoken actually costs money," she said. "Children acquire faulty English habits from their parents in pre-school days. The teacher then spends much of her time, and therefore much of the taxpayers' money, in overcoming these habits."

"All this would be unnecessary if parents would watch their speech," she asserted. "Correct these English errors and reduce taxes."

GRANGE TO START FOOTBALL LEAGUE IF DENIED FRANCHISE IN NATIONAL

DETROIT, Feb. 7—(AP)—A revolution in the ranks of professional football was threatened tonight after Red Grange was denied a franchise in the National Professional Football League.

Through C. C. Pyle, his manager, Grange announced that if the National league did not change its mind about issuing a franchise to operate a club in the New York Yankees' stadium, Pyle would immediately start plans to form an opposition circuit, possibly taking in some of the clubs now holding franchises in the National league.

Pyle's threat of organizing a league with Grange as the stellar attraction came after the representative of the Giants, holders of the New York franchise in the National Professional Football league, indicated they would not sanction another club in their territory. Their consent would be necessary before Grange would be permitted to establish a team at the Yankee stadium.

The famous redhead's manager said that 19 or 20 clubs in the league favored legislation that would permit Grange to become a franchise holder, and that the only opposition came from Tim Mara, holder of the controlling interest of the New York Giants. Mara pleaded that he desired to consult with his partner, Billy Gibson, before giving his final decision, but plainly indicated that he thought New York does not need Grange as an opposing attraction to the Giants.

Pyle accompanied by Grange, appeared before the league today to announce their plans for establishing a club in the Yankee stadium for which they hold a five year lease becoming effective next October. Everybody seemed willing to permit a second club in the New York territory, but Mara's refusal was construed by Pyle to mean that the door would be closed to them.

Four cities made application for franchises in the National league at its closing session today but these requests were referred to a committee which will report at a special session to be held at Columbus Ohio in March. Those favorably acted upon will be submitted to the league for ratification at the cities seeking franchises are Boston, Newark, St. Louis, and Hartford. Rogers Hornsby, pilot of the St. Louis Cardinals, is reported to be behind the St. Louis club.

Racine, Wis., formerly a member of the league, applied for reinstatement, and Minneapolis, whose franchise was inactive last year, also made application. These returns gave the league 23 clubs, with a possibility of the ratification of new members will bring the total to 26 clubs.

The player limit was increased from 16 to 18 men because some of the teams found last year that illness and injuries had left them with only two substitutes, and this number was regarded as insufficient.

The guarantee fund was raised from $1,000 to $1,500 and the application fee for a franchise was lifted from $500 to $2,500. This was done to reduce the number of applications that might have swamed in if the old $500 fee had been continued.

The Chicago Cardinals were voted the league championship of 1925, but declined to accept the honor. With Pottsville, Pa., which had tied the Cardinals for first place honors, now out of the circuit, Chris O'Brien, head of the Chicago club, refused the title unanimously voted the Cardinals because he said he wanted a title clearly won on the field of play.

The league voted to restrict the number of games to be played by any one club in a week to two, with the exception of weeks in which holidays fall when three games may be played This action was the result of the barnstorming trip taken by the Chicago Bears, who, with Grange, played eight games in 11 days.

NEW PRO FOOTBALL LEAGUE TO BE FORMED

DETROIT, Feb. 7—(AP)—A new professional football league will be formed at a meeting to be held at Chicago, February 17, it was announced tonight. The league will be in opposition to the National Professional Football league, which operated last season. Eight or ten cities will be represented at the meeting in Chicago, it was said.

Decision to form a new league came after C. C. Pyle, manager of Harold "Red" Grange, had been refused permission to place a team in New York city, where he has a lease on the Yankee stadium. Representatives of the New York Giants professional team indicated they would not give their permission, necessary before another team could be placed in New York city.

Pyle immediately went into conference with representatives of other cities in the National Professional Football league and the announcement of the meeting to organize a new circuit came after four hours of conferences between Pyle and representatives of a number of cities in the present league.

PROMINENT MARYLAND SPORTSMAN IS DEAD

BALTIMORE, Feb. 7—(AP)—William P. Riggs, secretary of the Maryland Jockey club and racing secretary of the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural society, died here today after a long illness. He was 61 years old.

Mr. Riggs was known to sportsmen throughout this country and Canada as an authority on the racing of thoroughbreds. As secretary of the Jockey club, Mr. Riggs was responsible responsible for the renewal of the Preakness, and the running of the Pimlico Futurity, the Bowie, the Walden, and Mainly Memorial, and the Pimlico Oaks; all annual turf classics.

He was born in Newport, R. I., and was a graduate of Princeton university.

VAL BIALIS WINS INTERNATIONAL SPEED SKATING CHAMPIONSHIP

DETROIT, Feb. 7—(AP)—Valentine Bialis, of Lake Placid, N. Y., won the international speed skating championship at the three-day meet which closed here today with a point score of 10. Bialis succeeds Charles Gorman, of St. Johns, N. B., as international champion. Gorman did not defend his title.

Bialis' victory was the result of his finishing second to Eddie Reed, of Chicago, in the five mile event which brought the three-day meet to a close. Reed's time was 15:15 2-5, which was four and one-fifth seconds slower than the world's record made by John S. Johnson, at Montreal, in 1895. Reed's time was said to be the fastest for the distance in 10 years.

Record smashing honors fell to Leila Brooks, Toronto's entry, who slipped 25 2-5 seconds from the world's mark for women in the mile event. Miss Brooks' time was 5:23 2-5. The record shattered was made by Gladys Robinson, of Toronto, in 1923. The fast pace set by Lois Littlejohn, Chicago, forced Miss Brooks to extend herself, although she pulled away from her Chicago rival 75 yards from the finish.

Second to Bialis for the meet honors was Eddie Reed whose victory in the 30-lap final event gave him 90 points. Eddie Murphy, of Chicago, placed third with 80 points.

Bialis' points were won by accumulating during the meet first place in two events—the half mile and the three-quarter mile—second place in the five mile and the mile, and third in the two mile. Thirty points were awarded for first, 20 for second and 10 for third place.

Leila Brooks was the meet winner among the women, with Miss Littlejohn second and Ruth Muhlmeyer, Chicago, and Margaret McBride, Toronto, tied for third place.

Clas Thunberg, of Finland, Olympic speed skating champion, raced the mile against time and was clocked in two minutes 45 1-5 seconds. A stiff wind prevented his endangering the world's mark of two minutes 42 2-5 seconds held by John S. Johnson.

O'Neil Farrell, the Chicago flash who finished Saturday's races suffering from a charley horse and a slight illness, won the only other senior final race today, skating the 440-yard dash in 38 seconds. Lewis Morris, of New York, war second and Paul Forsman, New York, third.

Slick ice favored a field of thirty starters in the five mile race. The time for the first mile of this event was 2:52. On the back stretch of the final lap the slender, red-tighted figure of Reed streaked forward, hung on Bialis' heels as they went into the home stretch and then with sweeping strides nosed past the lad from Lake Placid to break the tape. Eddie Murphy was third.

Miss Brooks established three new world's records during the present meet. In addition to her performance in the mile today she set a new mark for the 440-yard dash which she skated in 44 2-5 seconds.

She took 1 2-5 seconds off her own former record in the half mile her time being 1:36 3-5.

COLUMBIA HOLDS LEAD IN EASTERN BASKETBALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—(AP)—Columbia, with three victories and no defeats, leads the Eastern Intercollegiate basketball league with approximately half of the schedule played, although the New York institution has not participated in a league contest for three weeks.

Dartmouth, defeated by Columbia, at Hanover, N. H., on January 13, retains second place having conquered Yale, Pennsylvania and Princeton. The Yale team, which lost all ten of its games in the league last year, has lost four in the present race without gaining a victory.

Loeb, Princeton forward and guard, has a nine point advantage over his rival, Laub, of Columbia, in the individual scoring but he has participated in five games against three for the Columbian. The two Pennsylvania guards, Davenport and Goldblatt, remain among the first five.

The team standing follows:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.	Pts.	Opp. Pts.
Columbia	3	0	1.000	107	62
Dartmouth	3	1	.750	96	94
Pennsylvania	2	2	.500	124	107
Princeton	2	3	.400	112	123
Cornell	1	2	.333	65	78

DEMPSEY FAVORS QUAKER CITY AS SITE FOR BOUT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Philadelphia is regarded by Jack Dempsey as the logical place for his bout with Harry Wills, the heavyweight champion made known here tonight. He said he was very favorably impressed with the proposals made him by Herman Taylor and Robert Gunnis, Philadelphia promoters, with whom he conferred today.

Tentative arrangements were made for another conference to be held in Philadelphia the 20th of this month. Meanwhile Dempsey will confer with Floyd Fitzsimmons, who holds a contract for a Dempsey-Wills bout to be held some time in September, in an effort to arrange an agreement between him and the Philadelphia promoters.

The conference was held in the hotel suite occupied by Dempsey and his wife, the former Estelle Taylor, film star, which was bedecked with flowers in honor of their first wedding anniversary which they celebrated today.

MLLE LENGLEN VANQUISHES HELEN WILLS IN DOUBLES MATCH AT NICE

NICE, France, Feb. 7—(AP)—Suzanne Lenglen and Helen Wills met across the tennis net today for the first time in their careers, and the mighty Suzanne was victorious. The score was 6-1, 6-2, and the match was in the mixed doubles, Suzanne pairing with Baron Henri de Morpurgo, and Helen with Charles F. Aeschlimann.

The fact that the queens of the European and American courts were assisted by devoted knights of the racquet, who participated in the fray and influenced the tide of battle, makes the result inclusive as to the settlement of the supremacy between the two greatest women tennis players in the world.

The meeting today was only the prelude to the duel set for next week, when Miss Wills and Mlle. Lenglen will face each other, provided both come through the preliminaries, and that is looked upon as a certainty. Then the intense rivalry between the new and old world tennis will be settled without appeal.

The French champion proved today that she is the greatest woman mixed doubles player tennis has ever known, rising to heights that even she herself never attained in the singles.

The American girl, on the other hand, showed that the mixed doubles game apparently had been somewhat neglected through the development of her singles efficiency. Thus far she had demonstrated that she is a much greater singles than a doubles player.

To the large assembly—including British royalty, the duke of Connaught, Indian potentates and kings of finance—the contest was a strictly Suzanne-Helen affair and de Morpurgo and Aeschlimann, great doubles players as they are, were only secondary.

For once the experts' figures agreed with the laymen's enthusiasm and the point score indicates that it was the superiority of Mlle. Lenglen over Miss Wills that decided the victory, the men being about even on points earned and lost.

Helen's weakness consisted of playing the ball too high, into Suzanne's racquet. The French girl appeared, in covering the net, like a bird on the wing, fitting here and there and never missing a return, which she generally smashed back at Aeschlimann's feet for ...us.

The difference in the style and play of the two girls was as wide as the two worlds they represent. Suzanne was laughing and debonnaire, Helen grim-visaged and determined, as they entered the courts. Mlle. Lenglen was the great artiste appearing before her home people in her home town.

Helen was cool and collected, her usual paleness accentuated only slightly. She seemed outwardly the calmest person among the five thousand present. While Suzanne pranced opposite the baseline unable to remain quiet a moment, Helen stood stock still.

"Are you ready, Miss Lenglen?" Umpire St. Omerroy asked.

"Yes," Suzanne fairly shouted.

To the same query Miss Wills replied with the slightest inclination of the head. She spoke no word.

Baron de Morpurgo won the toss, and elected to serve himself after Mlle. Lenglen had declined the honor. Both the Italian baron and Suzanne centered their attack upon the American champion, who sent back sizzling drives until deuce was reached, Mlle. Lenglen winning the game 5 to 3.

The second game was a repetition of the first, Suzanne also winning on points, 6 to 4.

Miss Wills and Mr. Aeschlimann won the third game and Mlle. Lenglen and her partner carried off the next four games, only one of which went to deuce.

The games were one-all in the second set, when Helen simply electrified the crowd by winning the third game to love on service.

Helen lost her famous poker face after winning her love game at the tremendous applause of the spectators. She smiled for the first time during the match and looked about her as if puzzled, and a flush overspread her pale cheeks. But she could not repeat the magnificent play, resorting to lobbing, which the French champion and her partner smothered, winning the next five games and set, 6-2, and the match.

C. F. C. FIVE WINS FROM BRAUMAN'S STARS

Saturday evening the C. F. C. quintet, in the "Y" gym again swept its way to victory. This time they swooped on Brauman's All-Stars and emerged at the big end of a 38-12 score. Both teams were about evenly matched but the passwork of the C. F. C. five left the All-Stars wondering where the ball was. The shooting of Brown and Leffingwell was also a big feature of the game.

TRAIN TO FOLLOW NEW ENGLAND DOG RACE

NORTH CONWAY, N. H., Feb. 7—(AP)—Here's something new in dog racing. Enthusiasts who follow the trail will have a train to take them when the dogs leave here Feb. 25, on the New England point to point contest.

The train will pull out when the last dogs do, and will follow the teams to Wolfeboro and Sanbornville, a 45 mile run, arriving ahead of the mushers. On the second day the train will run over the route to Rochester. Lakeport and Ashland, and on the third lay from Ashland to here.

Parts of the track will parallel the course of the dogs. Sleeping cars and a diner will allow those who go to make their home on the train throughout the race.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Ted Combs of Pittsfield won the state amateur ice speed skating championship here today, winning three events and finishing second in two. Miss McLean of Springfield won the women's state championship and William Hicks of Pittsfield the junior title.

RED GRANGE GETS LEASE ON YANKEE STADIUM

DETROIT, Feb. 7—(AP)—Harold (Red) Grange has made application to the National Football League for a franchise for his own team in the circuit. He indicated that if his application is granted he hopes to obtain the use of the Yankee Stadium, New York for the home games of his club.

Simultaneously it was announced by C. C. Pyle, Grange's business manager, that a contract had been closed with Ed Barrow, business manager of the New York American League Baseball club, for the use of the Yankee Stadium, New York, for football games for the next five years. It was understood Grange would put another club in the New York field if successful in his bid for a franchise.

Action on the request was deferred while representatives of the twenty clubs in the circuit buried themselves in the routine of their semi-annual meeting. It was indicated Grange's bid would not be taken up until the league leaders have taken a definite stand on the matter of the professionalizing of college gridiron stars.

MONTREAL AFTER FRANCHISE IN N. E. BASEBALL LEAGUE

BOSTON, Feb. 7—(AP)—A movement to enter Montreal in the New England Baseball league, recently formed here, is under way in the Canadian city, it was learned today. The league leaders have selected six of the eight clubs to date. Jean Dubuc, of Manchester, N. H., on the league organization committee, said that a group of Montreal men had approached him on the subject and that a new ball park was being built in Montreal, with reliable persons to back a New England league club.

LIGHT CARBINE CAPTURES TIA JUANA FEATURE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—(AP)—Light Carbine, chestnut colt owned by L. B. Humphrey, captured the feature event at Tia Juana today, the Domino handicap, at a mile. The victory paid $3.170 Sandy Man, the favorite, made a poor showing in the field of 13, Zeka placing second and Jack Alexander third. The time was 1:40.

Kingman, four year old gelding, which ran away into the hills yesterday, was returned to the track today uninjured.

TWO SCRAMBLES FEATURE BIG TEN BASKETBALL

CHICAGO, Feb. 7—(AP)—The Western conference basketball campaign has resolved itself into two scrambles —in the second division and among the leading five.

Indiana and Ohio State, the only first division teams to play during the week, kept themselves in the race by winning, respectively over Iowa and Chicago. Return of Wisconsin, Michigan and Purdue to the fray this week, after a lapse of a fortnight, is expected to bring some major changes in the conference standing, now nearly the same for a month.

Iowa's defeat of Minnesota, 21 to 14, yesterday, put the Hawkeyes in seventh place, behind the dormant Illini, and relegated the Gophers to the cellar. Chicago's 14 to 28 loss to the Buckeyes gave it a toboggan push into eighth position.

CHARLEY HOFF ONLY ONE OF FOREIGN STARS TO PERFORM WITH BRILLIANCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—(AP)—From a group of four athletic foreigners has come one to assume the place in American athletics occupied by Paavo Nurmi of Finland last winter—Charley Hoff of Norway, hold of all world's pole vault record.

Hoff, from his performances in two meets last week, the Millrose event in New York and the Boston A. A. games, will be the star of winter competition, the man to whom the crowd looks for thrills. He shattered the American indoor pole vault record with such ease in both New York and Boston that it is predicted by close followers of sport that he will make 14 feet easily—if he cares to attempt it.

His record, set at the Boston meet, is at 13 feet, 1 1-2 inches, half an inch better than he did in New York Thursday night. The previous indoor mark was 13 feet. From all appearances Hoff plans to add half an inch to his mark in each competition he enters until he reaches a height that is too difficult. In both record attempts he has cleared easily with six inches to spare.

Hoff and Nurmi are alike only in that they are outstanding athletes. Nurmi is light-haired, of medium height, his legs thinned to the muscles—the perfect middle distance man. Smiles are almost unknown to him. Only once during his visit to America last winter did Nurmi over-exert himself, the night that Alan Helfrich beat him in the half mile in an outdoor meet at the Yankee stadium, the Finn's last race in America.

In that Yankee stadium race Nurmi's shoulders were rolling as he fought to catch the flash from Penn state in a test that was too short for the Olympic champion, but he was impassive and he had no comment to make. Only once did Nurmi have anything to say regarding his visit and that came after his name had been connected with matters that called investigation by the Amateur Athletic union.

"Newspapermen, no good! Photographers, no good, no good!" he told an interviewer.

Hoff has something to say to everybody at hand and he says it with a smile. While on the field of competition he is shaking hands, slapping backs and indulging in hearty laughter. When he raced Tom Campbell, old Yale star, in the relay event in New York Thursday night a smile covered his face as the American gave battle in the back stretch. And with the smile came renewed effort, for Hoff assuredly loved his sport. The Norwegian defeated Campbell in the leg of the relay.

He is a tall, black-haired boy, and at times appears ungainly, especially in his running, but when he grasps a pole and sails over the high bar he is perfect in form and his every exhibition draws the cheers of the crowd.

For Hubert Houben, German sprinter, the American visit is over and he has planned to sail this week for home. The German amateur authorities refused to extend his permit beyond Saturday night in Boston. Houben lost every race he entered here and hoped to remain for two meets this week which will take place in a large Brooklyn armory where a long dash is possible. Houben contends that the indoor tests he has attempted are too short for him.

Adrian Paulen of Holland, who ran a 600-yard race and a 440-yard leg of a relay after being off the boat twelve hours Thursday and raced again in Boston Saturday, also has failed to win but he has demonstrated an ability which should require very little training on the boards. He will remain here for a while.

Gordon Goodwin, English walker, defeated in his first appearance by Harry Hinkel and Mack Weiss, had permission to appear in only the Millrose games and may also return to Europe with out a victory. It is probable, however, that the British authorities will be asked to permit his appearance in two or three more races.

Peter says that you may be fooled by your eyes, but it is seldom that you can be fooled by both eyes and ears, or eyes and nose. But once in a while ears and eyes do not help out at all. This was the case when early one morning Peter was up behing the old stone wall along the behind the old stone wall along the latter joins Farmer Brown's dooryard.

At that time in the morning Peter had no business up there. He should have been at home in the dear Old Brier-patch. No one knows that better than he. But you know how curious Peter is. Curiosity gets Peter into more scrapes than a few. Just now he was curious about Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse. He knew they were living in Farmer Brown's henhouse; that was all he did know. So he was hanging around to see if he could get a glimpse of them after Farmer Brown's Boy had let the hens out in the henyard.

He was just idly looking around while he waited, when he saw a bird fly from one apple tree to another and finally over to a tree on Farmer Brown's house. Now, there was nothing particularly surprising in seeing a bird at that hour of the morning. Sammy Jay was about; Drummer the Woodpecker was about; Slaty the Junco was about; Seep-Seep the Brown Creeper was traveling up the trunk of a tree right near where Peter was sitting. Tommy Tit the Chickadee was telling all the world how glad he was to be alive, even if the ground was covered with snow. Yank Yank the Nuthatch was getting his breakfast. So it wasn't anything surprising that Peter should catch a glimpse of a flying bird. Nevertheless, Peter suddenly sat up very straight with his two long ears pointed up to the sky and such a funny look on his face.

"If I didn't know that it couldn't be, I should say that was Mocker the Mocking Bird; but Mocker is way down in the Sunny South. This is pretty far north for him in summer. Now, who under the sun could it be? It must have been Butcher the Shrike that I saw just now. Yes, sir, it must have been Butcher the Shrike. I have heard that at a little dance he and Mr. Mocker look much alike. They are about the same size and they both wear gray and white. Butcher is around here, for Nanny Meadow Mouse told me that he nearly caught her. Just the same, that did look like Mocker. Goodness knows, I've seen Mocker enough times; I ought to know him. There goes that bird around the corner of Farmer Brown's house and it is the living image of Mocker the Mocking Bird, or I cannot believe my eyes."

"I thought I saw Mocker the Mocking Bird," replied Peter

"Dee, dee, dee, chickadee," cried a merry little voice. There was Tommy Tit trying to get a drink from a drop of water on the end of an icicle hanging from a twig just above Peter's head. "What are you staring at, Peter?" cried Tommy, his bright eyes twinkling.

"I thought I saw Mocker the Mocking Bird," replied Peter. "Of course, I didn't, but certainly I saw some one that looked just like him, it is tough, Tommy Tit, that I cannot believe my own eyes. I saw Mocker the Mocking Bird, but I didn't."

"Where did he go?" asked Tommy Tit.

"He went around the corner of Farmer Brown's house," replied Peter.

"They why don't you go around after him?" asked Tommy Tit.

"I don't dare to," said Peter quite honestly.

WET DRY LAW ENFORCERS CAUSE MUCH TROUBLE FOR NEW LONDON POLICEMEN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 7—The police had their greatest trouble with the members of the United States coast guard, stationed at local section base, No. 4, state pier, Saturday night and early this morning, than they have in many months. The members of that branch of the federal service who are engaged in endeavoring to put an end to rum-trafficking by water, had obtained a bountiful supply of liquor and in almost every instance where an arrest was made the sailor was the victim of too much indulgence in drink.

Daniel F. Lane and H. M. Irons, members of the crew of the cutter Beale, were on Main street in the vicinity of Church street, and were making a nuisance of themselves. Lane, it is alleged, intentionally knocked a traffic beacon into the highway and when remonstrated with by Patrolman Edward Daniels, he became abusive. Lane was placed under arrest and displayed fight with the result that he was not handled any too gently. That fact was evidenced today before he obtained a surety on his bond of $200 that enabled him to enjoy his freedom until Monday morning when he will be arraigned in the police court on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct. Irons also found himself a prisoner for he attempted to interfere with Patrolman Daniels and Officer William Riordan, who went to the assistance of his fellow officer, placed Irons under arrest. He also obtained a surety on his bond for his court appearance.

Joseph F. Rogers and W. M. Carroll, also members of the coast guard, went to the Liberty restaurant, State street, shortly before 4 o'clock this morning, and, while eating there, they were discovered in the act of stealing equipment from the counter by one of the waiters. Rogers had purloined a bottle of cherries, bottle of tobasco sauce and salt and pepper shakers, while Carroll had taken an ornamental ice cream advertisement. When the waiter remonstrated with Rogers and Carroll, the sailors refused to return the goods they had taken and complaint was made to the police. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen Thomas Lyden and John Foley quickly located the pair of bluejackets and they were placed under arrest. When searched at the police station, they had the goods alleged to have been stolen, upon their person. They will be given a hearing in the police court Monday morning.

Charles J. Frick, formerly of this city, was taken into custody here, Saturday, as a fugitive from justice. He will answer to a charge of statutory rape upon a girl in New York and came here, it is presumed, to escape the consequences of his crime. The state was not ready to go on with the prosecution and an adjournment was asked for and allowed till the 10th inst. Frick gave a bond of $1,500 for appearance then. That averted a term in jail.

Patrick Hanley, who has been at work at Fisher's Island, was charged with intoxication. He pleaded guilty, as well he might, for he has been twice fined in 24 hours for the same offense. Patsy was in court Friday to pay up a bill he owed for intoxication and then was under the influence of liquor. He was advised to cut out his indulgence, but that advice was unheeded and he was found later down and out. He paid some $28 into the court in two days. Patsy says he has learned the lesson now and proposed to discontinue his practice of indulgence in strong drink.

Mrs. C. M. Brockseiper is at Lawrence hospital, recovering from an operation for intestinal trouble. Mrs. Brockseiper has a host of friends made when she was in the dancing school business. They regret that affliction has come to her with the advance of age, and hope for her recovery and restoration to health and strength.

The weather today enabled all who desired to do so, to clear their walks of snow and ice, but comparatively few took advantage of the chance afforded. The walks have been in a treacherous condition with snow and ice during three days, and although the city department had strewn sand on the ice the walks are still dangerous. There seems but one way left for making the walks safe and that is for the city authorities to insist upon the removal of snow as soon as possible after it falls.

This city has caused a large force of laborers and truck drivers to be placed at work removing the accumulation of snow and ice from the principal business streets. Every available truck from one to five tons, owned by contractors, together with the trucks of the highway and water and sewer departments, were manned by drivers and shovelers and were put to work on State, Bank and Main streets, as well as several of the intersecting streets. After the snow had been forced to gutters by a motor scraper, the loads were taken to the municipal pier and deposited into the Thames river. As a result of the activity of the department of public safety the business section of the city has rid itself of the great snow fall of Wednesday night and Thursday.

Mrs. John Flynn and infant son, Niantic; Mrs. Luman Nichols and infant daughter, 113 Monument street, Groton; Mrs. Myra Packer, Stonington; John DeRocco, Westerly, and Russell Cutler, 43 Granite street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were dismissed Saturday.

The funeral of John J., young son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Foley, 142 Crystal avenue, was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger. At the close of the mass Edward F. Murray rendered "Some Sweet Day." The bearers were former schoolmates of Master Foley and were Howard Shaw, Raymond Palmer, Andrew Sullivan, Peter Cleary, John Sullivan and John Steward. The flower bearers were Thomas O'Neil and William Church. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Santo Irlandi was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, at St. Joseph's church, and was attended by a large number of friends for Mr. Irlandi was one of the best known Italian residents of New London. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan, assisted by Rev. William J. Fox, Grotoli, as deacon, and Rev. William C. Fitzsimons as sub-deacon. At the conclusion of the mass Miss Marjorie Palmer rendered Face to Face. The bearers were John Syracusa, Rosario DiMaggio, Salvatore Messina and Rosario, Antonio and Nichola Degange. The body was placed in the receiving vault in St. Mary's cemetery.

Funeral services for Miss Sarah E. Ryley were held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the residence of her brother, L. J. Ryley, 12 Cape Ann court, Elmer Page officiating. Relatives and former intimate acquaintances of Miss Ryley, acted as bearers. Interment was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Eugenie Patterson Crandall, wife of Fitch D. Crandall, died late Friday at her former residence, 235 Williams street, death terminating a lingering illness for Mrs. Crandall had been confined to her bed three months and for several years she had been a sufferer from failing health. She is survived, besides her husband, by a son, Herbert O. Crandall, and a daughter, Mrs. Ira M. Comstock, both of this city. Mrs. Crandall was a member of St. James' Episcopal church and was well and favorably known. Mrs Crandall was born at Spring Prairie, Wis., the daughter of the late Caleb and Elizabeth Patterson. When but a young girl she removed with her parents, to St. Augustine, Fla. Since her marriage to Mr. Crandall, in 1881, Mrs. Crandall had made her home in New London.

Mrs. Florence Evelyn Riley Sweeney, 42, wife of Harry Sweeney, formerly of New London, died at her late home, Brooklyn, N. Y., last Thursday, following a lingering illness. Mrs. Sweeney was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Riley, 185 Crystal avenue, and besides her parents and husband, she is survived by three children; two sisters, Miss Elizabeth Riley and Mrs. Lucy R. Pfannenstiel, this city, and two brothers, William A. Riley, Hartford, and Charles R. Riley, Bristol, this state.

The Goldsmith Realty company, owners of the four story structure, corner of State and Main streets, which was damaged by fire last Wednesday afternoon, has tendered a check for $100 to the New London fire department, the check having been handed to Chief Charles H. Rose, Saturday.

An automobile, a Hudson coach, owned by J. D. Robertson, 128 Monument street, Groton, was stolen in this city Saturday night. Robertson parked his car on Huntington street, near Bulkeley place, during the early evening, and when he returned for the car about 11:30 o'clock, he discovered that it had been stolen. Robertson reported the theft of the machine to the police and the state police at Groton and Centerbrook, as well as the police of Norwich, Westerly, Hartford and New Haven, were requested to be on the lookout for the stolen auto.

This evening the state police at Centerbrook notified the local police that the automobile had been found abandoned in Madison. A representative of the owner of the coach went to Madison later and took charge of the car.

Thomas Hughes, United States Coast Guard, and stationed aboard the destroyer McCall, state pier, was taken into custody late Saturday night charged with intoxication and attempting to steal an automobile. He will be arraigned in the police court Monday morning, but there is a probability that the charge of attempting to steal the automobile will be nolled.

Hughes was observed to enter a Chrysler machine that was parked in front of the Plant building, State street, about 11:30 o'clock by Policewoman Jane Cassidy. The policewoman went to Plant hall where Officer William Babcock and William Corcoran were on duty and informed them of her belief of the intention of the sailor to steal the car. The officers went to the street and found Hughes in the car, with the brake released and the engine running.

Mrs. Albert Siats and infant daughter, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were able to return to their above in Waterford, Saturday.

Thomas Brown, 21 Hill street, reported to the police, shortly after last midnight, that a man was at Schoolhouse lane, off Hill street, and was acting in such a queer manner as to indicate that the fellow was of unsound mentality. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman William Riordan went to the location where the man was reported to be, but failed to find him.

Andrew Fallow, 55, a laborer, employed at Fort Wright, and who has a long police record for various offenses, principally intoxication, was arrested again Saturday night for he was found drunk on North Bank street by Patrolman Augustus Ray. Mallon, who has been arrested 19 times, was made a prisoner and will be given a hearing in the police court Monday morning.

N. E. Nahass, proprietor of a store, 189 Main street, complained to the police Saturday night, that while his automobile was parked in front of his place of business, a commercial truck, owned by the Salvation Army, and operated by John Saunders, Niantic, backed against the Nahass car and damaged it.

John Kawianen and Henry Brandd, employes of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company, will be arraigned in the police court Monday morning on a charge of breach of the peace. They are now at liberty, both having furnished a surety on their bond of $50 each, for their court appearance.

Kawianen and Brandd appeared at the plant following their lunch period and both had been drinking. Aftey they had started to work a short time, they became involved in an argument and a fight started. A telephone message was sent to the police station and Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh and Patrolman John Courtney, took the fighters into custody.

The police in making their rounds Saturday night discovered the entrances of several business houses unlocked. In each instance the places were made secure for the night.

Two youths, neither of whom is over 18, one residing on Connecticut avenue, and the other the son of a Bank street merchant and residing on Howard street, went to the Nichols confectionery store, Broad street, this evening and there made a nuisance of themselves because they had been drinking. The wife of the proprietor of the store objected to the language used by the youths and because they persisted in spectorating and throwing cigar ashes on the marble counter of the soda fountain. When the youths were ordered to leave the store they refused to do so, and the police were complained to. Patrolman William Riordan and George McCaskey went to the store and as the officers appeared the two youths started on a run. One got away, but the other was overtaken two blocks away by Patrolman Riordan and locked up. The parents of the second youth were ordered to have their son visit the police station when he returned home.

A resident of Montville appeared at the police station this evening and declared that after being beaten by a sailor he had been robbed of $14. The Montville man was advised to present himself at the police station Monday morning and he would be accompanied to the state pier or the submarine base by an officer for the purpose of establishing the identification of his assailant.

Patrolman William Manice tonight reported that the sidewalk in front of the Army & Navy store, south side of State street, and which has been closed several weeks, was in a dangerous condition because of the fact that no attempt had been made to remove the ice and snow and neither had the sidewalk been sanded.

The police late this afternoon were called upon to take care of a fellow who was drunk at the residence, 175 Howard street. Sergeant John Cavanaugh visited the place and caused the offender of the law to be placed in a cell for hearing in the police court Monday morning. A sailor was also found drunk and a nuisance on Main street by Patrolman Braxton Hill and he, likewise, will be among those to be presented before Judge C. Victor Prince tomorrow morning.

George S. Palmer, William H. Reeves and Ralph H. Melcer have qualified as executors of the will of Cornelia Kissam Palmer, late of this city and the court of probate has limited and allowed six months from date for settlement of the affairs of the estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. McGarry of 83 Lincoln avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Anna, to Maurice M. Roche of New York, formerly of this city. Miss McGarry is a graduate of Williams Memorial institute in the class of '19 and of the Joseph Lawrence training school for nurses in the class of '21. Mr. Roche attended Bulkeley High school and is at present employed by the railway mail service in New York city. The wedding will take place on Feb. 15.

Attorney and Mrs. Frank L. McGuire, of Vauxhall street, Attorney and Mrs. Arthur T. Keefe of Hillside avenue and Mrs. Francis Giroir, who is taking Miss Delia Maroney's place as the director of the local Diocesan Bureau of Social Service, expect to attend the dinner to be given in the Hartford club, Hartford, Tuesday evening in honor of the tenth anniversary celebration of the State Diocesan bureau of Social Service. Attorney McGuire, who is a member o the board of trustees, is a member of the committee arranging the dinner.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Capitol Theatre—Willimantic

Something decidedly new and highly entertaining in the theatrical lines will be presented at the Capitol theater, Willimantic, Wednesday evening, February 11, when three contesting old-fashioned dance sets will appear on the stage and execute square and contra-dance numbers to music by Eugene Maynard, of Lebanon, champion old-time fiddler of the state of Connecticut. This stupendous attraction is the outcome of a challenge issued recently by John B. Etheridge, of Eastford, to any set of six or less couples to contest in the famous dances of a quarter of a century ago. Howard W. Green of Willimantic and J. E. Burgess of Lebanon have mobilized their dancing teams and accepted the sweeping challenge. Arrangements were then made with Manager George A. Bartlett for the contest to be staged at the Capitol. The services of Champion Maynard were then secured and the combination promises to afford an original diversion to theater-goers that has no equal in recent theatrical history in this city. Manager Bartlett has gone a bit further and is arranging for John Collins, of South Chaplin, former vaudeville artist and champion harmonica player of New England to render a selection. There are other features being prepared by the management. In addition to this stupendous program of music and dancing of years ago a special motion program will be presented with extra music. Mr. Maynard will also be heard in some of the famous old tunes which he played when he won the state championship in Hartford on January 28, last. The judges for the dancing will be A. E. Carter of Scotland, J. A. Isham of Columbia and C. P. Rathbun of Hebron. Further announcements for the gala night at the Capitol are forthcoming.

At The Breed

Huge settings and spectacular photography of kaleidoscopic crowds; gorgeous fetes and the great Paris Opera in its glittering glory. Dim, torturous cellars in which weird, ghostly faces stare from the shadows, and in which strange, eerie things take place—and Lon Chaney, prince of thrillers—these are the things that stand out in one's memory after watching "The Phantom of the Opera." Carl Laemmle's new super-spectacle, now playing at the Breed theatre.

The story is thrill after thrill—the very concentrated essence of excitement and mystery, but staged on so gorgeous and so lavish a scale—and also in such a mysterious manner—that it is hard to describe. One sits enthralled by the beauty of it, gripped by the thrills of it, and astounded by the mystery of it all at once.

"The Phantom of the Opera" is the story of a grim, ghostlike being hiding in the huge cellars, five stories below ground, amid the foundations of the great Paris Opera House. He launches a reign of terror for the girl he loves (played by the delightful Mary Philbin) and who is finally rescued by her lover (Norman Kerry), aided by a mysterious Persian (Arthur Edmund Carewe).

Lon Chaney wears what is said to be his strangest makeup as the grotesque monster of the cellars, while Mary Philbin, just as appealing as in "Merry Go Round" proves more beautiful and shows a technique that is far more finished and artistic. The same director who handled her in "Merry Go Round" is responsible for her new triumph, Rupert Julian. Both she and Chaney have eclipsed anything in their past careers.

The rest of the cast is so large that space forbids much detailed description. Gibson Gowland as the Avenging Simon is a grim and compelling figure: Snitz Edwards a clever comedy relief. Virginia Pearson gives a well-balanced and accurate portrayal of Carlotta, the diva, and Arthur Edmund Carewe is positively a classic in acting as The Persian. John Sainpolis is convincing as the older brother of Norman Kerry, who, as the hero of the strange story, has a role he fills as he has no other in his career. Kerry is always ideal in a military uniform; in the Paris story he is a romantic figure as well as a dominant figure in the story; the result of very careful and intelligent acting and clever direction.

Cesare Gravina, Anton Vaverka, Bernard Siegel, and the rest, deserve far more commendation than space permits—and this applies to every one of the four thousand extras in the big scenes.

"The Phantom of the Opera" is art—with a new twist.

Palace Theatre

The second qualifying contest in The Charleston championship is on at the Palace tonight with a big amateur. All the local favorites will be present and the management promises plenty of fun with the amateurs.

"The Sea Beast" opened yesterday at the Palace theater for a run of four days, and justified in every way all the glowing heaps of golden adjectives that have been piled up about this supreme effort of the Warner Brothers.

John Barrymore is the star, but even with Barrymore, the one actor who brings to the screen the feel of that indefinable quality called genius, the drama of "The Sea Beast" is the thing. For "The Sea Beast," in its suggestive power, in its overtones of surging life, is more than a photoplay; it is an epic of the heroic lives of the American whalers when, in their swift clipper ships, they carried their whale hunts through the seven seas. It is a picture of rich, colorful beauty; of heart-searing pathos; of poetry that sings in action of courageous deeds; of emotions as violent and eternal as the terrific storms that sweep through the picture.

The sea dominates, and, even Barrymore, superb actor that he is, is less, as any human would be less, than the epic that flashes tumultuously across the screen; the epic of the American sailors of 1840.

Nevertheless, the picture gives Barrymore the opportunity for the biggest and most impressive characterization that he has given to the screen. As the New England harpooner on the hunt for the great white whale, Moby Dick, he is so breathlessly fine that he makes even his own stirring performances in such pictures as "Beau Brummel" and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" fade from memory, insignificantly.

The beauty of the scenes in Java, the magic way in which the atmosphere of the East has been captured, the never-equalled thrill of the surging storms at sea, the anguished suspense of the battle with the whale, are some of the things that stand out most vividly.

But it is in the massing of detail that "The Sea Beast" achieves its total effect. Such things as the titles, by Rupert Hughes, the photography, by Byron Haskins, the scenario, by Bess Meredyth, are exceptionally fine; and, dominating all, the magnificent direction of Millard Webb. The cast is long and perfectly chosen, the outstanding performances, in addition to Barrymore's, being those of Dolores Costello and George O'Hara.

"The Sea Beast" is founded upon Herman Melville's novel, "Moby Dick."

Immense Sums for Jewels

According to George Frederick Kunz, considered the world's greatest authority on gems and research curator of precious stones in the American Museum of Natural History, the American public during one year spends close to half a billion dollars on jewelry, says the Thrift Magazine.

The history of precious stones, he says, shows us that the trading of precious stones dates from the earliest time. Undoubtedly one of the earliest markets for gems was that of Babylon at approximately 4,000 B. C. The emerald, lapis, Lazuli, garnet, agate, Amazon stone, hematite and jasper were the principal stones sold there. Then there were the cities of Egypt, Alexandria at one time was a great center. Then Athens, Constantinople, Augsburg and finally London, Paris and now New York.

Superstition has caused Kuo Chuenyen, a Hongkong millionaire, to give $200,000 for the restoration of two rivers to their original channels. At Ni-Shan, in Shantung province, birthplace of Confucius, the Chu and Sze are silting up, thus, according to superstition, being responsible for a gradual decline in classical learning in China. Mr. Kuo, therefore, decided to assist classical education by having the streams dredged and returned to their original beds.

Board of Relief.

NOTICE TO ARCHITECTS
Plans and specifications invited for the erection of buildings for the Mansfield State Training School and Hospital, at Mansfield Depot, Conn.
In conformity with the provisions of Section 64 of the General Statutes, Revision of 1918, "An Act Regulating the Employment of Architects on Public Buildings," architects are hereby invited to submit competitive plans for the following:
General Requirements:
Item 1. A Dining Room building for employees; room for 300, with coat rooms, lavatories, serving room, kitchen; one story; floors, rubber tile.
Item 2. Addition to Storehouse. Two story: 40x80; concrete foundation; cement floor, first floor; brick walls; to be heated from central power plant.
Item 3. Cottage for physician. Seven room; brick veneer. To have its own heating plant.
Cost not to exceed as follows:
Item 1. $40,000.00.
Item 2. $10,000.00.
Item 3. $,000.00.
The architect of the plans selected by the committee in charge will be employed to prepare the working drawings and specifications and to superintend the construction of the buildings. For his compensation he will receive the commission authorized by the American Institute of Architects. No compensation will be paid for plans not finally accepted.
An estimate of cost from some reliable contractor will be required to be submitted with each plan. All plans must be signed by the architect and deposited with the Comptroller of the State at his office in the Capitol, City of Hartford, not later than March 8th, 1926 at 12 o'clock noon, Standard Time.
The committee in charge, in accordance with law, will give a public hearing on said plans in Room 8, State Capitol, on the 15th day of March at 11 o'clock, A. M., Standard Time.
The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.
Dated at Hartford, Connecticut, this 3rd day of, February, 1926.
FREDERICK M. SALMON, Comptroller.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Chief financial interest this week centered in the announcement by the New York stock exchange, after the close of business today, that stock and bond collateral loans of members totaled $3,513,174,194, or about $1,000,000,000 above conservative prices will be awaited with widespread interest at the opening of Monday's markets.

Another interesting development of the week was the announcement that control of the Associated Oil company had been acquired by Blair and company, Inc., and the Chase Securities corporation at a price of $50 cash a share for a large block of stock. The company, which is the second largest producer in California, will eventually be merged with some other company, whose identity has not yet been revealed.

Consumation of a merger of Postum Cereal company and the California Packing company is scheduled for next week, when directors of the latter company will consider an offer of approximately $185 a share for the controlling stock interest.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The bond market last week added another page to its record of uninterrupted progress so far this year. Buoyed up by a steady flow of investment funds and a resumption of speculative operations in certain quarters, prices reached the highest level in several years. The action of the market seemed only to sharpen the demand for new issues, which appeared in large volume.

Despite their relatively limited appeal to investors, local traction bonds were the outstanding features of the week's trading from the standpoint of activity and strength. Buying was based on growing confidence that these companies will be restored to some degree of their former prosperity by the pledges of assistance from the new city administration. Large blocks of Interborough, New York Railways, Third Avenue Railway and Manhattan Elevated issues were accumulated during the week at gains ranging from 2 to 7 points.

Sugar company liens ranked second only to the tractions in capturing the favor of buyers.

Advance of 5 points or more took place during the week in bonds of the Warner Sugar estates of the Oriente and Varientes companies, while virtually all other sugar obligations participated in the movement with more moderate gains.

The demand for railroad securities converged on high yielding issues which had been neglected in recent buying operations, although the standard investment rails were by no means ignored.

New bond offerings last week failed to keep up with pace of more than $100,000,000 weekly which was maintained throughout anuary, but the demand was unabated and all issues were readily absorbed. The aggregate approximate $55,000,000 compared with the preceding week's record of about $162,000,000.

Within the next fortnight, the largest municipal bond flotation of recent years—$75,000,000 for the city of New York—is scheduled to appear on the market.

LITTLE CHEATING GIVES SULTAN HIS WINNINGS

Mulai Hafid, former Sultan of Morocco, is a born gambler. While he was still Sultan the French resident general of Morocco gave a party in his honor and, knowing the monarch's passion for gambling, organized a baccarat game. While Mulai Hafid was winning, a British newspaper man named Loria, who was losing, said: "You do wrong to take that money. It's against the teachings of the Koran."

This so worried the Sultan that he was on the point of giving back his winnings when he saw nearby the French chief justice, a recognized authority on Mussulman law. "Tell me," said the Sultan "whether it is against the Koran to take this money." The justice remained silent a moment before replying. "Your majesty, if you have played a straight game, you cannot touch this money because it is mere hasard that made you win, and it is forbidden by the Koran to take advantage of hasard.

"But if you—how shall I say?—forced you luck—I mean, cheated a little—you may put the money in your pocket because you won it by your skill and cleverness." The Sultan smiled. "Thou art the greatest and most learned judge I have ever met," and he pocketed the money.

4—Original stories or letters only will be used.

5—Write your name, age and address plainly at the bottom of the story.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES.

Jungle Jingles

Willy Worm, in the Bark of a Tree,
Has never had Tooth Ache, for he
(To tell you the truth)
Owns Never a Tooth,
So the Reason seems Quite Clear to me.

Old Timothy Titlemouse Trout
Is never much given to Gout.
He has no Feet to Pain,
And to me it seems Plain
That that is the Reason, no doubt.

Tillie Turtle is Patient, my pet.
She never was known to Fret
When her Ma Combed her Hair
And found Tangles there.
(That Tillie's quite bald, we regret).

A Monkey that lived in the East
Would Feed upon Nothing but Yeast:
And that made him so Light
That he Floated one Night
Ten Miles in the Air, ere he Ceased!

I once knew a Fish of the Sea,
So very much Traveled was He,
He swam clear to Spain,
Then Swam back again,
For the sake of the Sights he could see

The Elephant has a Long Nose,
But I would not Presume to Suppose
That he thinks it Too Long,
For that would be Wrong.
His Nose is just right, as he Knows.
—Roger Bingham.

The Goody-Goods.

O have you seen the Goody-Goods?
The Goody-Goods, you know,
Once bore the name of Baddy-Bads—
But that was weeks ago!

The Baddy-Bads, it has been said,
Are children, mostly small,
Who pout—and cut up didoes, too—
In summer, spring and fall.

But early in December month,
Throughout the neighborhood,
Each Baddy-Bad I've ever known
Becomes a Goody-Good!

I've often thought old Santa Claus
Must play some secret part
In making all the Baddy-Bads
Just then, have change of heart.

It's odd to see how good they get
As Christmas-time draws near;
They seldom say an ugly word—
They seldom shed a tear.

They wash their own hands, comb their hair—
The Goody-Goods, I mean;
Who was it said that Santa Claus
Likes children best when clean?

They now go quietly to bed,
But it's most queer, I'll say,
How many things there are for which
A Goody-Good can pray!
—William Herschell.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

With fields and woods covered with a deep blanket of snow our bird friends are having a hard time in finding enough food to keep them alive. A foot or more of snow with attending drifts has deeply covered the bare ground and made it impossible for the birds to seek out their ordinary food supplies. Here is a chance for boys and girls to do a real good turn for the birds which, as has been told before in this column, are the farmer's friends. Feed the birds, many of which are practically starving to death!

Set out a feeding box or board in a sheltered place in your yard, scatter some crumbs or small grains and then watch the hungry birds flock around for dinner. It won't take the feathered folk long to discover that some kind boy or girl has opened up an open air restaurant for their benefit and they will soon gather from all directions to enjoy the feast.

Perhaps at first only one or two birds will hover over the feeding place but if you will watch closely, from a window of your home or from some location where they will not see you, you will soon discover that they have a way of spreading the glad tidings to their bird friends for it won't be long before a whole flock of them will appear on rushing wings. Place food for them every day and you will have daily visits from the hungry feathered family.

TAFTVILLE

President Walter Wucjik presided at the regular monthly meeting of Branch 98, Polish Workers' Sick and Mutual Aid association held Sunday afternoon at the association rooms on Norwich avenue.

Patrick J. Fogarty of South Second avenue is an appendicitis patient at the William W. Backus hospital at Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Fitzgerald who were married last Monday at Sacred Heart church, have returned from their wedding trip and are at the home of Mrs. Fitzgerald's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dupont, of North B street. Mrs. Fitzgerald was before her marriage, Miss Beatrice Dupont.

A business meeting of the St. Jean Baptiste society was held Sunday afternoon at Parish hall.

Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis, pastor of the Taftville Congregational church, preached Sunday morning on the Christian Endeavor movement. In the evening the leader of the meeting at the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor, held in the vestry of the church, was Robert B. Schmidt, president of the local society and treasurer of the Norwich Christian Endeavor union. It was Christian Endeavor day, and as such was observed throughout the world. The topic of the meeting was, What Christian Endeavor Means to Me. Christian Endeavorers under the leadership of Fred L. Ball of Cleveland, are trying to raise a Francis E. Clark recognition fund of $100,000 in honor of the founder of Christian Endeavor, as a thanks offering for the 35 years he served without salary as president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. The interest is to be paid to Dr. and Mrs. Clark while they live, and after their death it is to be used for the home and foreign missionary work of the organization. The present head of the society is Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Reformed church of New York.

The members of the club des Vieux are having a radio receiving set installed in their rooms in the Poneman office building.

An interesting business meeting of the St. Louis society was held Friday evening at the St. Louis hall on Dion street.

Word received by friends in the village, stated that the funeral of William R. Booth of Providence, who died last week in Florida, is to be held in Providence.

Over the week-end, many sportsmen, interested in the preservation of game, took grain into the woods to scatter feed for the grouse, quail and pheasants.

MRS. HARRIET HINDLEY AT SPIRITUAL ACADEMY SERVICES

Large congregations greeted Mrs. Harriet Hindley, at the services at the Spiritual Academy Sunday and listened attentively to her most interesting discourses, and her splendid demonstrations of psychic power.

Mrs. Hindley is a new comer to Norwich and made many friends and admirers, by her charming personality and clearcut messages.

It was announced that the speaker for next Sunday will be Mrs. Mary Birchenough, of Providence, a speaker well known to the Norwich audiences.

HELP!

Members of the Norwich Fish and Game Association are requested to make every effort to relieve the Game Birds during the present severe conditions. Feed will be supplied by the Yantic Grain Co., upon presentation of membership card or through a letter from any official of the Norwich Fish and Game Association.

SUDDEN DEATH OF PROSPECT PARK WOMAN ON RETURN FROM SHOPPING

Taken suddenly ill about 3 o'clock Saturday night while on her way home from a grocery store, Carmella Andruskiewicz, wife of Antone Sznurkowski, died at her home, No. 19 Prospect Park shortly afterwards. She was assisted to her home and a call sent in for a physician but she died before medical aid could reach her. Death, it was claimed, was caused by a heart attack. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve investigated the woman's death.

Mr. Sznurkowski was born in Poland but the greater part or her life had been spent in this city. She was married in St. Mary's church a number of years ago. Mrs. Sznurkowski was the daughter of John and Veronica Lukowski Andruskiewicz. Surviving are three daughters, Betty, Hattie and Jane, five sons, John, Victor, Stanley, Anthony and Chester, two sisters, Mrs. Mary Jakuvowski, and Mrs. Antone Kosiowski, all of this city, two brothers, John Andruskiewicz of Wauregan and William Andruskiewicz of Norfolk, Va., and her mother.

GIVES DIRECTIONS FOR SHIPPING BABY CHICKS

Warnings have been issued by the post office department as to the proper way to ship baby chicks, the season for which is approaching. The following directions are given:

"As the time is approaching for the shipment of day-old chicks by parcel post, attention is called to the fact that they require very careful handling while in transit in the mails."

The rules, "to be strictly observed," follow.

"Do not give food or water to chicks while in transit.

Dispatch as quickly as possible and delvier to addressee promptly upon arrival at office of destination.

Do not place in mail bags or cover with other mail matter.

Always keep parcels right side up and as nearly level as possible.

Do not stack for any considerable length of time unless sufficient space is left between boxes for ventilation.

Do not expose to heat or cold, or place near hot pipes, stoves or radiators.

Protect them from all extremes of heat and cold.

Caution mailers as to the possibility of shipments made on Friday and Saturday reaching office of destination on Sunday, when no Sunday service is performed, thus necessitating the chicks remaining in the post office until the following morning. The same is true when shipments are made one or two days before a holiday.

Remember that day-old chicks are mailable only when the addressee can be reached before the chicks are 72 hours old and that every shipment must bear a special handling stamp and be given the same treatment as first class mail.

COMMON PLEAS JUDGE RESERVES SUIT DECISION

Judge Charles B. Waller in the court of common pleas at New London took the papers and reserved decision in the $350 damage suit of Sackett & Sheridan, real estate agents, of New London against Marie M. Beckwith, formerly of East Lyme, now of New York city. Attorney Frank L. McGuire appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney Thomas E. Treland for the defendant.

The suit was brought by the plaintiff firm to recover a commission of $250 alleged to be due in services for procuring a customer to purchase the defendant's farm for $5,000. The plaintiff firm alleged that the customer which they procured was ready, able and willing to buy and that a dispute over the commission after a binder of $200 had been made, caused the defendant to sign over the deeds.

Robert W. and Clara L. Rasmussen, man and wife, were the customers for the property.

Following the conclusion of the case, the trial suit of John J. Ryan against John Turello, both of New London, was started, but continued until Monday at Norwich. This suit arises out of rent alleged to be due the plaintiff.

RELATIVES ENGAGE IN FIGHT IN GREENEVILLE

Ludwik Golumbiewski, his wife Mary and her brother, John Andurkiewicz, were arrested Saturday night about 11:30 after a free for all fight near the corner of North Main and Tenth street. One of the two men fled down the railroad track and was captured after a chase by Officer Partick Shahan, who accompanied Sergeant Mathew Delaney in making the arrests. The trio of fighters was brought to police headquarters in an automobile that happened to come along at the right time. The three fighters spent the rest of the night in cells.

An appraisal of the estate of David Hale Fanning of Worcester, who died suddenly two weeks ago, shows that he left an estate valued at $1,832,000, according to notations on a bond for $3,000,000 filed in the probate court at Worcester by the Old Colony Trust Co. of Boston, which was executor of his will.

The personal property amounts to about $1,800,000 and the real estate is valued at about $32,000.

DUWELLS ELECT AND RECEIVE NEW MEMBERS

A number of new members were received by the Duwell Athletic club and officers were elected as follows at the club meeting Friday evening.

President, Frank M. Green; vice president, James V. Pedace, financial secretary, Archie Spalding; recording secretary, Archie Spalding; treasurer, William Pedace.

Trustees appointed were William Shanley, Leon Dix, for three years; Ralph Patrick and Peter Barber, for two years, Dominic Pedace and Charles Dickerman, for one year.

SOCIAL CORNER POEM INTERESTS JEWETT CITY

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 7—In Saturday's Social Corner, in The Bulletin, local people were interested in the reprint of the poem, Dying Californian.

Authentic records are available to prove that John Owen, was the subject of the verse, and John Owen, late of Jewett City, now of Providence was the Dying Californian's son.

A. T. Sullivan Residing in Rochester

Through a regrettable misunderstanding in reporting the participation of Miss Ruth Sullivan as organist in a musical vesper service at a church in Rochester, N. Y., the impression was given that Miss Sullivan's father, Augustus T. Sullivan, formerly of this city, was no longer living. This was an error as Mr. Sullivan is at present residing in Rochester.

Sparks Made Fire Call

Saturday evening at 9.44 o'clock Squad A, and the deputy chief's car responded to a telephone call from the police department for a supposed fire at the building at No. 256 Main street, occupied by the Shu-Fix store. A stream of parks seen coming from the chimney was responsible for the call as the chimney had every appearance of being on fire.

GROSVENORDALE CO. MAKING DISPLAY OF NEW GOODS

Exhibitions of textile products which will demonstrate the changes made in the lines of fabrics being produced and the progress made by manufacturers in their efforts to meet the changed conditions in the industry are being planned by a number of New England mills.

The exhibits will show that a number of the mills have almost abandoned the manufacture of old lines of goods which they have sold for many years. The first of the proposed series of "educational exhibits" is being held in the Rhode Island Hospital Trust company, and will continue throughout the week. W. S. Pepperell, president of the Rhode Island Textile Association believes such exhibitions will prove an effective answer to the loose talk that New England has lost its prestige in the industry." The purpose of it is, he continued, is to demonstrate the possibilities of meeting changed conditions in the textile business and the competition of southern and foreign mills.

The Grosvenordale company which was founded at Nasonville, Conn., in 1813 and manufactured such staple products as sheetings, muslins, long cloths for about 100 years, presents the new fabrics made up of cotton and rayon, cotton mixed with silk and cotton mixed with wool to obtain the novelty and attractiveness which is now interesting the buying public. The company has mills at Grosvenordale, North Grosvenordale, Conn., and at Warren, R. I. The production of the oldtime staples by this company as well as numerous others in New England now represents but a minor part of its total output.

New lines of broadcloth for shirtings and dress goods, cotton and silk voiles, plain and fancy crepes in rayon and real silk, sateens, twills and pongees are a part of the exhibit. There is also a special line of underwear fabrics of both cotton and silk ranging from corset and brassiere cloth to the finest, sheerest weaves for women's wear. It incluces a broad range of lining cloths and pocketings together with bengalines, poplins, repps and rayon alpacas.

The Grosvenordale Company employs 1,400 persons at Warren, R. I. and 1,250 in Connecticut. The officers are: President, William Grosvenor; treasurer, A. W. Dimick; resident agent in Warren; H. J. Gourley and resident agent in Connecticut, J. F. Reardon.

BALTIC WOMAN BRINGS SUIT AGAINST HUSBAND

On a claim for $2,000 against her husband Joseph Duhaime of Taftville, suit has been brought against him in the superior court by Mrs. Mary Duhaime of Baltic.

The suit is instituted on the common counts. Mrs. Duhaime is employed as a cook in one of the boarding houses at Baltic and it is said has not lived with her husband for some time. Her husband is the owner of a large farm just outside of Taftville on the Canterbury turnpike, which has fallen somewhat into litigation and it is claimed that Mrs. Duhaime has advanced money to keep the farm up.

For the past week nothing has been seen of Mr. Duhaime and it was reported that service upon him personally could not be made. Deputy Sheriff Oscar Main has attached property in the suit.

Mission at Christ Church

The mission for preaching and healing to be held at Christ Episcopal church will begin next Wednesday night at 7.30 with Rev. D. Robert Bailey, missioner. It will open with the singing of missions hymns and then the instruction and healing, followed by the main topic "God's Will for the World," the first evening.

Those in charge of the mission emphasize the invitation and welcome to all who will attend. There will be interesting questions asked from the question box and answered each night, special solos and hearty singing. Thursday morning at 10.30 a Eucharist with meditation. The sacrifice will be offered each day for the conversion of souls and the reenlistment of those careless in their religious life to a spirit of faithfulness and devotion.

CLOSE OBSERVANCE OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR WEEK

The Young Peoples Christian Endeavor society of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town, held a most interesting service Sunday evening at seven o'clock, in the church auditorium. With the prayer meeting committee in charge, Mrs. Burton Jopson, chairman, this special service was in observance of Christian Endeavor Day; also in recognition of Dr. Francis E. Clark, D. D., L. L. D., the founder of Christian Endeavor. This marked the closing of C. E. week which has been observed all over the world, January 31st to February 7th, inclusive.

"It was during his first pastorate in the Williston Congregational church, Portland, Maine, February 2nd, 1881, that the first Christian Endeavor society was organized by Dr. Clark, (Father Endeavor Clark.) Christian Endeavor has grown since then until today there are more than 4,000,000 Endeavorers and over 100,000 young peoples societies that have a common origin; grown until in every Protestant Evangelical church, the movement this young pastor of Portland, Me., under God gave to the world has its honored place, and until in every land and race its message and principles are vitalizing the Christian life of young people. Perhaps no other man of the modern church has ever been held so devotedly in the affection of youth. It has been said of Dr. Clark that he is a great man by any test. He is great as an appraiser of men. He is great as a prophet, for he has seen vast enterprises and strategic campaigns long before their actual beginnings. He is great as a writer, having produced more than sixty books and thousands of newspaper and magazine articles. His literary style becomes yearly more engaging and brilliant. Dr. Clark is great as a Christian Statesman. He has been foremost in the ranks of those who have promoted good will and understanding among peoples and peace between their nations.

"On his Christian Endeavor journeys, Dr. Clark has travelled more than a million miles, including four trips around the world. He has dined with kings and been honored by presidents; but has always lived "in a house by the side of the road and been a friend to man." Inseparably associated, not only with his life, but with his far-reaching ministry, is his wife, who was Harriet Elizabeth Abbott, a descendent of Priscilla and John Alden. A gracious and brilliant woman she has shared his journeys and his sacrifices, and is co-partner in the love and gratitude of the youthful host he leads.

"The Recognition fund for Dr. and Mrs. Clark which is being raised by the C. E. societies in this and foreign countries, will serve a gracious impulse of our hearts, will be a well earned though slight recognition of all that our beloved leader has done and will at last bring support to the work he is today the very embodiment of. But certainly money can never adequately express our love, nor is this gift to be regarded as a "retiring fund." Pilots may change but our captain has not left the ship.

"Dr. Clark, not only unique in his contribution of vision and leadership, is also unique in the gift of his services. He has never been on the salaried list of the Christian Endeavor society, and already from the financial returns his literary labors have enjoyed, he has given in money thousands of dollars to the movement he founded." The above extolling words were prepared as a tribute to Dr. Clark, by Rev. Daniel A. Poling, D. D., L. L. D., president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor and successor to Dr. Clark.

It was at the International Christian Endeavor convention held at Portland, Oregon, July 5-9, 1925, that many high tributes were paid to Dr. Clark upon his retirement. The resolution of its nominating committee to raise a fund of $100,000 to be known as The Dr. Francis E. Clark Recognition Fund, the interest of which is to go to Dr. and Mrs. Clark, as long as they live; and then at their death become a Memorial Fund, the interest of the same to go to the work of Christian Endeavor, was most heartily approved by the convention.

Dr. Clark was born in Aylmer, Quebec, September 12th, 1851, the son of Charles Carey Symmes and Lydia Fletcher Clark. His father was a pioneer civil engineer, while his mother was a talented woman of unusual Christian character and attainments and a pupil of Mary Lyon. At the death of her husband Mrs. Symmes established a private school in her home, where the children of the town and county came to her for instruction. In this brave adventure, the ordeal over taxed her strength and very soon after the death of her elder son Charles, a most promising lad, she too, gave up the unequal struggle. Thus when the man destined to become world-famous, was eight years old, the Rev. Edward W. Clark, a widely known Congregational clergyman of New England, adopted the orphaned son of his sister; and so as Francis E. Clark, the world has known him ever since. Dr. Clark is a graduate of Dartmouth and of Andover Theological Seminary, having entered the ministry of the Congregational church in 1876.

During the service, at the Norwich Town Congregational church, Sunday evening, the above interesting facts concerning the life and activities of Dr. Clark, were attended to by the several C. E., members who had a part on the programme, Miss Ida Beebe, president of the Young Peoples C. E. society, who was in charge of the meeting was the leader of the responsive reading, which followed the opening hymn. After another hymn, prayer for Dr. and Mrs. Clark was offered by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey. The Scripture reading was from Matthew 20:25-28. Ralph H. Marsh read the statement on the Francis E. Clark Recognition Fund. Mr. Marsh also added to the programme with his violin, having accompanied for the hymns and during the service played a solo with Miss Bernice Underwood accompanying. Three talks of three minutes each, on "Appreciations of Christian Endeavor," were given by one active member of the local society, Miss Underwood, and two former active members Dwight W. Avery and Henry T. Frazier, two of the church deacons. The article read by Mr. Marsh said in closing: Tonight we are to participate with all Endeavorers and friends of Dr. and Mrs. Clark and make our contribution to the fund. Each state will present to Dr. Clark a volume in which all names, though not the amounts given, of those who give will be inscribed in their own hand writing. Surely, remembering all that Christian Endeavor has done for the world and the loving, devoted service of Dr. Clark through all the years, we must thank God for the privilege of making our gift, large or small, toward this fund. Before the meeting was over those present signed the loose-leaf for the state book, and deposited their money. After reading the Christian Endeavor pledge in unison, and the singing of the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," the meeting concluded with prayer for world-wide Christian Endeavor and benediction. The collection in all will amount to more than $11. That the Christian Endeavor movement has grown rapidly is evidenced by the following. There are 4,000,000 members in the world, representing 100,000 societies and 47 denominations. Six thousand new societies have been formed in America in the past two years. There are twenty foreign papers and magazines devoted to C. E. movements; and more than a score of foreign countries involving many societies. Africa has the largest society and Alaska the smallest, the last mentioned at certain times of year being represented by only one member.

In the Norwich Town Young Peoples C. E. society, there has been 350 people join during its forty-two years existence. This society has been represented by several who have become ministers, as well as missionaries, having had four of its members serving as missionaries abroad and three in missionary places in America. At the time of its organization November 23rd, 1884, there were twenty-three charter members, thirteen of whom are now living. One of these is the pastor of the church, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, who resided in Norwich Town, when attending Norwich Free Academy.

The first officers of this society were: President, Arron W. Dickie; vice president, Gurdon F. Bailey; secretary, Herbert L. Yerington. Thurston Bonney was the leader of the first meeting. Besides the officers there were, and have since existed, several different committees all working for the good of the society in the Masters name.

Norwich Christian Endeavor union, was formed in the Norwich Town Congregational church, in 1888, with Mr. Dickey as president.

Bus Was Run Into

One of the motor busses of the New England Transportation company, operated by Joseph Martell of 42 Mt. "They haven't missed a single day at school!"

"They're well all the time. The doctor says they are the healthiest children he knows.

"He told me constipation is what makes so many growing children sickly. Poisons from the waste matter spread through the little bodies, and lower their resistance to disease. So I'm very careful to guard against constipation. I simply give them a little Nujol every night.

"Nujol isn't a laxative at all, you know, but it keeps them just as regular as clockwork. They like it, and the doctor says it's just the thing for them."

Nujol Helps Nature in Nature's Own Way

Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When their children's health is at stake they seek the remedy that medical authorities approve because it is so safe, so gentle, so natural in its action.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body.

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination, without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time. Ask your druggist for Nujol today and let your children enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when their elimination is normal and regular.

Response Divine

"While they are yet speaking, I will hear." Is. 65:24.

The midnight flush falls o'er Jerusalem,
Veils house of Mark and scowls secluded there
Behind fast bolted doors, them Herod may not find,
Their hearts united both in fear and prayer.

In silence has James suffered martyr's death,
His tragic story not as Stephen's told,
Nor scarce dare friends to speak above a breath
For valorous Peter, too, the King's guards hold.

Sixteen armed soldiers watch him, four by four,
Two at his arms enchained, two at the door,
Escape impossible, else earthquake jars
The iron gate locked close with heavy bars.

The King, vain theater lover, plans to make,
For crowds agape for trials and death-play,
A murderous scene when 'morrow's sun shall break
And shackled Peter's led from cell away.

What can these anxious souls thro' prayer expect?
How'er they intercede, fell powers have won;
Though two or three unite, to what effect?
Their prayer can be but Christ's—"Thy will be done!"

They hear not clank of prison chains that break,
Know not how swift Heaven's answering their cry,
Nor dream an Angel's whispering, "Peter, wake!
Slip on thy sandals—follow—thou'lt not die!"

Knocks startle at the door! Who may dare ope!
Maid Rhoda, go and list—or gently speak.
Not soldiers by mad Herod sent, we'll hope,
Softly, "Who is it?" Some spy's dastard freak!

"Peter am I—not spirit! Prayer has won,
The prison doors flew open—here am I,
By Angel safe escorted have I come,
Go, tell the brethren I from Herod fly!"

"Thy will be done," they'd prayed—this was His will
Who likewise bears all hearts in Christ who live,
And firm in trust believe Him ready still
To send His Angels—freedom to captives give.

"Thy will be done"—and when it's not His will
In wisdom and in love requests to grant,
Whose every promise made He'll sure fulfill—
"The Lord's my shepherd, and I shall not want."
—By Rev. George G. Phipps.

The Betrayal of the Rose

A white rose had a sorrow—
And a strange sorrow!
For her sisters they had none,
As they all sat around her,
Each on her feudal throne.
A strange sorrow—
For one with no tomorrow,
No yesterday, to call her own,
But only today.

A white rose had a sorrow
And a sweet sorrow!
She had locked it in her breast
Save that one outer petal,
Less guarded than the rest
(Oh, fond sorrow!)
From the red rose did borrow
Blushes, and the truth confessed
In the red rose's way!

INCOME TAX RETURNS TO BE WITHHELD FROM THE PRYING

Amendment to Leave the Returns Open to Public Inspection Was Defeated 49 to 32 in the Senate Last Night—Vote Removes One of the Stumbling Blocks in the Senate Consideration of the Tax Reduction Bill—Tax Measure Should Be Passed Wednesday if Tax Reduction is to Be Assured by March 15.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Repeal of the law allowing publication of the amounts of income tax payments was approved tonight by the senate.

The action of the house in putting this provision in the tax reduction bill was accepted by acclamation after the senate had rejected 49 to 32, the Norris amendment to open all income tax returns to public inspection.

The senate went into its first night meeting of the session, before reaching a vote on the publicity provision, which was regarded as one of the most controversial points in the bill.

Determined to get a final vote on the measure before the end of the week, both republicans and democratic leaders were prepared to continue the day and night sessions.

Wednesday has been set as the deadline for passage of the bill by the senate if tax reduction is to be assured by March 15, when first income installments are due.

The bill, as it now stands, provides that tax returns shall be opened to investigation by special congressional committees and also provides for the appointment of a joint congressional committee of ten to investigate and keep in touch with the administration of the internal revenue bureau at all times.

The latter committee would have power to inspect all returns and those opposing full publicity regarded this as a compromise on the present law allowing publication of the amounts of tax payments.

The present law permitting publication of income tax payments was denounced by both advocates and opponents of the full publicity amendment. Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, who had drafted an amendment proposing continuation of the present system, did not present it for a vote. Two years ago the senate, by a vote of 47 to 27, adopted the amendment it defeated tonight.

Those voting for publicity were:

Republicans: Borah, Capper, Couzens, Frazier, Gooding, Howell, Johnson, Jones, of Washington; LaFollette, Lenroot, McMaster, McNary, Norbeck, Norris, and Nye—total 15.

Democrats: Ashurst, Blease, Bratton, Dill, Ferris, Harris, Heflin, Kendrick, King, McKellar, Neely, Reed, of Missouri; Sheppard, Smith, Trammell, and Walsh—total 16.

Farmer-labor: Shipstead—total 1. Grand total 32.

Those voting against were:

Republicans: Bingham, Butler, Cameron, Dale, Deneen, Edge, Ernst, Fernald, Fess, Gillett, Goff, Hale, Harrel, Moses, Oddie, Pepper, Reed, of Pennsylvania; Robinson, of Indiana; Sackett, Schall, Shortridge, Smoot, Stanfield, Wadsworth, Warren, Watson, Weller, Williams and Willis—33.

Democrats: Bayard, Broussard, Bruce, Copeland, Edwards, Fletcher, George, Gerry, Glass, Harrison, Overman, Pittman, Ransdell, Simmons, Stephens and Swanson—16. Grand total 49.

Offering full publicity of tax returns as a safeguard against "fraud and corruption" in the internal revenue bureau, Senator Norris led the fight for adoption of his amendment in a speech which took up more than half of the eleven hours' session. He declared it was not the intent of the senate in voting for publicity two years ago to make it mandatory that just the amounts of tax paid should be published.

"Your proposal is ten times worse," Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, declared. "It will allow not only the publication of the amounts of tax paid, but all the intimate details of a taxpayer's business which must necessarily be placed in the return."

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, replied that newspapers would not go to the trouble of printing all of this information or even of obtaining the amounts of income tax paid if the law did not require the internal revenue collectors to publish these lists as at present.

Senator Wadsworth, republican, New York, insisted that if full publicity was allowed "a small army of agencies will spring up prepared to sell private information obtained from the government."

GERMAN CABINET VOTES MEMBERSHIP IN L. OF N.

BERLIN, Feb. 8—(AP)—Germany's formal application for membership in the league of nations is believed to be on the way to Geneva tonight. The cabinet today approved the draft of the application, and took up, as well, the subject matter of Premier Mussolini's speech.

Mussolini's denunciation of Germany, it was declared, affected in no way the government's previous decision respecting the league of nations. It is known that the members of the cabinet devoted the greater part of their deliberations to the question of countering the Italian premier's outbreak.

An official communique, issued at the conclusion of the sessions, reviews in great detail the political and economic drift of European affairs since the signing of the treaty of Versailles, and sets forth the reasons why it was impossible for Germany to file her application earlier.

Specific reference is made to the occupation of the Ruhr and its disastrous effects on Germany's economic welfare. Her patience in hte league, its communique states, will afford Germany the necessary opportunity for active participation in the task of developing the wide range of post-war problems, and, above all, will accomplish realization of the aims and purposes of the Locarno agreements, which are destined to furnish a firm foundation for the promotion of European peace.

TRIAL ON SEVEN COUNTS OF HIGHWAY ROBBERY

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 8—(AP)—Trial in the case of John Troy and Dennis J. Britt, charged with seven counts of highway robbery last June had progressed so far when Judge P. Brown, adjourned the criminal division of the superior court, that it is expected the evidence will be complete by tomorrow's adjournment.

The government today produced witnesses who claimed they were held up by three men last August but only one of them identified either of the defendants as participating in the crime. He was Anthony Varrano who said that John Troy was one of the men who stopped his automobile on the Grafton road on August 13 and at the point of a pistol robbed him of his glasses and 50 cents. Cross examination revealed that Varrano knew Troy because he had seen him while he, the witness, was serving a term in jail.

RITZ ON HONEYMOON WITH 16-YEAR OLD WIFE

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Separated immediately after their elopement by the bride's mother, Charles Ritz, 35 year old son of the hotel founder, and his 16 year old wife were reported today to be reunited and on their honeymoon, Mrs. C. Gordon Pearce, the bride's mother, who insisted on her daughter's return after the marriage, would not confirm the report. She said she would issue a statement later.

The couple eloped to New Jersey to be married but after the ceremony the bride returned to her parents' home alone and it was learned that her mother considered the marriage a violation of an agreement with Ritz, that he would not marry her daughter until she reached the age of 18.

OPENING OF N. Y. RUBBER EXCHANGE POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Feb. 19—(AP)—The opening of the Rubber Exchange of New York, Inc., originally scheduled for today, has been postponed to February 15. The institution will be the second organized in New York to deal in this commodity. The rubber trading division of the Cocoa and Rubber Exchange of America opened for business on February 2.

TO INVESTIGATE COAL SITUATION IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 8—(AP)—Mayor Behrens was authorized to appoint a committee to investigate the coal situation following a public hearing tonight in the crowded council room. The council session was called, expressed for consideration of the coal question.

Mayor Behrens assured spokesmen for the public that municipal authorities will urge the state's representatives in congress to attempt to influence President Coolidge to intervene and bring about a settlement of the strike. It was suggested that he call mayors of the state together to have them request Governor John H. Trumbull to bring pressure to bear on the president. No action to this effect was taken.

CALL FOR ASSISTANCE IN FEEDING OF BIRDS

HARTFORD, Feb. 8—(AP)—Thousands of game birds and smaller winter visiting birds are finding it difficult to find food because of the heavy snows covering the state and a special appeal has been made by Superintendent John W. Titcomb of the fisheries and game department, to sportsmen, boy scouts and others to assist in feeding the flocks of quail, pheasants and grouse, which otherwise may starve.

The superintendent advises that an intermediate chick feed is best with a slight mixture of poultry grit. Almost any mixed grains will answer, he says, keeping in mind that the finer the grains are, the less the crows will get.

CREW OF FRENCH FISHING SCHOONER RESCUED AT SEA

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—News of the rescue at sea of the crew of the French fishing schooner Muguet was received by the French consul here today from the French consul general in New York. The message said that the U. S. Shipping board steamer West Harcuvar, Hamburg to Boston, had the rescued men aboard and requested that they be provided with clothing, food and shelter on arrival here next Wednesday or Thursday.

The schooner which registered 100 tons, left Bordeaux Sept. 23, and sailed from the Azores, Dec. 18, for the fishing banks off Iceland.

DAYTON, Ohio, Feb. 8—(AP)—Fire, which destroyed several buildings and their contents at Wilbur Wright field today caused a total loss of $762,000 Major A. W. Robbins, commandant, said tonight.

The greatest item of loss was engine parts and equipment which totalled $580,836.

Collapse in Prices of Several Food Shares

Anti-Trust Proceedings Federal Government Inspired Heavy Selling and Caused Depression.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—A sudden collapse in the prices of several food shares overshadowed all other developments in today's stock market, which was called upon to discount several news developments, capable of bearish interpretation.

California Packing broke 22 1-2 points to 152 1-2 on the announcement that the Postum Cereal company had withdrawn its offer to purchase a majority interest in that company. Postum stock broke over 9 points to 110 and then rallied to 112 3-4.

The filing of anti-trust proceedings the federal government in an attempt to prevent the formation of a huge combination in the baking industry by the Ward interests and others inspired heavy selling of Ward B stock which broke over 14 points to 66 1-2, and then snapped back to 69 1-4. Shares of the Continental Baking and General Baking company, mentioned with the Ward company in the government's complaint and traded in on the New York curb market, also were sharply depressed.

These developments made it difficult to determine with any degree of precision, the effect of the announcement after the close on Saturday that stock and bond loans of members of the New York stock exchange exceeded $8,500,000,000 or $1,003,000,000 above the average of previous estimates. That the huge volume of credit employed in the securities markets was the cause of some uneasiness was apparent, however, from the fact that the renewal rate on call loans was fixed at five per cent., despite the large increase in excess reserve shown in last Saturday's clearing house statement, and that there was a stiffening in time money rates which were quoted at 4 5-8 to 4 3-4 in stead of 4 1-2 to 4 5-8 per cent.

Except in the food shares, which were weak from the outset as a result of the announcement in this morning's papers that the department of justice was preparing to move quickly against certain phases of recent mergers, the opening decline was an orderly one. Some of the motors and high priced specialities reacted 1 to 4 points, but the standard industrials and rails offered stubborn resistance to selling pressure.

It was not until after banks began calling loans and the rate was marked up to 5 1-2 per cent., and the details of the government's suit against the bakery companies became known, that sellin assumed rather general proportions. Motors and other speculative industrials, particularly those which have been mentioned in connection with recent merger reports, were the hardest hit.

DECLINED TO MAKE PUBLIC 1925 SALES OF BAKERIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Disinclination of George C. Barber, chairman of the Continental Baking corporation of Baltimore, to make public the 1925 sales of the bakeries comprising the corporation, resulted this afternoon in an adjournment of the federal trade commission's hearing into the concern's affairs. Mr. Barber said, however, that he would willingly reveal the figures to the federal examiner privately.

BEQUESTS IN THE WILL OF WILLIAM M. WOOD

SALEM, Mass., Feb. 8—(AP)—The will of William H. Wood, former president of the Americin Woolen company, filed here today for probate, divided the principal estate into three trusts for the benefit of two surviving children and the children of the late William M. Wood, Jr., all personal tangible property is left to the widow and a clause in the will says:

"My failure to provide otherwise in the will for my wife is due to no lack or love or appreciation, but in this I act in accordance with her expressed wish."

Two parts of the estate are left to Cornelius A. Wood and the Old Colony Trust company as trustees for Cornelius A. Wood and Rosalind Wood, the surviving children of the testator, "for life and then to be disposed of as they by will shall appoint."

The other one-third is left in trust for the children of William M. Wood, Jr. Among other bequests are three of $50,000 each to Willard A. Currier, of Shawsheen, a friend of the Wood family for many years, Mr. Wood's bookkeeper, and George M. Wallace, West Parish, Andover, is bequeathed $10,000; August and Peter Fredrikson, employes at the Wood estate, will receive $5,000 each. Several or former employes are given $1,000 each.

TO REGULATE FILM SHOWS IN GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON, Feb. 8—(AP)—A bill to regulate the exhibition of motion pictures in Great Britain, prepared by the Federation of British industries after consultation with the president of the Board of Trade, is expected to be introduced shortly in the house of commons.

The bill proposes that no film shall be exhibited until it has been registered by a special authority to be composed of three official members, one, the chairman, to have legal experience, and four experts drawn from panels representing authors, film manufacturers and exhibitors. This authority, it is provided, shall not register any foreign films unless the person representing it for registration has acquired the right to rent British films in a certain prescribed proportion and can show evidence of a bona fide intention to publicly exhibit such British films in Great Britain.

The bill does not prescribe the amount of this proportion, but permits a suspension of the required quota when the supply of British films is inadequate for a reasonable maintenance of the theatre programs.

OPENED VILLA'S VAULT AND CUT OFF HIS HEAD

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mex., Feb. 8—(AP)—The bandits who broke open the vault containing General Francisco Villa's body and cut off his head, are on their way to Columbus, New Mexico, advices received here today stated.

Troops were dispatched by the commander of the Chihuahua garrison to intercept the bandits. A note was left by the robbers in the grave saying they would deliver Villa's head to Columbus for $5,000.

Death Sentence Given For Felonious Assault

Harry Butler, Negro, Georgetown, Del., to Be Hanged Feb. 26—Girl Victim Was 10 Years Old.

GEORGETOWN, Del., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Delaware national guardsmen were forced to resort to tear gas bombs today to protect Harry Butler, 21-year-old negro, from a crowd of threatening citizens who surged about the court house during his trial on charges of feloniously attacking a 12-year-old girl.

Three guardsmen and a young woman were overcome by the fumes as the bombs were hurled into the crowd of more than 2,000 persons by members of the 98th anti-aircraft artillery, who were stationed here until late tonight. After the crowd had been dispersed quiet settled down over the little town and tonight there was no indication of further trouble.

Butler, whose trial was started shortly after 10 o'clock this morning was convicted by a jury of Sussex county farmers a few minutes after 4 o'clock. He was sentenced to be hanged in the yard of the county jail here on Friday, Feb. 26, between 10 o'clock and 3 o'clock.

Threats had been made against the negro, who criminally attacked Elenor Steinmetz, of Near Bridgeville, Del. Three companies of national guardsmen were sent here to prevent possible trouble during his trial and barbed wire barriers were erected about the court house.

When the crowd surged against the barbed wire barriers, most of the 24 loaded machine guns erected to guard the court house were trained on them. Officers including Major S. B. I. Duncan of Wilmington, who was in direct command of the troops, attempted to persuade the throng to leave the vicinity of the barriers. The more the officers talked the more infuriated the crowd became. Several of the men grabbed one of the guards and threw him to the ground.

These men were placed under arrest but were released tonight.

Orders were then issued to the guardsmen to don gas masks and to throw the tear-gas bombs which they carried. Guardsmen ran to the roof of the court house and began hurling tear-gas candles, contrivances resembling small cans. The candles began burning, sending the choking and burning gas fumes up and down the street. Other guards on the ground began hurling their bombs. In a few minutes the vicinity of the court house with its barbed wire entanglements and breatworks of sand bags behind which machine guns were erected resembled a sector of no man's land.

The crowd broke, running in all directions.

Butler himself was the only defense witness called. He admitted attacking the girl. He received the verdict and death sentence without show of emotion.

He will be hanged in this county, and it will be the first to take place here in 29 years.

REQUESTS COOLIDGE'S VIEWS ON ANTHRACITE SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—While President Coolidge was asked today in a letter by Representative Bloom, democrat, New York, to make known his views as to the necessity of the anthracite situation, a number of house republicans took steps to bring about the coal legislation by the house interstate commerce committee.

Meanwhile, the New York and New Jersey democratic house delegations made public a telegram declining an invitation to a coal conference in New York city tonight, on the ground that their efforts to obtain relief from the suspension would be of more benefit if directed here.

Predicting action by congress within 24 hours on any proposal that might be made by the white house, Mr. Bloom asked for a pronouncement so that the people might know where the government stands with reference to this drastic condition."

The house republicans sponsoring the move to initiate coal hearings addressed a letter to Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the republican leader, asking that they be given a hearing before the republican steering committee to discuss the advisability of the commerce committee getting to work on the coal situation.

The letter was signed by Representatives Treadway, of Massachusetts; Wainwright, Tolley, and Fish, of New York, and Gibson, of Vermont.

CHANDLER CALL IS FROM STATE C. OF C., OF OHIO

HARTFORD, Feb. 8—(AP)—The call which Executive Vice President George B. Chandler, of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce has received is from the state chamber of commerce of Ohio, Ernest E. "FINANCIAL WIZARD" PONZI INDICTED AT JACKSONVILLE

Action Taken on Information Filed Through Efforts of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce and the Better Business Bureau—Ponzi's Wife Among Four Indicted—Conviction Carries a Sentence of Two Years in the State Penitentiary or a Fine of $1,000 on Each of Four Counts..

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 8—(AP)—Charles Ponzi, "financial wizard" of Massachusetts, together with three associates in the Charpon Land syndicate, was indicted today by a Florida grand jury on four counts, alleging violations of "declaration of trust" laws.

The true bill was returned by the Duval county grand jury. The syndicate is at present offering for sale principally property in Columbia county, southwest of Lake City.

Those indicted with Ponzi were: Rosa Maria Ponzi, his wife; Emma Alviti and her husband, Calcedonia Alviti.

All four were indicted on four counts under chapter 9125, Florida acts of 1923, "an act regulating persons and associates doing business under a declaration of trust," the counts follow:

1—Offering certificates of indebtedness for sale without filing a proper declaration of trust.

2—Selling certificates of indebtedness without filing a proper declaration of trust.

3—Selling certificates of indebtedness without procuring from the state comptroller and attorney general a permit to offer for sale or selling certificates of indebtedness.

4—Failure to pay license fee of $150 for a declaration of trust.

Each count of the indictment upon conviction carries a sentence of two years in the state penitentiary, or a fine of $1,000.

Immediately after the grand jury returned the indictments, Judge George Cooper Gibbs issued capiases for Ponzi and his associates.

Ponzi and his wife are said to be in Tampa. Alviti is in Boston under bond pending appeal action from a six months' "work-house sentence" following conviction of violation of the Massachusetts "blue sky" law. Mrs. Alviti is said to be with him.

The case against Ponzi was developed under the direction of State's Attorney Charles M. Durrance by H. G. Mitchell, special representative of the National Better Business Bureau, John Garver, of the same organiation. Morgan Griswold, post office inspector detailed to the Ponzi case and officials of the state Chamber of Commerce. The investigation is said to have been under way for six weeks.

Ponzi became internationally known through his dealings in international reply coupons in Boston in 1920.

An investigation resulted in his being sentenced to five years in the Plymouth, Massachusetts jail after his conviction in United States District court. He was released from custody in the spring of 1925.

He is under sentence now of seven years in the Massachusetts penitentiary, and is under bond pending the outcome of an appeal. This sentence also resulted from his alleged fraudulent activities in the reply coupons.

Ponzi came to Florida and Jacksonville—his headquarters city—October, last, using the assumed name of Charles Borelli, until discovered.

He has declared numerous times that this purpose in coming to Florida and entering the land selling activities was in an effort to recoup his "lost fortune" and thereby pay his New England creditors. He estimated shortly after arrival here that he still owed approximately $2,000,000.

STILLMANS DELIGHTED TO BE TOGETHER AGAIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman, bound for Europe and a trial reconciliation aboard the Olympic, are "delighted with life" together again, according to a radio message from Mrs. Stillman received by a New York friend today and reported to the New York American.

The message, partly in a code said to have been arranged before the couple sailed, was interpreted to mean there had been no slip in their plan to span the gap between them made by their divorce case. It read in part:

"Everything O. K. with us. Pretty hot on the firing line. How is your sector. Mouth shut tight. Delighted with life."

Another phrase, in code, was translated into "we are sincerely and honestly searching each other's hearts."

Meanwhile, reports of the ways in which both the banker and his heretofore estranged wife had sought to clear the ground for an understanding and reunion continued to accumulate. One of them reported Mrs. Stillman as saying to her husband, when they were in her stateroom shortly before the Olympic sailed:

"James A., during the later years of our marriage, I thought you were snobbish, unforgiving, and prosaic. So I went out to flip my fan at the wrold, and show that all men ar selaves to the perfume of a woman's personality. You resented it, and I don't blame you.

"Beneath the staggering burdens of your money bags, I believe, now, you are a poet at heart."

YALE JUNIOR "PROM" RADIANT WITH COLOR

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 8—(AP)—The supreme event socially in under graduate life at Yale university—the junior promenade—was held tonight in Yale dining hall. Like those which had preceded it stretching back into Yale college under graduate life for three-quarters of a century it was radiant with color. Charming young women gave animation to it and smart gowns and delightful music made it all that the most imaginative junior had hoped for.

Tomorrow, the promenade guests will find many diversions and afternoon and evening the dramatic association will present "Out of Luck," the Yale play of the Chrismas tour and the product of a Yale man. On Wednesday the guests will depart and the university will take up its tasks again with a view ahead to Blue supremacy in spring sports.

PARROT GAVE WARNING OF IMPENDING LIQUOR RAID

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 8—(AP)—When three liquor squad officers cautiously approache dthe door of a first floor flat in East Cambridge, they were started to hear their raid given away with the warning cry:

"Cheese it! Here they come!"

Without further ado they burst through the door. They found Celia Czermiskenl, the tenant, abashed, with 150 gallons of mash. They found two gallons of liquor and a still. But they failed to find the culprit, who shouted the warning until a green parrot shrieked raucously "Gentlemen, remove your hats."

"Please, sirs, don't swear. Polly might copy you." Celia cautioned them, as they started a search of Ella Sdankus' rooms, which netted another gallon of liquor, another still and 100 gallons of mash.

EARTHQUAKE RECORDED AT HARVARD UNIVERSITY

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 8.—(AP)—A distinct earthquake of great intensity was recorded today on the seismograph at Harvard university. The preliminary tremors began at 10:25 a. m., and the maximum vibration was recorded between 10:38 and 10:45 a. m. The record indicated a distance of 2,300 miles.

Professor Kirtley F. Mather said that this record, taken in conjunction with that reported today from St. Louis, would place the earthquake origin in the Caribbean region, possibly in the vicinity of Martinique, a volcanic island.

TO PROBE AIR SERVICE ACTIVITIES IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Administration determination to enforce loyalty and discipline throughout the army has resulted in an order by Secretary Dwight F. Davis for a rigid investigation of air service activities in Washington.

The war secretary acted after documentary evidence had reached him indicating the existence of an organized propaganda to obtain air service legislation not in harmony with the air policy of the Coolidge administration.

The purpose of the investigation, which is in charge of Major General Eli A. Helmick, inspector general of the army, is to determine what connection air service personnel may have had with the circulation of an anonymous communication urging that pressure be brought on congress to obtain the enactment of an air corps bill. In the inquiry General Helmick is being assisted by Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service, and Brigadier General James E. Fechet, assistant aviation chief.

The communication under scrutiny indicates that it was intended for air officers of the regular forces, the national guard and organized reserves all over the country, and calls for "education work" with members of congress "to put across the idea of reorganization" of the air service, the present being described as "the psychological moment for you to get busy."

"It is to your interest that you get in touch with these people as your future in the service will depend largely on legislation in this session of congress," the unsigned communication says, calling attention that there are "people of prominence in your state who could communicate effectively with senators and representatives."

The document makes it plain that pressure is desired to enact a bill reorganizing the air service as an independent corps similar to the marine corps in the navy, and points out that General Patrick had presented such a plan to the house military committee last month.

REV. EMPRINGHAM QUALIFIES HIS VOLSTEAD ACT STATEMENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—While he refused to reveal the figures on which he based his report that the church temperance society of the Episcopal church favors prohibition modification, Dr. James Empringham, national secretary of the society, tonight said that a "preponderous majority" of the society members who answered a recent questionnaire on prohibition were in favor of modification.

A check of the original survey is being made, Dr. Empringham said, and the original report will not be given out until it is completed.

He defended his refusal to give out the figures by asserting that he has not observed "that the Anti-Saloon league ever made public original surveys upon which they have based their conclusions that prohibition was a success."

TWO BOSTON PATROLMEN SENTENCED TO STATE PRISON

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Patrolmen Henry Brown and Daniel McCarthy found guilty of assaulting and robbing Frank Pecorara, a civilian, were sentenced today to from 7 to 9 years in state prison.

Pecorara, an East Weymouth shoe salesman, was attacked by the policemen in a south Boston doorway. Another patrolman rescued him, and on the way to the station house one of the arrested officers dropped a watch on the pavement. Pecorara later identified it as his, and testified in the trial that Brown and McCarthy had beaten and robbed him.

SUIT BROUGHT BECAUSE HORSE RAN INTO AUTO

BOSTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Even the jaded motorist, the bait of fuming traffic cops, and suing pedestrians has his day in court. This day was reserved for Edward McCarthy to bring suit in superior court against the owner of a horse, he declared, that the animal, hailing from the Longwood Riding stables, had run into his automobile, injuring it and him. He called the horse's disposition "vicious" and asked $5,000 damages

According to belated reports coming through from outlying districts, the town of Columbia fared as well or better than any of the towns in this section during the general traffic tie-up following the near-blizzard last Thursday. First Selectman J. N. Clarke, believes in keeping up with the weather and keeping outlets open. The storm had barely ceased when the selectman had 35 men, with horse plows and drags, breaking through the snow drifts. They worked all day Friday and Saturday and the going in Columbia was good. Columbia lays claim to two records for carrying on during the storm. The first is that Carrier Raymond Lyman, who delivers the mail on the R. F. D. No. 1 route, covered his round of 24 miles Friday, and Saturday. The first day he was preceded by a four-horse dray which broke the drifts and allowed him and his outfit to pass. The second record was in the fact that the schools in the town did not suspend sessions.

Drifts fourteen feet high at Nevin's Corner, on the Clark's Corner-Hampton road, at Bigelow Hill and Brooklyn, were tunneled late Saturday and the Danielson-Providence busses came through for the first time since the storm.

First Selectman Ernest P. Chesebro, of the town of Windham, was still busy Monday, supervising the work of breaking open cross roads in this town. The Lover's Lane road between Brick-Top road and Bingham bridge was brought into view again after much effort. The back road leading from South Windham to the Lebanon highway, was open as far as the Lebanon town line. From this point on it remains blocked. The Plains' road, leading from Windham road to Windham Center, is still impassable.

Arthur P. Ellsworth and William Cummings, carriers on R. F. D. routes out of the local postoffice, have not been able to cover their entire territory since Thursday. In Pleasant Valley, Card's Mills and Miller Hill sections the roads were blocked Monday.

St. Jean Baptist society is staging a membership drive to conclude the 15th of this month, with the ultimate aim of having a membership of 400 for the golden anniversary of the society which will be celebrated in elaborate manner in 1930. The campaign heads are: Director, Alexis Caisse; spiritual director, Rev. H. C. Belec; vice-director, Edmond J. Sylvestre; secretary, Joseph F. Paulhus, and treasurer, Alphonse Chagnon. The team captains who will select five aides are: Edmond J. Sylvestre, F. J. Bergeron, Aldege Coutu, Adolphe Vaillant, Armand Perreault, Alphonse Chagnon and Ovila Garceau. The members secured during the campaign will be initiated Sunday, February 21st.

St. Jean Baptist society is the oldest French society in this city. It was founded in 1880, and is entirely a local organization, being distinctively individual, in that it has no affiliations with other bodies. The present membership is 325.

There is much local interest in the news of the elopement of Miss Elinor Atwood, 19 year old Terryville heiress, student nurse at the Hartford Hospital Training school and Albert Rondeau, 25 years old, dancing teacher, of 364 Main street, Hartford. The couple were married in Toledo, O., February 1, after eloping from Hartford, on January 28th. The bride is one of four children of Harry C. Atwood and with her sister, two brothers and other heirs, will share in the estate of the late E. W. Plumb, president of the Eagle Manufacturing company, of Terryville, who left an estate of more than $1,000,000. Rondeau conducted a dancing school here for nearly two years up to some three years ago. He became widely known while a resident here.

Mrs. Diana Michel died at St. Joseph's hospital Sunday. She was born in Arthabaska, Canada, August 28, 1877, the daughter of George and Philoment Bedard Spenard. Surviving her is her husband, Ovide Michel and four children, Jeannette, Laurette, Simeone and Leo, all of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Rosaine Michel, of Montreal, Canada, and Mrs. M. L. Hamel, of King Creek, Canada; two brothers, Ludger Spenard, of Montreal, Canada, and Amede Spenard, of Arthabaska, Canada.

Notice was issued Monday by Mayor John C. Tracy, the police committee of the common council, Alderman William E. Jackson, chairman, and Chief of Police Allan McArthur, that, effective immediately, all coin slot machines, punch boards and any and all other gambling devices must be discarded and that all pool rooms must close at midnight. This anti-vice crusade was launched after numerous complaints had been received of the widespread evil of gambling in Willimantic, which has been allowed to flourish without prosecution for some years. With the new status in effect the proprietor of a store, in which a slot machine or punch board is displayed or being used in any way, will be prosecuted as will also all pool room owners failing to lock their doors at midnight.

Chief of Police Lewellyn Reed, of Dudley, Mass., came to Andover and this city Monday, and conferred with Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink and Chief of Police Allan McArthur in regard to Henry Kelleher, now awaiting trial in Springfield, Mass., for stealing an automobile; also his common-law wife, Mrs. Lillian Ouelette, who is in the Tolland county jail for stealing chickens. Chief Reed said that there was evidence that the couple were guilty of thefts in Dudley and Webster, Mass., which had remained a mystery for some time. He is conducting a thorough investigation of the case.

Bernice, daughter of Mrs. E. S. Butcher, was tendered a pretty Valentine party by her mother, recently, in honor of her birthday. Easter Robert Sherman won first prize in a health game. Bernice Butcher won a prize in a candy heart hunt, and Florence Spencer won in the guessing contest. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Butcher, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Eaton, Mrs. Raymond Carter and Miss Yvonne Rousseau.

Edwin J. Donnelly, of this city, delivered an address on The Dangers That Threaten Democracy, at a meeting of the Men's club at Grange hall, South Windham, Monday evening.

Extensive alterations are being made on the wooden block at 72-74 Church street, owned by Minot S. Fryer. A brick front, one story high is being erected to the legal building line.

Mrs. Michael Conway of South street, is recovering from an attack of pleurpneumonia.

Local music lovers who attended the Eston Symphony concert in Hartford Sunday, included: Mrs. M. L. Stearns, Mrs. Julia Metzger, Miss Estelle Mathewink, Miss Eva Weir, Miss Frances Stearns, Miss Annie Backus, Miss Estelle Gardiner, Miss Alice Shea, Mrs. Edgar E. Bass and son, Waldo Bass, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Chenoweth and children, Elizabeth and Henry Chenoweth.

Mrs. Arthur W. Gates attended the funeral of her cousin, Mrs. George C. Harris, in New London, Monday. Before her marriage, Mrs. Harris was Miss Annie Avery, and was well known in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Henri Cote and Stanislaus Aubin returned Monday, from Lowell, Mass., where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Cote's father, Pierre Morneau.

Relieved of lame back overnight

STIFFNESS AND ACHE GONE IN ONE NIGHT

Sportsman is "as good as new" after one treatment

Sportsmen have learned a simple way to take out pain and stiffness when they get lamed up from exposure or over-exertion.

A Philadelphia sportsman writes that he caught cold in his back while out gunning and the next day found himself so stiff and lame he could hardly bend.

"I went to work, but had to come home," he writes. "I applied Sloan's freely and went to bed. The next morning I was as good as new, thanks to the quick and sure action of Sloan's Liniment." (Name and address given on request.)

It is amazing what Sloan's does for any kind of muscular pain. Just pat it on lightly. No need to rub. Sloan's alone does the work.

Instantly it sends a healing tide of fresh, new blood right to the sore spots. Your muscles limber up, stop aching and get back their tone. So clean and pleasant to use, too. Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

MYSTIC

Owing to the severe storm of Thursday evening Mystic grange, No. 171, postponed their meeting until Saturday evening. Worthy Master L. O. Allen called the meeting to order with a salute to the flag and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner followed the usual form in opening the grange. Several items of business were transacted. Miss L. R. Schroder was elected to the executive committee and Mrs. Abbie Phillips, press committee. The grange voted the economics committee the use of the hall for instructors from the New London County Farm bureau. Mrs. F. C. Wheeler, chairman, announced that Miss Gladys Stratton will be at Grange hall Tuesday, March 2nd., at 10 a. m. for the first lesson basketry. One former member of the grange was voted in. Fifteen applications were granted to take the fifth degree at the Pomona meeting to be held here, Feb. 15th. The dinner will be served in Odd Fellows' hall. The matter of incorporating the grange was laid on the table until the next meeting. A letter of greetings was read from W. L. Main, who is in Florida. Mrs. Burdick, gave notice of a valentine social to be held next Saturday evening. Stonington grange invited them to their entertainment Wednesday evening. Mr. Haley asked the men's degree team to meet Wednesday evening for rehearsal and Miss Johnson asked the ladies' team to meet on Thursday evening. At the lecturer's hour predictions of 100 years hence were read by several members. Miss Fay Johnson acted as pianist. At the close two crates of oranges and grapefruit, from W. L. Main, were distributed. Forty-eight members and three visitors were present.

At the Baptist church Sunday morning, the four deacons elected Friday evening, served for the first time while the older ones remained in the seats at the front. The Sunday school met, together with Mrs. C. H. Wolfe, the primary superintendent, in charge of the opening service. The older classes found a place to meet in other parts of the church. Rev. J. G. Osborn's subject Sunday evening, was Presumptuous Sins and the King.

The World Wide guild meets Thursday evening with Miss Bessie Heath.

The Methodist Episcopal church was well filled Sunday evening to hear the story of Lewis E. Smith's life. He sang My Name in Mother's Prayer and closed with Will You Take Jesus Today. The weather has been very unfavorable during his stay of ten days but all who have attended, have heard the gospel preached in a plain, forceful manner. It is expected a member will be added to the church as a result of his work here. He goes from here to Dorchester, Mass., and is engaged up to June.

Fausta Indicont was released from quarantine Saturday, having recovered from scarlet fever.

Halford Perry is ill at his home on Water street.

Mrs. Clara Morin, of Jewett City, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bachand.

James W. Jackson, of Norwich, spent the week-end at his home here.

Herbert Wolfe, of Pawtucket, R. I., spent the week-end here.

Nathan Bendett has returned from a business trip to New York.

J. O. Prescott is a patient at a hospital in New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stiefel, of New York, are the parents of a daughter born on Saturday, Mrs. Stiefel before her marriage, was Miss Lena Bendett.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Mystic Country club is to be held on Thursday evening with the following in charge: Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lathrop, Mr. and Mrs. S. Z. Cheebre, Mrs. Albert Haley, Mrs. F. M. Bindloss.

Marion, the four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Lewis, of 69 High street, is ill with the scarlet fever.

Miss Lea Bachand, of Jewett City, is the guest of relatives here.

BALTIC

Mrs. Theodore Montcalm has returned to her home in Indian Orchard, Mass., after spending a few days the past week in town visiting friends. Mrs. Montcalm was formerly the district nurse for the town of Sprague.

The Catholic Ladies' of Columbus had to postpone their installation Thursday evening on account of the storm. The installation is to take place this (Tuesday) evening in Club hall if the weatherman permits. A number of the Norwich Sisters are expected to attend. Mrs. Margaret Dutton, state president, of Norwich, is to be the installing officer.

A whist was given recently under the auspices of the Ladies' of Council Ste Marie, in the Franco-American club. Twenty tables were in play and lunch was served. Forty-six dollars were realized for the Hope Chest fund which is to be opened at the Parish Fair to be held during this month.

SAVING A USELESS TRIP

NOTHING is more exasperating than to make an out-of-town trip, only to find on arriving that the person you wish to see has gone away. The same thing may happen, of course, when you journey by telephone service—except that you are saved most of the expense.

Suppose that you place a PERSON-TO-PERSON TOLL call for Mr. John Smith in Philadelphia. The Toll Operator calls Philadelphia and finds that Mr. Smith is out of town. A Report Charge is made for securing this information, amounting to about twenty percent of the cost of a three-minute conversation.

If Mr. Smith is out of his office only temporarily, and you ask the Toll Operator to get him for you when he comes in, and you then talk with him, there is no Report Charge.

Briefly, a Report Charge is made when, through no fault of hers, the Toll Operator is unable to complete a PERSON-TO-PERSON TOLL call according to your instructions.

It compensates the Telephone Company in part for the work done in saving you from a fruitless telephone journey.

JEWETT CITY

GRISWOLD'S GRAND LIST TOTALS $3,145,249

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 9—E. M. Gray as completed the abstract for the town of Griswold, for the year 1925, showing the taxable property of the town in tabulated form.

The list shows $3,145,249, as against $3,139 146, for the year, 1924.

The amount of gain would have appeared in much larger figures, only that in 1934 the American Thread company's plant in Glasgo, was taxed for $92,100, whereas in 1925, the Glasgo Finishing company went into the list at $84,077. Thus it will be seen that on the same property, there was a falling off of $56,023. Personal property appears for 1925 as follows: Seven hundred and twenty houses, value $799,695; 577 ice and store houses, barns, private garages, $78,095; 794 house lots and building lots, $171,700; 54 stores, shops, theatres, public garages and hotels, $122,225; 43 mills, manufactories, dams, waterpower and machinery, $1,324,910; 19,975 acres of and, $177,770; 258 horses and mules, $15,090; 931 cattle, $21,665; sheep, goats and poultry, $5,730; carriages, wagons and bicycles, $4,540; 583 motor vehicles $186,295; (In the year of 1924, the motor vehicles were taxed for $188,856 and this shading of over $2,000, is due to depreciation). Furniture, libraries and musical instruments are valued at $28,410.

The goods of merchants, traders and manufactories will be taxed for $158,-085 and all other taxable property, $31,-625.

The acting assessors are: Irving O. Burdick, Edwin M. Gray, Edward L. Blanchard.

Finn's today, mat. 2:45 and eve., Douglas Fairbanks in "Don Q—Son of Zorro." Benefit American Legion.—adv.

Postmaster William T. Crumb is on the sick list, with Paul Fabien substituting at the postoffice.

The coming performance of Don "Q" has two favorable sponsorings, which as indicated by what people are saying, are going to help the good cause. First, the home American legion is to be the beneficiary, and Don "Q" is one of the best pictures Mr. Barnett has booked this season.

For the first time since last week's big storm, the R. F. D. man was able to complete his accustomed round. Generally with an automobile he is able to cover his 26-mile route in a little less than four hours. Monday, with a horse and sleigh, and three days' mail, he was digging through the drifts until afternoon. In two cases, people marooned in the back country districts, have telephoned to the mail man to bring The Bulletin, if nothing else could be brought through.

Not in five years, no not in ten years, has so much perfectly good elbow grease been applied in this section, as has been used since the storm.

Pay long overdue personal tax at once and avoid legal proceedings. H. R. Vegiard, collector.—adv.

It is probable that the Ashland Fish and Game Protective association will take immediate steps, looking toward game bird feeding. Six years ago, after the storm in February, when sleet fell on top of the 18-inch snow fall, this association saved the lives of hundreds of quail, by systematic feeding in the woods. Partridges and pheasants that winter in the big cedar swamps were not apt to suffer as does the quail. Following the sleet storm of six years ago, a local fox hunter, now living in Hopeville, noticed a melted place around the top of a small scrub pine, that appeared just above the crust. Stopping for a moment, he broke the crust with the butt of his gun. Down on the ground, under the thick bottom branches, there was found thirteen quail, all alive and warm, where they had dived for shelter from the storm. The hunter later brought food, cracked corn and oats. After three weeks, when the crust melted sufficiently for them to leave, they would pick bits of grain from his hand.

For the first time since 1920, the borough officials have found it necessary to make arrangements for extended snow shovelling. Maxcy Seymour, first selectman, has a gang of 10 men, digging out the back country roads in the Stone Hill district, and in the vicinity of the town farm. Arba Browning, with another gang and his big tractor, are working in the south part of the town.

A valuable police dog in the Aspinook district, has been very sick from eating poisoned meat or fish. Dr. F. D. Coles was hastily summoned and saved the animal's life. Whoever put this meat out did a dangerous thing for children might have gotten hold of it. There are three children, at least, who make a regular round of visits to garbage cans and piles all over town. They frequently sit down near a certain place, and eat some of the contents of the bags they have filled from these places. A dead child or children might have been the result if this same poison had not been eaten by a dog, before they had a chance to pick it up.

Mrs. Annie Soule, of Wickford, R. I., is at G. W. Robinson's home, having arrived Sunday night.

Mrs. Irene Ford went to St. Joseph's hospital, in Providence, Monday, to undergo an operation.

George Lucier has decided to join the Bermuda party which is to go to New York today (Tuesday).

DANIELSON

DEATH MONDAY OF LESTER RAY CRAIG

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 9.—Lester Ray Craig, 30, died about 4:30 Monday morning at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Craig, Winter street. Mr. Craig had been receiving treatment at Norwich for the past ten months up to the past week, when his condition became so critical that it was deemed best that he be removed to Danielson. An attack of pneumonia is regarded as having undermined his health originally.

Mr. Craig was born in Danielson, September 5, 1895. He studied in Danielson's schools, graduating from Killingly High School and later entering Brown university. He left the university to enter the service during the World War. After the close of the war he was for several years with the United States government in a special line of work, and was stationed in different places in Massachusetts. Three years ago at Thanksgiving time he was united in marriage with Miss Grace L. Sheldon, daughter of Postmaster and Mrs. W. Franklin Sheldon of Moosup. He leaves his wife and twin sons, Russell and Robert.

Mrs. Charles C. Elliott is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. Mrs. Elliott broke her thigh when she slipped and fell on an icy sidewalk in Main street. Warden Walter Anderson, son-in-law of Mrs. Elliott, said Monday afternoon that her recovery will require from three to four months. The accident was the most serious of its kind that has occurred here this winter.

One ice dealer in town had taken on Monday to peddling from an old horse drawn bob sled. Getting ice from the houses at Quinebaug lake to Danielson has been anything but a pastime since last Thursday. The road leading from the state highway to the lake is choked with snow and in a condition making the use of a truck very unsatisfactory. The sled solves the transportation problem for the time being.

The coasting danger is re-asserting itself. Given to being a bit heedless of consequences, children are taking chances by coasting on hills where there is considerable motor traffic. Because of the fact that some hills ordinarily used are so heavily blanketed in snow just now, much of the coasting is being done on hills where snow has been largely removed and the going made smooth.

A new motor coach that went off the highway about six miles east of here on the Providence road when it was forced far over by a truck in the storm of last Thursday, has been released and proceeded to New London. This machine was being taken from Providence to New London for use by inspectors who were to ride over certain coach lines on an official trip. It was not damaged in the incident, but was "lost" for many hours.

In All Hallow's church, Moosup, Monday morning at 8 o'clock, Miss Emma Tavernier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Xavier Tavernier of Moosup, became the bride of Ovilar Joseph Bernier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Bernier of 29 Reynolds street.

By virtue of the bride's membership in the Children of Mary the marriage ceremony was performed on the steps of the altar by Rev. J. E. McCarthy, the pastor, who was also celebrant of the nuptial high mass. The marriage took place directly after the gospel, when the wedding party entered the sanctuary. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Clara Tavernier, as maid of honor and Van J. Bernier, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

The bride was prettily gowned in beige crepe back satin and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The bridesmaid wore a gown of beech-nut canton crepe with gold trimmings and she had a hat to match. Her bouquet was of pink roses.

Following the marriage there was a breakfast and reception at the home of the bride's parents.

The gifts to the bride were exceptionally beautiful and in great variety.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernier left during the day for their wedding trip.

Mr. Bernier is a popular young man, and is a veteran of the World War, having served with the American forces. His bride is well known in Moosup and belongs to many societies.

Monday morning the funeral of Michael Head, Jr., was held from his home on Academy street, with funeral services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S., Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., and Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S. were the officers of the solemn high mass of requiem. A delegation composed of Commander Carl Anderson, Charles S. Francis, W. Clarence Bacon and Joseph LaPelle, representing Colonel William H. Hamilton post, Spanish War veterans, attended the service and acted as a guard of honor. They were comrades of the deceased as members of the Third Connecticut infantry during the Spanish-American war. The bearers were William J. Brennan, Daniel F. O'Connell, Leslie Murray, William McMurray, Jeremiah Doyle and Charles Lowry. There were many beautiful floral pieces. The body was entombed at Holy Cross cemetery, Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Monday morning Mrs. Blanche Metthe, 33, wife of Oliver Metthe, died at their home on Dyer street after an illness of several weeks. Mrs. Metthe was a native of Canada. In addition to her husband she is survived by a child four weeks old.

Secretary Harold B. Atwood of the Danielson Rod and Gun club announces that the club will welcome information as to localities being frequented by flocks of quail, that the club may arrange for the feeding of them during the period that deep snow remains on the ground. Grain will be available for distribution, this to be done either by members of those who are willing to assist in aiding the quail through the period that is going to be very difficult for them—the worst of the winter to date. In view of the fact that quail have bene increasing in this territory during the long closed season, which is still in force, the club believes it is particularly desirable that feeding be resorted to immediately. All who can help in this work will have the thanks of the Rod and Gun club and of sportsmen generally in proffering their assistance.

Getting mail to everyone by the rural route out of Danielson office continues to be a decidedly difficult problem. It was stated at the postoffice by Postmaster E. H. Keach Monday noon that 18 miles out of the 22 on Carrier Arthur W. Logee's route has been served since Friday. There are sections of this route that remains impassable, one locality being the Horse hill area about Hubbard's sawmill. These are isolated and little used roads and are about the last to be opened.

Major A. D. McIntyre, Putnam, who was in Miami the early part of the winter, was in Danielson greeting old-time friends Monday.

This (Tuesday) evening at the Congregational church there will be a reception in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Harding W. Gaylord.

Members of the Girls' Friendly society of St. Alban's parish held a meeting at the Parish house Monday evening.

Joseph Funara has sold his property on Mechanic street, next north from the central telephone office, to Angelo Del Pesco of Brooklyn.

Belated effort was being made in some sections of the borough on Monday to clear blockaded sidewalks of snow.

Motor coaches again are operating the entire distance between Danielson and Norwich after an interruption that began last Thursday.

A Providence paper carried a story on Monday, quoting motorists, that traveling conditions were better between the state line and Providence on the Danielson pike than they were across the border in Connecticut. Tell it to the marines! Even on Monday the Rhode Island end of this route was about three days' work behind the work already accomplished on the Connecticut side. If anyone doubts this, let him ride the Rhode Island end of the road—and revise his opinion. All delays being encountered on this route are due to the condition of the highway on the Rhode Island side of the line.

The Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company had a great record of uninterrupted service during the storm. There was no damage to its lines and its service was perfectly normal.

Miss Esther Palacois of Porto Rico will be the guest of honor and a missionary speaker when the World Wide Guild sponsors a mothers' and daughters' meeting at the Baptist church on Monday evening of next week.

The week's events of country-wide interest include the annual Valentine tea of the woman's board of the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam, Killingly and Brooklyn are represented on the committees arranging the affair.

A message to The Bulletin from a Windham county man who is at Miami reads: "Come on down—the water's fine." Considering the weather here, one is tempted to comment "So's your old man."

The snow blockade at the Ledges between Danielson and Brooklyn is a thing of the past. One spins along there now between the walls of a snow canyon, where shovelers have piled up the alleged beautiful.

Two below zero in Danielson Monday morning. Four below Saturday morning. Snow galore. Cheer up. The first 25 days of February are the hardest.

Rev. J. E. McCarthy, pastor of All Hallows church at Moosup, left Monday for a brief visit with relatives in Waterbury.

Judge W. Fenner Woodward presided at a session of the town court Monday morning at which the case of a man charged with intoxication and breach of the peace was disposed of by the imposition of a fine and costs.

Danielson's bread supply was back to normal Monday. One bread truck spent five hours getting from Providence to Danielson. An hour suffices in normal times for this run.

Stonington High school's basketball team will be here today (Tuesday) to play the Killingly High school team. The girls' basketball teams of the two high schools, contesting on the court, will also be a feature of the program.

More of the snowbanks that have lined the sides of Main street since the big storm of last Thursday were carted away Monday and shoveled off the Franklin street bridge into the Assawaga river.

Financial journals carry announcements relative to the increase in capitalization of the Killingly Worsted company, operating a plant at Elmville. This concern has done a good business for a number of years.

Joseph Choquette, a North Grosvenordale man who is a former resident of Danielson, has been a patient in St. Francis hospital at Hartford the past five weeks. He is reported as gaining slowly.

John W. Heppleman of Worcester came here Monday on a business trip and commented on the depth of snow and the manner in which it has drifted in nearby territory.

Radio fans are happy again. The big storm seems to have cleared the air, and long distance broadcasts are now being picked up here again, after great difficulty at this for the past month. Stations in Texas and Colorado and Canada were clearly heard here Sunday evening.

The basketball game between the Jewett City Pros and the Danielson Town team postponed from last Thursday night because of the storm is to be played here the coming week end.

Two men, the crew of a bread truck operating out of Providence, were still here Monday, having been held in this town since last Thursday.

TRAVEL CONDITIONS CUT DOWN ATTENDANCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 9—The all day session for the study of parliamentary law, which was held at Odd Fellows' hall, was not as largely attended as it otherwise would have been had it not been for the bad weather. The school was held under the auspices of the Putnam League of Women Voters in cooperation with the Putnam Parent-Teachers association. Mrs. George Twigg, president of the Putnam League of Women Voters and Mrs. Walter Rich, president of the Putnam Parent-Teachers association were in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. James E. Cheeseman of Providence, who for many years has been active in the women's clubs and the Parent-Teacher associations of Rhode Island and who is now regional director of the New England states for the National League of Women Voters conducted the school. Mrs. Cheeseman is well qualified in parliamentary procedure having studied it for years, and having served at large conventions as parlimentarian.

The Sunnyside club of the Baptist church at its 14th anniversary elected the following officers: Director, Miss C. Bowen; president, Mrs. Gladys Durfee; vice president, Mrs. Florence Pitkin; secretary, Mrs. Ruth Converse; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lillian Thompson; treasurer, Mrs. Janet Smith; membership committee, Mrs. Hazel Schmanska, Mrs. Blanche Hall; committee on flowers, Miss Lucy Farrows, Mrs. Josephine Lamondy, Mrs. Elsie Johnson.

The reports showed good work done during the past year and a substantial balance in the treasury.

For the Masons of Putnam and vicinity and Masons only, Quinebaug lodge, No. 106, A. F. and A. M., are planning another treat in the form of a Masonic ball. It is admitted that the Masonic balls for the past two years have been among the leading social events of the season and they plan to make this one even more enjoyable. The ball is to be held in Odd Fellows' hall.

Van Maasdyk's orchestra, of Hartford, which played for the ball last year will again furnish the music. An added feature will be the appearance of Van Maasdyk in person. He is a violinist of note and has conducted studios in New York and Hartford. His appearance will be enjoyable for those who attend for the concert.

The committee on arrangements consist of W. E. Moss, chairman; Ralph Thurston, Harold Mansfield, Lucien B. Merriam, Allie W. Marcy, Allie S. King, Charles E. Richardson, Ray C. Bosworth, Ray Sherman, Everett Packard, Arthur C. Keith and Thomas Bell.

The first of the series of nine friendly evenings at the Second Congregational church proved to be a very interesting one and a large number of people were in attendance. The choir sang the anthems, Jubilate Deo, by Tours; Magnificat, by Joy; O Jesus Thou Art Standing, by Wiegand; Send Out Thy Light, by Gounod; The Good Shepherd by Barri and were assisted by the orchestra. The Misses Ruth and Dorcas Bartlett sang Face to Face by Thompson. William Wheaton sang a bass solo, Victus, by Bruno Huhn and Kenneth C. Sharpe played an organ selection. There was also the singing of many familiar hymns by the congregation.

There was a large congregation at the Baptist church last evening to enjoy the song service which was given by the choir and the orchestra.

The children having perfect attendance at the West Thompson school for the months of January were: Viola St. Marie, Ruth Sayles, Doris St. Germain, Solonge Robillard, Marion Merrick, John Nosa, Francis Sayles, Henry St. Germaine, Oliver St. Germaine, Warner Sayles, Laurent Robillard, Ernest Montpelier and Arthur Montpelier.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leon, Miss Elsie Gallant and Armand Gagne of Putnam, Miss Lorena Gallant of Willimantic and Dr. J. E. Mullen of Woonsocket, have been the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Daigle, of Hartford.

Earle Spencer was the guest over the week end of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer of Woodstock avenue.

Mrs. Ruby Morse Booth of Hartford, has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morse, of School street.

Miss Bertha Child, a student at Simmons college, Boston, spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Annie C. Child, of South Main street.

Henry Breausseau of Boston spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Brousseau of Wilkinson street.

Mrs. Gilbert Rogers of Norwich, has been the guest of relatives and friends in this city.

Miss Margaret Grant, ticket agent at the New Haven Railroad station has been visiting her sisters, the Misses Elizabeth and Sarah Grant, at Westerly, R. I.

Napoleon Bizaillon has returned from a visit with friends at Woonsocket.

Elmer Shippee of Providence street, has been a recent visitor in Worcester.

Francis Curran, a student at Holy Cross college, Worcester, spent the week end with relatives in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allard, Jr., of Baltic, have been the guests of Mr. Allard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allard of Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harrington entertained a number of their friends at whist at their home on Barber street. The first prizes were won by Mrs. Daniel Durant and Fred D. Card and the consolation prizes by Mrs. Clarence Myers and Edward Moran of Brooklyn. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. William Burns of Woonsocket and Mrs. John M. Reardon, of Hartford, have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Lamondy, of School street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miron and their daughter, Shirley, of Chepachet, R. I., have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Miron, of Florence street.

NORTH STERLING

To feed the birds is necessary while the heavy snow is on the ground.

Once more there has been an old New England snowstorm and the roads are full.

The Home circle is to meet this week on Wednesday with Mrs. Frank Corey.

The roads are being broken out and much shoveling is needed.

Mrs. Frank Corey and Miss Mae Healey were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. George C. Spooner, Sunday afternoon.

A number of fox hunters have been out the past week with rather poor success.

For three days the past week the mail carrier could not cover his rural route.

Most of the ice houses had been filled before the storm.

Mrs. William Nicol is ill, and is to be taken to the hospital for a surgical operation.

WESTERLY

COURT ROOM CROWDED WHEN GAMBLERS WERE TRIED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 9—Stonington town court room, Borough hall, had standing room only on Monday morning when Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck called the court session for after extra chairs and benches were brought in many remained standing. The "interest" in the court followed the unannounced visitation of four Connecticut State Troopers Giles Watson, Bernard Kennerson, Joseph Bobnick and Anderson from the Groton barracks to the cigar and candy store of Henry Brown, proprietor, on Water street, about 10 o'clock Sunday night. There the state troopers found in the back room formerly used for pool, players and spectators gathered around two tables where games of poker were being played. Seizing the cards and chips, the proprietor and about a dozen frequenters were given summonses to appear on Monday morning in Stonington town court.

On complaint of Stonington Prosecuting Officer George R. McKenna of Pawcatuck, Henry Brown was arraigned on a complaint charging him with keeping a place resorted to for gaming." He entered a plea of guilty. State Trooper Kennerson, being sworn, testified that the state troopers entered the front room in the candy and cigar store and in the back room were found a number of men gathered around two tables, playing poker and using chips. Prosecutor McKenna recommended a small fine. Judge Wilcox found the accused guilty and sentenced him to pay a fine of $5 and costs amounting to $15.95, which he paid and was discharged, having been in the custody of William Ostman of the Stonington police force.

Joseph Arnold was charged with frequenting a place resorted to for gaming and pleaded guilty. A small fine was recommended and being found guilty paid a fine of $1 and costs amounting to $11.95.

William Rose, when arraigned on a similar complaint, said he didn't play, just stood there and watched the players when the officers came in, but entered a plea of guilty. He paid a fine and costs of $11.95 as did Eddie Edgar, George Joyce and Frank McGregor, whose son went out and returned to court with him. The men who were summoned to court had put up $25 bonds for their appearance and this was refunded them.

John Conway, alias Joe Conklin, did not appear when his name was called, and the statement was made "that he probably hadn't got up yet." His bond was called and the case was continued one week.

Cases were dismissed and bonds were returned to Charles Harry, who told the court that he had entered the place in making a purchase, he was returned $50 and Trooper Kennerson said that but $25 was due him. Judge Wilcox directed the prosecutor to confer with the state police, and Harry said that he only wanted $25.

Jack Rose claimed that he entered the store to purchase cigarettes and in dismissing the case Solicitor McKenna directed the return of his bond. Cases against William Thomas Perry and P. J. Gilmore were also discontinued as no complaints appeared against them. The cards and chips seized by the state troopers were returned to them for their destruction, and court adjourned.

All day Sunday and even late Sunday night while the heavy fall of snow of last Thursday remained soft, employes of the Westerly highway department and large force of workmen on the New Haven railroad continued their battle for the removal of snow. The highway department on Sunday night had all of Westerly's highways open to travel but the least used Woody Hill road." About the Westerly railroad station forces of workmen from two railroad sections and work train shoveled all day Sunday and the platforms about the station and sidewalk approaches were cleared of snow. In the Westerly freight yard the surplus snow was shoveled onto cras and carted away. Westerly Highway Engineer Adolf L. Leon has so directed the working forces at his command and snow on the principal business streets of Westerly has been carted away to be dumped into the Pawcatuck river. The gutters about catch basins on other streets of the town were cleared to take care of any flood of water in case of a thaw. In Dixon square on Sunday night the large truck scraper shoved the loose snow, while still moist and churned up by auto wheels, to the gutters, where the work of removal continued. In Pawcatuck, under direction of Selectman Arthur P. Babcock, a force of workmen kept up the removal of snow and on Monday the clearing of street gutters continued. With the falling of temperature on Monday morning the melting snow and water turned to ice and its removal became more difficult. Automobilists, arriving in Westerly, on Saturday from Pittsfield, Mass., declared the worst sectio nof his travel was between Norwich and Westerly.

On Monday evening in the church school room of Christ Episcopal church was held the second of a series of six sessions in the course of Community Training classes of the Westerly District Council of Religious education, Rev. Alva L. Davis of Ashaway, president and dean. The instructors were Rev. Frank H. Butler, D. D., of Providence, on "Methods;" Vernon Rice, secretary of Rhode Island State Council, on "New Testament History;" and Miss Dorothy C. Berkert, of Westerly, on "Child Study."

The sudden death of Henry E. Leonard of Plainfield, N. J., was learned in Westerly on Monday morning from a telephone message received here. Mr. Leonard had an attack of indigestion when on his way to the train and died a few minutes afterwards.

Mr. Leonard had apparently been in the best of health and was in Westerly a week ago. He was aged 61 years. Mr. Leonard had been employed for nearly 50 years by the C. B. Cottrell Sons' company, and for several years was at the head of the mechanical department of the company at their New York office.

Henry Edward Leonard was born in Westerly, the son of George and Susan (Burdick) Leonard and married Sarah Emma Davis of Westerly, who died on May 24, 1925. He is survived by a daughter, Jennie, wife of Lucius P. Burch, of Plainfield, N. J., formerly of Westerly, and a brother, Charles Leonard, of this town.

On Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock from her late home, 45 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck was held the funeral of Mrs. Garrett O'Neil, who died suddenly on Friday afternoon. A requiem high mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock at St. Michael's church by Rev. Michael Keating.

Burial was made in St. Michael's New Cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Fr. Keating. The bearers were John F. Gallagher, William Gallagher, Terance Gallagher Daniel Sullivan, Amos Seymour and Howard Potter.

The funeral service of Mrs. Ella May Friend, widow of Julius L. Friend, who died Wednesday, was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her late home, 28 Moss street. Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of the Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church, officiated.

Burial was made in River Bend cemetery. The bearers were Thomas McSparren, Howard McSparren, Frank Holdredge and Frank Edwards.

On Sunday evening the Christ Church Young People's Fellowship was organized with 30 charter members. Many more applications for membership are expected within the next few days. The age limit is from 15 to 26 years.

At the organization meeting, the following officers were elected: Esther Taylor, president; Robert Vennard, vice president; Louis Fontana, secretary; Peggy Palmer, treasurer; William Morey, Peggy Palmer and Susan Bruckner, entertainment committee; Molly Doe, Ethel McKenzie and John McFarland, membership committee; Molly Doe, musical director; William F. Morey, publicity committee.

D. W. Clark of New Haven visited with business associates in Westerly and Pawcatuck on Monday.

Miss Elizabeth Cundall returned to Boston on Sunday night to resume her school duties at the Sargent school, after being the week end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Cundall, in Pawcatuck.

George E. Phillips, of Providence, on Monday, called on business friends in Pawcatuck and Westerly.

Palmer chapter, No. 28, Royal Arch Masons, of Pawcatuck, Arthur E. Thompson, high priest, held a special convocation on Monday evening at the Masonic rooms on High street. The Past and Most Excellent Master degrees were worked on a class of candidates Right Excellent Elbert L. Darbie, deputy grand high priest of Connecticut, is to make his official visitation to Palmer chapter on next Monday evening, when the Royal Arch degree is to be worked.

Dr. John Champlin returned to Westerly on Monday afternoon from a visit to Providence.

Farquhar Smith, Charles M. Lamb, L. Gourlay McLaren and Hobart Saunders were Westerly visitors in New London on Saturday night.

Miss Margaret Davis, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Davis, of Ashaway, left Westerly Monday afternoon to resume her studies at the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, after being the guest of her parents.

Superintendent Miss Ethel M. Doherty, of Westerly hospital, sustained a broken right ankle on Sunday night when she slipped and fell near the residence of Frank W. Coy on Elm street. The fracture was reduced at the Westerly hospital by Dr. J. Gordon Anderson and Henry L. Johnson.

Ruby Greene, of Pawcatuck, has entered the employ of a store in Westerly.

Capt. Frank H. Robinson was a visitor in Stonington Monday.

Mrs. Frank F. Dodge, of Stonington borough, was a Westerly visitor on Monday morning.

PLAINFIELD

Miss Marion Cleland, who was recently operated on for a severe case of appendicitis at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, is reported to be out of danger, and in a much improved condition.

Clarence Winsor who is the instructor of mathematics at the Wilbraham academy, Wilbraham, Mass., was a week end guest at the home of his parents.

H. L. Yerrington of Norwich Town was in Plainfield Monday trying out the Lawton Memorial organ.

Walter Cleland and Milton Winsor were in Willimantic Sunday calling on Miss Marion Cleland, a patient at St. Joseph's hospital.

The Camp Fire Girls did unusually well with their entertainment on Saturday night, especially under the prevailing conditions. The program included a minuet by a group of the Camp Fire Girls, each dressed in old fashioned costumes, which made a magnificent appearance. The Boy Scouts' quartet rendered musical selections which were well received. Readings were given by Miss Frances Mathewson and piano selections by Mrs. Lena Piper. Miss Virginia Lewis gave a recitation which was also well received. A sale of home made candy and ice cream was held by the young women and a very good attendance was recorded.

Mr. and Mrs. James Apply are in North Stonington, visiting Mrs. Apply's brother, who is ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. Walter Cleland and Mrs. Milton Winsor have returned from Willimantic, where they have been remaining during the illness of Mrs. Cleland's daughter, Miss Marion Cleland.

The radio fans of Plainfield and vicinity were very much enthused on Saturday night to hear the local violinist, Miss Flora Leach, broadcasting from Boston. Miss Leach is studying music at the Boston Conservatory of Music.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Palmer, formerly of Plainfield, are spending the winter in Cuba.

Joseph Harpen of Moosup, was arraigned before Judge Toorrey at the town court at Central Village Monday morning, charged with selling liquor. The evidence was secured by James Low, a special officer of the state police, who did not have to testify because the accused pleaded guilty. Harpen was fined $100 and costs, which was paid.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray have returned from their honeymoon and will make their home in Plainfield.

MAKING VOTERS VOTE

There isn't a community which hasn't felt the need of having all the voters, who are able to do so, go to the polls on election day. There are times when the disposition to stay away seems to prevail generally regardless of the fact that the lack of interest invariably serves to maintain those conditions which are so much criticized.

Absentee voting laws have made it possible in some states for those unable to be at home on election day to exercise their right to vote. It is no more than the voter is entitled to, but it doesn't bring out the stay at homes.

It isn't possible to force a person to vote, but so strongly does a New Jersey legislator feel on the subject that he has a law drafted which he is to present to the legislature in that state which would impose a fine of $10 on every qualified voter who failed to go to the polls on election day. It would be possible to escape the fine with a valid excuse but the accused would be obligated to furnish the proof.

The aim of such legislation is apparently to get the people to take a greater interest in elections and in affairs which directly or indirectly concern them. It is no more than they should take but it is much more than many of them do. The idea too generally prevails that one vote more or less makes no difference, but the harm comes from the fact that too many are doing the same thing. The result is that it is to a few that the choice of officials is left and later on to the same too few is left the action at annual meetings and on taxation. What is needed in a representative vote of the people, all the people who are able to get to the polls and vote, while many who would be unable to get to the polls might display just as sound judgment as some who can go, if they were permitted the absentee privilege. New Jersey is manifesting an interest in a problem which is by no means confined to that state. Whether it gets anywhere will be disclosed by developments.

TO AID ENFORCEMENT

When congress gets to the question of modifying the Volstead act at this session remains to be seen, but it has before it a bill which calls for the creation of bureaus of customs and prohibition in the treasury department. This means a reorganization of the department so far as prohibition is concerned and would leave the internal revenue department unencumbered by dry enforcement and restrict it to the business of tax collection as intended.

The change is one that is favored by the treasury department and by Assistant Secretray Andrews who has charge of enforcing the dry law. The situation is such at the present time that the enforcement division is answerable first to the commissioner of internal revenue and then to the secretary of the treasury. Under the change that has been proposed in the bills presented to congress the dry enforcement would be under the immediate direction of the secretary of the treasury, the same as all other divisions of the department.

The reorganization is urged for the purpose of making enforcement more effective and to eliminate much of the present departmental red tape. It is urged for the purpose of increasing and not decreasing enforcement. It comes as the result of the experiences with the present arrangement, and when better enforcement is being demanded under conditions which have been inadequate the effort to make it possible for better enforcement cannot be disregarded if it is better enforcement that is desired.

In this matter the same attitude of upholding the law is maintained. It has no connection whatever with any effort in behalf of modification or repeal of the Volstead act. Experience shows that enforcement is not the simple thing that some thought it would be, but as long as the law calls for enforcement and machinery is provided for obtaining it, the less complicated that machinery is the better the results can be expected to be.

ANOTHER CREDITABLE ACT

Apparently impressed by the action of the governor of Kentucky in calling out the militia of that state to prevent the lynching of a Negro, the governor of Delaware has done the same thing.

By his act he does not undertake to maintain that the accused is innocent but he does desire to uphold the dignity of the law and to insure a trial for the accused and to have any penalty that may be inflicted upon him administered under the law.

In each state this means considerable expense, but it is certainly time to have it understood that law means something for the entire public and that because some criminal act has been committed there is no need for the mob to organize and deal out justice. When it gets to the point that the courts of a state cannot or do not function it is time for a reorganization, but nothing but discredit is reflected upon the state that tolerates lynchings. That simply means that the administration of the law in such commonwealths has failed.

That public indignation should run high at the Delaware crime is by no means surprising, but that doesn't justify a crowd to rush out and commit murder. Governor Robinson has the right idea when he insists that the accused Negro should get a prompt and fair trial and be dealt with in accordance with the laws of that commonwealth. It is always desirable in such instances that action be taken in accord with the facts and under the provisions of the law. Whatever the penalty imposed if guilt is established, or if a plea of guilty is accepted, it should be done legally. It is an unfortunate situation where it becomes necessary for a governor to call out the militia to uphold the law but he is to be congratulated for acting when and as he did. He has brought much credit to himself and his state by his action. Should that attitude prevail in all states there would be less inclination for individuals to take the law into their own hands.

KILLING PUBLICITY

The action by the senate in supporting its own committee and the house in the appeal of the publicity provision of the income tax bill is in accord with a nation-wide demand.

This feature of the present revenue bill was strongly opposed at the time it was adopted. It was pointed out at that time how it would operate and that it would result in no benefit but provide an opportunity for prying into the other fellow's affairs.

It is as the result of experience with the provision that its repeal was called for. It accomplishes nothing. It gives no idea of the respective incomes of taxpayers for while it authorizes the disclosure of the amount of taxes paid there is nothing to indicate how large an income is received from non taxable securities.

The publicity feature has long since been regarded as a nuisance and an annoyance. The reaction to it has been in keeping with what was predicted when it was being urged. Having been tried in the balance and found wanting the wise thing to do is throw it into the discard and the senate takes a sound view of what was needed by its decision to join hands with the house and eliminate it for the future.

There were those who tried to make this a talking point for the upsetting of the committee recommendations, but it failed to work. It was the expression of the obstructionists and trouble makers and it received the rebuke it deserved quite the same as that administered when cloture was voted on the world court question. Now let the remainder of the revenue bill be taken up and be speedily acted upon.

ITALY AND DISARMAMENT

It will be interesting to note what effect the outburst of Mussolini will have upon the disarmament movement in Europe. It is impossible to look upon his declaration as otherwise than belligerent. There may be a disposition to take into consideration the source from which it came and to reflect that Mussolini doesn't represent the unanimous sentiment of Italy, but on the other hand he is in the saddle and is having things pretty much his own way just at the present time. It is because of that that more serious attention might be given to his warning to Germany.

But talk of war doesn't set well while the stage is being arranged in Europe for a conference that it is hoped will be able to bring about an understanding between the nations whereby an extensive disarmament policy can be put into effect. It is peace and not war that is generally desired. Both Italy and Germany suffered enough from the last struggle to make it a coveted goal, and certainly the rest of Europe would never look with favor upon another clash between those countries at this time.

The entrance of Germany into the league should mean that any misunderstanding between the countries which cannot be adjusted by them selves will be taken care of by the league, but it is always the fear of what the others might do that keeps the nations of Europe so well prepared to meet emergencies. Talk of further conflict cannot therefore contribute anything favorable to disarmament beyond the point of showing the desirability of adjusting differences through other channels than a resort to arms.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Feb. 9.—Governor Trumbull had his first Washington airplane thrill today when he flew over the city in an army plane from Bolling field in the early forenoon. The governor is "an air man" and said he was anxious to see how the capital of the nation looked from a plane. The day was perfect and he was enthusiastic over the trip. After his flight he came to the capitol to luncheon and meet the Connecticut delegation, appearing on the floor of both senate and house with Senator Bingham and Floor Leader Tilson. Commenting on aviation the governor said he was greatly interested in the aviation bill introduced by Senator Bingham and moreover was proud of the fact that Connecticut had made strides in aviation that were a credit to the country and put Connecticut in a front rank. As expressed the hope that still further aviation legislation would be secured for Connecticut. Governor and Mrs. Trumbull are on their way to Florida where they will spend most of February. They were dinner guests at the white house Saturday night when the president gave a dinner in honor of the speaker of the house and at which Floor Leader and Mrs Tilson were guests. When the governor made his flight this morning, Charles Bingham, son of the senator made a flight over the same route at the same time in another government plane.

During his visit to the capitol Governor Trumbull met many prominent senators and members of the house.

When Senator Bingham reads Washington's farewell address to the senate on February 22, as he has been asked to do by the vice president, he will read from a sumptuously bound brochure especially prepared and designed for that purpose. This book has for decades been the one from which the address is annually read on Washington's birthday by some senator designated by the vice president.

The book is a square volume, printed in large type and bound in black leather on which there is much ornate lettering. Each page has a wide margin, and in the back of the book are blank pages on which senators designated as readers to the senate, subscribe their names, thus making it an official record of persons to whom that distinction has been offered by the senate, and also a very valuable collection of senatorial autographs.

The annual honor is evenly divided between the two major parties, republican and democratic senators alternately year by year. Last year the address was read by Senator Ashurst, democrat, of Arizona; this year it will be New England, through Senator Bingham of Connecticut, that carries off the honor.

From a social point of view the past week might have well been called Anniversary week. Here are several instances: The official dinner given by President and Mrs. Coolidge in honor of the speaker of the house, was given within a week of the wedding anniversary of Speaker and Mrs. Longworth. The dinner was served in the great state dining room of the white house, the table being laid in the spot from which the Longworth wedding breakfast was served.

Here is another, Major Stedman, member of congress from North Carolina was celebrating his 55th birthday and his 15th year in congress.

The continuation of appropriations under the Weeks forestry act will be urged, and amount probably increased, through the co-operation of states in the great northwest, under an amendment to the Weeks measure as introduced by Senator McNary of Oregon. The Weeks act asked for protection of watersheds of navigable streams in the Appachaichian and White Mountain regions. The appropriation had dwindled so that not enough money was available to purchase lands protecting such streams. Now the McNary bill comes along and would not limit the territory covered by the bill, thus making it possible for aid to the Great Lake region and so securing the endorsement of congressmen from that region, and the northwest, who are not especially interested in the New England or southern situation. Moreover the bill asks for a heavy increase of appropriation, amounting to $40,000,000 to be expended up to July 1, 1935, in annual payments of $5,000,000.

Hearings before the sub-committee on agriculture are now being conducted with Senator Keyes, a member of the forestry commission and of the committee on agriculture, as chairman of that sub-committee.

Congressman John Q. Tilson, floor leader of the house, is confident the session will close in a way creditable to the republican party and in harmony with the policies of President Coolidge. In an interview this week Col. Tilson said in part: "I think the majority of members of the house on the republican side are in favor of making our legislative programme conform, as far as possible, to the financial policy to which it has already committed itself in the revenue bill. There are a great many legislative proposals now pending which have for their purpose great increased expenditures. Many of these could not be made without interfering with the programme of reduction.

"Congress cannot of course increase expenditures without at the same time increasing income. Congress would be in an absurd position if it were to cut taxes on the one hand and increase expenses on the other to the extent that there would be a deficit in the treasury." Col. Tilson added that he believed the country supported the president in his policy of economy."

THE SEWING CIRCLE

"Have you ever noticed," said the black-headed member, settling herself comfortably and producing her work bag, "that every season is an extraordinary season in the production of vegetables and fruits?"

"How d'you mean?" inquired the fluffy-haired blond with interest.

"I've just come from market," explained the black-headed member. "You see, I was detained this morning by relatives who dropped in from Hicorners, Wyo., so I stopped off to leave my order on my way up here this afternoon. The grocer spent at least fifteen minutes telling me how downtrodden was the lot of the retailer, how nerve shattering was the loss incidental to marketing green goods, and more, than all, how extraordinary was the season."

"Like the weather in all summer resorts," suggested the fluffy-haired blond. "Or southern California."

"Not at all," said the black-haired member, firmly. "There is nothing variable about the climate of southern California—conversationally at least. Every description I've ever heard sticks to the 'blanket at night,' like burrs to an airedale dog. When my various friends return from their first trip to the coast and drop in to tell me about it I find myself waiting for the blanket-at-night clause with a positively feverish tension. If I were a real-estate person out in what seems to be technically known as a 'man's country I should adopt a merino lamb for a trade mark. Nominally, of course the merino stands for wool—and you can take the idea coming or going, as you choose."

The fluffy-haired blond laughed. "I'll bet the visiting relatives from Wyoming have much to do with your frame of mind this afternoon," she hazarded. "How long will they last?"

"Several days if I can keep them out of jail."

"Jail?" echoed the sewing circle.

"You see," narrated the black-haired member, "they came in on an early train. We didn't know they were coming and they didn't know how to reach us. They are two elderly spinsters who have never been fifty miles from Hicorners all their hard-working lives, so the confusion at the depot here almost swamped them. I guess. But a red cap took charge, evidently and called us by phone. And I drove down and brought them home to breakfast. They are the nicest old things you ever saw, and if anything should happen to 'em I'd never forgive myself."

"But you said 'jail,'" the sewing circle reminded her.

"Well, you see," continued the black-headed member, with a grin, "after breakfast they said they knew I was busy and they'd just put on their hats and take a walk in the park across the road, as they put it. My dining-room windows overlook the park, you know, so they had observed it."

"Well?" demanded the sewing circle.

"At 12 o'clock," resumed the black-headed member, "they breezed in joyfully, with their arms full of flowers—simply loaded down, both of them, with blooms of all descriptions. 'Dear me, how lovely!' I said, wondering where they had found a florist shop in that neighborhood, and alarmed at the money they must have spent, obviously for my pleasure. 'Yes, aren't they?' they beamed. 'They grow right out there in the park, and there are lots more. We'll get them for you every day. No one in the city here cares much for flowers, I guess, because nobody else was pickin' any at all.'"

The sewing circle gasped.

"Something to show for your taxes, anyway," laughed the fluffy-haired blond, delightedly.

"Exactly," agreed the black-headed member. "Why run up florist bills for decorating your dinner table with a park full of flowers on one hand and Wyoming relatives on the other?"—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Baltic Mill's Service Appreciated

Mr. Editor: Baltic people appreciated the service rendered by The Baltic Mills company during the heavy snow storm on Thursday of last week. Boss Farmer William De Gray and his force of men were out with snow plows and labored unceasingly all day in keeping the sidewalks and yards clear on Railroad, High and Main streets on Depot hill and at their factory. In spite of the fact that the state highway snow plow kept piling high drifts in the gutter and on the [illegible] were kept open, Baltic is one of the few villages in this section that can point with pride to its well kept streets, yards, shade trees and its sanitary conditions which were made possible by the official staff of the Baltic Mill company's office in Baltic.

Wants School Board to Shovel Snow.

Mr. Editor: It's very fashionable now-a-days to hear people prate about progress and how much better off we are than in years gone by, but I know something about years gone by, and now 7.30 Saturday morning, not a move has been made by state or town to open any road in Oneco and drifts six and seven feet block the roads. In the days before this much talked of progress, every road in town where school houses required it would have been broken out.

Not only that, not a single path of any kind has been dug this winter around Oneco school house, drifts of snow between the house and toilet are never shoveled out. This is another thing that never could have happened in years gone by.

This town pays members of the school board a yearly salary. What other town in Connecticut does? There may be some, but outside of Thompson I don't know where they are. If the school board receives an annual salary for doing nothing, why not ask them to see that a little snow is shoveled around the school house.

C. B. MONTGOMERY.

Oneco, Feb. 6, 1926.

Stories That Recall Others

So's Your Old Man-se!

They had been classmates at the same theological seminary and after graduating one had entered the Episcopal church and the other had become a Presbyterian minister.

Five years later they accepted charges in the same town. When they had been there a week they met on the street one sunny afternoon and compared notes.

"Your rectory is a bit out of date" said the young Presbyterian pastor.

"So's your old manse" the rector retorted.

White as a Lily

John has a brother who delights in "taking a dare." The following incident also shows that when a big strapping high school boy he had a kink of humorous meanness in him, which has almost passed away, but not quite.

Their father was always particular about the cleanliness of the basement. The sons alternated week by week in the care of the furnace and if they didn't cleanup after carrying out the ashes every day they were sure to be "in for it."

One night their father came to their room after they had gone to bed. "Arch" he said to John's brother, "you think you cleaned up the basement today, I want you to notice in the morning how clean I think the basement ought to be. Why, since I've spent an hour down there, you could roll around in your night shirt and get up as white as a lily."

Arch got out of bed and a few minutes later entered his father's room. He was as black as the ace of spades. His father always accused him of having wallowed in the coal bin and not on his clean floor.

From Small Beginnings

Anson G. Phelps, Great Merchant

Ansonia, Connecticut, has good reason to remember Anson G. Phelps, for the town was named after that great merchant and charitably minded man. The same place also contains a beautiful public library built by the grandfather of Anson G. Phelps in his honor. In the busy and active New England manufacturing place there is something of the spirit of the great man.

Like so many other men who have risen to prominence in the United States, Anson G. Phelps began life without the advantages that now are given so freely to everyone. He did have the opportunity to go to school for a short time. But soon after he was plunged into the full work of life. While still a mere boy he became a clever worker in leather and a dealer in equipment for horses and carriages. After he had lived for some years in the city of Hartford, and had prospered, he went to the greater city of New York. There he engaged in the business of selling quantities of the useful metals, particularly tin. He was shrewd and far-sighted in business, met the various emergencies that arose, and adapted himself to the needs and the demands of the times. He became a skillful organizer.

Instead of confining himself to his particular work, Phelps foresaw the rapid growth of the great seaport city, and the consequent increase in the value of land. He bought and sold land with great profit, and became one of the exceedingly rich men of his times.

In all his work in Connecticut and in New York, Anson G. Phelps showed himself a true son of New England, for he did much work for the people who are unfortunate, particularly the blind. During his life he gave away large sums for the aid of the poor, and at his death he gave directions that part of his fortune should be used for benevolent purposes. He was a high and fine type of American business leader, a man of whom the state of Connecticut, as well as the city of New York, may well feel proud.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sarah Grand, who, according to the cable despatches has lost her home near Bath, England by fire, has not been heard of much in late years, though the time was when her literary success was the talk of two continents. This was back in 1895, when she published "The Heavenly Twins," a novel that proved to be the "best-seller" of the year and has since gone through many editions. Mme. Grand is of English parentage, but was born in Ireland, where her father held a government position. At the age of 16 she married an army officer and went with him to Japan. After several years in the Orient she returned to England and took to writing. She had a "message" to deliver and she began its delivery in "Ideala" and continued it in "The Heavenly Twins." For some years Mme. Grand has lived quietly at Bath of which historic city she has served as Mayor.

WOMAN PROBABLY VICTIM OF NEW YORK UNDERWORLD

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The merciless code of the underworld, which prescribes death for police informers, was believed to have been responsible for the slaying of Genevieve McGuire, known as "Supercilious Jimmy," McGuire whose body was found today on a snow bank in East 54th street.

She had been shot twice, in the head and the chest. She also had been beaten in the face and her nose was fractured. Detectives, who identified her, said she came from a small town in Connecticut.

In a pocket in the woman's coat was found a typewritten note which said she had paid with her life for giving information in a recent criminal case. Police did not make known the full contents of the note.

Charles Mitchell, a mechanic, was arrested within a few hours of the finding of the body, charged with causing the woman's death. Police said he confessed that he shot her and threw her body from his automobile to prevent her from telling of a gun fight which he had earlier with another man.

Mitchell was arrested when he went to Bellevue hospital for treatment for a bullet wound in his shoulder and a lacerated scalp. He refused to tell the woman's name.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr Edwards' OliveTablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

Clearing Film from Teeth Whitens Surprisingly

Quickly restores cloudy teeth to clearness

Please accept full 10-day tube of this new dental achievement, urged by world's authorities. Note the difference in the color of your teeth and health of your gums when film is cleared off.

Don't think your teeth are naturally off color and dull. You can restore them to amazing whiteness in a new way leading dentists advise.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel a film. A slippery coating that covers them, hides their color and invites tooth and gum troubles. Ordinary pastes and dentifrices will not successfully remove it.

That is why, in old days, so many smiles were ruined by ugly teeth and toneless gums. Now, thanks to modern science, there is a way to combat that film.

Just obtain a tube of the dentifrice called Pepsodent at your druggist's. Clear off that film tonight; clear white teeth are beautiful. Note the amazing difference in your smile.

You'll be thankful for the suggestion. For thus you can change your whole appearance.

Don't Worry When Hair Falls or Scalp Itches

Parisian Sage feeds the hair roots, banishes all dandruff, stops scalp itch--hair ceases to come out.

The cleanest, daintiest, most refreshing hair invigorator in the world is Parisian Sage. If you have used it you know it—if you have not, you have missed a real treat, for it's a joy to use.

The speedy manner in which it causes dandruff to disappear and scalp to stop itching is really astonishing.

But that's only one reason why hundreds of thousands of people use Parisian Sage.

Another reason is that it stops hair from falling out and growing thin and furnishes healthy nourishment to the hair roots.

And still another reason for its big sale by Lee & Osgood Co. and every drug store and at every toilet goods counter in the United States and Canada is the popular price—everybody can afford to use Parisian Sage—everybody ought to use it.

Gargle Aspirin for Tonsilitis or Sore Throat

A harmless and effective gargle is to dissolve two "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in four tablespoonfuls of water, and gargle throat thoroughly. Repeat in two hours if necessary.

Be sure you use only the genuine Bayer Aspirin, marked with the Bayer Cross, which can be had in tin boxes of twelve tablets for few cents.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore.

Mothers, Do This—

When the Children Cough, Rub Musterole on Throats and Chests

No telling how soon the symptoms may develop into croup, or worse. And then's when you're glad you have a jar of Musterole at hand to give prompt relief. It does not blister.

At first aid, Musterole is excellent. Keep a jar ready for instant use.

It is the remedy for adults, too. Relieves sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, chilblains, frosted feet and colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter 239 M Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

WEDDINGS

McMaster-Driscoll

A very pretty wedding took place Monday morning at 8 o'clock in St. Mary's Memorial church when Miss Mary Virginia Driscoll, daughter of Police Officer Timothy J. and Nora E. Sullivan Driscoll, 30 East Cliff street, became the bride of Percy Waldo McMaster, son of Mrs. Estelle McMaster of Lowell, Mass.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frederick M. Coholan in the presence of a large group of relatives and friends at a nuptial high mass. Mrs. William A. Murphy presided at the organ. At Dawning was rendered by Miss Elinore J. Donovan and Ave Maria by Edward T. Connelly, who was also in charge of the musical program. Decorations at the church and home were by Geddidig. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The maid of honor was Miss Margaret A. Driscoll, sister of the bride, and William A. Cody, Jr., was the best man. The bride was beautifully gowned in ivory French rodeo with coronet of duchess lace and white veil caught with orange blossoms. The maid of honor wore rosewood chiffon velvet with hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of spring flowers. The bride carried a beautiful bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

The ushers were Daniel F. and Gerard A. Driscoll, brothers of the bride and Charles A., and John McIlvre, cousins of the bride. Guests were present from Lowell, Worcester, Hartford, Torrington, Pawtucket and Attleboro, Mass., Central Falls and Willimantic.

Following the wedding ceremony there was a breakfast at the home of the bride's parents with over 100 present. A reception followed. The bride received many beautiful and useful wedding gifts including silverware, cut glass linen, purses, substantial checks and household utensils. She is a graduate of St. Patrick's school, this city, and of Mount St. Joseph's academy, Hamilton Heights, Hartford. Mr. McMaster is a graduate of the Lowell High school, and is employed as cashier for the National Biscuit company at Worcester.

During the day the bride and groom left for an extensive honeymoon trip to New York, Washington and other places. After April 1st they will be at home at No. 70 May street, Worcester, Mass. The bride's traveling gown is of brown needlepoint with squirrel trimmings.

Rogers-Richardson

Elsie May Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Richardson of Fitchburg, Mass., and Louis A. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Rogers of Waterford, were married Saturday night at 7 o'clock at the parsonage of the First Baptist church, Waterford, by Rev. George H. Strouse. Friends of the bride and bridegroom were in attendance. Mrs. Rogers is a registered nurse and Mr. Rogers is a weaver. They will reside in Waterford.

Miller-Fargo

George Miller of Manchester and Miss Ruth Fargo, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Fargo of Lebanon, were united in marriage last Saturday, by Albert J. Bailey, J. P., in this city. The bride attended the Norwich Free Academy for two years and had her name on the honor roll of that school. Later on when Lebanon built its Lyman Memorial high school she went there and graduated in the class of 1923. The groom is the son of Mrs. Arthur Topliff and is in the trucking business in Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller will reside with the bride's parents in Lebanon.

CHARLES L. STARK 50 YEARS WITH BOSTON STORE ON MONDAY

Reminders that it was exactly fifty years ago Monday, when he first began to work for the Boston store at 210 Main street, came to Charles L. Stark occasionally through the day Monday, when a few of the patrons of the store who were in on the secret congratulated him on the anniversary.

Fifty years ago Mr. Stark entered the store as a clerk in the linen department. Today he is a director of the company, having had supervisory duties in the store for the last three or four years since giving up the active direction of the linen department of which he was the head for about 30 years of the period he has been in the store. No one now in the establishment matches his record for continuous connection with the house.

When he started his employment in the store fifty years ago, the location was the same as the Main street side of the Boston store today and the linen counter where Mr. Stark went to work as a clerk was at the back end of the store about where the time clock now is. Those entering the Norwich store, Mr. Stark had had experience in the dry goods line in Providence and he rapidly won friends among the Norwich customers for his courtesy and his interest in trying to meet their needs. At the time he entered the store, the firm was Simpson, Campbell & Watson, later becoming James Simpson & Co., and in 1878, Reid & Hughes.

In the course of time Mr. Stark became buyer for the department, becoming known as an expert judge of fine linen, and his acquaintance extended to all of the most prominent families in the city as they became customers of his department. Monday he recalled with pleasure that not so very long ago he sold a piece of linen to the fourth generation in a Norwich family. When a Norwich woman came in one day with her small son Mr. Stark asked that he be permitted to sell the boy a handkerchief, remarking to the little fellow that he had sold to the boy's father, to his grandfather and to his great grandfather.

Mr. Stark has seen scores of heads of departments and thousands of clerks enter and pass along through the store, along with the changes in ownership and title of the firm and corporation, in which he has now become a director.

COMMITTEE WILL CONSIDER COMMUNITY CHEST IDEA

Directors of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting Monday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters, had visitors from New London present who explained the operation of the Community chest in that city. After listening to the New London men, it was voted that President James L. Case appoint a committee of five to consider the matter further.

James M. Morton was elected a director, filling the vacancy that had been left by the removal from the city of J. Nelson Weymouth.

Seven new names were voted into membership.

The meeting also passed resolutions in favor of the bill offered by Congressman Henry W. Watson, of Pennsylvania, which is to prohibit the sending of merchandise through the mail in the way that some large manufacturing concerns have of sending merchandise on approval, expecting the receiver either to buy it or send it back, although he may have made no request for the merchandise to be sent to him and probably never has heard of the concern that sent it out.

DR. LEWIS GOES UP TO LEAD IN PINOCHLE

Dr. N. B. Lewis took the lead in the West Side Pinochle club tournament at the last meeting of the club. Chas. Peckham dropped back into second place and H. H. Pettis retained third position. Dr. Lewis took a jump from third to first place. The standing:

Dr. N. B. Lewis, 29,145; Charles Peckham, 28,610; H. H. Pettis, 28,405; Underwood, 28,800; Ellsworth, 26,550; John Jordan, 26,225; Bailey, 26,140; Dr. J. T. Boynton, 25,090; Everett Peckham, 25,835; Alexander Jordan, 25,665; Conrad Shuler, 25,460; J. A. Parker, 24,715.

Nurses to Attend Meeting

Several of the Norwich nurses are expecting to attend the meeting of the Connecticut Public Health association which is to meet on Thursday Feb. 11 at Bridgeport. The meetings will be held at the Welfare building, Washington avenue.

The morning session begins at 10.30. The first subject will be "Scarlet Fever" by Dr. Francis G. Blake of Yale School of Medicine. Dr. Coombs, health officer of Bridgeport will talk on "A Clinic on Diagnosis." In the afternoon at 2.30 the subject will be "Preventable Diseases of Adult Life," by Dr. Haven Emerson of Columbia.

CHARGE WILLIMANTIC OFFICER GAMBLING ROOM PROPRIETOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 8.—Police Officer Fred A. Coriarty was called off of his beat late tonight charged with operating a gambling establishment. The accusation against the officer was made when he arrived at the police station after nine men had been arrested for frequenting and gambling at his pool room conducted at 640 Main street in the building owned by Alderman William A. Buck. Receiving a complaint that all was not well with the pool room County Detective William E. Jackson, chairman of the police committee of the common council, and Alderman Charles H. Beebe, another member of committee, assisted by Officer Grant Bombria raided the place shortly after 11 o'clock. Ignoring two men who were shaking dice on a pool table the raiders rushed into a rear room and found two tables where it is alleged gambling was going on. The sum of $6.50 was taken as evidence from one table. The young men arrested are Alex A. Coriarty, Lewis Bishara, Henry Morin, Frank Teevans, Arthur Rothblat, Napoleon LaMontagne, Alfred J. Lariviere, William Leahy and George Joseph, all of this city. Officer Coriarty has been a supernumery member of the police department for over one year. He and the nine alleged frequenters will appear in police court this (Tuesday) morning.

ADVISES FRIENDLINESS IN EFFECTING AMERICANIZATION

Nearly 200 teachers of adult classes and their guests attended the first mid-winter banquet of the State Council of Americanization workers held at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, on Saturday afternoon.

In spite of the difficulties of travel due to the storm, big delegations of evening school teachers were present from Norwalk, Manchester, Stamford, South Glastonbury and Terryville, while practically every town with evening school director was represented by at least one delegate. Miss Annie Fisher of the Henry Barnard district opened the discussion with an address on the true relationship between the adult and the school. Rev. S. A. Ickek of Norwich in speaking for the Polish group reminded the audience of the bitter experiences of the Poles with Russification and therefore he said we must expect hesitation to adopt a plan of Americanization until their experience showed that they were not expected to destroy all the old traditions in acquiring the new. They brought many good qualities which could be of service to America which need to be understood and preserved. He urged the larger use of pictures and illustrative material in teaching the history of this country and Poles inasmuch as they are a nation of liberty lovers as much as the American ancestors of 1776. He urged education and a better understanding of difficulties which must be met in adaptation to a new environment. "Under a policy of force to learn English, the Poles would speak Polish for 200 years, for that has been their history. Under a policy of friendship, however, they quickly learn English and love America."

PRESTON CITY HOSTS FOR SLEIGHING PARTY

In spite of the unfavorable condition of the roads and the weather on Saturday evening a jolly party of sixteen from this city thoroughly enjoyed a straw ride in one of G. Warren Davis' big sleds out to Preston city, their destination being the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Benjamin where they were very soon made to feel at home and to understand why people in the country are noted for their hospitality. The party included Judge and Mrs. Allyn L. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Cravèen, Mr. and Mrs. Weston C. Pullen, Mr. and Mrs. Benedict Pullen, Dr. and Mrs. Harrison G. Gray, Dr and Mrs. William W. Leonard, Dr and Mrs. Frederick Schenck the latter of the staff at the state hospital. During the evening Mrs. Benjamin assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Herbert H. Benjamin, served lunch consisting of frankfurts, rolls, several kinds of cake, cookies and coffee with chocolates. As part of the evening's entertainment Judge Brown who so ably fills the position as judge of the superior court, filled the position as operator of the Victrola while the music interspersed with jokes made the evening one long to be remembered. The party departed for home amid the blast of horns, planning that if conditions were again favorable they would make another trip.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT EFFECTED OUT OF COURT

Trial in the $600 damage suit of Mrs. Mary W. Farley, of South Orange, N. J., against Thomas T. Wetmore, Jr., of New London, was started and continued for one week before Judge Arthur F. Libby in the court of common pleas in this city Monday. The continuance was granted at the request of Attorney Max Boyer, counsel for Wetmore, who stated that a settlement had been effected out of court.

Mrs. Farley alleged that Wetmore had claimed to be an authorized agent for her in the sale of property in Pequot avenue. She also claimed that he was not and as a result she had been made defendant in two civil actions, one brought by Mrs. Nellie A. Callahan, and the other by Wetmore himself. She alleged that in the suit brought by Mrs. Callahan, which was heard before Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court, judgment was rendered in her favor and in the suit brought by Wetmore, which was tried before Judge Charles E. Waller in the court of common pleas, judgment was again entered in her favor.

The present action brought by Mrs. Farley is to collect alleged sums expended for counsel fees, court expenses, traveling expenses and hotel bills, in connection with the two suits.

DIVORCES AND DOG BITE IN NEW SUITS FILED

Three divorce suits, two of which were from New London and the other from Stonington, were the new cases which were filed Monday in the superior court clerk's office in this city and are returnable in March.

Perissa Jenkins Forrester of New London who married William G. Forrester, now of Steubenville, Ohio, on May 4, 1922, seeks divorce from him on the ground of a statutory offense committed with a an unnamed co-respondent since Jan. 1, 1924.

On the ground of desertion on Sept 1, 1921, Charles H. Cooper of New London asks divorce from Theresa Hagan Cooper, now of parts unknown. They were married Oct. 15, 1915.

Dorothy Johnson Batty of Stonington sues for divorce from Rossie Batty of that town on the ground of desertion on Jan. 20, 1923. They were married Dec. 24, 1919. She asks the custody of a three year old daughter.

Suit Over Dog Bite

Another suit filed was that of Mary Misinsky against John and Natalie Kuzmicz, all of Norwich, in which the plaintiff asks $1,000 damages on the claim she was bitten by a dog owned by the defendants. It is claimed that the plaintiff was bitten in the leg below the knee on Jan. 23, 1926 by a dog named Prince which belongs to the defendants and that because of her delicate condition of health she suffered pain mentally and physically and was obliged to incur doctors' bills as a necessary expense.

BOSTON BANKER TO SPEAK FOR COMMERCE CHAMBER

For the February meeting of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, which will be held next Tuesday evening at 6:15 at the Wauregan house, the membership meetings committee is announcing as the speaker William J. Fortune, vice president and sales manager of the National Shawmut bank, Boston.

Mr. Fortune will speak upon the subject, Selling New England, and is spoken of as one who knows his subject thoroughly and is capable of making an address that will arouse pride in New England and point out ways in which to keep New England's place in the nation's industry.

SUSIE AND HER FAMILY GET KICK OUT OF SNOW STORM-MOSTLY SUSIE

Although recovering from her recent illness with the measles Susie gets quite a kick out of the snow storm and the fun her little brother Willie is having. She writes about her impressions of the beautiful snow as follows:

Dear Sports Editor:

Well, Ed, them measles and me has parted company but the doc says I gotta stay in the old shanty an' view the landscape through them black glasses what makes things look like what they ain't. Willie says if I hadda tin cup I could make some coin, 'cause I look like one of them blind fellers what you sees 'round the streets in the summer time. That's a good ideer and maybe I'll do it if the old man gets fired agin.

Well, we got plenty of snow, ain't we? I guess that feller up in the wilds of Okneeco can throw out his chest and make a bid for the leather medile or whatever they give out to a weather prevaricator, I guess that's the word you use when you mean a feller what tells about the weather before it happens. Remember that feller what wrote that pome about "Snow Beautiful Snow," well, I bet that guy never hadda shovel it.

My old man is mopin' 'round the house with a lame back he got from shovelin' the walks and every few minutes Ma hasta rub his back with ligaments an' then Pa coffs an' takes a coupla swallers outa bottle, sayin' he's gotta stop that cold what he feels comin' on. If you asks me I think he feels a cold comin' on every Saturday nite. When Pa was shovelin' off the walk somethin' funny happened that made me laff but made Pa rippin' mad. He was shovelin' away and cussin' the snow and tellin' everybody that he be darned if he didn't go to Florida next winter even if he hadda walk. (Between you and me that's the only way he'd ever get there) when there was a scrapin' sound up on the roof an' Pa looks up just as about a ton of snow comes plungin' down. Pa makes a jump but he gets all mixed up with the shovel and down he goes and down comes the snow and Pa is next to the ground and all you can see is his feet.

I hollers to Ma that Pa is buried and she says "Thank Gawd, he's been dead long enough." Well I looks out and the old man is just comin' up for air and is tryin' to separate the snow from himself which is meltin' an' runnin' down his neck. He sees the shovel what is the innercent cause of his fall and he makes a grab for it and gets it. Then he up and slams it against a tree and then heaves it over the bank. But that don't do no good for the snow keeps meltin' and he has to go an' get the shovel again 'cause Ma says he's gotta finish them walks 'fore he comes in. Well, when he gets 'em done he comes in and you'd think he'd been swimmin' he's so wet, which is the cause of them frequent nips outta the bottle.

As there ain't no school that day of the storm Willie is home and he ain't no more of a newsance than always. What that kid don't think of ain't worth thinkin' of in the way of devilwork. He gets the idea that it would be fun to heave a few snowballs, so he does. He starts makin' 'em an' bime bye along comes a feller with a derby on and Willie let's drive. Well, if Willie can keep that control till he grows up he'll be a whale of a baseball pitcher. Well, the result is quick and sudden. The feller what has his hat busted sees Willie and he shacks the kid all over the neighborhood but he ain't got no chance with the kid. Then Willie gets a nother ideer an' he gets a pail of water an' pours it on the walk and it freezes.

Willie hides back of the house an' bime bye a nother feller comes along, a feller from the store an' he's all loaded up with groceries, and I later finds out he has some eggs. Willie's lost none of that control and a juicy snowball hits the feller in back of the ear and starts to run and so does the feller only after Willie. Willie beats it across the ice where he poured the water with the feller after him. Willie ain't so dumb 'cause when that feller hits that ice his feet is kinda useless an' after a few wonderful attempts at acrowbats he just kinda gives up an' settles down on the ice with a whack. Them bundles go all ways and land in the snow drift. Then here's where them eggs come in. Willie is standin' with his thumb at his nose and his finger wigglin' like he's playing a cornet. Well, the feller reaches out and grabs a bag and puts his hand in an' then heaves something at Willie. Willie is kinda took by sprise not expectin' no comeback from a feller whats prostrate on the ice. When the missle hits Willie I knows it ain't no snowballs 'cause I ain't ever seen no yellow snow, I mistrusts its a egg and it is. But that ain't all, for the feller keeps heaving that hen fruit until the bag's empty and outa that dozen eggs he don't miss mor'n a coupla times. Well, Willie knows when he's licked an' he runs bawling into Ma. Gosh, that kid was a sight, he looks like a omlet goin' some place to be cooked. Believe me, Ma does the cookin' for she gets a hair brush an' starts to work on the place what was give Willie to set on. She makes it so hot for the kid that them eggs begin to fry right there on his pants. Then she makes him take a bath and Willie puts up a nother holler 'cause it ain't Saturday nite but it don't do no good. After Willie gets him and the eggs apart Ma sends him to bed for which I is thankful, although it spoils my fun.

Then Ma makes Pa who's sittin' in front of the stove with his feet in the oven tryin' to get dry to go out an' put some ashes on the ice. Pa goes down cellar an' gets a pan of ashes from the heater an' goes out. Pa down know where the ice is till he steps on it but he spreads them ashes all right but most of them is on him 'cause he hits the ice first and then the ashes and last the pan. As luck would have the pan hits Pa on his head and darn near puts him out. Well, I dasn't write what Pa says but if they's any cuss words he didn't use I wanta know it. Ma hears him an' goes to the door an' says "John, ain't you ashamed of yourself to use such language before the neighbors"? And Pa says 'Mary, you go on back in the house, howinell was I to know the neighbors wanted to use it first?" Ma don't say nothin' more and bime bye Pa comes in mutterin' about the d—n snow an' how's it's the last winter he's going to shovel snow but Ma says "Oh shut up, we hear that every year but we ain't picked no flowers down in Florida yet."

Well, I gets quite a kick outa the snow even if I has gotta stay in the house. The boy friend comes up every night to see how I'm gettin' on an' he says how's everything is all tied up with the snow. He says that Street Commissioner feller, Jack Donovan, is doin' good work in removin' the snow along with Whacko Riley whose helpin' him. them fellers is doin' a lotta good work an' they outa get a lotta wages for workin' all night an' day too, cause it ain't no cinch to shovel snow. If you don't believe me, ask my old man, he knows.

Well I gotta stop 'cause my eyes is gettin' tired and the doc says I gotta be careful and not strain 'em. Hopin' you didn't have no snow to shovel, I remain as ever,

Yours sincerely,
SUSIE

AGGIES CLASH WITH TRINITY AT STORRS TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Feb. 8—Following a week's inactivity during the mid-year examination period, the Connecticut Aggie basketball team will swing into action again tomorrow night, meeting Trinity here in the first of the two contests that will be played between the two colleges.

Of special interest in connection with this game is the announcement here today that a play-by-play account of the contest would be broadcast from WCAC, the college broadcasting station. Capt. C. R. Crim, R. O. T. C. commandant at Storrs, will do the announcing and the game is scheduled for 8 p. m.

No changes in starting lineup are contemplated by Coach Dole as he drills his squad in preparation for the game. Captain Makofski will jump center, Schofield and Eddy will play the forward positions, Allard and Bitgood will be in the backcourt. This is the combination that defeated Harvard at Cambridge by a 33-24 score, and it is the one Connecticut followers are counting on for tomorrow night.

On the basis of comparative records to date, Connecticut must be conceded a margin, especially where the game is to be played on the Aggies large court. Of six games played to date, four have been won and two have been lost. Teams falling before the Aggies include Tufts, Norwich, Springfield and Harvard. Teams defeating the Aggies are Wesleyan and Union.

MISS WILLS WINS FROM MISS FISCHER WITH EASE

CANNES, France, Feb. 8—(AP)—Helen Wills, reverting to her usual hard driving game, which she abandoned for a time in her mixed doubles match against Suzanne Lenglen yesterday, scored an easy victory in the first round of the Carlton tennis tournament today, defeating Miss Ethel Fischer of England in two love sets.

Mlle Lenglen was idle today, having drawn a bye in the first round of the singles. She was not even at the courts to watch her American rival play.

The decisive manner in which Miss Wills disposed of her opponent brought the betting odds against her in her expected match with Mlle. Lenglen from 7 to 1 down to 5 to 1. This match, it is believed, will be played Saturday.

The California girl's play today, however, was hardly a convincing criterion of her game, since she was not extended. She lost only 13 points in the two sets, five in the first and eight in the second. Not a single game went to deuce, and Miss Wills' point score, made up entirely of fours, is considered unique in the history of Riviera tennis. This score follows:

First set

Miss Wills ..	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	—24
Miss Fischer	1	1	1	0	0	2	0	—5

Second set

Miss Wills	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	—24
Miss Fischer ...	2	0	1	2	1	2	—	8

AMERICAN LEAGUE HAS SOME KNOTTY PROBLEMS TO SETTLE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Adoption of a revised constitution is expected to furnish the most important topic of discussion at the opening here tomorrow of the annual schedule meeting of American League baseball magnates. With the exception of Philip C. Ball president of the St. Louis Browns, who is ill in a hospital, full attendance of the junior circuit heads is promised.

Although the meeting is called to adopt a schedule for the coming season, this is regarded as the least important business to be transacted since it means simply a formal ratification of dates already decided upon.

Clark C. Griffith, president of the American League champion Senators, believes that the "getting of the rules in black and white will be the best thing the American League has done in years."

Whether the question of allowing pitchers to use resin during the coming season, as favored by the joint rules committee, will come up for adoption remains problematical. President Griffith says, however, if it does come up, he will vote again it "as a step backward."

MOTION PICTURE RIGHTS SOLD FOR WILLS-LENGLEN MATCH

CANNES, France, Feb. 8—(AP)—The exclusive right to take motion pictures of the expected match between Helen Wills and Suzanne Lenglen in the finals of the Carlton tournament has been sold to an American producer for a consideration reported to run over the $100,000 mark. American camera men were informed of this today when they were refused admittance to the match.

"This is a plain business proposition," said Thomas Burke, brother of the world champion tennis player, Albert Burke, who is handling the financial affairs of the Carlton tennis tournament. He said no pictures could be taken without the approval of the concessionaire.

"That's news to me," was Miss Wills' comment.

"I never bother about moving pictures," said Mlle. Lenglen.

REACHES AGREEMENT WITH NEW YORK GIANTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—The New York Giants today announced an agreement with Pitcher Hugh McQuillan under which the latter has consented to discontinue a suit for unpaid salary in connection with his suspension last year. McQuillan also has come to terms for the 1926 season and will go south with other players on February 18.

McQuillan, one of the leading pitchers of the National League in 1924, was suspended by Manager John McGraw on July 1, 1925, for failure to keep in proper condition. He entered suit last August to recover $2,038.45 which he claimed was due him as salary.

OUTSIDER WINS FEATURE EVENT AT MIAMI TRACK

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—R. L. Gerry's prime minister, overlooked in the betting as he had been running long distances, captured the Sea Breeze, feature event at Miami today. Gold Stick, racing close up from the start, appeared to be winning in the stretch but went under the wire a nose behind. Sun Pal was third.

There were eleven starters in the 5 1-2 furlongs event before a large Monday crowd with fast footing prevailing. Richards took Prime Minister out in front at the start to finish in 1:06 1-5.

The Victor purse for four-year-olds at the Fair Grounds, New Orleans, went to the favorite, Cherokee Lee. The Badger and Samaritan set a fast pace which they could not hold and quit at the end, to permit Dare Say and Rural Route to finished second and third. The time for the mile and 70 yards was 1:45 3-5.

AMERICAN BOWLING TEAM TO INVADE EUROPE

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Plans for a tour of European countries next summer by a team of fifteen American bowlers were revealed today by Joe Thum, president of the United Bowling Clubs of New York.

The team will participate in an International competition at Stockholm, Sweden, for the United Bowling Clubs' challenge cup on June 2, 3 and 5, and later in a tournament in Berlin from July 15 to 25. Matches also are planned in Frankfort, Germany; in Switzerland, Holland and Austria.

Leading pinners of the middle west will be added to selections from the east, which include Charles Trucks and William Knox of Philadelphia; Mort Lindsey of Stamford, Conn.; George S. Jarrett, Fred Gerdes, Leo Lucke, Leo Marino and Joe Falcaro of New York.

The team will sail from New York May 20.

WILSON TO ORGANIZE GRID TEAM NEXT SEASON

CHICAGO, Feb. 8—(AP)—George Wilson, All-American halfback of the University of Washington, has decided to follow the footsteps of "Red" Grange in organizing and managing his own gridiron eleven next season.

C. C. Pyle, Grange's manager, said tonight he had accepted a proposition from Wilson to arange for eastern games. The team will be known as "Wildcat Wilson and his Washington Wildcats."

Pyle, with Grange, returned to Chicago tonight to plunge into the work of organizing a new professional football league in opposition to the National Football league, which denied Grange a franchise to operate a club in the Yankee Stadium at New York. Pyle said the league would be limited to 12 clubs and intimated that he already had eight cities as prospects, Chicago may be included in the circuit, he said.

WALKER TO INVADE WEST IN SEARCH OF BOUTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Mickey Walker, barred by the New York State Athletic commission from meeting Tommy Milligan of Scotland in a championship match, today took his welterweight title into the west to engage in bouts in Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

His first contest of the tour will be fought in Los Angeles, according to his manager, Jack Kearns where Leo Lomski, a middleweight, will be the opponent. Dates for the various engagements have not been set.

Kearns said he expects the champion to meet Milligan, Harry Greb and Benny Leonard before the year is out.

GERMAN ROWING CLUB INVITES AMERICAN CREWS

HAMBURG, Feb. 8—(AP)—Invitations to compete in the 90th anniversary regatta of the Hamburg Rowing club, July 10 and 11, have been sent to five American universities and to Henry P. Burke of Philadelphia, president of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen in the United States.

Yale, Harvard, Columbia, Cornell and Pennsylvania college crews are invited to the meet by the Hamburg Rowing club and the German Federation of Rowing clubs, which stress the point that almost two decades have passed since Germany and the United States met here in international competition on the water.

SHEIK LEONARD IS KAYOED IN SECOND ROUND

HARTFORD, Feb. 8—(AP)—Jack Ward, Canadian negro, tonight outpointed Clem Johnson, New York negro, in a ten round star bout here tonight. They are heavyweights.

Mike Morley, Hartford, won the decision from Frankie Zenk, Springfield, Mass., in the semi-final. In another eight rounder, Jack Oakes, Buffalo, negro, knocked out "Sheik" Leonard, Wallingford, in the second round. They are welterweights.

Two other bouts were on the card. Sammy Cooper, New Haven, won the verdict over "Young" Emmons, Waterbury, and "Kid" Lewis, Hartford, outpointed "Smiler" McCormick, Hartford.

BABE HERMAN GETS DECISION OVER SUGGS

BOSTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Babe Herman of California won the decision from Chick Suggs of New Bedford in a fast and furious 10 round bout here tonight. Suggs weighed 123 pounds and Herman 127.

Only in the first round were honors even. For the rest of the fight the Californian battered Suggs with rights and lefts to the jaw, used a right hook with perfection and in the last two rounds chased his opponent around the ring with a barrage of blows to the stomach and face, smothering him with punches.

WATERBURY SCHOOL FIVE SETS A WORLD'S RECORD

WATERBURY, Feb. 8—(AP)—Washington grammar school's basketball team, winners of Division B honors in the local grammar school league which closed today, created what is said to be a world's record for a school boy quintet. In nine games, the members of the team score 324 field and 17 foul goals for a total of 465 points. Captain Joseph Cavanaugh with 91 field and 9 foul goals, leads the individual scorers with 191 points.

ENTIRE FOOTBALL COACHING STAFF AT HARVARD RESIGNS IN A BODY

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 8—(AP)—The football coach situation at Harvard, up in the air since Head Coach Bob Fisher's resignation last fall has been given another hoist into the blue. It was announced today that the football advisory committee headed by Fisher had resigned in a body because it could not agree with Captain Clement Coady of the football team and with the Harvard athletic committee which selects the coach.

The disagreement did not center upon any one man, it was learned, from authoritative circles. All the men concerned had reached a common agreement that Charlie Buell, star Harvard quarterback under the late Percy D. Haughton, was the one to step into Fisher's shoes, but Buell declined the appointment, as did Leo Leary, end coach. From then on fifteen or twenty names were considered by the committees for the most part at separate meetings, but once or twice in joint session.

There were two main lines of disagreement. The advisory committee was inclined to limit the field of choice to Harvard men, more particularly to men who starred on the gridiron back in 1914, 1915 and 1916 and have since coached at Harvard and elsewhere. The athletic committee envisaged a wider field of selection and its members for the most part where not so averse to getting a young man or a non-Harvard graduate. The breach of opinion widened and at last the break came.

An athletic committe official pointed out that the five men of the advisory committee had purely consultative powers, and that it would be possible even without them to sound graduate opinion on the matter of a head coach. This will be the procedure at least for the next fortnight.

Question arose as to the newly created office of athletic director at Harvard, this man to be appointed by the corporation of the university and to be a member of the faculty. It was explained that it would not be necessary to await his selection before choosing a football coach, and it was prophesied that the latter position would be filled before the former.

The athletic committee has a particular problem in that the salary to be paid the head coach in football is limited. Any one of several coaches of standing in the country might well be agreeable to the athletic committee, but he would demand a higher salary than could be provided.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Ty Cobb's next birthday anniversary will be his 40th.

Yale has won 13 intercollegiate swimming championships in 13 years.

Baltimore is the largest city in the country supporting a minor league baseball team.

The coming season will be his 16th in the major leagues for Grover Cleveland Alexander, star pitcher of the Chicago Cubs.

The father of Joie Ray, the Chicago runner, was a boxer in his younger days and he wanted Joie to be a fighter instead of a runner.

Manager McGraw of the New York Giants does not believe in using "kid" pitchers at the beginning of the championship season.

The shortest major league baseball game on record was played between the New York and Philadelphia National league teams in 1919 and lasted 51 minutes.

The Cincinnati Red Stockings, the grand daddy of all professional baseball teams, went through the season of 1869 without a defeat, winning 81 games.

The present year marks the silver jubilee of the Boston Red Sox, the Hub team having entered the American league in 1901, the second year of the league's existence.

Few fistic stars manage to retain their powers as long as did Jack Britton who successfully defended his welterweight championship until close to his 40th year.

CARPENTIER MAY FIGHT AT CUBA NEXT MONTH

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—Although Georges Carpentier has been besieged with offers to box in this country, Jack Curley, his American representative, said today that the former light-heavyweight champion may make the first ring appearance of his present American invasion at Havana, Cuba, late this month or early in March.

Curley said he has been negotiating for a fight between Carpentier and Tom McKiernan of New York in the Cuban capital.

STRIBLING MATCHED TO FIGHT JIMMY SLATTERY

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Young Stribling, Georgia light heavyweight, and Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, signed today for a 15 round match at Madison Square Garden, March 26, Jess McMahon, matchmaker at the garden, announced. The men will fight at catchweights.

Indoor Polo Series

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—An indoor polo series between British and American teams, tentatively arranged to be held here in March, will renew play for the John R. Townsend international trophy, placed in competition three years ago for the first time and now held by this country.

The British team is now playing in Florida.

Peter Regains Faith in His Eyes

There's nothing finer to attain
Than faith in self restored again.
—Peter Rabbit.

For two days Peter Rabbit couldn't get it out of his head that he had seen Mocker the Mocking Bird up by Farmer Brown's house. He couldn't get it out of his head that he had seen Mocker, yet he couldn't believe that he had seen Mocker. It was very confusing and disturbing. He was sure he had and he was sure he hadn't, and that is a dreadful state of mind to be in.

So Peter, being what he is, took the very first opportunity to go back to the Old Orchard near Farmer Brown's house. Almost the first person he saw after daylight came was a gray and white bird which instantly reminded him of Mocker the Mocking Bird; but it wasn't Mocker. He knew that the instant he looked at the stranger's bill. There was a tiny hook on the end of that bill. Moreover, the stranger was hunting Tommy Tit the Chickadee. Yes, sir, he was doing his best to catch Tommy Tit. Tommy was dodging about in the thickest bushes he could find.

"It's Butcher the Shrike," said Peter to himself. "It must have been Butcher that I saw the other day. I didn't get a real good look at him, but that is who it must have been. I would much rather have discovered Mocker the Mocking Bird, but I am glad to have the puzzle settled. I am glad to know who it really was."

At that very instant Peter happened to look over to Farmer Brown's house, and there was another gray and white bird just alighting in the vine on Farmer Brown's house. From where he sat Peter could see that this feathered neighbor was making his breakfast on berries that were still on that vine. Peter swallowed hard a couple of times as though he had a lump in his throat. If this wasn't Mocker the Mocking Bird, then Peter didn't know Mocker when he saw him. This was the one he had seen a few days before. Now he knew that his eyes had not deceived him. "It is Mocker! It is! It is! As surely as I can sit on my own tail, it is Mocker the Mocking Bird!" said Peter to himself. "Of course, it can't be, but it is. Butcher the Shrike wouldn't be eating berries. But how can Mocker who belongs down in the Sunny South, live up here in the land of snow and ice? I must look into this. I certainly must look into this. This is the most surprising thing I ever heard of. I remember that Welcome Robin once spent the winter here, but Welcome belongs up here, anyway, and Mocker doesn't, even in the summer time. There's Sammy Jay. I'll see what Sammy knows about it. Hi, Sammy Jay!"

Peter swallowed hard a couple of times, as though he had a lump in his throat.

Sammy Jay, who was flying over Peter, looked down and saw him. He at once alighted just above Peter's head. "My goodness, Peter," exclaimed Sammy, "What is the matter with your eyes?"

"Nothing is the matter with my eyes," retorted Peter rather shortly. "They look big enough for you to have seen a ghost," retorted Sammy.

"Well, I haven't seen a ghost," replied Peter, "but I have seen Mocker the Mocking Bird."

Peter eagerly watched Sammy Jay for a look of surprise. But Sammy didn't look surprised at all. "Well what of it?" said Sammy. "I have seen Mocker the Mocking Bird every day for most of the winter so far." "Wha-wha-what did you say?" cried Peter.

"I said that I had seen Mocker the Mocking Bird every day for most of the winter so far. What is there wonderful about that?" replied Sammy.

"Then he really is spending the winter up here?" cried Peter.

"Of course, stupid!" retorted Sammy. "Otherwise I couldn't have seen him, could I?" Peter had to admit that this was true.

POETRY

Tapestry

I have taken my broken threads of life
And bound them tight together,
The scarlet thread of my dearest love,
And the silver thread of pain;
I have woven them close in a warm design, but sometimes I wonder whether
The threads that have gone to the pattern's heart will ever be mine again!

I have woven the golden thread of hope
And the purple thread of passion.
And I have woven the blue of faith
And the sodden gray of grief;
And into the warp of the tapestry I have vaguely tried to fashion
A wistful hint of my questions, and glimpse of my keen belief;

I have woven the shining white of truth
And the green of lyric laughter,
I have woven a strand of subtle hue so that those who mourn may see—
O, I have knotted the broken threads that the ones who follow after
May find a strength in the gleaming folds, and a hint of mystery!

And while I weave—while I tie the threads that the shears of fate have sundered,
I pray that my hands may keep their skill, that my fingers may be true
To the task that life has left for them—and that, though my soul has wounds to bleed,
My eyes will cling to the vivid strands while there still is work to do!
—Margaret E. Sangster, in New York Sun.

Sir Chickadee

Sir Chickadee came in a swirl of snow;
And he brought his wife—as of course you'd know.
And he brought their children four;
All of them fluffy as fluffy could be,
And all of them "Chick-a-dee-dee-ing" in glee,
They perched in the old Sweet Pippin tree
Outside the kitchen door.

"Chick-a-dee-dee, dee-dee, dee-dee!"
That's what it sounded like to me!
But Dot knew, quick as a wink;
And she declared, "They all of them say:
'It's a very delightful dear of a day,
And makes us Chickadees feel right gay;
But hungry—you can't think!'"

And this proves well that Dot knows bird talk;
When she threw some crumbs on the flagging walk,
Down flew each fluffy elf!
And they ate—oh, how they ate! Dear me!
Dot couldn't have understood, you see,
One little wee small bit better, if she
Were a Chickadee herself!

The idea of extracting music from such a harsh medium as an ordinary wood saw is said to have originated more than thirty years ago in Argentina. There a drunken violinist playing in a lumberman's camp stupidly selected a saw and, placing the handle under his chin, drew his bow across its smooth edge. Muddleheaded as he was, he was sober enough to appreciate that the freak instrument possessed definite musical properties. Recently the idea has been revived and musical saws are a current craze in jazz orchestras in England and America.

Feeding thirteen Texas diamond rattle snakes by forcing mice down their throats and bathing the reptiles with soap and water twice a week are the duties of Miss Grace Olive Wiley, curator of the museum of the Minnesota Academy of Natural Science, in Minneapolis. Miss Wiley gives it as her opinion that rattle snakes vary greatly in their temperaments, some being more sensitive and nervous than others, reacting in an entirely different manner to the same treatment. She says the reptiles have an affectionate instinct, as all like to be stroked and petted, some showing their fondness for this attention by arching their backs like a cat. They also exhibit some of the instincts peculiar to the traits displayed by jungle beasts. "Their confidence must be won before they act naturally in captivity and they must be made contented and happy before much can be learned of their habits," she says.

RICH MAN'S SON GIVES EXAMPLE OF PUNCTUALITY IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 3—Norman Woolworth, son of the owner of the chain of stores bearing the name, who has been employed at the store in this city while he obtained his first instruction in the management of the business, has been transferred from the New London to the New York store. It is claimed that Young Woolworth will not be docked if he happens to be tardy in getting to work in his new position, but to his credit it may be said that he isn't one of the tardy sort. He has conformed to every rule of the store while he has been in New London and has set an example that other employes followed.

TECH. STUDENTS GET BOOZE AND THEN GET VERY FRESH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 3—A couple of students at Chapman Technical school brought disgrace Sunday to themselves and the institution where they have been pursuing studies when they appeared at a Broad street confectionery store in a condition of intoxication that led to their arrest and presentation in the police court this morning. Like thousands of others who indulge in intoxicating liquor, they made themselves offensive when there was no necessity for so doing and when they might with good grace have conducted themselves properly. They bought sodawater that they used as a chaser for their booze and then insisted that they were being imposed upon by the courteous young woman clerk who waited upon them. They left their beverage after drinking a portion of it and when the glasses they used were emptied into the sink they insisted that they should have the balance of their drink. They became so obnoxious that the clerk called an officer and the blooming noosers were taken into custody. They were under the influence of liquor unmistakably. Bail bonds were furnished, that they might go home later and appear in court today. The efforts of officers to ascertain where they got the intoxicants they had drank were unavailing, for the offenders insisted that they bought for a couple of dollars a bottle of liquor from an unknown man in the street. That story, on the face of it, was untrue, but the pair insisted on repeating it and they could not be induced to change it. Their names are not disclosed because of respect for their parents and their family connections, but an expose is coming to them with a full measure of disgrace unless they keep a promise they made to the court and the prosecutor to abstain from liquor in the future. Their cases were continued six months that they might be put to the test and into the custody of the probation officer.

Coast guardsmen were conspicuous in the police court this morning. There were nearly a dozen of them complained against for intoxication, general rowdyism, the theft of material from a restaurant and a supposed effort to make away with an automobile parked at the curbing. A couple of the offenders went into the Liberty restaurant on State street and there stole a quart bottle of cherries that had been preserved, they made way with salt and pepper shakers and with a jelly roll. They denied that they were hungry and said they had an abundance (of water) to drink at the state pier where they are stationed. Fines were imposed in these cases and settled. In a breach of the peace case in which a sailor amused himself by going through the street at midnight and upsetting signs and other sidewalk displays a fine of $15 was imposed and paid. The "plain" drunks were turned over to the coast guard authorities for discipline as the offenders had overstaid leave of absence and were subjects for discipline at the pier.

Andrew Fallon hopped down from Montville and mopped up booze enough to be subject to arrest. Andy was found rambling about aimlessly and was advised to go to his home. Instead he was under the impression that he was told to go to the police station and there he went and was locked up. He was released this morning without further penalty and said he would put a distance of seven miles between him and the court.

Walter Banning made his occasional visit to the court today where he was fined $6 for intoxication. He has often been favored with the court's leniency, but as his wife complained that he was creating a disturbance at his home he did not get away with his explanation today.

Henry Brandd full of confidence, and John Kawanian, very much less reconciled to his situation, pleaded guilty of intoxication and escaped with a suspended judgment. They are employes at the Babcock Printing Press company plant and there they quarrelled after an argument Saturday when they had managed to neck a few drinks such as are reputed for sale in that section. What the trouble was about was not disclosed. The drinks evidently had fight in them and it came out after an argument.

Coal is becoming scarcer as the strike in the anthracite region holds on. Children are constant customers at the coal yards and they go away with 100 pound bags of soft coal on sleds or in carts.

February is making a good record thus far in that there have been few fire alarms and little destruction of property by flames. That is a record devoutly to be wished for. January did not produce a record that was as desirable.

Eric J. Carlson has sold two pieces of property on Ocean avenue to Nazarino and Maria Benvenuti.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Henry Colande, Bloomingdale road, to be suspended. Colande's automobile was recently in collision with another machine. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered the operator's license of Gustavo Beviaqua, 95 Smith street, recently suspended, to be returned to the owner.

Romain H. Rose, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Rose, died this morning at the residence of his parents, 512 Main street. Master Rose, who was a student at Nathan Hale Grammar school, had been in ill health a long time.

Joseph Guerin, 86, died Saturday night at his home, No. 43 Summer street, death ending an illness of many months. He is survived by his wife, three sons, John, Christopher and Joseph Guerin and four daughters, Mrs. Michael Jordan, and Misses Cecelia, Jennie and Margaret Guerin. Mr. Guerin was born in Ireland, but had resided in New London about 80 years, the greater part of which time he was employed as teamster by The F. H. & A. H. Chappell Coal Co.

The funeral of Mrs. Lydia Avery Harris, wife of George C. Harris, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her residence, 255 Pequot avenue and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church. The bearers were Willard D. Harris, Graham Keeney, Max Underhill and Willard. Jedediah and John Gray. Burial was in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Eugenie P. Crandall, wife of Fitch D. Crandall, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the family residence, 338 Williams street and was attended by a large number of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. The bearers were George Whittlesey, Frederick Chittenden, Walter Lewis, Walter A. Towne, Joseph C. Comstock and Fitch L. Comstock. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Donald Callahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Callahan, 14 Lincoln court, was admitted to Lawrence hospital today as a surgical patient.

The fire alarm system was out of order today and as a result blasts of the fire whistle were sounded at intervals and until repairs could be perfected.

The Salvation Army lodging house, corner of State and North Bank streets, was threatened with serious damage by fire this evening, but the blaze was confined to where it originated, in the chimney where a considerable quantity of soot had accumulated as a result of the constant burning of soft coal. The damage was slight.

The fire was discovered by passers-by, who notified Patrolman William Riordan. Sparks were being emitted from the chimney indicating a serious blaze. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Deputy Chief Thomas Shipman and the Nameaug pumper and Konomoc aerial truck responded. The chimney to the four story structure is located on the north side of the building and in order to reach the roof the big 75-foot ladder of the aerial truck was raised from the Atlantic street side. Firemen then ascended to the roof with a line of chemical and a liberty quantity of fluid was emptied into the chimney, causing the subduing of the fire within a half hour.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.

CHURCH ST. WIDENING IS DECIDED UPON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 3—The city council this evening decided to go ahead with the contemplated improvements and the widening of Church street, according to plans formulated some weeks ago. This was after the compensation board of the city reported the proceedings at a hearing in the council chamber this afternoon, when property owners along Church street were present and were heard. There were only two objections to the work, or at least but two property owners who claimed damages greater than were the benefits that it was agreed should be accorded them. Mrs. Ellen B. Flynn demanded damages in the sum of $1,500, because the city proposed to take a foot of land along her premises at the corner of Church and Union streets and because the sidewalk was to be narrowed so that roomers in her home would be annoyed by talk and by other noises occasioned. She represented through her counsel that she had paid $7,500 for the property and since then had expended $3,500 for improvements. She represented that her income from rooms would be decreased to the extent of $6 a week, being $52 on the first floor and $4 a week on the second.

The G. G. Avery estate represented that it would be damaged by the changes. The compensation board reported that the conclusion had been reached that Mrs. Flynn would be damaged to the extent of $500, more than she was benefitted and that the Avery estate would be damaged to the extent of $126. The report was accepted and the widening and improvements were authorized. Other properties were reported to have sustained benefits and damages in equal amounts.

CLAIM CITY IS NOT GETTING ALL THE LIGHT PAID FOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 3.—Mayor Fox called attention to complaints that had reached him, to the effect that the Connecticut Power company was extinguishing the electric lights of the city an hour or more earlier in the morning than they should be subdued. He asked the city manager to give attention to that matter and to see that the city was getting the service it was paying for. The city manager will do that.

The Blue Ribbon Auto Painting company a fortnight ago bid for the contract to paint the Ockford fire apparatus. The Bulletin at the time called attention to the bids offered and to the fact that the great difference between the bids showed that some bidder did not realize what he was contracting to do. The Blue Ribbon company has now failed to keep its contract and notice was given tonight that the company was no longer located here. James W. Bliven was the next lowest bidder, his bid being $4.50 more than the Blue Ribbon company, so the contract was awarded to him. It now will be seen whether Mr. Bliven wants the contract at the price.

Lawrence hospital gave notice of a change in rates for patients in the Mitchell ward, the change being that $4 a day will be charged for adults that are semi-private patients and $3 a day for children of the same classification. The change in price was accepted by the council and the statement was made that it was inconsequential in amount, at the best.

Manager Holt gave notice that a meeting of members of the fire department who had attended the sessions of the fire school and had passed the examination would be held Friday evening, the 13th inst., at the Konomoc house. The members of the council and their young women friends have been invited and the Konomoc company will provide an entertainment. The invitation was accepted.

This city is compelled to resort to a new method of sounding its fire alarm, because of improvements to be made in the plant of the Connecticut Power company on Water street. The power company finds that it will be unable to furnish the city steam for the operation of the firm alarm before April 1 and for that reason has given the city notice that it must find other means of sounding the alarm. Manager Holt gave the council the information that the Gamewell company could furnish the city the airpower to sound the alarm, and that two methods had been suggested. One of these would cost the city $32,456.25, while the other would necessitate an expense of $2,456.25 for installation and $15 a day for supervision. He recommended the latter system estimating that a saving of some $400 might be effected by the installation of the latter system. He asked for and was given an appropriation of $3,200 to meet the expense of installation and to pay contingent expenses that would be involved. Councilor Whiton asked as to the expense of the operation of the system proposed and was told that in Middletown the expense was about $200 a year and that it was likely it would average the same amount here.

INVITATION FROM NORWICH IS TO BE ACCEPTED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 3.—The Eastern Connecticut Travelers' association, through its president, C. W. Pierson, extended an invitation to the council of New London to meet with the Norwich association at the Wauregan hotel, in Norwich, on the evening of March 13th to consider matters believed to be for the benefit of the people of both cities—the twin cities of Eastern Connecticut, as the two places were designated. Manager Holt explained that the Travelers' association had accomplished a great deal in the way of securing better roads and it was paving the way for still further improvements. He said it would undoubtedly be for the best interests of the representatives of the two cities to meet each other socially and to consider what would be for mutual benefit in a constructive way. He believed that something could be done to rid the road of danger spots and that a meeting of the councilors of New London and the selectmen of Groton was a movement toward the accomplishment of that purpose. He said there were probably other matters that might be considered. Mayor Fox approved the suggestion and intimated that the acceptance of the invitation should follow. It did follow and the members of the council and representatives of the press of the city will attend the Norwich meeting.

The new street lights were turned on in Andover for the first time last week. There are sixteen lights, and an equal number on the four streets leading from the center of the town. These electric lights will be burning all night.

Coming to the Palace

Paramount's successor to the Ten Commandments comes to the Palace Sunday for a run of four days, its a gorgeous long-run Grade AA superspecial in the class with "The Covered Wagon," "The Ten Commandments," and "The Vanishing American." The destruction of Babylon in this picture is a more stupendous scene than the parting of the waves in "The Ten Commandments." The love scenes between Nissen and Collier have set the whole screen world agasp. This picture has everything: Color, romance (two kinds) mother love, appeal. It has a universal theme—youth's everlasting longing to run away from home fires for a woman, money or ambition. A theme everybody can understand. The settings are unbelievedly beautiful.

"The Wanderer" ran eight weeks at the Criterion Theatre, New York, at $2 top. Critics and public alike acclaimed it great. It was taken off when it was still doing fine business in order to accommodate a booking of "The Vanishing American."

Palace Theatre

"The Sea Beast," the spectacular Warner picture starring John Barrymore, which opened Sunday at the Palace theatre, ranks among the few truly great photoplays ever filmed.

John Barrymore gives a thrillingly perfect and powerfully moving performance in the role of Ahal Ceesey, a harpooner of the days of 1840 when the whaling industry supplied adventure romance for young men who followed the sea. This picture is based on "Moby Dick" written by Herman Melville and adapted to the screen by Bess Meredyth.

Dolores Costello gives a finely finished performance as the girl whom both brothers love and George O'Hara as the younger brother whose jealousy almost ruins the life of Ahab is vividly convincing.

"The Sea Beast" directed by Millard Webb, is a stirring, beautiful and gripping production, and John Barrymore has never done anything on the screen that equals the power of his latest characterization.

Thursday sees the stars of the old fiddlers' contest and some red hot competition is expected. Many of the local favorites who were unable to come on account of the storm last Thursday have promised to be there this week. Saturday afternoon the third qualifying contest for the children's contest will be held at 3.15.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday a five act vaudeville bill and Bebe Daniels in The Splendid Crime will be the program.

Breed Theatre.

A wonderful love story, screened in the midst of some of the biggest thrills ever produced—a baffling mystery told amid gorgeous scenes—this is "The Phantom of the Opera," Lon Chaney's successor of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," which Universal is presenting at the Breed theatre.

It shows a new Lon Chaney in a new type of play—a thriller told in terms of utter magnificance. Gorgeous ballets, brilliant Parisian fetes, filmed in original colors in the largest scenes ever made for a motion picture—these vie with the dim and eerie cellars under Paris where the Phantom—half devil, holds ghostly sway.

It is beautiful—in spots. It is grotesque — in spots. Its mystery allures, and its spectacles amaze. Its thrills keep or breathless. It is something new—and something very amazing.

Lon Chaney plays "The Phantom," a strange creature of darkness, with the gifts of a god and the face of a monster—and a hate-warped soul. Mary Philbin plays the opera singer for whom the Phantom launches a reign of terror that shakes all Paris, and Norman Kerry is seen as her lover and rescuer. Arthur Edmund Carewe is a compelling figure as the Weird Persian, friend and ally of the lovers in their fight to escape the clutches of the underground terror.

Weird shadows — grim figures silhouetted in darkness, and the breathless terror of the unknown surcharge the drama—contrasted with the brilliance of great fetes and balls, photographed in original color, and the ballet and opera produced in a vast replica of the great Paris Opera. The story shifts again—back to the dim lake five stories below the surface of the earth. Its twists and ramifications bring gasp after gasp of amazement.

The Paris mob, led by an avenging giant, dashes underground to trail the grim Phantom to his lair. And then—but it would spoil the final surprising climax to tell what happens then.

The twenty-five or more principals in the big drama are all well known artists and all specially well chosen by Rupert Julian, who directed this new epic of the screen. They include Gibson Gowland as the Avenging Simon, Arthur Edmund Carewe as the Persian, figure of mystery, Virginia Pearson as Carlotta, the opera singer, John Sainpolis, Bernard Siegel, Anton Vaverka and many others.

Mary Philbin adds another triumph to her already notable list as Christine, the girl from whom the Phantom launches his reign of fright, and Norman Kerry, her lover in her first triumph. "Merry Go Round," is seen again as her lover in the new picture.

Several thousand people take part in the crowd scenes and spectacles, and the settings are gorgeous. Much of the picture is seen in color process and is beautiful in the extreme.

COUNCIL IS CHECKING UP ON CALL FIREMEN

(Special to The Bulletin.))

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 3—A resolution to call a special meeting at an early date and propose to the voters that the Hilltop Hose company and Mongomery Hose company fire department properties be sold, was adopted at the February meeting of the common council tonight. Mayor John C. Tracey presided. Attorney William A. King, appointed corporation counsel during the past month was present. He has acted in the same office during previous republican administrations. The fire committee, Aldermen Walter R. King, chairman and Alderman Charles H. Beebe and Arthur J. Dubreuil has been conducting an investigation of the status of the fire department. The Hilltop building, Summit street, is a wooden structure unused for over a year. The Montgomery building is of brick and is located on Jackson street. At present it houses the street department truck, which is used to draw an antiquated hose wagon to double alarm fires. The upper rooms are now being used as school rooms for pupils of St. Joseph's school, which is overcrowded. The recommendation of the committee that these places be sold and the proceeds be applied to making a first class fire headquarters at the Bank street engine house of Engine Co., No. 1 was adopted.

Albert F. Monte, 33, of Chestnut street, was appointed supernumerary member of the street department and Charles S. Palmer was appointed member of the fire department. On recommendation of Alderman King it was voted that gifts of money received recently by the fire department be held by the city treasurer as a nucleus of a pension fund to be established soon.

Alphonse Chagnon, T. R. Sadd and John Meehan, property holders in the vicinity of Ann and Hope streets appeared before the board and asked for the action on the matter of installing sewers on those streets. Their petition was brought before the board some years ago, but due to certain difficulties in laying the sewer, through private property, the work has been delayed. City Engineer Robert E. Mitchell said that he believed that the sewers could be laid and thereby relieve a very bad condition on the streets named, also a congestion of the Jackson street sewer, but he admitted that it would take some time. The sewers committee was instructed to take immediate action.

A petition of the regular members of the police department for an increase in salary of $2.50 per week was referred to the police and finance committees. The ordinance committee will consider the request of merchants on Main street between North and Church street to relieve the congestion caused there by public service cars using that block as a stand. A permit was granted to the management of the Gem theatre to erect a marquese over the sidewalk. Applications for street lights on Holbrook avenue, Quarry and Potter streets were referred to the light committee. The installation of these lights will come under an extensive program being mapped out by the committee and the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company to improve street lighting throughout the city. Petitions for improvements at the intersection of Frances and Potter streets and installing water and sewer on Willard street were referred to the respective committees. Resolutions were adopted to install lights on the foot bridge connecting Main and Pleasant streets and authorizing the water committee to make necessary repairs on the city ice houses at Mansfield and to make arrangements in conjunction with the mayor to sell the ice crop.

The bill of Dog Warden John T. Nichols was referred to the claims committee for action. Alderman Jackson asked that an outstanding bill for over $200 due to the estate of the late Roderick Lussier, who was dog warden for some years, be taken up. On a resolution introduced by Alderman King a full list of the call members of the fire department, who are not available to answer to calls, will be presented at the next meeting. The mayor was authorized to borrow the sum of $15,000 to defray current expenses. Superintendent of the Streets Irving M. Ford appeared before the board and made known several needs of his department in order to carry out the program mapped out for the ensuing two years. The street and purchasing committees will conduct a study of the matter. Alderman Jackson moved that the superintendent of the water works be instructed to comply with all orders of the common council issued directly or through the water committee and to forward a detailed report of the doings and expenses of that department each month. Adjournment was taken at 10 o'clock.

Curtin H. Reinhardt, Joseph O'Brien, George Cour and Daniel O'Brien left Monday night for Boston to attend a convention of meter men being held there this Tuesday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Telephone Switchboard Demonstration

The telephone demonstration which will be held in the Community House on Church street at 8 o'clock tonight, February 9th, will give the people of Norwich an intimate knowledge of the operations of this local public utility. A switchboard will be set up and the first part of the program will show the operation of a telephone call from one subscriber to another. The demonstration of how toll calls are handled will also be manifested by the exhibitors. Following this demonstration, a moving picture film will be shown which will tell the story of the development of the telephone since the day of its invention by Alexander Graham Bell in 1878 to the present time. This exhibition is secured for Norwich through the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce in an effort to visualize to the public the operations of this public utility. The Southern New England Telephone company is taking this method of acquainting the general public with its operations in handling telephone calls, both local and foreign. The public will be given an opportunity to ask questions. The Chamber of Commerce extends a cordial invitation to the general public to attend this demonstration and exhibition which will be free.

JANARY WAS BUSY IN PUBLIC HEALTH NURSING

CHILDREN AND SISTER OF SYLVESTER SULLIVAN

In memory of HAZEL MERSKELL
who died Feb. 9th, 1925

Sometimes it's only the lilt of a song
That brings you back to me.
Sometimes, down in the heart of a flower,
It is your face I see.
Sometimes, the smile of the lifting mists
Is all your smiling too.
Everything glad in the whole wide world
Seems just a touch of you.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE
The Board of Relief of the Town of Norwich, Conn., will meet in the City Hall Building in said Town each day, Sundays excepted, from February 1 to February 21, from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M., to listen to appeals from the doings of the assessors and to transact any other business proper to be done at said meeting.
Dated at Norwich, Conn., Jan. 19, 1926.
JAMES C. FITZPATRICK,
FRANCIS BEIQUE,
ROBERT G. SWANSON,
Board of Relief.

NOTICE TO ARCHITECTS
Plans and specifications invited for the erection of buildings for the Mansfield State Training School and Hospital, at Mansfield Depot, Conn.
In conformity with the provisions of Section 64 of the General Statutes, Revision of 1918, "An Act Regulating the Employment of Architects on Public Buildings," architects are hereby invited to submit competitive plans for the following:
General Requirements:
Item 1. A Dining Room building for employees; room for 300, with coat rooms, lavatories, serving room, kitchen; one story; floors, rubber tile.
Item 2. Addition to Storehouse. Two story; 40x69; concrete foundation; cement floor, first floor; brick walls; to be heated from central power plant.
Item 3. Cottage for physician. Seven room & brick veneer. To have its own heating plant.
Cost not to exceed as follows:
Item 1. $40,000.00.
Item 2. $10,000.00.
Item 3. $10,000.00.
The architect of the plans selected by the committee in charge will be employed to prepare the working drawings and specifications and to superintend the construction of the buildings. For his compensation he will receive the commission authorized by the American Institute of Architects. No compensation will be paid for plans not finally accepted.
An estimate of cost from some reliable contractor will be required to be submitted with each plan. All plans must be signed by the architect and deposited with the Comptroller of the State at his office in the Capitol, City of Hartford, not later than March 8th, 1926 at 12 o'clock noon, Standard Time.
The committee in charge, in accordance with law, will give a public hearing on said plans in Room 8, State Capitol, on the 15th day of March at 11 o'clock, A. M., Standard Time.
The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.
Dated at Hartford, Connecticut, this 3rd day of February, 1926.
FREDERICK M. SALMON, Comptroller.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS
AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Ledyard, within and for the District of Ledyard, on the 3rd day of February, A. D. 1926.
Present, BILLINGS F. S. CRANDALL, Judge.
Estate of Phebe E. Peckham, late of Ledyard, in said District, deceased.
Ordered, That the Administrator cite the creditors of said deceased to bring in their claims against said estate within six months from this date, by posting a notice to that effect, together with a copy of this order on the sign-post nearest to the place where said deceased last dwelt, and in the same town, and by publishing the same once in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said district, and make return to this Court.
BILLINGS F. S. CRANDALL, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, BILLINGS F. S. CRANDALL, Judge.

NOTICE
All creditors of said deceased are hereby notified to present their claims against said estate to the undersigned at Norwich, Conn., within the time limited in the above and foregoing order.
C. S. PECKHAM, Administrator.

GALES FERRY

At the Gales Ferry public library, the attendants for January, Tuesday and Friday afternoons were Mrs. C. H. Hoyt, Mrs. Nelson Parker and Mrs. Alton Stoddard.

At Sunday morning worship in the Methodist church, Elinor Page of New London spoke in the absence of Rev. George Smith Brown, who supplied the pulpit of Trinity M. E. church, Norwich. Miss Page took the theme from Acts 16:25: Does God Care? Miss Jennie C. Perkins was at the organ.

The Sunday school at noon, was in charge of the assistant superintendent, Dudley C. Perkins. The snow-bound condition of the roads east and west, of the military highway prevented the usual good attendance.

Courtland E. Colver of the Submarine Base, who has been superintending the harvesting of ice, at the State Line Ice company plant returned Saturday.

Clarence Latham of Saybrook, was a caller, on friends in Gales Ferry Saturday afternoon. Mr. Latham is a son of the late Thomas Latham, and Mrs. Latham of this place, and his boyhood days, were spent here.

Mrs. George H. Wright and son William K. Knight of Sterling, visited their new English bungalow on the military highway Tuesday of last week. Rev. Mr. Knight accompanied them as far as Norwich, where he attended the Norwich District Ministerial association meeting Monday and Tuesday.

Dudley C. Perkins attended the election of the Jibboom club officials in New London, Saturday evening and was a caller, at the home of his brother, Rowland H. Perkins of that city.

Rev. Allen Shaw Bush attended the February session of the New London County Congregational churches and ministers at Park Congregational church, Norwich, Tuesday.

The February meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society, is to be held at the home of Mrs. Harmon L. Perkins, this (Tuesday) afternoon.

SOUTH KILLINGLY

Herman Barlow and son Ernest, of Danielson, were visitors Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. William Barlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Phillips' little son, Donald, burned his hand badly Monday morning when he put it on the nickel of the stove.

The school was closed Thursday and Friday on account of the storm.

William Davis and Fred Gomo were in Stonington on business Tuesday.

Edward Lyman of Danielson spent Sunday with S. A. Douglas.

Mrs. Raymond Gates is out again, after an attack of measles.

State and town men have been working on the roads since Thursday trying to clear the snow from them. There is more snow to move, to make the roads passable, than there has been in six years.

Mr. and Mrs. William Moffat, of Wauregan, visited Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Terwilliger Sunday.

Mrs. Emma Woodard of Shrewsbury, Mass., is staying at Fred Shippee's.

The K. H. S. students who were unable to reach their homes Thursday on account of the storm were entertained over night by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hall.

A. A. Jacques shot a fox one day last week.

Marion Young of Danielson was a visitor at P. H. Coffey's Sunday.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks weak; food shares collapse on government anti-trust move.

Bonds steady; prices tend upward despite profit taking.

Foreign exchanges irregular; French franc lower.

Cotton easy; spot house selling.

Sugar steady; trade buying.

Coffee lower; easier Brazilian markets.

Chicago

Wheat weak; disappointing export demand.

Corn declined; increasing stocks.

Cattle higher; increased demand.

Hogs lower; heavy receipts.

STOCK PRICES REACT

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 —(AP)—Stock prices turned reactionary today as a result of the bearish interpretation placed by Wall street on the huge volume of brokers' loans, the federal investigation of recent food company mergers, the withdrawal of the Postum Cereal company's offer to purchase a majority interest in the California Packing company, and the heavy calling of bank loans which sent the call money rate from 5 to 5 1-2 per cent. Nash Motors broke sixty points to 580 on one sale of 100 shares. Of the active issues, California Packing was the hardest hit, collapsing 12 1-2 points to 152 1-2, and then rallying a point. Wark Baking B broke over 14 points to 66 1-2 and then snapped back to 69 1-4. Postum fell over 9 points to 110 and then rallied to 112 5-8. Scores of other issues closed 1 to 6 points lower, with total sales crossing 2,000,000 shares for the first time since January 20.

Except in the food shares, which were weak from the outset, the opening decline was an orderly one. Initial losses in the popular issues ranged from fractions to 2 points, with a good sized rally under way before the end of the first hour. When the call money renewal rate was fixed at 5 per cent, despite the large excess reserve shown in last Saturday's clearing house statement and it became known that the government had started anti-trust proceedings against the Ward interests and others, selling pressure increased and gradually extended to the general list.

Motors, high priced industrials and other specialties which had attracted a large speculative following in the recent advance, yielded readily to the large influx of offerings but it was noticeable that little pressure was being exerted against such standard industrials as United States Steel Common, Baldwin, American Smelting, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and the high grade rails, the net losses in most of which were held to fractions. The average of 20 leading industrial and 20 leading railroad issues showed only a fractional net loss on the day.

Among the issues to show net declines of 3 points or more were American can, American Snuff, Federal Mining and Smelting Common, Loose-Wiles Biscuit, National Cloak and Suit, Sears Roebuck, South Porto Rican Sugar, and United Fruit.

Bullish operations however, were not altogether abandoned. Texas Gulf Sulphur was run up 4 3-4 points to 127 1-2, closing just below the top; Standard Gas and Electric closed 3 5-8 higher, at 69, and California Petroleum, Famous Players, International Combustion Engineering, the American Hide and Leather issues, United States Distributing and Westinghouse Airbrake all closed 1 to 2 1-2 points higher.

Commodity markets also were reactionary. Wheat futures broke sharply, presumably in sympathy with the break in the baking company stocks. May options closing over 5 cents a bushel lower at $1.69 1-2.

Cotton closed 2 to 10 points net lower with some of the selling inspired by favorable weather reports. Coffee was unchanged to 17 points net lower and raw sugar futures eased slightly.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent, and then advanced to 5 1-2, closing at the top. Time money rates were slightly firmer, being quoted at 4 5-8T to 4 3-4 instead of 4 1-2 to 4 5-8. Prime commercial paper held steady at 4 1-4 per cent.

Weakness of Canadian exchange, which went to a discount of 1-32 of 1 per cent., or below the theoretical "good export" point, was the feature of the quiet exchange market. Little gold is expected from Canada, however, because a partial embargo against such shipments does not expire until July 1. Demand sterling ruled steady at $4.81 1-16, but French francs were heavy, falling four points to 3.69 1-2 cents. Moderate recessions took place in most of the European currencies.

TAFTVILLE

A crowd of over 800 attended the joint carnival being given by the Sacred Heart church and the Army and Navy club, at Parish hall Saturday evening. The large crowd enjoyed old fashioned dancing, the Army and Navy club orchestra furnishing the music. On Sunday afternoon, the children of the village were entertained at the hall, over 600 attending. The carnival, which has been most successful is to come to an end Tuesday evening, when prizes are to be awarded, and special novelties introduced.

The annual masquerade of the Taftville Maennerchor club was given at the clubhouse Saturday evening, with a large number of guests in costume attending. Some of the costumes were very novel and beautiful, and dancing for which the Ideal Radio orchestra played, was enjoyed both before and after the unmasking.

A miniature trip through the Alps is being experienced by motorists who travel over the new state road from Taftville to Norwich Town. The state road scraper has been able to clear the road to the width of one car, and the snow has drifted at the top of Gallows hill, so that it is banked each side almost to the height of an automobile.

It has been announced that when the Men's club of the Taftville Congregational church hold their monthly meeting and social evening this week in the vestry of the church, General William A. Aiken of Norwich is to be the speaker. General Aiken will tell the members something of the life of Lincoln, whom he knew personally.

Clarence J. Nagle of the Ponemah house has been a recent visitor in Providence, R. I.

Among the local people attending the funeral of the late William R. Booth in Providence, Monday, were Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Webster of North A street, George H. Beardow of Providence street and William C. Kendall of Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hamel and family of Norwich avenue have moved to New Bedford, where Mr. Hamel has accepted a position.

Mr. and Mrs. Axel L. Aberg of North Third avenue had as guests over the weekend, Miss Helen C. Aberg of Willimantic, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Kellner and children William and Virginia of Preston.

The fall in temperature after Sunday's thaw, made the surface of Post Office hill very slippery, and it was necessary to sand it Monday morning, to prevent accidents.

The beautiful carnations on the altar at the Taftville Congregational church, Sunday morning, were the gift of the local Christian Endeavor society. The carnations were red and white, the Christian Endeavor colors. They were also used at the evening service and afterwards given to the sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Irenee Laroche have given up their house on South B street.

The current issue of the American Kennel gazette states that at the Coronado-San Diego Kennel club's third annual show held at San Diego, California, the blue ribbon winner in the Samoyede puppy class was Yurak's Luba of Coronada, owned by W. G. MacDonald. The puppy also went through to reserve winners. This dog was bred in the kennels of William H. Whitehead in Boswell avenue and was shipped to California early last fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mish have moved from Lisbon to a house on Norwich avenue.

John Bury of South B street has been enjoying a short vacation.

Master John Monty, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Monty of Riverside grove who underwent an operation last week for appendicitis at the William W. Backus hospital at Norwich, is resting comfortably.

MADE 12 TONS OF FINE CLOTHING FROM NORWICH FOR NEAR EAST

A report fro mthe Connecticut headquarters of Near East Relief states that Norwich was first among the cities of this state to respond to the urgent request for clothing to be dispatched to stricken areas of the Near East. As a result of the bombardment of the Christian refugee settlements in Syria by the Druses, thousands of the inhabitants had to flee, leaving everything behind. The Near East Relief is endeavoring to furnish clothing to these refugees while other agencies are furnishing food.

In a letter to the Norwich chairman from State Director H. F. Kazmier, it was revealed that the net weight of the clothing collected here was nearly 13 tons. Mr. Kazmier stated that this amount is by far the largest donated by any Connecticut town in the recent campaign. When the port inspector, Dr. Curran of the U. S. army warehouse in Brooklyn, O. K.ed the clothing for shipment, he commented on the high grade of the material in the Norwich car. Mr. Kazmier was present at the loading of the steamship Mineola on Friday which also contains a large supply of the rations for the 40,000 children who are in the care of the American Near East Relief.

Great credit is due the local committee for successfully putting over the recent clothing appeal inasmuch as they recently raised their local quota of cash for this work. The "S. S. Mineola" which is sailing today is carrying a supply of food which was purchased by funds raised in Norwich which will help to sustain the orphan children during the winter months.

A large number of the children that are being cared for and educated by American philanthropy will complete their industrial training and be graduated into the economic life of the Near East within the next two or three years. The Norwich committee has stood by these children since the Near East Relief was organized and it is hoped that they will be able to continue the good work until the work is creditably completed.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION IS OFFERED AT STORRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 8—Courses in religious education at Connecticut Agricultural college were offered here today with the opening of the second semester of the college year. Lewis B. Paton, professor of old testament literature, and A. C. Purdy, professor of homiletics, both of the Hartford Theological seminary, were here today for the first meeting of their classes.

Professor Paton will teach the course on "Religion and Problems of Life," for which twenty-five seniors and juniors have enrolled. Professor Purdy will teach the course on the "Life and Teachings of Jesus," for which forty freshmen have enrolled. This gives a total of sixty-five Storrs students enrolled in these courses, and it is expected that these figures will increase within the next two weeks.

These courses are being given under the auspices of the Connecticut Federation of Churches, working in cooperation with the committee on religious education of the Storrs church. It is the second year that students at Storrs have been given the opportunity to take work in religious education, and already the enrollment is three times above the figure for a year ago.

Professor Paton is a graduate of New York university and Princeton Theological seminary, and is recognized as one of the foremost biblical scholars of the country. Professor Purdy is a graduate of Penn college of Oskaloosa, Iowa. He took his doctor's degree under a fellowship from the Hartford Theological seminary, studying abroad and at Harvard.

PHILATHEA CLASS HAD BANQUET AND ELECTION

The annual meeting and supper of the Philathea class of the United Congregational church was held Friday evening at the home of Mrs. William H. Dewley. Supper was served at six o'clock at tables prettily decorated with valentine favors and lighted candles. The menu consisted of: Baked ham, sweet potatoes, southern style, grapefruit salad, rolls, peach shortcake with whipped cream, coffee.

After supper the business meeting was held with the president, Mrs. May Young, presiding. Routine business was transacted. The new officers elected for the following years were as follows:

President, Miss Nellie E. Crowe; vice president, Mrs. George Gifford; secretary, Mrs. Harry L. Sherman; treasurer, Miss Louise Fitzpatrick; visiting committee, Mrs. Warren W. Church, Mrs. A. J. Sinay, Mrs. Edwin F. Colt.

The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. W. H. Dewley, Mrs. Don Houghton and Miss Louise Fitzpatrick.

NORWICH BELT MFG. CO. FILLS LOUISIANA ORDER

The Norwich Belt Manufacturing company, Henry H. Gallup, president, with office and tannery on North Main street, is one of the busy local industries this winter.

The company has just forwarded, among other orders, four large belts to one customer in Louisiana. These were three-ply, first grade in material and finish, their width being respectively 44 inches, 48 inches, 50 and 54 inches. The bulky shipment gives a good idea of the quality of the output which this concern is constantly sending to different points of the world.

Christ Church Mission

At the mission to be held at Christ Episcopal church, beginning Wednesday evening, Rev. D. Robert Bailey missioner, opportunity will be given near the close of the service each evening for those who are sick to come forward for the laying of hands and these persons will attend some morning Eucharist for their anointing with holy oil. Already several questions have been placed in the box to be answered and intercession in prayers have been requested. The preaching topics have interested many outsiders who will attend, knowing that every one will be welcome. Two choirs will help in the congregational singing when Rev. Mr. Bailey is greeted on the first evening.

Friends of Bishop Nelson, of Albany, will be pleased to know that the mission in All Saints cathedral, Albany, has just finished, the missioner having been Rt. Rev. Irving P. Johnson, D. D., bishop of Colorado.

Teachers' College Club

Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock the Teachers' College club of Connecticut is to hold its luncheon in the New Haven Lawn club. Dr. William F. Russell, associate director of the International Institute at Teachers' college, Columbia university, will speak on "National Aims and Educational Provisions as a Means of Realization." Dr. Russell is the son of Dr. James Earl Russell, for twenty-eight years dean of Teachers' college. The officers of the Connecticut club are preside.t, Miss Maud Keator, state director of special education and standards, Hartford; vice president, Alfred D. Simpson, state director of research and surveys, Hartford; and secretary treasurer, Miss Marion C. Sheridan, 711 Orange street, New Haven.

TALKS ON CO-OPERATION TO POULTRY PRODUCERS

The importance of quality products and loyalty to the co-operative organization were stressed by Clifford E. Hough, manager of the Connecticut Milk Producers association, who delivered the principal address Monday at Willimantic at the annual meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Poultry Producers association. The meeting which had an attendance of about 35 poultry producers was held at the Willimantic Y. M. C. A. building, with morning and afternoon sessions.

The morning session was largely devoted to the address by Mr. Hough. His talk was in relation to the co-operation in selling organizations and he stressed particularly the importance of grades, quality products, and strong loyalty to the co-operative organization. Mr. Hough represented an organization doing about eight millions of dollars worth of business a year, and he said he believes that the same principles can be applied in marketing eggs as in marketing milk.

The afternoon session was taken up by the business meeting. There was a discussion of the reports of the president, E. N. Searls, Pomfret, the secretary and treasurer, A. H. Benton of Andover and the manager, John Z. LaBelle of Ballouville. The reports indicated that the association has had a continued growth since its organization three years ago, and showed that there is an increasing demand for New England Maid eggs, the product of the association, in the Providence market.

The following directors who have served since the organization of the association three years ago were re-elected: E. N. Searls, Pomfret; A. H. Benton, Andover; J. Z. LaBelle, Ballouville; C. A. Brend, Scotland; F. L. Cranham, Lisbon; A. E. Anthony, Mansfield; K. L. Brown, Windham.

The directors at a subsequent meeting re-elected officers as follows: President, E. N. Searls; secretary and treasurer, A. H. Benton; manager, John Z. LaBella.

Present from Norwich and vicinity were County Agent Walter T. Clark, Norwich; F. L. Cranham, Lisbon; J. E. Kennedy, Preston; W. Service, Preston; M. H. Bartlett, Jewett City; John Krauth, Waterford. A number of members were unable to be present at the meeting owing to snow clogged and impassable roads.

MOTION LIST HEARD IN COMMON PLEAS COURT

Decisions in a number of motions were given by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the court of common pleas here Monday morning during its motion list.

Judge Libby presided in the place of Judge C. B. Waller.

The Mariners Savings bank of New London was awarded judgment in the amount of $339.40 in its foreclosure action against Clifford and Susie Knowles, formerly of New London. Judgment by default was entered in the same case against the Sharaf Furniture Co., and the Groton Lumber Co., both concerns having liens on the property of the defendants which was situated near the submarine base. The third Monday in March was given as the limitation of time for redemption. The suit was based upon a $400 note.

Judge Libby took the papers in the case of the Norwich Loan Co., against Christine C. Meyer, in which there was a motion for default and hearing in damages. The suit was to foreclose on a $200 note, upon which but $20 had been paid.

A dissolution of injunction was granted in the case of Arthur Lucy, and others, against Michael Lubchen.

Order of notice by registered mail was made in the cases of Hyman Epstein and others against Luigi Barreta, and others, and Joseph J. Harrigan against George. S. Chappel.

A nisi order was vacated in the case of Kate Fromberg against Gilbert S. Raymond, trustee.

The plaintiff, Frank S. Benson, was allowed to amend his complaint in his suit against Henry Pukallus.

CITIZENSHIP SCHOOL FOR WOMEN VOTERS HERE

Mrs. Richard J. Whitham of Groton, county chairman of the New London County League of Women Voters, is in charge of arrangements for the one-day citizenship school to be held here in the Buckingham Memorial by the league on Feb. 17. Miss Emily Sophie Brown of New Haven, the only woman commissioner in the state of Connecticut, will be one of the featured speakers. Her topic will be County Institutions and Administrations. Other numbers on the program are as follows:

Address of Welcome—Miss Mary Bulkeley, president of the Connecticut League of Women Voters.

Question Box—Conducted by Charles H. Smith, county commissioner of New London county.

Box luncheon at 12:30.

Address, Teaching Young Citizens—Mrs. Annie Porritt, state chairman of the committee on efficiency in government.

Address, Our State Oral School at Mystic—Prof. Walter J. Tucker, superintendent of the Mystic Oral school.

Address, The Care and Training of Our Mental Defectives—Dr. H. B. Ballou, assistant superintendent of the Mansfield Training school and hospital.

All who expect to attend have been asked to bring box lunches. Hot coffee will be served.

THOUGHT PULLMAN LUNCH WAS JEWETT CITY BUS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 8—Whether it was because of being bewildered by the storm, or from some other reason who knows? A man, reported to hail from Jewett City, entered the Pullman lunch car in Norwich late one recent evening and sat down. After a short interval, the would be bus passenger inquired when that wagon was going to start up the line.

Heals Eczema In 7 Days or Less or Money Back

Here is a surgeon's wonderful prescription now dispensed by pharmacists at trifling cost, that will do more towards helping you get rid of unsightly spots and skin disease than anything you've ever used.

Not only does this great healing antiseptic oil promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds, but boils, abscesses and ulcers are almost immediately relieved and cleanly healed.

In skin diseases its action is little less than magical. The itching of eczema is instantly stopped; the eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of barbers' itch, salt rheum and other irritating and unsightly skin troubles.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at any modern drug store. It is safe to use, and failure in any of the ailments noted above is next to impossible. Lee & Osgood Co. can supply you at any time.

DEPLORE SOLDIERS' HOME THROWN INTO POLITICS

An informal meeting of representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic and its allied organizations, the Woman's Relief Corps, the Daughters of Veterans, the Sons of the Union Veterans of the Civil war and its auxiliary, and the Ladies of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, was held at the Stratfield hotel, Bridgeport, recently at which there were also present, unofficially, several Spanish war and World war veterans.

It was stated by those who attended that facts were presented showing: That unsatisfactory conditions had existed for some time at Fitch's Home for the Soldiers. That, in order to remedy these conditions, Capt. Wildman, of the Grand Army of the Republic, who had been unanimously chosen by the executive committee of the hospital board, to be its chairman, recently authorized the superintendent to discharge the steward for inefficiency. The superintendent, Col. Seely, did so, and had an audit made by a certified public accountant which showed a substantial deficiency in the steward's food accounts. It was also brought out that Governor Trumbull shortly afterwards, called a meeting of the hospital board, no purpose being stated in the call. At that meeting instead of approving Capt. Wildman's action, Capt. Wildman was voted out of the chairmanship of the executive committee, thus blocking his attempt to better conditions at the home.

At the Stratfield meeting no official action was taken for lack of definite authority, but great indignation was voiced and it was the unanimous consensus of opinion that the matter be called urgently to the governor's attention.

Regret was expressed that the Old Soldier's home which from the beginning, had been chiefly governed by the veterans of the War of the Rebellion, as represented by the Grand Army of the Republic with credit to themselves and to the state which it was their honor to serve, should thus be taken out of their hands and thrown into the realm of politics.

The Civil war is far back and its veterans are few in number, declare those who attended the Stratfield meeting, but the people will remember their sacrifices and services and will resent any affront to them. Likewise the veterans of the Spanish and World wars to look with great pride upon these soldiers of an earlier war, and feel as they do that their voice should be the controlling voice in affairs affecting them. What they want is a good, clean, home, managed efficiently and non-politically, by those for whose benefit it was established. And that is what the people of Connecticut want.

NORWICH DELEGATION AT B. & A. MILL SOCIETY

A large delegation from the Norwich mill of the Brainard and Armstrong company was in New London Saturday night to attend the 10th annual meeting, with a turkey dinner of the Brainard & Armstrong Mutual Aid society. About 200 attended the dinner. Officers were elected as follows:

President, C. Ernest Cadmus; vice president, Paul Conant; secretary, Mrs. Josephine Hester; treasurer, Percy Coe Eggleston; directors, Miss Agnes Tucker, Miss Ethel Hunter, Mrs. Gerriedina Howard and Miss Margaret Collins.

J. P. T. Armstrong, general manager and treasurer of the Corticelli Silk company gave an interesting address on the beginnings of the mill in New London which was first located in a small store on Water street and told how his father, B. A. Armstrong, started in the concern at a salary of $13 a week. He told of the small dimensions of the first plant started in 1867. He then called on the various foremen and departmental heads to give a synopsis of the work done in the various departments of the mill, giving an idea of the work as a whole. Mr. Armstrong was presented with a large basket of pink carnations by the members of the society as a token of the esteem in which he is held.

FORMER BOZRAH PASTOR RETIRES FROM MINISTRY

Rev. John G. Ward, formerly pastor in Bozrah, for ten years, retired from the ministry Sunday and was given a farewell service by the First Baptist church, at Plainville, where he has been for eleven years.

The church was crowded for the Sunday evening service and many of the parishioners were visibly affected by the tributes paid to Mr. Ward, who will continue to live in Plainville. The services opened with prayer by Rev. Charles S. Wyckoff of the Congregational church, and a hymn was sung by the choir and congregation. Rev. George I. Brown gave a scripture reading and Rev. Mombleau of the Advent church, offered prayer. This was followed by another hymn and addresses by Rev. O. P. Campbell, of Hartford; Rev. A. A. Ball, of the Methodist church, and a response by Mr. Ward. Mr. Ward closed the services with the benediction. He was ordained to the ministry Dec. 21, 1831; served in Andover for three years, Suffield, three years, North Lyme, fourteen years, Packer, four years and Bozrah, ten years.

Rev. A. D. Kendrick is the temporary successor of Rev. Mr. Ward, at the Plainville church.

HAD FAMILY CELEBRATION OF HIS 81ST BIRTHDAY

August Sabrowski of 314 Boswell avenue, was surprised Saturday night when eight of his ten children visited him with their families. One son and a daughter who lives in Jersey City were not able to attend but sent telegrams of congratulations. One daughter came from New London with her husband. There was singing, dancing and Victrola music, Mr. Sabrowski dancing the Charleston with one of his grand-daughters. Coffee, cake and sandwiches were served and there was a large birthday cake. Mr. and Mrs. Sabrowski celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in April 1920.

WON CHECKER CHAMPIONSHIP ON NEW BEDFORD VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lariviere, of 9 Hill street, Norwich, and Mr. and Mrs Alfred Fontaine, of Occum, have just returned from New Bedford, where they attended, Saturday evening, the wedding of Adelard Fierey and Helen Blanchette, of New Bedford. The party went by automobile, taking eight hours to cover the distance, so disrupted were the roads after the blizzard.

While in New Bedford Mr. Lariviere, champion checker player of Norwich, played Luis LaPre, claiming the New Bedford championship, and beat him two out of three games Sunday evening. Mr. Lariviere issues a challenge to all checker players in New London county for a series of games.

INCREASED ESTATE TAX SHOWN IN CONNECTICUT

Connecticut's estate tax increased $489,107 last year over 1924, while the corporation capital stock tax rose $55,378, according to figures issued Monday by the bureau of internal revenue at Washington.

The estate tax in 1924 totaled $2,970,026, while last year it rose to $3,461,133. The corporation capital stock tax which in 1924 totaled $1,254,159 had increased last year to $1,309,537.

Connecticut was second to Massachusetts in the amount of the estate and corporation capital stock tax, except in 1924 when the amount of the estate tax was third, being exceeded by Maine's. Both Massachusetts and Maine reported a decreased estate tax, while Maine alone, reported a decreased corporation tax last year.

HAD VALENTINE SOCIAL AFTER BUSINESS MEETING

The monthly meeting of the C. L. class of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church was held Monday evening in the church vestry. The president, Mrs. Andrew Crowe, was in charge of the meeting and there was a good attendance. Following the business session the meeting took the form of a Valentine social. The room was beautifully decorated in red and white streamers, cupids and hearts. After the usual games which make a social of this kind most enjoyable, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Miss Isabel Shearer, Mrs. Edwin Burt and Miss Mary Gray.

It was voted that the next regular meeting of the class be held at the home of Mrs. Paul Bradlaw of Brown street.

MEETING FOR NURSES OF TWO COUNTIES

The state department of health has planned a meeting for nurses at Uncas-on-Thames for Wednesday, February 10th at 2:30 p. m. The subject to be discussed is "Tuberculosis". This is an open meeting for nurses of New London and Windham counties. Dr. H. B. Campbell will be the speaker.

Fined In City Court

In the city court Monday morning, a Greeneville woman was fined $5 and costs for intoxication and $2 for breach of the peace, her husband was discharged by the court and her brother was fined $7 and costs for breach of the peace. The fines were paid. The arrests came about through a fight at their home near Tenth street, Saturday night.

A local man paid $19.50 on a charge of intoxication.

NORWICH TOWN

At a recent meeting of the Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church, held at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Sarah W. Chapin, of Town street, a quantity of clothing of all descriptions and suitable for all seasons, was packed, to be sent in different directions for the comfort of the needy. One barrel was forwarded to Miss Ruth Beebe, a member of the faculty at Trinity school, Athens, Alabama, the contents to be distributed by her, among the colored pupils at this school. A second barrell went to the school at Atlanta, Georgia, of which Frederick J. Working, formerly of Taftville, is principal. The remainder of the articles were sent to the home office in New York, of the Woman's Home Missionary union.

This is a custom carried out annually by the Norwich Town society. The help is greatly appreciated by those people in distant lands, as has been demonstrated by letters expressing gratitude, sent to the society president, Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington, as well as to former presidents.

The supper held Friday evening in the chapel, under the auspices of the Home Missionary society, netted $20 or more.

"Youth and the Church," was the theme of the Sunday morning sermon at the First Congregational church, by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, who chose for his text, I Samuel 1:24. "And when she had weaned him, she took him up with her, with three bullocks and one ephah of flour and a bottle of wine, and brought him unto the house of the Lord in Shiloh; and the child was young."

The Congregational mid-week service for conference and prayer, is to be held at the parsonage Thursday evening. The topic assigned is "The Uniqueness Of Christ." Colossians 2:9, with special reference to 6:15.

Mrs. Gurdon F. Bailey will be the hostess Friday afternoon, when members of the Home Missionary society assemble at the parsonage on Elm avenue, at 2:30 o'clock, for the thank offering meeting.

In the Red and White contest of the Young People's Christian Endeavor society, of the First Methodist Episcopal church, being conducted by the president, Mrs. Richard Carter, the reds, Miss Inez Edminston, captain, stood twenty-five points ahead of the whites, of which Miss Florence M. Brown is captain, at the meeting of the society, Sunday evening. The singing was by the junior choir. Miss Florence M. Bennett was in charge of the meeting and spoke interestingly on the topic prepared especially for Christian Endeavor day: What Does C. E. Mean to Me? Matthew 20:25-28.

At the Sunday morning worship at the Methodist church, the pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich, preached from Revelation 1:5-6. "And from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness and the first begotten of the dead, and the Prince of the Kings on earth. Unto Him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in His Own Blood. And hath made us Kings and Priests unto God and His Father; to Him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen."

At the evening preaching service, which followed the C. E. meeting, Rev. Mr. Aldrich spoke from Psalms 96:1, "O sing unto the Lord a new song, sing unto the Lord, all the earth."

The February meeting of Dorcas Home Missionary society is to be held with the president, Mrs. James B. Aldrich, Thursday afternoon, at the parsonage, on West Town street.

A rehearsal of the young people connected with the Methodist church, for an Old Folks' concert, under the direction of Mrs. Richard Carter, was held Monday evening, in the vestry. This church also plans an informal Valentine party under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E.

COOLIDGE WITHOUT KEY TO OPEN THE COAL DEADLOCK

Had Chief Executive Known of Any Way to End the Anthracite Suspension He Would Have Acted Long Ago—Word Came From White House After the Senate Had Requested the President to Intercede in the Coal Strike—Has Consented to Take the Request Under Consideration, But Indications Are That He Will Not Depart From His Policy of Non-Intervention.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—President Coolidge was requested today by the senate to intercede in the anthracite controversy, but there was no indication at the white house that he would depart from his policy of non-intervention.

On behalf of Mr. Coolidge it was stated that he did not see that the senate's action had changed the situation, but that the resolution of request was entitled to and would receive consideration. It was added, however, that it was only an expression of opinion by the senate not binding upon the president.

Also it was stated that if the chief executive had known of any way to end the anthracite suspension, he would have acted long ago. He had come to the conclusion, however, that for the government to intercede in the situation might serve only to aggravate matters.

The senate resolution, offered February 3, by Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, was adopted, 55 to 31, after the senate twice had refused to consider it, once by a vote of 48 to 28, and again by a vote of 43 to 32.

Republican stalwarts joined with the democrats and republican insurgents in voting for the measure. The two republican senators from Pennsylvania as well as several from New England, supported the resolution after having twice voted against considering it.

Twenty-six republicans, twenty eight democrats and one farmer-labor senator voted in the affirmative and nineteen republicans and two democrats voted against it. The roll call follows:

The roll call follows:

For the resolution:

Republicans: Bingham, Brookhart, Butler, Cameron, Capper, Cummins, Curtis, Deneen, Frazier, Hale, Harreld, Johnson LaFollette, Lenroot, McLean, Moses, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Oddie, Pepper, Reed of Pennsylvania Robinson of Indiana, Shortridge, Weller and Willis—26.

Democrats: Ashurst, Bayard, Blease, Bratton, Broussard, Caraway, Copeland, Dill, Ferris, George, Gerry, Harris, Harrison, Heflin, Kendrick, McKellar, Neely, Overman, Ransdell, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Stephens, Swanson, Trammell, Tyson and Walsh—28.

Farmer-Labor: Shipstead—1.

Total 54.

Against the resolution:

Republicans: Borah, Couzens, Dale, Edge, Ernst, Fernald, Fess, Gillette, Goff, Jones of Washington McKinley, Metcalf, Phipps, Pine, Sackett, Smoot, Wadsworth, Warren and Williams—19.

Democrats: Glass and King—2.

Total 21.

The senate resolution merely requests the president to call the operators and miners to the white house in an effort to get them together on a settlement. Before it was adopted it was amended at the suggestion of Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, so that the president would act at such time as he thinks best.

Senator Reed described the resolution as a "bread pill" for the disease that is eating out the vitals of the northeastern Pennsylvania." Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, declared it would amount to nothing, and added that instead of shifting the responsibility, the senate should invite the operators and miners to confer with a senate committee.

"What is the difference between our meeting them and the president meeting them?" Senator Borah asked. "One has just as much power as the other, and if it is a mere matter of moral influence let us exert our moral influence and see whether we can bring about that which we know the president can not bring about."

Senator Copeland expressed confidence that "immediate good" would come out of a white house conference. He appealed to the senate on humanitarian grounds to take action.

The New York senator declared after the vote that the senate was "gradually worn down" to the point where it reversed itself in the coal proposal. He began the fight last January 29 and declared that "an aroused country woke up the senate."

Other senators had a different view. Senator Reed called attention that the senate had been spending a part of every day discussing the resolution while the tax bill was delayed, and he suggested that the senate get rid of it "and we will see how it works."

Several new moves in the coal situation were made in the house during the day. Among these was the introduction of a bill similar to that offered in the senate recently by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic floor leader, and calling for the appointment of a federal board of adjustment in anthracite strikes.

The house measure is sponsored by the democratic delegation from New York together with the two democrats from New Jersey and Representative Douglass, democrat, Massachusetts.

At the same time Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the republican floor leader presented to the republican steering committee of the house a letter from five republican members requesting action by the house commerce committee on coal legislation. The steering committee met twice without taking any action. The letter was signed by Representatives Wainwright, Fish and Tolley, all of New York; Treadway of Massachusetts and Gibson of Vermont.

The coal situation was discussed briefly in the house with Representatives Fish, republican, and Boylan, democrat, both of New York, demanding action. Mr. Fish declared the responsibility rested with congress in that it has not passed legislation to empower the president "to carry out arbitration and conciliation."

Before the house adjourned, Representative La Guardia, socialist, New York, offered a bill proposing an appropriation of $75,000,000 to purchase coal abroad and sell it in this country at cost. It took the usual course of reference to a committee.

SENATE TO VOTE TODAY ON INHERITANCE TAX PROVISION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—The way was cleared tonight for early passage of the tax reduction bill, the senate reaching an agreement for a vote to be taken tomorrow afternoon on the provision repealing the inheritance tax.

A decision on this question will dispose of another controversial item in the bill, and Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, was confident tonight that the score of other pending amendments could be disposed of by Thursday or Friday.

Passage of the bill this week will assure tax reduction by March 15 when first income tax installments are due. The bill now provides for savings of $219,000,000 in personal income taxes alone, with the reductions aplicable on incomes of 1925, on which taxes are payable this year.

The vote on the inheritance tax was put over until tomorrow after seven hours of debate today which revealed considerable difference of opinion on the proposed repeal. Party lines again were split with democrats actually leading the fight for repeal, while "insurgent" members of both parties disagreed with the action of the finance committee in recommending repeal.

ACCIDENTALLY WOUNDED HUNTER DIED IN THE SNOW

MACHIAS, Me., Feb. 9—(AP)—A losing battle with mountainous snow drifts and bitter cold in the Maine woods was described today when news came through that Chester Davis of Cutler, accidentally shot while hunting yesterday, perished before help could reach him, despite desperate efforts of a rescue party. For hours a physician and neighbors of Davis toiled on snow shoes through the snow-heaped woods, following a dim trail by lantern light, and at the end they found their man dead.

Mansard Ackley of Cutler, Davis' brother-in-law and hunting companion, made a four mile run on snow shoes to the village after the accidental discharge of his gun had wounded Davis in the upper part of the leg. While Davis lay in the snow endeavoring to keep off the deadly chill, Ackley hurriedly rounded up a rescue party and they set out on the back trail. Night fell as the searchers toiled through the drifts on snow shoes, and in spite of their frantic efforts five hours were spent on the journey.

SPANISH FLIERS HAVE ARRIVED AT MONTEVIDEO

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Commander Franco arrived at Montevideo at 7:25 this evening on his flight from Rio Janeiro. He hopped off from Rio at 7:21 this morning. The distance between the two points is about 1,500 miles.

ARRESTS MADE OF RIOTOUS WOOL TRIKERS IN PASSIAC

PASAIC, N. J., Feb. 9—(AP)—Five persons were arrested and police armed with clubs today dispersed 1,500 striking woolen mill workers of the Passaic-Garfield district, when an attempt was made to reach the Forstmann and Huffman mills in Clifton to gain recruits.

The ranks of the 7,200 strikers stirred tonight with a strong undercurrent of determination to succeed tomorrow where the day's efforts had failed.

Albert Weisbord, organizer of the United Front committee of the Textile Workers said that the Clifton mill would be picketed tomorrow "regardless of police." He added that the rights of the workers' had been violated when the march on Clifton was interrupted and declared "Passaic and Clifton are still part of the United States."

SENT IN FALSE FIRE ALARM THAT LED TO BROTHER'S DEATH

ALBION, N. Y., Feb. 9—(AP)—His remorse so powerful that he could keep silent no longer, William Phillips today sought out an attorney and confessed that he sent in a false alarm of fire that led to the death of his brother, Matthew Phillips.

The alarm came Thursday night when the fire company of which Matthew was a member was attending its annual dinner. Phillips was hurled under the truck as the company left quarters and his crushed body was found in the snow upon the company's return.

Phillips was sentenced to six months in the Monroe county penitentiary on pleading guilty to sending in a false alarm, but sentence was suspended when he declared he would care for the widow and three children of his brother.

GOV. SMALL MUST RENDER ACCOUNTING FOR $1,000,000

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Illinois supreme court for the second time today decided that Govern Len Small must render an accounting for about $1,000,000 in interest money the state claims he collected while state treasurer.

The court today denied a rehearing in the suit brought by the state and which had been asked for by the governor. As a result of the action today some authorities believed ouster proceedings a possibility for the future, although they agreed that they were premature now.

Governor Small's attorneys maintained there is no ground for impeachment proceedings. Through his lawyers the governor himself issued a statement denying that he had withheld any money from the state while serving as state treasurer.

Discord Continues In French Chamber

Cartel Leaders Are Endeavoring to Force Vote of Confidence in the Government.

PARIS, Feb. 9—(AP)—The majority of 54 polled by the coalition of the left in the first test votes of the financial restoration measures yesterday dwindled to 24 today on a government motion to suppress the article, which the chamber had refused to disjoin from the general measures previously. This article related to the transformation of bearer bonds to nominative bonds.

The radical-socialist success against the government, instead of clearing the atmosphere, increased the confusion and provoked the liveliest agitation on the floor of the chamber and in the lobbies throughout the session. The cartel leaders continued their tactics of trying to force the government to put itself behind their projects, and make it a question of confidence.

The purpose of the radical socialists is to place the government in such a position that it will find it necessary to bring up the question of confidence in the senate also, where, without, government support, the cartel bills stand little chance of serious consideration.

Premier Briand and Finance Minister Doumer stood their ground against offensives from both sides of the chamber. The moderates and conservatives served notice at the opening of the session that they were not willing to take responsibility for voting for the government so long as the premier abstained from taking a position that everyone could understand.

Mr. Briand decried the disposition of the different groups to unload their responsibilities on the government. He brought out into relief that all the manoeuvering now going on around the financial measures seemed destined to throw the bonus for voting more taxes upon his political adversaries. He made it clear that the chamber must take its responsibility within a week; otherwise the delicate situation would become grave.

The efforts to bring about a compromise between the finance committee and the finance minister, which were resumed this morning, failed because M. Doumer would make only part of the concessions demanded.

GERALD CHAPMAN BRIEF FILED IN N. Y. YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—A brief supporting the motion to reverse the decision of Federal Judge Thomas dismissing the writ of habeas corpus sued out in behalf of Gerald Chapman, convicted of mail robbery and murder, was filed today with the U. S. circuit court of appeals.

The brief sets forth the same position argued by Frederick Groehl, Chapman's attorney, in his recent oral appeal. It contends Chapman cannot legally be forced to accept President Coolidge's commutation of the sentence he was serving in Atlanta penitentiary for the mail robber and therefore should be sent back to serve out the sentence.

The commutation was obtained so that Chapman could be returned to Connecticut to be hanged for the murder of a New Britain policeman.

OBSTRUCTIONS REMOVED TO STONE-LARSON MARRIAGE

HARTFORD, Feb. 9—(AP)—The efforts of Milon M. Stone, accountant of this city, to marry Miss Alice V. Larson, of Springfield, which have been frustrated for about two years because of the differing divorce standards of Yucatan, Mexico, and Connecticut, are apparently to end in success.

Stone and Miss Larson secured a marriage license in this city last week, the license issue following within a short time a superior court decision in New Haven granting to his wife, Mrs. Rose P. Stone, a divorce decree, alimony of $3,000 and custody of a minor child.

Stone, who lives at 204 Vine street, is now absent from the city. His sister tonight was uncertain whether he had yet been married again, and was not sure when he would return.

RETAIL DRY GOOD ASS'N. SEES GENERAL PROSPERITY

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—General prosperity throughout the country was reported today by delegates to the national convention of the National Retail Dry Goods association.

G. H. Chaney, vice president of the American Exchange Pacific National bank, warned the convention, however, that installment selling and inflated credits are "threatening to convert the prosperity parade into a 'joy ride'."

Asserting that installment selling had developed at an enormous rate, Mr. Chaney pointed out that more and more business is being based on the anticipation of future earning power instead of realized profits.

To Pass [illegible] German [illegible] N. Membership

Special Sessions of the L. of N. Council to Be Held at Geneva Friday Afternoon.

GENEVA, Feb. 9—(AP)—A special session of the league of nations council will be held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon to pass upon Germany's application for membership in the league, and President Scialcio of the council, former foreign minister of Italy, expects to preside in person.

Senator Ucilloir's decision to be in Geneva for this important event, according to information in Geneva tonight, has been confirmed by the controversy between Italy and Germany and Austria over the south Tyrol. As an affirmation of Italian prestige, the presence of one of their own statesmen in the chair has become all the more important in the eyes of Italians in view of the Tyrol flareup.

The German government, through its consul here, informed the league today that its application for membership has been forwarded by mail and will be presented formally tomorrow.

At the special meeting of the council Friday, the other countries holding seats probably will be represented only by their ministers at Berne. It is understood that an effort will be made to prevent discussion of the reorganization of the council so as to provide a permanent seat for Germany at the extraordinary assembly to be held in March to elect Germany. This would be done by the council refusing to place the matter on the agenda for the assembly.

However, since Count Quinones de Leon, Spain's regular representative, is expected to attend Friday's council session., and as Spain, like Poland, wants the council reorganized so as to give her a permanent seat, this program may not be carried out.

WORCESTER BANDITS ARE PRESENTING DEFENSE

WORCESTER, Feb. 9.—(AP)—With the government's evidence against Dennis J. Britt and John Troy, Worcester youths charged with a series of spectacular highway robberies was completed late this afternoon the defense began its fight to have Britt acquitted by order of the court and to restrict the jury's consideration of the charges against Troy to one of the seven counts in the indictment.

Attorneys for Troy declared there had been no evidence to definitely link Troy with more than one robbery alleged in the indictment and Britt's counsel contended that he had not been linked in any way with the crimes charged. District Attorey Emerson W Baker in opposing the motions asserted that the government charged there had been a conspiracy in crime and he believed that all the events testified to by the various witnesses, while probably that all the events testified to by the various witnesses, while probably not standing alone when linked together made a perfect case.

Judge Nelson P. Brown took the matter under advisement, and said that he would announce his decision tomorrow.

TESTIFIED MAYOR QUIGLEY PAID $300 FOR LANDING LIQUOR

BOSTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley of Chelsea, one of 38 men on trial in federal court here on charges of conspiring to violate the prohibition laws, paid him $300 in the Quigley home for his work in landing a cargo of liquor, Percy Friedman testified today. The witness, who is serving a ten to 12 year sentence for automobile larceny, was closely guarded in court.

Friedman said his relations with the rum runners came after Mayor Quigley had sent him to his brother, Police Inspector Thomas Quigley, for instructions. The latter told him what his work would be and later sent him back to the mayor for his pay. The specific job for which the $300 was paid was the landing of liquor at Marginal street, Chelsea, but Friedman said he assisted at three other loadings.

NEW ENGLAND WARNED OF ANOTHER SNOWSTORM

BOSTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Still digging itself from the snow blanket laid by the blizzard of Last Thursday, New England tonight was warned of the approach of another storm. The disturbance was not expected to cause much inconvenience, however, and the weather bureau predicted clearing skies after a light snow fall tonight and tomorrow morning.

The approaching storm was prefaced by a cold snap which brought the lowest temperature readings of the winter in many parts of northern New England today.

Whitefield, N. H., was the coldest spot with an unofficial reading of 32 degrees below zero.

AUTHORITIES UNABLE TO LOCATE PONZI; SOME OF HIS FLORIDA LAND UNDER WATER

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 9—(AP)—Though authorities have extended the search to the entire state for Charles Ponzi, indicted yesterday for violation of a state law, in connection with his real estate operations, newspaper men claimed tonight Ponzi was in Jacksonville and that they had interviewed him.

They said they found Ponzi at the office of an attorney who has been retained by the land promoter.

"I do not want to make any statement at present as it is an embarrassing situation," Ponzi was quoted as having said.

"The indictment was a shock to her," they said he declared, in referring to his wife about whom he seemed to be worried.

Ponzi previously was reported to have made the trip from Tampa to Jacksonville by automobile today to surrender after he had retained counsel to defend him. Mrs. Ponzi had not been arrested late today, although her brother said she was here.

Ponzi, his wife and two associates were indicted here yesterday on four counts of alleged violation of the "declaration of trusts" laws as a result of his dealing in real estate since his arrival here from Boston.

The indictments against Ponzi and his associates were said to be the first step in the recently announced campaign of the Florida state chamber of commerce and the national business bureau of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, to clear the Florida real estate field of alleged unscrupulous dealers.

John N. Garver, special representative of the better business bureau, with assistants, has been working on the Ponzi case for several weeks, it was said tonight.

At the Ponzi holdings in Columbia county they said it was found the syndicate's ownership consisted of 100 acres known as the Rosa Maria tract. This he had acquired, they said, at a purchase price of $16 an acre. Subdivided into 28 lots an acre, the land would bring $214 an acre, the investigators said.

They declared that a $10 initial investment allowed to pyramid under Ponzi's plan for two years would return more than $5,300,000.

Pictures of the tract showed, investigators said, that some of the property was under water.

The indictments came after the investigators had conferred with Attorney General J. B. Johnson, of Florida who told them no application had been made either to him or the comptroller for a permit to operate under a declaration of trust.

The defendants are charged with violating a law passed in 1925 regulating such business operations.

INVADING MINERS START NEAR-RIOT AT SCRANTON

Five Hundred Men From Points in the Uller Valley Endeavored to Stop the Washieries in Scranton—Police and Detectives With Riot Guns, Dispersed the Men—Leader Claimed That the Demonstration Was Not Intended to Be Anything But Peaceful.

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 9—(AP)—The first mass demonstration of the five-month old coal strike occurred today when 500 striking miners marched on two washeries here in a protest against hydraulic production of coal which their leader asserted was "taking the bread out of their mouths." They were dispersed by twenty-five policemen armed with sawed-off shotguns. None were injured.

The police detained three men who identified themselves as leaders of the demonstration but subsequently released them with warnings. At the same time Chief of Police Rose announced the establishment of a "riot squad" at police headquarters sufficient to cope with any emergency that might arise in the future. He also sent for some tear gas.

Joe Santasario, of Dunmore, who led the march of the miners, said tonight that the demonstration was not intended to be anything but peaceful and that he would make a full report on it to his district union officials tomorrow.

The men came from Dunmore, Throop and other points in the Uller valley.

PENN. HOUSE REJECTS PINCHOT COAL PROJECT

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 9—(AP)—Seeking a way out of the maze of resolutions and bills before it for solution of the anthracite problem the Pennsylvania legislature today swept most of them aside and started out anew.

It was informed in a letter from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, read before a house committee by Representative Burd P. Evans, Montgomery county, that the anthracite miners do not care to have the legislature or any committee representing it act in the capacity of arbitrator in the present dispute.

At the same time, Mr. Evans told the committee he had been notified by Major W. W. Inglis, chairman of the operators' negotiating committee that he agreed "absolutely and unqualifiedly" to a plan proposed by the representative for a state mediation commission to consist of United States Senators Pepper and Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Former Governor Edwin S. Stuart.

The house attempted to deal with the situation directly by adopting a resolution proposing a joint session of both branchees of the legislature for next Tuesday to hear miners and operators and seek a way out. The senate received the resolution and sent to it its committee on mines.

An effort to revive the bill backed by Governor Pinchot to make anthracite a public utility failed in the house.

FASCISTI FAILED IN DEMONSTRATION AT BRUSSELS

BRUSSELS, Feb. 9—(AP)—A fascist attempt to convert a patriotic manifestation today in honor of the battle scarred flags of the disbanded Belgian regiments into a demonstration against Premier Poullet, has left Brussels somewhat stunned.

The ceremony of depositing the flag at the army museum drew out a great crowd, and Crown Prince Leopold on appearing was given an ovation, but the premier was greeted with shouts of "Down with Poullet!" "Resign."

M. Poullet eventually left the museum by a rear door, but the crowds cheered the king and the crown prince.

Apparently inspired by hyper-patriotic fervor, bands of young men literally tore the hats and caps off the heads of bystanders whom they judged insufficiently quick in uncovering before the passage of the heroic standards.

The fascist fervor reached such heights that a trolley employe waving a red signal was taken for a communist agitator and severely belaboured by youthful enthusiasts.

The fascists returning from the ceremony were led by the chief of the fascist movement, Notomb, before the tomb of the unknown soldier in the Place du Congress, where he delivered a speech based on patriotism, but advised them not to pursue the manifestations further. The manifestants, including a large number of officers, responded to this by singing the national anthem twice, with heads bared, and then dispersed.

FLO LEEDS HAS NO COMMENT ON REUNION OF STILLMANS

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 9—(AP)—Flo Leeds, co-respondent in the divorce suit of Mrs. James A. Stillman and mother of James A. Stillman's son, Jay Leeds, today declared "my business is my own and whether or not Mr. Stillman has legally adopted my boy is my own affair."

Mrs. Leeds said she would not affirm or deny any statement that Stillman mag give to the press.

She protested she had no statement to make and requested newspapermen to let her alone.

"I don't want to see them and I want them to stop bothering me," she said. "Just have them let me alone, is all that I ask."

Mrs. Leeds has been here for some time.

BAKERY FIGURES TO BE GIVEN TRADE COMMISSION

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—Figures covering the interstate trade of thirteen of the twenty-five bakery companies owned and controlled by the Continental Baking Corporation will be presented when the federal trade commission resumes its hearing in the corporation's affairs on February 23.

The hearing today was adjourned for two weeks, to give George G. Barber, chairman of the Continental Corporation an opportunity to gather the data on interstate trade. Only thirteen of the companies controlled by the Continental Corporation are engaged in interstate commerce, Mr. Barber testified.

Data on this trade was sought by the commission to determine whether the corporation's control of the companies resulted in a lessening of competition among the companies and created a monopolistic condition.

SCRUBBED FLOORS BEFORE AND AFTER HER MARRIAGE

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—Mrs. Beatrice Clancy Bourne, who is seeking a separation from Arthur K. Bourne, Jr., heir to the Singer Sewing machine millions, pictured herself in supreme court today as a housekeeper who had scrubbed floors and done her own work both before and after her marriage, and was not ashamed of it.

Her suit alleges a vaudeville actress has supplanted her in Her husband's affection.

Mrs. Bourne's testimony won approval from Justice Tierney, who presided. "Scrubbing floors is good exercise for young girls," he said, "and if more of them did it, there would be less matrimonial trouble."

Mrs. Bourne, who alleges that her husband had transferred his affections to Peggy Brennan, vaudeville actress, was before her marriage Miss Beatrice Clancy, daughter of John F. Clancy, Astoria, L. I., contractor. Bourne inherited more than $7,000,000 from his grandfather, Commodore Frederick G. Bourne, founder of the Singer Sewing Machine company, who left an estate of $44,000,000.

The Bournes were married in September, 1932, when each was 18 years old, it developed at the trial. They had been childhood sweethearts and were neighbors at Blue Point, L. I., where the Bournes had a country estate.

Mrs. Bourne tesgified that she and her husband lived at the rate of $15,000 a year, although he earned only $35 a week as an employe of the Singer Sewing Machine company. They had two automobiles, she said, and took their meals at expensive hotels.

HOW ITALY RECEIVED THE SPEECH OF STRESEMANN

ROME, Feb. 9—(AP)—How much fascist Italy depends upon the public utterances of government officials and official newspapers was never better illustrated than tonight when the text of the speech of Gustave Stresemann, the German foreign minister, arriving after the newspapers had gone to press and the ministries had closed, evoked two almost opposite currents of opinion.

One section among those congregated by the thousands in the newspaper offices, cafes and other meeting places of politicians, maintained that the Stresemann address, by completely recognizing Italian sovereignty in the Upper Adige had "closed the incident."

The other faction, which apparently was more numerous, sided with the fascist views, characterizing the speech as "a direct further affont, which Mussolini knows how to answer."

While no official comment is forthcoming, it is known that exceptional pains were taken to communicate the address quickly to the premier and the other members of the government, and general interest was great, because the German minister was virtually speaking to all of Italy's politically interested population, as well as to the German nation.

Moderate minded politicians pointed out that Dr. Stresemann's speech was well larded with overtures for peace, answering all of Mussolini's points in a fashion which made closure of the exchanges possible with no loss to the dignity and essential interests of either nation.

CAMPAIGN IN DANBURY AGAINST GAMBLING

DANBURY, Feb. 9—(AP)—The start of two separate investigations, arrest of four more men, signing of an order for the destruction of 35 slot machines and the closing down of all alleged race track book maker's offices were the salient developments today in the fight being conducted by the gambling.

Police department heads, as well as acting under John G. Seere, will take part in the investigation of statements by arrested storekeepers, who claimed today that the machine vendors gave them to understand they would not be molested by local police.

OFFICER CORIATY WAS FOUND NOT GUILTY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 9—Supernumerary Officer Fred A. Coriaty of the police department was found not guilty of conducting a gambling house in police court Tuesday morning. The grounds for acquittal as given by Judge Frank H. Foss were that the evidence did not show beyond a resonable doubt that the pool room and cigar store conducted in the Buck block at 844 Main street was a gambling establishment.

The decision is the proprietor's case came just previously to finding guilty six men for frequenting the place and three others for gambling in Coriaty's place. Officer Coriaty was patrolled his beat when his place was raided shortly after eleven o'clock Monday night, by County Detective William E. Jackson, chairman of the police committee of the common council and Alderman Charles H. Beebe, another member of the committee. The officer was summoned and after being notified that he was under arrest for operating a gambling house was ordered to remove his uniform. He placed a cash bond of $50 for his appearance.

Of the nine local men taken into custody during the raid the following six were found guilty of frequenting and each fined $2 and costs, amounting to $10.65: Alexander A. Coriaty, Henry Morin, Frank Teevans, Arthur Rothblat, apoleon Lamontagne and William Leahy. Morin and Leahy are minors, being 18 and 20 years of age respectively.

George Joseph, Louis Bashura and Alfred J. Lariviere, were charged with rambling. Lariviere, who had given his name as John Smith when arrested Monday night, is the former city tax collector. At present his name is on the superior court docket on a charge of misappropriating city taxes which he had collected. He failed to answer to the name of John Smith in police court and his bond of $25 was forfeited. Joseph and Bashura were each fined $10and costs amounting to $17.15.

Alderman Jackson related to the court how he and Alderman Beebe entered the poolroom. They rushed past two men who were believed to be throwing dice on a pool table and went to the back room. At the first table, Louis Bashua and George Joseph and Alfred Lariviere were playing cards, and there was money on the table. Jackson made a grab for the money and one man attempted to interfere but he was brushed roughly to one side and the officer issued with $8.50 in his hand.

Alderman Beebe told a story identical to Detective Jackson's. Both men said that they had heard complaints about the place.

Fred A. Coriaty in beginning his story said that he had complied with the order issued to remove all slot machines and punch boards. About nine o'clock Monday night while in uniform and patrolling his beat he stopped in his place of business and asked his brother, Alexander Coriaty, whom he had left in charge, if there was any gambling going on. His brother said that there was not. He said the men were playing the card games "sympathy" and "set-back." He said that there was never any gambling allowed in his place with dice or cards.

Frank Teevans said that he and three other men were playing "set-back" just for a pastime. He said that he often stopped in the poolroom and never saw any gambling going on.

Alexander Coriaty, through an interpreter, said that he was left in charge of the place and was paying a milk bill when the raiders entered. He was not in the back room when the officers entered there.

In reasserting that his poolroom was conducted on a lawful basis Officer Coriaty asked that Aldermen Jackson and Beebe tell him who had complained or "squealed" on him. Coriaty said that he would like to face the complainants. The court denied him the privilege of learning their identity. Judge Foss then announced his decision in this case. Mayor John C. Tracy was among the interested spectators.

An interesting talk on fish and wild game was given Tuesday noon at the regular meeting of the Rotary club in conjunction with a Community Welfare program by John W. Titcomb, commissioner of state fisheries and game. President John F. Ahern presided and A. Linn Weatherhead had charge of the program. Other guests of the club besides the speaker were Ralph Booth of the Putnam club, Charles K. Champlin of the Red Bank, N. J., Rotary club and Professor of Forestry Albert Moss of Connecticut Agricultural college.

The attendance contest teams, the Haymakers and Coal-Heavers were tied for the session. To date the Haymakers are one point in the lead.

The first talk was by Charles K. Champlin whose stock company is appearing this week at a local theatre. He spoke inspiringly on "Ruts and Flowers," and their relation to success. The feature musical sketch for the day was a duet by Albert O'Neill and Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock.

Chairman Weatherhead then introduced the speaker, Commissioner Titcomb, who explained several highly interesting phases of his work. The commission has now secured fishing rights on about 250 streams in the state in order that the working man can enjoy clean sport. Among the newly acquired rights is the Fenton river in Ashford. He asked that the public and organizations combine to discourage road vandalism which have led property owners to be strict against trespassing. A new county warden will soon be appointed for Windham county to enforce the laws against vandalism and foster good sportsmanship.

Joseph Nolan, assistant janitor at the local State Normal school suffered a complete fracture of the bone of the left wrist and contusions on the left forearm and severe lacerations on the face when he was run down by a speeding "double ripper" which was being steered down Windham street by Miss Gertude Dondero, 16 year old daughter of Mr and Mrs. Louis N. Dondero, of, 105 North street. Miss Dondero sustained a sprained right knee and left wrist. The accident was the most serious during the present coasting season. Nolan was pulling another "ripper" up the hill when the sled manned by Miss Dondero and carrying six others veered slightly as it sped down the incline and struck the man. Nolan was thrown several feet in the air. The ripper then crashed into the curbing on the opposite side of the street and was wrecked. The occupants were thrown about. It was said that Miss Dondero was blinded by the headlights of two automobiles which were approaching the junction of Valley and Windham streets. Officer Fred A. Coriaty notified Dr. S. J. Turcotte who attended to the injured. Both were taken to their respective homes. Miss Dondero is a senior at Windham High school.

"There are six vital dangers to democracy which is in itself a great religious faith and faith in man," said Edwin J. Donnelly of this city, in a masterful address on The Dangers That Threaten Democracy delivered before the Men's club of Windham, in Guilford Smith hall, South Windham, Monday night. Sidney B. Alling, president, was in charge of the meeting which was preceded by a supper. The first danger, according to the speaker, is lack of interest in government. Voting is a necessity. The second danger he outlines as disrespect for law. Respect for law is fundamental to democracy, he said, but there is one trouble in that too many laws that are not being enforced havebeen passed. Mr. Donnelly held that the reluctance of the government to enforce the fifteenth amendment became a precedent for the citizens not to obey the eighteenth amendment. Government by minorities is the third danger. This type of government, he set forth, is due to the functioning of selfish, organized groups who strive to serve themselves and only themselves. The direct primary allows many men of low type to enter political life.

The fourth danger is bigotry that great cancer of any nation which is now being revived by politicians after an absence during the war. The fifth danger is immigration. The speaker said that we have been too liberal in offering our country as an asylum to overflowing Europe. The southeastern Europeans who have been pouring into this country during the past twenty years cannot differentiate between liberty and license due to their training under autocracy. The communists, bolsheviets and anarchists spring up from these immigrants. He deplored the custom of politicians to solicit votes by advertisements in foreign languages. He suggested that every alien be made to declare his intention of becoming a citizen within two years after his entry. During those two years he should be made to learn the English language and study American institutions.

The sixth and final danger to democracy he said was the recognition of a double standard in American life. He believed that in punishing for crimes and transgressions of the moral law men and women should be punished alike and in industry women should be rewarded on an equal basis with men.

Lessons in meal planning and serving have proved interesting to the pupils of the Monday evening class in cooking at the Windham High school. Miss Rose Zagara and Miss Elolie Schmidt were waitresses and Miss Helen Cholac was hostess. The guests were Mrs. Daniel Sullivan and Mrs William F. Brehant, members of the sewing class. Members of the class who prepared the dinner were: Helen Cholas, Lucille D'Auteuil, Veronica Kargul, Sophia Kusmerczlak, Fabiola LaMontagne, Beatrice LaMontagne, Henrietta Masur, Katherine Myers, Mrs. Edward Pickett, Elona Schmidz, Josephine Salinski, Rose Zagara, Rose Kagul and Leona Pepin.

Prayer for Henry P. Potter was read at the late home, 1430 West Main street at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead of the Methodist church. Burial was in the Potter vault in the Willimantic cemetery The bearers were Earl Walker, Leroy Walker, Fred Walker and Edwin F Cross. Arrangements were by Avery and VanZandt.

Officers of the Women's auxiliary of St. Joseph's hospital, who were elected at the annual meeting held Monday afternoon are: Mrs. John Reilly, president; Mrs. A. C. Scripture, Miss Clarrie Stiles and Mrs. P. F. Moriarty; vice-presidents; Mrsf John Henry, treasurer; Miss Agnes Nelligan, recording secretary; Mrs. James H. Hurley, financial secretary; Miss Agnes Hickey, corresponding secretary and Mrs James H. Aspinwall and Mrs. Frank Rafferty, auditors.

Rev. Charles M. Kelley, Thomas H. Killourey, John R. Pickett, Joseph B. Riordan and Valentine L. Murphy have been appointed an examining committee for merit badge work by Troops 2, 3 and 4 of St. Joseph's parish, by the National Court of Honor of the Boy Scouts of America. The committee met Monday evening with Rev. Charles M. Kelley presiding and made the following awards of merit badges: Cygmont Wodjick, Howard Jacobs, Rene Cloutier, swimming; Harold Lester, automobiling. Leroy Dissinger of Plainfield conducted the swimming examination and John D. Roy of this city, the automobile.

JEWETT CITY

THREE MORE ARRESTS FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 9—Three detachments of state police from the Danielson barracks visited the borough early Tuesday evening and upon warrants issued by Prosecuting Attorney Richard Dudkowski raided the stores kept by F. Casavant, William J. Brickley and Fred Maynard. The raids netted 33 cases of home brew and several gallons of wine and hard cider, which was taken to Danielson barracks.

The three men gave bonds for their appearance in town court Wednesday morning, for a hearing before Judge John T. Barry.

This will make eleven arrests here for violation of the liquor laws since January 1st, all within the borough limits.

CLAIM SATAN ONCE VISITED GILBERT HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 9.—Some research is being made, relative to the old houses of Griswold. To include these to which is attached some interesting bits of traditional history and color, the ancient Squire Billings place has not been overlooked. Ancient as having been erected by the builders of over 200 years ago, and possessed of tradition, because Squire Gilbert Biffings, an old sea captain, whose final voyage was completed away back in another century, was said to have had a speaking, if not an intimate acquaintance, with his Satanic majesty. Once, indeed, during the dinner hour, as reliable records give testimony, the old captain's good wife responded to a knock at the door and there, upon the step with outstretched hand, stood the gentleman from below. The farm help fled in terror, the house dog, generally brave and fearless, found refuge under a handy bed, nevertheless Squire Gilbert remained unperturbed. A peculiarity exists today that has been brought to recent notice. Sometime back, over 100 years ago, one of the occupants of the old farm built a grist mill, with its old overshot wheel, and crude machinery. Three quarters of a mile away is the Billings' pond, which for real grandeur and scenic beauty, can hardly be excelled. From this pond the course of a small brook was trained to run into the proposed saw mill pond, and today it crosses the highway near the house. In addition to this supply, one of the ancient Fillings artisans changed the course of the overflow from a spring of unfailing supply, to also help with the saw mill pond. The facts that are attracting attention today, is that this man of foresight brought the stream as gravity suggested, and trained it under the corner of the house, where it still runs today clear, cool and pure, just as it did when the Revolution was being fought. And as one sits at meals in the summer shed, he may take the cocoanut shell dipper at his hand, turn in his chair, and lift to his lips draughts from a living spring.

Tonight (Wednesday) in Rioux hall, upon invitation of the Jewett City chamber of commerce, a large audience is already assured at the demonstration to be conducted by the Southern New England Telephone Co. Telephone operators, using a modern switchboard, will take the audience "behind the scenes" to show how telephone calls are handled.

Passersby on Main street were interested all day Tuesday in the activities of the telephone people and electric light men, in zero weather, important changes in cables and high tension lines are being completed. J. G. Whittier wrote Tent on the Beach, but had he passed through the borough's Main street Tuesday, he might have written Tent on the Wire, for away up the lines, near the top of the big transfer pole, on Postoffice square, the telephone men fashioned a heavy canvas tent, with a platform floor, as a shelter from the cold. All the morning the local electric linemen, were busy shifting a big transformer farther down the street, with the quick at the cypher.

The local council of Knights of Columbus held a largely attended whist and dance Monday evening in Rioux hall, thirty tables being played. Mrs. Isadore Dumont took the ladies first prize, Doris Burr the second, and Mrs. Roy Holmes the consolation award. William Driscoll received the men's first award. Herbert Thmopson the second, and Noel Garand the consolation This whist brought a series of three to an end. Mrs. Isadore Dumont received the gold award for the woman scoring the highest total points for Men's highest award, Morey's orchestra the series, and Joseph Faber won the furnished music for the dancing after the playing.

NORTH LYME

Dorothy Sisson spent Sunday at M. J. Jack's.

Frank Fiala who drives the school bus from North Plain to Moodus, did not miss a trip during the snow storm of last week.

Evelyn Maynard spent Thursday night with Lillian Kirshe of East Haddam.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Ives were recent callers at Willimantic and Union.

Much sympathy is expressed for Herbert Maynard and family who formerly lived in this place, as they are all afflicted with the measles.

M. J. Stark was in Norwich recently.

Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Strong and son, Robert are suffering with the measles.

Mrs. Cora Rogers is caring for them.

W. M. Sisson Sr., who fell recently and dislocated his shoulder, is regaining the use of his arm.

A. N. Farnham, of New London, spent Thursday night at W. M. Sisson's on account of bad traveling.

Invitations have bee issued for the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Rogers of Salem on March 15, 1926.

SOMERS

The choral society met with Miss Ruth Prior Monday evening.

The Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. W. A. Pease Tuesday afternoon. The time is spent at these meetings in sewing for the annual fair.

At the morning service Sunday Miss Harriet P. Pease was voted a transfer of membership from the Somers church to the Church of Unity, in Springfield. It was also voted to send with the letter a note of regret at the loss of one who has been such an active member and supporter of the church for so many years.

Members of the C. E. society were gratified at the financial success of their play, which raised the fund for purchasing a piano for the chapel by nearly $45.00.

The snow plow was kept running through Somers to Stafford Springs all night Thursday The wind was a little too busy for the snow plow at Seified. On the road to Thompsonville the snow drifted on the level stretch so much that the carried did not get through with the evening mails Thursday and Friday. Thursday night the bus with the high school children could not get through, so places were found in Thompsonville for them overnight.

The Ladies' Aid society were to hold a supper at Piedmont hall Thursday evening but postponed it because of the storm.

Mrs. Ernest Fuller and daughter, Charlotte Fuller, left Friday for Florida to join Mr. Fuller who went there a few weeks ago.

CANTERBURY PLAINS

One of the worst storms for several years visited Canterbury Thursday. The roads were filled in places making traveling difficult. The mill bus from Plainfield was not able to make its usual trip Thursday night and most of the help from Canterbury stayed in Plainfield. Friday night the worst banks were opened and the help arrived home.

Wednesday night the third and fourth degree was worked on four candidates. A harvest supper was served at the close of the degree work.

The teachers' meeting was postponed Friday on account of the bad traveling.

The orchestra of Canterbury is having a dance in Plainfield this week.

Charles Grabb who was married on Wednesday evening at Plainfield to Irene Sinay is spending his honeymoon in New York.

John Romanoff, who has been working in New York returned home Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Perkins and family of Jewett City were callers on Sunday on Grace D. Dawley.

Only a few ventured out to Church Sunday morning owing to the bad traveling.

The R. F. D. carrier did not make his usual trips the last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cooley moved to Plainfield Wednesday.

The meeting of the whist club had to be postponed Saturday night on account of the traveling.

The milk teams did not make their trips Friday on account of the snow banks. After considerable shoveling they were able to get through Saturday.

Dwight Bushnell of Hartford spent the week end with his mother.

MANSFIELD CENTER

The first lesson of the recently organized Young Peoples' Chora society was given Friday evening by Mrs. R. L. Lahn. The meeting was held at the home of one of the members. Miss Ruth Oden, with more than 20 in attendance.

The basketry class met at the parsonage Tuesday afternoon from one to five o'clock.

The Mansfield Hollow Ladies' Aid society meets Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. N. Jacobson.

A class in dressmaking met at the church Tuesday afternoon of last week with Miss Edith Mason, state clothing specialist as instructor. It was an all day meeting and a hot covered dish dinner was served at noon.

Mrs. A. H. Dressen is to be in charge of the community meeting Friday evening at the church it will be a Valentine party for adults and young people and each one is expected to bring a Valentine.

J. N. Jacobson has tendered his resignation as toolmaker to the G. J. Kirby Co., and tomorrow (Wednesday) begins his new duties for the Goyer Mfg. Co., of Willimantic. Mr. Jacobson has spent 18 years with the Kirby Co.

WINDHAM

The recent snow storm was the worst in several years. The state road scraper went up through town about 4 p. m., Thursday, became stuck in the drifts at the top of Miller hill in company with a number of trucks and cars. This section of the road to Willimantic was impassable until the drifts were cut through on Monday afternoon. Most of the traffic to Willimantic either detoured through the lots or went by way of South Windham. There was a bad drift at Larrabee's corner, but this was speedily opened up. The mails came through as usual although not on schedule time Friday the carrier was unable to get through from Scotland in the morning but made two trips with horses in the afternoon. School was closed Thursday and Friday as the buses could not bring the pupils from the outlying districts.

Mrs. H. C. Lathrop gave an informal tea for her daughter, Miss Charlotte Lathrop Saturday afternoon, to announce Miss Lathrop's engagement ot Elon Cook. Both young people are popular in church and social circles. Miss Lathrop is a student at Storrs College and Mr. Cook is employed in the office of the Smith-Winchester Co. in South Windham.

Considering the bad traveling there was a good attendance at the bean supper, Friday evening in charge of Mrs. F. E. Guild. About 30 employes of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Co. were present.

C. E. day was observed by the local society Sunday evening. An interesting meeting was led by Margaret Barstow, a program prepared by the United Societies being used. There was special music.

The first meeting of the Current Events class is to be held in the school auditorium on Friday afternoon. Invitations have been sent out and Miss Dorothy Brown is the leader.

A minstrel show by Willimantic people is to be given under the auspices of the Parent Teacher association Thursday evening.

a Record Breaking Year ... and a still Greater Year to Come

With sales in excess of 250,000 cars, Dodge Brothers, Inc. have just completed the greatest year in their history.

Had it been possible to produce cars in sufficient numbers, their increase over 1924 would have been even more substantial.

This year the production problem has been mastered. A $10,000,000 expansion program stands completed—and the enormous output of 1925 will be nearly doubled!

Production on this stupendous scale makes possible the astounding low prices announced January 7th.

It makes them possible even though the car is better today than ever before. These are but a few of the vital refinements—

Rich and attractive new colors.
Absolute smoothness of engine operation.
A new snap and elasticity of operation throughout.
Smart and stylish new body lines.
Complete vision from every angle of the sturdy all-steel body.

Dodge Brothers Motor Car has always been an exceptional product. With these refinements, at these new prices, it is without question the greatest value Dodge Brothers have ever offered.

Touring Car	$875.50
Roadster	$874.00

DANIELSON

SOMEONE IS EVIDENTLY USING POISON CAPSULES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 9—Finding of dead dogs in woodland and field country in the western part of the town of Brooklyn suggests to some residents in that section that a deplorable practice previously noted has again been adopted in an effort to get foxes for their pelts. It is believed that meat containing a poisonous capsule is being put out. The poison mentioned kills within a few seconds, so any animal that partakes of the food is apt to be found close by where he eats it, although this is not always the case. Four dead foxes have been found in western Brooklyn on another occasion when this poison was being distributed. At that time a checkup was made in an effort to trace sales of poison to persons who might use it as here mentioned, but the investigation was without successful issue. At different times this winter dead hunting dogs have been found under circumstances that indicated they were the victims of poison. Attention of the game officials is being directed to the matter by Brooklyn people.

Tuesday morning the funeral of Mrs. Emily Larase was held from her home in Ballouville with services at St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were Omer Cuson, Philip Cusson, Henry LaRose and Joseph Clement. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Motor coach traffic between Danielson and Providence was nearer normal during Tuesday than on any day since the big storm of last Thursday. Across the line in Rhode Island highway crews continued to rid the trunk line of snow and make the going smoother than it has been since the first rough opening of the road was made. est of Danielson there were no obstructions to fast movement of traffic and the route south of here to Norwich was open and traffic moving smoothly. No such tieup of trunk lines as has now been largely overcome has been experienced in this section of the state for several years. Country highways of Killingly are being made more passable day by day and travel is now possible with horses to about all parts of the town. Many individuals have assisted in the breaking out of roads in addition to the big effort made by the town.

The winter league of trout fishing devotees, now talking about the coming season and their experiences in others, may be interested to know that a famous fishing pool on Snake Meadow Brook has been yielding up prize trout for a great many years. This pool is familiarly known to many trout fishermen as the Pine Tree hole and it is may be a mile east of Moosup pond. On a visit here Tuesday Joseph B. Stetson, veteran trout fisherman of the town of Brooklyn, told of a trip he made to the pool when he was 12 years of age. His companion was a man who was a good trout fisherman and well acquainted with the pool and its possibilities of yielding a big trout. It did on that day and the youthful Stetson was the lucky fisherman, getting a trout that weighed 5 1-4 pounds, a bit bigger than they come nowadays, though some that weigh from two to two and a half pounds are taken there about every season. "That was 67 years ago," said Mr. Stetson Tuesday, "and I doubt not that many big trout were taken from the pool years and years prior to that time."

There are reasons to believe that artisans in the building trades are to have a busy season once winter is over and the spring's activities are underway. As a basis for this forecast, it may be mentioned that the town has arranged to spend approximately $150,000 on the construction of additions and the making of alterations at the high school. This will give a big and early boost to the building trades. More homes are scheduled for erection in Danielson in 1926 and one or two other major building operations under consideration. With these activities and the usual run of work, it would appear that there will be plenty of work for men in various lines connected with building operations. It is anticipated that work for the high school additions will begin as early as possible this spring.

Was the storm of last Thursday a blizzard? Many people have called it that. Many others disagree. Blizzards are so infrequent in southern New England that it is difficulty to classify them accurately. The term blizzard as heard hereabouts is used largely, it has been observed by younger people. Those who remember the great storm of March 12, 1888, reject last Thursday's storm as even remotely resembling a blizzard. It was a hard and heavy snowstorm, they contend, unusually severe, but not to be classed with such a man-killing storm as scourged this section 38 years ago next month.

There are scores of people in this town who vividly recall their experiences in that blizzard. A person risked life itself to venture out in it. People died right here in Windham county in trying to get from their homes to the barn to care for their cattle. Horses were beaten down under the raging drive of snow and particles of ice that cut like a razor and died where they fell. George O. Thomas makes mention of the terrific battle he had in getting to his home, blinded by the fierce storm, unable to breathe and battered by the gale. The temperature was two degrees above zero. Scores of people here have recalled their trials in that storm during the past week, and no one of them rates last Thursday's storm as more than mild in comparison. That great storm established their standards for rating blizzards. It brought a far greater quantity of snow and piled it in more amazing drifts than have since been seen in Danielson.

Many may rate last week's storm a blizzard until they experience a real one. Not that anyone is pining for a demonstration for their edification, but as a matter of record.

In the current issue of the State Health Bulletin Killingly's estimated population as of July 1, 1926, is 9,051. This gives Killingly the second largest population of the 15 towns of Windham county, Windham being first with 14,368, Putnam third with 8,990, and Plainfield fourth with 8,570.

Rhode Island is co-operating in the present effort to feed wild game birds while heavy snow covers the ground. The barracks of the Rhode Island State troopers at North Scituate, 15 miles east of here, is named as one location at which grain and grit may be obtained free by sportsmen who will undertake its distribution in proper territory.

Members of the typewriting class of Killingly High school are looking forward with interest to the annual typewriting contest with Putnam High school. For several years past this event has brought into competition representatives of both schools.

Following the regular meeting of Rose of Lima council, K. of C. Tuesday evening there was a smoke talk and a number of special features that proved entertaining to the members. Alfred Goulet is the grand knight of the council.

Eight belo wzero in Danielson Tuesday morning, one of the coldest of the winter.

A Well Child conference was held Tuesday afternoon at the town hall building, this being one of a series.

Welch coal has made its appearance in Danielson and is in use here. Inexperience in burning it is giving some handlers difficulty in controlling the smoke.

A play followed by a dance drew numbers of members of St. Alban's to the parish house Tuesday evening.

A meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Miss Grace Spalding Tuesday afternoon.

Francis McDonald returned to his studies at LaSalette college in Hartford Tuesday, after being here to attend the funeral of his uncle, Michael Head, Jr., of Academy street.

A locomotive carved from wood and owned by Henry Bodo and Leo Bodo is attracting attention in the show window of a Main street store. The locomotive was made by a relative of Messrs. Bodo.

Manager Henry Johnson reported picking up early Tuesday morning under particularly good reception conditions a broadcast from Oakland, Cal.

Snow removal proceeded during Tuesday, as did the work of making wider and better sections of state highway that have been choked with snow.

No anthracite coal is available in Danielson and it is said there is no immediate prospect of any being obtained. Another handicap, as to fuel, is the deep snow that hinders getting cord wood out of outlying sections.

Members of the Benevolent society of the Westfield Congregational church are to meet in the parish house this (Wednesday) afternoon.

Members of the K. H. S. Alumni association and their friends have a Valentine dance planned to be held this (Wednesday) evening.

William A. Fenwick, of Lawrence, was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Tuesday.

Benjamin Weisberg, of New York, is visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Weisberg.

GIVES REPORT ON EVENING SCHOOLS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 9—The following report has been made to Superintendent of Schools Ralph C. Perkins, by Louis F. Battey, supervisor of the Putnam evening schools:

	E.	A.E.	Ave.
Americanization	32	19	8.66
Totals	32	37	15.2
Totals	32	37	23.86

In the Americanization department the beginners have covered thirty-five lessons in the federal text and the advanced group has covered 180 pages in Goldberger's "America for coming Citizens." Both groups have had word drill, covered forms of verbs, spelling in sentences, punctuation, and conversation lessons. The more advanced have studied something of Longfellow and Irving.

American Rally—On January 5, there was an American rally, at which 250 persons were present. The first part of the evening's program consisted of an entertainment by pupils of the grade and evening schools. The parts were well taken and the audience was appreciative.

This was followed by a short address by R. C. Deming, state director of Americanization.

The program closed with a two-reel picture called "The Land of Opportunity."

The closing of the mill at Mechanicsvill, and the change in railroad affairs have made considerable difference to the attendance in the Americanization room.

Typewriting—Advanced class: Exercises for thorough familiarization with the keyboard, business letters, speed tests and rythmic exercises comprise the work done. The speed of the pupils has increased and the work accomplished shows a tendency toward greater accuracy.

Miss Doris Bouthilette has won the Remington Primary certificate at a net speed of thirty words per minute. The speed required is but twenty-five words per minute.

Beginning class—Speed tests show a gradual improvement in speed and accuracy. The different parts of the typewriter are being learned. Rythmis drills and perfect copies of lessons form part of the nightly work.

Gregg shorthand—Beginning class: The eighth lesson has been completed. Dictation of simple business letters has been given and same transcribed. The study of the principals having been completed, the shortened forms are now being learned. The written work shows a good knowledge of the matter covered.

Bookkeeping department: Advanced bookkeeping—The class in advanced bookkeeping is working on the journalizing of the July set and making of drafts and entries for the various kinds of drafts and is the beginning of the second year of bookkeeping.

Beginning bookkeeping—Most of the beginners are ready to start the study of business forms and their uses. They are now advancing to the use of a purchase book and sales book, along with the regular cash book and journal.

Gregg Transcription class—Two of the sixty-word transcriptions and one of the eighty-word tests were submitted for awards this month.

Munson shorthand: Miss Bouthilette of the Munson class, is taking dictation on familiar practiced matter at the rate of from eighty to one hundred words per minute and doing unfamiliar work at a rate better than sixty. The rest of the class is still working on principles and elementary writing.

The French section of the Children of St. Mary held a whist and social at St. Mary's hall Monday night. The popularity of the game was evidenced by the large crowd attending. There were more than 50 tables at play. Miss Marceline Montville, chairman of the French Children of Mary was in charge of the affair. Refreshments were served. This is the first of a series of entertainments toward raising a fund for a new organ for St. Mary's church.

Old time fiddlers of Windham county lost to Tolland county at the contest held at Willimantic. The manager of the theatre of that town staged a contest between the winners at the Bradley theatre and the fiddlers of Tolland county resulting in the defeat of the Windham county old time fiddlers.

Miss Florence Briggs, of Centerdale, R. I., has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gibson at East Putnam.

The annual meeting of the Pomfret Theft Detecting society is to be held Friday, at the Pomfret Town house.

Mrs. Carrie E. Witter, formerly of North Woodstock, has purchased the Ray Hurlbut property on Woodstock avenue and has moved into it.

Mrs. Ella M. Tourtelotte, of South Main street, has returned from a visit with her son and daughter at Hartford.

Edgar M. Lazarus, of Webster, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Hogan and family, of Tatem street.

Sherwood Connell, of Worcester, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Connell, Sr., of Walnut street.

Miss Jeanette Breault, of Southbridge, Mass., has been the guest of friends and relatives in the city.

Miss Corranay Cournoyer, of Webster, has been spending several days with Miss Gertrude Remillard, of Pilman street.

Miss Cecil Parent and A. Dion, of Webster, spent the week-end with Mrs. Reene Parent, of Green street.

Miss Eleanor Murphy has returned to Bristol, after spending a week at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. B. P. Murphy, of Sunnyside Heights.

James H. Rafferty has been confined to his home on Chapel street, by illness.

Miss Mary Moore, of Webster, has been visiting friends in this city, for the past week.

Miss Alice Lowell, of Pomfret, is the guest of friends in New York city.

HOPKINTON

At the February session of the town council at the town hall Monday afternoon, February 1st, all the members were present. Eldred F. Collings was elected town forest warden and George N. Crandall, George W. Ferner and Walter James were appointed district forest wardens. Bills were ordered paid to the amount of $414.80, of which $267.50 was to pay damage to the sheep of Halsey C. Kenyon by dogs.

The will of Carrie M. Sisson was admitted to probate and Charles S. Sisson confirmed executor.

Inventory of estate of Amos A. Kenyon was received and ordered recorded. Mary E. Huling, administratrix, was authorized to sell household furniture at private sale.

William R. Clarke was appointed administrator of the estate of Mary E. Clark and Elisha R. Bitgood, appraiser. Petition for appointment of an administrator of the estate of Sarah J. Bitgood was received and referred to March with order of notice.

Willard A. Matteson and wife were decreed permission to adopt Benjamin F. Matteson and Estelle F. Erickson, minors, and the name of Erickson was changed to Matteson. At the February meeting of school committee Wednesday it was voted to have the annual report printed in the local papers.

It was voted to pay one-third of the cost of a telephone in the superintendent's office in Hope Valley, Richmond and Charlestown paying the balance of the cost.

At the request of Hopkinton Parent-Teacher association for classes in sewing and millinery the superintendent was instructed to make the application to the state board of education for state aid.

It was voted to have changes made in the heating plant of the Hope Valley school to secure better circulation.

The busses omitted some trips to Ashaway and Hope Valley Thursday, but maintained a part of their schedule.

No schools were held Thursday.

The Ashaway Free Library was not opened Thursday evening on account of the storm and because the lock on the door was frozen.

Rev. E. P. Mathewson could not fill his Sunday appointment at Pendleton Hill on account of the impassable condition of the roads.

Harry G. Kenyon has so far recovered from his recent injuries in an automobile accident that he is able to attend to his stock and do other light chores about the place.

Harold R. Lewis has been ill with a grip cold.

EAST WOODSTOCK

Emil Andersen is working in Springfield, Mass., as a carpenter. He is boarding with his aunt, Mrs. Charles Peterson, a former resident of this town.

Miss Gertrude Anderson has returned to her home here. She was housekeeper for Mrs. Norman Hull of Woodstock Hill, whose death occurred Feb. 4th. The burial of Mrs. Hull took place in Rye, N. Y., Monday. The Hull home has been closed as Mrs. Hull was the last of her family.

Mrs. Charles Hopkins, Mrs. Charles Potter, Mrs. Myrtle Jordan, Mrs. William Barrett and Mrs. Everett May attended the D. A. R. meeting in Putnam Monday afternoon. Mrs. May was one of the hostesses and Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Barrett were elected delegates to the state conference which is held in Stamford March 18th and 19th.

The Misses Rouse and Grigg gave violin and piano selections and Messrs. Child, Witherell, Shuning and Stanton gave musical selections.

The Reward of Merit

There is only one explanation of the new low prices announced January 7th by Graham Brothers.

That explanation is—overwhelming demand.

Demand increased so rapidly in 1925 that Graham Brothers attained undisputed Leadership among the exclusive truck manufacturers of the world.

Such demand calls for expansion. Expansion means still greater production. Greater production means savings in manufacturing costs.

Graham Brothers have expanded tremendously, both in buildings and equipment—and are now passing the savings on to the buyer.

LISBON

For several Sundays past Rev. W. J. Reynolds has been preaching a series of sermons on character. Next Sunday he will preach on the theme, Lincoln, the World Character.

There was a very small attendance last Sunday owing to drifted roads. The state road through Newent was not opened up its entire length until late Friday and some of the cross roads had not bee cleared Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Burnham and daughter, Mirian Eather, of Ballouville, were callers at R. R. Barber's Sunday.

Miss Clara Hyde returned Sunday afternoon from a visit of several days with her aunt, Mrs. J. A. Randall, in Lebanon.

The Hoffman place was recently sold to a man named Davidewicz.

Selectmen Harry L. Hull, John M. Lee, and Rev. W. J. Reynolds were recently invited to the office of the Connecticut company for a conference in regard to bus service for Newent. They were assured that if possible a schedule would be arranged by which they would have several busses a day.

NEW FRENCH CHAMPAGNES TO BE GOOD BUT LESS OF THEM

RHEIMS, February 9.—(AP)—Champagnes of France this year are going to be good in quality but there will be less of them.

The champagne harvest was finished in splendid weather and the grapes in the cellars, ready for the special preparation necessary for the production of the world's most renowned wine, are expected to furnish about 2,750,000 gallons.

Mildew and blight caused much damage, the secretary of the Champagne Wine-Growers' association reported, but the crop is generally healthy.

Women play an important part in the wine industry of Champagne. It is women who dig out the vines which are attacked by phylloxera and who replace them with vines imported from the United States. Women prune the vines and harvest much of the crop. They also make up a large part of the labor required in the cellars and in labelling and dressing up the bottles with the gay gold foil.

The wings that riches have are nearly always used in going instead of coming.

AMERICANS SEEKING PEDIGREES BRING OUT OXFORD SKELETONS

OXFORD, Eng., February 9.—(AP)—American pedigree hunters have invaded the Oxford libraries. The scions of forgotten ancestors resident in almost every one of the United States have asked the university librarian to bridge some vast gulf in their patronymics.

A large percentage of the inquiries are coming from states in the middle west and the Pacific coast.

But few men are brave enough to allow a mind reader to expose their thoughts in the presence of friends.

BOY SCOUT WEEK

It is only reasonable to expect that there will be a general interest manifested in the observance of Boy Scout Week just ended in many of the inauguration, of this movement failing at this time. It is of course a time for reflecting upon what has been accomplished, what is being done and what possibilities the future holds.

Doing something for the boys is always worth while. They can be guided in the right path, be given instructions which will remain with them through life and get a chance to make better citizens of themselves through the influences of this organization.

That it appeals to those who are in, and to those who are interested in them, is indicated by the fact that there are more than 2,000,000 members who are getting training from more than 600,000 older boys and nearly 170,000 men acting as leaders.

There are those boys who are always able to provide their own entertainment or to keep themselves busy about worthwhile things, but there are others who are not. They need some outlet for their enthusiasm and it is preferable that it should be directed in the proper channels. They long for the training that they receive from the Scout organization as it takes them through the various grades and it is only natural that so many of them should eventually become boy leaders and later adult leaders.

Scouting hasn't been going for many years and yet it has gotten a grip that is unshakable. Scouts are to be found in all directions. Those in college and those in business life are proud to admit that they were Scouts and to sing the organization's praises whenever possible.

The Scout movement is aimed at making better boys and better citizens. The success that has been attained not only speaks well for what has been done, but it cries out for steady expansion with the public giving to it the hearty cooperation and encouragement that it deserves.

PROPERLY SQUELCHED

The action of the senate in approving a resolution asking the president to urge an immediate settlement of their differences upon the coal operators and miners, in opposition to what it did a few days ago, appears to have been adopted as a means of blocking the obstruction at tactics which Senator Copeland was employing against the tax bill. The quickest way to dispose of the bother was to get rid of it. That the president should recognize the situation for what it was and decline to act at this time is not surprising.

Senator Copeland and Congressman Bloom in asking similar action in the house do not seem to realize that if they had taken action, or even urged it in the last session of congress, or even in this, following the plea by President Coolidge that action be taken upon the recommendation of the coal commission and in accord with its report there would be no such situation as prevails now for the president could have and would have acted in the last coal strike it was recognized that his hands were tied. The coal commission told how they could be untied and authority placed in them. It remained for congress to [illegible] that would bring such relief that congress undertaken to [illegible] of the anthracite coal [illegible] there are bowlers [illegible] for presidential intervention [illegible] shown that he has no authority to act have attempted to provide the legislation that has been asked for. In all probability they couldn't have been gotten to sanction anything that might have been attempted, and yet now that a similar situation to the previous coal strikes has arisen they are rushing to the front with appeals for someone else to do something.

Congress needed no such situation as exists at the present time to provide the legislation the president has asked for. It is a repetition of the old story of trying to pass the buck.

When the senate first stepped on such a resolution it did the right thing. It would have adhered to that action except for the need of stopping the [illegible] from [illegible] the [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] to [illegible] the

RESCUED FELLOW DRIVER IN BIG SNOW STORM

John J. Shea, Jr., of this city, driver for a bus line between here and Providence, had an experience that will last him a life time in the big snowstorm last Thursday, but incidentally rescued one of his fellow drivers from death by monoxide gas poisoning in a bus that was imbedded in a drift at Fairbanks hill in Rhode Island on the road to Providence.

Mr. Shea with another driver and one passenger left here for Providence by the 8:30 trip Thursday morning, expecting to meet another bus of the line on the way when Mr. Shea would transfer and come back to this city while the other driver would keep on to Providence. At Fairbanks hill they had to turn out for the heavily loaded bus of another line, and they found they could not get back into the road. While they were still stuck there an automobile going towards Providence came along and took Mr. Shea and the passenger aboard.

As they topped the hill and went down the other side they came up on the bus which they had expected to meet. It was off the road, stuck in a drift and when Mr. Shea got out and opened the door he discovered the driver inside, unconscious in his seat from monoxide gas poisoning. The engine was still running.

Getting the man out, Mr. Shea and the passenger who was with him gradually revived him by applications of snow, and when the driver was able to talk he told them that his load of passengers had gone along in the bus that had forced the bus driven by Shea off the road. He said he had transferred his passengers because he had felt himself "slipping" and after they had left he became unconscious in the bus that ran into a snow drift.

Mr. Shea got the bus out of the drift and drove it back to where the car he had been operating was stuck. The private automobile went on to Providence with one of the drivers while Shea and the other started to bring one of the busses back to Norwich but it stuck fast in a drift on the down slope of Fairbanks hill.

The two men stayed in a farm house that night and the next morning started out to walk back towards this city. They had shovels and used them frequently, finally reaching Sterling where they took to the railroad track and following it as far as French's crossing. Here they again took to the highway and wallowed along through the snow until they came to a point below Bishop's crossing, where they were picked up by a small truck that brought them to this city, arriving early Friday evening.

The next day Mr. Shea went back and shoveled out the bus that was still stuck in the snow on Fairbanks hill.

OBITUARY

John M. McDermott

John M. McDermott, a native of Norwich, died Monday at his home in Jersey City, N. J., word of his death being received by relatives in this city. Mr. McDermott was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McDermott and for a number of years his father was sexton at St. Mary's cemetery. A number of years ago he was united in marriage with Catherine Kelly who survives him with several children, James T. Fitzpatrick of North Thames street, is a cousin of Mr. McDermott.

Frank L. Miner

Frank L. Miner, a prominent midwestern insurance man, and former resident of Groton, died Feb. 1, at Des Moines, Iowa. Mr. Miner was born in Groton 65 years ago. Early in life he went west where he became a cowboy, and later became associated with Eugene L. Baker, also a former Groton resident, in the cattle raising business.

In the early nineties, Mr. Miner went to Chicago, where he entered the field of insurance journalism and became the controlling owner of an insurance journal there and of one in Philadelphia. He later moved to Des Moines, where he organized the Bankers Accident Insurance Co. At the time of his death, Mr. Miner was president of the National Fire Insurance Co., of Des Moines.

He married Miss Bessie Hewitt, daughter of the late Edgar A. Hewitt of New London.

He is survived by his wife, a sister, Mrs. Rose Reese of Des Monies, a nephew, Vincent Reese of California, and a niece, Mrs. Frank Hutchins of Des Moines.

George Cherry

Word was received here Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock by Mrs. Charles A. Yerrington of 412 Laurel Hill avenue of the sudden death of her brother, George Cherry, a former resident of Norwich. Mr. Cherry, whose home is at Hillsdale, N. J., and who was employed in New York city as a machinist, was on his way to his employment, when he suffered the fatal attack.

Mr. Cherry was born in Norwich on April 16, 1859, and was the son of James and Agnes Cherry. He made his home in this city until he reached the age of 17 or 18, when he went to New York, where he has remained for the greater part of his life. He was united in marriage with Hannah Berard of Turners Falls in Bridgeport and for some time he resided in that city. He was a member of the Odd Fellows and attended the Congregational church.

Besides his wife he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Harry Holt, who lived with her parents, three sisters, Mrs. Peter J. Steinway of New York city, Mrs. Edward M. Platt of Bridgeport, Mrs. Charles A. Yerrington of 413 Laurel Hill avenue and two brothers, Robert T. and James Cherry, both of Bridgeport.

BIDS TOO HIGH FOR STATE FARM BUILDING

Acting Governor Brainard presided Tuesday at the meeting of the board of control that was specially called to take action on the bids for the erection of a building at the State Farm for Women in East Lyme. The board adjourned without coming to an agreement on a plan to adjust the bids of contractors to the appropriation for the work voted by the general assembly.

Another meeting of the board of control will be held on Thursday of next week at which it is hoped that changes in the plans acceptable to the board will be submitted for consideration. The appropriation voted by the general assembly for the work amounts to $42,120. The building will provide accommodations for twenty-five inmates.

Tables of bridge, whist and casino were in play, and the prizes were awarded as follows: Bridge, Mrs. F. Herman, Mrs. H. B. Davenport, Mrs. C. Jacobson. Mrs. M. J. Solomon; whist, Mrs. B. Mandell; and casino, Mrs. Samuel Goldberg.

ODD FELLOW GRAND OFFICERS DESCRIBE NEW BUILDING AT GROTON

Tuesday evening in Odd Fellows' hall at the meeting of Shetucket lodge, No. 27, I. O. O. F., which was attended as well by members of Uncas lodge, No. 11, the financial obligation of members of the order towards the building fund for the new dormitory and infirmary at Fairview, Groton, was presented by visiting grand officers. Representatives from the Jewett City and Willimantic lodges also attended the meeting.

Past Grand Master James Cooper of Mystic and Grand Secretary William S. Hutchinson of New Haven were the speakers, giving a description of the fine new building that has been added to the Odd Fellows' home property at Groton.

Following the meeting supper was served by a committee from Hope Rebekah lodge.

The erection of the new dormitory and infirmary, which will have accommodations for about 75 residents, will enable the Odd Fellows largely to increase the scope and nature of their charitable work.

The new infirmary has been built at a cost of approximately $200,000 and it is the first unit of a million dollar project. When the building programme mapped out has been completed, there will be an building similar to the new one on the north side, or the site occupied by the present old home dormitory, with a central administration building in the center, and all three buildings connected.

The new hall, built at a cost of about $300,000 represents contributions made by members of the organization throughout the state. The members of the Rebekah lodges in addition to contributing financially to the project, have contracted to furnish the structure from top to bottom, and are now engaged in doing so. Each lodge in the state was assessed an amount in proportion to its membership, and the money was raised by the lodges by individual subscription. When the cornerstone was laid for the building on June 12 last, scrolls containing the names of more than $90,000 contributors to the building fund, were placed in a sealed compartment in back of the cornerstone to remain there until time has crumbled the mighty walls built through their efforts.

The building is constructed of native rock and tapestry brick, most of the rock being taken off the grounds of the reservation. The tapestry brick interlining with the rock, the red tile roof, and the wide copped windows, runways and drains all combine to make the building a very attractive one.

Seamless brass piping is used throughout the structure and all water in use in the building is confined at all times to brass pipes and receptacles. A water tank of 50,000 gallons capacity at a 90 foot elevation some distance to the rear of the building will furnish water for the building and for eight hydrants with a pressure of 60 pounds per square inch.

The heating of the building is by steam, two ten-section boilers being installed in the sub-cellar. The vapor system is used for the purpose of condensing the steam. A system is also provided for the return of the water from the radiators to the boilers. A tank of 900 gallons capacity is also located in the cellar and from this all hot water used in the building is distributed. The condenser room, containing all electrical apparatus completes the equipment of the cellar. From the lines outside 2,300 volts enter through the condenser room, and it is here that the elevator, lighting and cooking apparatus are installed.

There are 50 bedrooms in the building, 13 on the first floor, 22 on the main floor, 16 on the second floor, many of them with private baths. There are 16 open bathrooms in the building. The recreation room and library are located on the main floor. Both have southern exposure with delightful views of the Thames river and Long Island sound. A spacious veranda opens off the recreation room and runs the width of the building. Diet kitchens, linen closets and offices are also located on this floor.

The men's ward is located on the south side of the second floor, with southern exposure, and light, sun and air are assured through windows nine feet high. Each window in the building is equipped with English sash, easily opened and weather tight when closed. The building is steel trimmed throughout, the furniture and fixtures are all of steel and the building is as fireproof as modern architecture and engineers can make it.

The women's ward is located on the west side of the building overlooking the Thames river and the sound. The exposure is from the south and west. Both the men's and women's wards are outfitted to accommodate ten patients. Each ward is fully equipped with bath and surgical facilities. The north side of the second floor is given over to operating purposes, with the glass enclosed operating rooms, the anaesthetic and instrument rooms being located in this section. One of the features in connection with the establishment is the type of food wagon in use. These wagons may be operated from room to room on electrical attachment insuring the warmth of the food standing on the wagon while service is being made to rooms.

The institution will be equipped with every known surgical instrument, and facilities for the performance of major operations will be on hand. When the building is opened a complete medical and nursing staff will be installed, and the institution will be conducted on a regular hospital basis.

BIG ATTENDANCE FOR TELEPHONE DEMONSTRATION

Approximately 600 people witnessed a very interesting and instructive telephone demonstration Tuesday evening at the Community house given by employes of the Southern New England Telephone company under the auspices of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce. It was one of the biggest gatherings of its kind in this part of the state.

The evening's programme opened at 8 o'clock with a brief address of welcome by President James L. Case of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce. President Case said the demonstration was given through the courtesy of the telephone company. We take the telephone as a matter of course, said Mr. Case. But back of the telephone is a real system, a real plan. Mr. Case referred to the transcontinental telephone demonstration in this city in 1915 when several hundred diners at a Chamber of Commerce banquet heard over the telephone addresses and programmes given in various cities from New York to San Francisco. That was one of the outstanding events of my life, he said. We believe in the telephone. It is part of our daily life. Mr. Case then introduced the new manager of the local telephone exchange, Henry T. Lyon.

If we can show you some of the things that take place when you lift the receiver to place a call, said Mr. Lyon, and if we can better acquaint you with some of our problems, if we can get better acquainted with you, then we are in a position to give the kind of service you want.

The telephone business is unique in many respects. It is the only business or service in the world that handles a vast amount of personal transactions over a highly sensitive electrical mechanism, where the person making the call and the person called talk with each other, face to face, as it were, without actually seeing each other or the young lady on the switchboard who has made the conversation possible.

This evening the following programme will be given: Motion pictures, Making Telephone History, and Treat 'Em Right. The young ladies will show how local calls, toll calls and A-E calls are handled. This will be followed by telephone dialogues showing how sometimes telephone calls go wrong."

The moving picture reels were then thrown on a screen. They showed the development of the telephone from the crude instruments of the old days of two score years ago to the modern telephone of today. Old time switchboards were contrasted with the intricate boards of today. The "Treat 'Em Right" reel was of a somewhat humorous nature, showing how many people unthinkingly damage phone instruments through carelessness, dropping them or banging them down on desks and tables.

Following the pictures there was a demonstration of how telephone calls are handled at the exchange. Miss Scriven showed how local calls are handled, Miss Murray, toll calls and Miss Harrigan assisted by Miss Scriven showed how A. B. toll calls are handled. Then there was a demonstration showing how calls are mixed up, due to wrong numbers given, people not talking distinctly, others not answering their calls promptly, etc. Small switchboards with telephones were set up on the stage to aid in the demonstration.

Norwich Men in Preston Corporation

Among certificates of incorporation filed with the secretary of state is the following:

Air Proof Rubber Company, Inc., of Preston. Authorized capital $100,000. To begin a rubber goods manufacturing business with $20,000. Incorporators are Lucius H. Wilcox, John Flaherty and William Mileski, all of Norwich.

Men going home from work at 5 o'clock now find it daylight and a great improvement on conditions which have prevailed since early December.

PRESENTED $50 PURSE TO CHARLES L. STARK

A purse of $50 in five ten dollar gold pieces was presented Monday night to Charles L. Stark by the officers and employes of the Reid and Hughes company in recognition of Mr. Stark's completing 50 years with the Boston store. After the store closed at 6 o'clock the officers and clerks gathered for the presentation which was made by Charles I. Smith.

Mr. Smith, who is treasurer of the company, made the presentation speech as follows:

They say "a specialist is a very ordinary person a very great way from home." We have a number of specialists from the upper floor down to the basement—provided you can get them to talking—away from home. Then we also have the exception to the rule—the specialist at his "own fireside" as well as at a distance. When you get him to talking, he tells you that he "sat one day at the seashore and wrote with his finger in the sand, Agnes, I love thee, and the waves came up and washed it out, then he strode to the evergreen forests of Norway, plucked a towering pine and dipped it in Vesuvius' crater and then wrote across the starry heavens of night 'Agnes, I love thee,' now see if the dog-goned waves'll wash that out."

But the exception we speak of is our specialist in presentation speeches which has always fallen to your lot on such occasions in times past.

However as "money talks" it will be only necessary to recall now a few facts of your career to the younger members of our store family.

You would hold the record over Messrs. Reid & Hughes were they here today, for you were here today, for you were here three years before they came to this store.

The seal skin hat, plaid ulster, heavily fur collared and the seal ring on your little finger, sailing down Broadway from Deacon Lewis A. Hyles' where you lodged represented the last thing in captains of industry when I came in 1880.

Then my memory recalls the playing of "Priscilla" by the young lady from New London to the stentorian tones of your Myles Standish in churches of our city both before and after you married her.

In specialism, the muse did not stop with your generation for we know that the daughter teaching now at Wellesley college has a wide reputation as a mathematism and wears her Phi Beta Kappa key and has received her M. A. and A. B. from her alma mater, Brown university.

SMOKER ENJOYED BY FOREIGN WAR VETERANS

A very enjoyable smoker was held by R. E. Hourigan Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at the Post rooms on Main street, Tuesday evening with about sixty members present. Commander J. Perone, Adjutant J. Connor, Quartermaster W. Baseley, members of Murphy Rathbone Post, V. F. W., New London, were guests at the smoker and addressed the local veterans on matters pertaining to the welfare of the organization.

Plans were made for an old fashioned dance to be a joint affair between the local Post, the New London Post and the Pawcatuck members, and to be held sometime in March in New London. A couple of boxing bouts between Battling (Red) Dufault and two boxers of the local Post proved a feature of the evening.

Refreshments were served and smokes circulated during the evening by the house commitee, R. Kavanaugh, J. Pawelac, E. Sheldon and C. Green.

Another Snow Storm

Snow, which had been predicted, began to fall a little after midnight Tuesday and was continuing at an early hour this (Wednesday) morning, promising to make a considerable addition to what the city has already in plenty.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May sang a high mass of requiem at 7.30 Tuesday morning in St. Patrick's church, by request of the Holy Name society, for its departed members. Henry J. LaFontaine played for the mass and the offertory solo was sung by Roderick F. Sullivan.

ART STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION HEARS INTERESTING PAPER

The monthly meeting of the Art Students' association was held Monday evening at Slater hall annex. At the business meeting Miss Lucas reported that the committee on trees had a very satisfactory interview with Street Commissioner John C. Donovan. He is of the opinion that there ought to be made an appropriation by the city large enough to put the city trees in a healthy condition. Thereafter the expense would be small. Also there is need of a city ordinance protecting trees.

After the business meeting a delightful paper on Luca and Andrea della Robbia was given by Miss Eunice Gulliver. About 60 lantern slides, illustrative of the best work of these artists, added to the enjoyment of the audience. Miss Gulliver said in part: When I went to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts to study comb plasters of the della Robbias, I discovered that the room of Renaissance sculpture had been given over to an exhibit of the work of Ivan Mestrovic, a modern Croatian or Dalmatian artist. In some ways his drawing is reminiscent of El Greco in the strangely thin and attenuated figures hinting at extremes of asceticism. As I looked from the exaggeratedly long hands and feet of an emaciated figure of Christ on the Cross, or again at a Madonna and Child with high, narrow head and long limbs, my eyes suddenly caught a glimpse of an Andrea della Robbia plaster which the temporary screen had failed to cover. Had I ever been indifferent to the artistic principle of contrast, in that moment its value would have been demonstrated. Could any better foil for the qualities of a della Robbia masterpiece be conceived? In the work of the slavic artist in a sense of hidden and mighty force always in conflict. Not so with Andrea. To him the rounded perfection of the flesh is instinct with beauty, a happy expression of inward serenity and poise.

But the approach to our subject through Mestrovic was a Museum accident. We must establish other contacts. First and foremost is Vassari, whose style is sufficiently frank to give a delicious flavor of all he writes. The reader is delighted with the piquancy of his "Lives," and eagerly devours story after story until he suddenly becomes aware of modern footnotes and realizes that Vassari was quite untrammeled by the claims of fact or the need of accuracy. However, we could ill spare his picture of the youthful Luca, so eager to succeed that all day he worked with his chisel and at night practiced drawing despite hunger and cold. There are, however, three authorities from whose carefully authenticated records, the information for this paper has been derived, Allan Marquand, Marcel Reymond, and Maud Cruttwell. Luca della Robbia was born about 1400. Of his early life we know little, but it seems possible that he was an apprentice of Ghiberti, for there are certain mannerisms in his art which suggest the influence of that master. He was thirty-one years of age when he began that work in marble which alone would assure his place in the first rank of sculptors, the Cantoria or singing gallery of the Duomo. This commission antedated by a year or more the one which Donatello received for the decoration of the opposite gallery. As we continue our search through the scanty records of his life, we find mention of little save the many commissions that he received. We know that he never married, but lived with his brother's family, and that he educated with great care his nephew, Andrea, who was apparantly his only trained apprentice. To him he bequeathed all that he could give of the secrets of his art. Evidently Luca's life was in his work to which he gave all the splendid powers of body, mind and soul through a series of busy and productive years. We find him ever loyal to the revelation of beauty and truth which he learned from his study of Greek sculpture, warmly sympathetic in his fidelity to the lovliness of the human being, especially as expressed in the child and woman, and always genuinely reverent, with the sincere religious fevvor of the early Renaissance artist. We recognize something of the breadth and sweep of Luca's genius when we remember that he worked in marble, in bronze, and in glazed terra cotta, and that in each medium he achieved such success as would mark him as an artist of the highest rank. In the group of marbles we place first the Cantoria previously mentioned. The five Campanile reliefs were to complete a series of lozenges above the base of the tower, designed and partly executed by Giotto and continued by Andrea Pisano, to illustrate the history of human progress. Luca's contribution included Universal Harmony, Arithmetic, Music, Logic and Grammar. The Peretola Tabernacle and the Federighi Tomb are his other famous marbles. Next we come to his glazed terra-cottas. His fine color sense, his masterly treatment of the various enamels and his systematic and orderly habit in using the materials give some of the characteristics by which critics are able to distinguish as his, certain works that have been commonly credited to Andrea. His terra-cottas include lunettes and medallions, the latter group including coats of arms, and religious subjects, the Madonna and Child being a favorite subject. These designs were usually enclosed in a border of fruit and flowers. It may be judged how elaborate these borders were by noting one in the Mercanzia or Chamber of Commerce which contains citrons, beans, pomegranites, chestnuts, apples, artichokes, cucumbers, pine cones, quinces, plums, pears, grapes, poppies, oranges, figs, olives, leaves and flowers.

Undoubtedly during the years of Andrea's training he assisted his uncle in the execution of large pieces. Andrea's best works show the value of his uncle's training; they have in addition a beauty all their own. For grace and charm nothing can exceed the Coronation of the Virgin at Sienna or the Crucifixion at La Verna. These rank among his masterpieces. Familiar to all are the Bambino medallions of the Foundling Hospital and the Meeting of St. Francis and St. Dominic in the Loggia of San Paolo in Florence. But haste to obtain results and a commercializing of the product finally brought down the standard of the atelier and made its later output a hopelessly commonplace imitation of the powerful balanced and original art of its founder. In comparing the two great members of the della Robbia family, we must however, recognize that the difference in their art may be explained in part on other grounds than the character of the two men. The later age in which Andrea worked did not have the same high ideals as those that dominated the first half of the fifteenth century. As we recognize the peculiar genius of the two men, we are content to let each take his own place without more comparison than is helpful to our understanding of them both.

Children's Colds

Best Treated Externally

CONSTANT dosing upsets little stomachs. Modern mothers prefer to treat children's colds externally—with Vicks VapoRub. They simply rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime.

Vicks acts two ways at once:

(1) Like the old-fashioned poultice in "drawing out" the soreness and pain; and, at the same time,

(2) Like a modern vapor lamp because the body heat releases the ingredients in the form of medicated vapors which are inhaled all night long. These loosen the phlegm and open the congested air passages.

Most colds yield by morning to this double direct action.

AMERICAN LEAGUE VOTES AGAINST USE OF RESIN BALL DURING SEASON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The resin bag was waived out of the American League today.

Contending a modification of the pitching rules, to permit the use of resin dust by pitchers, is a step backward and might influence the return of other freak deliveries, the magnates of the American League, at the annual spring meeting today, unanimously refused to sanction the resin rule recently adopted by the joint rules committee of the major leagues.

The rule, suggested and favored by the National League and later passed by the joint rules committee by a 5 to 3 vote, permits a pitcher to dry his hands by the use of dust obtained from a resin bag under the supervision of the umpire.

President Ban Johnson, in explaining the action, said the magnates were within their rights in refusing to concur with the joint rules committee if the disapproval was unanimous.

Asked what effect the rule would have on world's series competition, since the National League has already sanctioned its use, President Johnson intimated that special rules will have to be adopted, covering the series.

In addition to refusing to agree on the use of resin, the magnates likewise refused to consider the National League's suggestion to extend the contract of Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis for a period of ten years at the expiration of his present seven year term.

"Landis' name was not even mentioned," said President Johnson.

Individually, however, the magnates were quick to suppress any evidences of alarm over their refusal to take up the suggestion at this time.

"When the proper time comes, we will consider this matter," said Harry Grabiner, secretary of the Chicago Club.

"The Chicago Club is for Landis because we feel that he represents every thing that is good in baseball," he added.

The 1925 schedule was adopted and the magnates started to consider a revision of the constitution, but this was abandoned later when it appeared like an impossible task at this time.

"No radical changes were considered," President Johnson said. "We merely want to change the phraseology of some of the rules to clarify them."

Further discussion was left until a special meeting of the league to be held in Chicago some time before the opening of the season at the call of President Johnson.

Alfred S. Austrian and George Miller, Chicago attorneys, were appointed a committee to rewrite some of the rules and submit them to the league at the Chicago meeting.

The schedule, which brings the season to a close in every American League city with the exception of Washington and Philadelphia September 24, was approved with the provision that the two clubs carrying over until the 29th can rearrange their dates and play doubleheaders earlier in the season to close on the 26th. Any changes made, however, must be submitted to President Johnson before the start of the season.

TWO WORLD'S RECORDS BROKEN AT ST. AUGUSTINE

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Eleanor Garratt, 17, of San Rafael, Calif., national champion, successfully defended her title in the fifty yard free style event of the Women's National A. A. U. swimming contests here tonight.

In the first heat Miss Garratt set a new world record when she made the swim in 27 1-5 seconds.

Her former mark, set at Bayes Springs, Calif., last July, was 27 3-5 seconds.

Agnes Geraghty, New York, 100 yards breast stroke champion, set a new world record of 35 3-5 seconds to win the fifty yard breast stroke event. Her previous mark was 37 1-5 seconds.

Edwardina Kranich, Detroit, won the 100 yard swimming contest in one minute 6 2-5 seconds.

Ethel Lackie, Chicago, was second, Lilly May Bowmer, Santa Monica, Calif., third, and Mariechen Wehselau, Honolulu, fourth.

A world record was bettered by almost five full seconds, when Miss Martha Norelius of New York, won the 350 yard free style swim in three minutes 9 4-5 seconds bettering Gertrude Ederle's mark of three minutes 14 3-5 seconds, recorded in New York last spring.

Miss Norelius, who is the Olympic champion for 400 metres, and the American national champion at 500 yards, was pressed to a new record by her club mate, Ethel McGary.

TESTER CARRIES WEIGHT AND PLACES THIRD

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Tester, the G. C. Winfrey sprinter which broke the fair grounds record at New Orleans a few days ago, was compelled to bear 126 pounds in the Excelsior handicap there today and finished third to T. S. Jordan and Banter. T. S. Jordan carried 109 and Banter 104.

The eventual winner took the lead at the start to finish the six furlongs in 1:13 2-5, three-quarters of a length ahead of Banter. Tester was two lengths behind second place.

Kingman, which ran away into the Mexican hills last week and was captured after a chase of several hours, placed third in the Tia Juana feature of one mile and a quarter, a claiming event. Kingman set the pace for most of the way but Firth of Tay, followed by Pathan, sprinted away at the three-quarters to win and place.

The Delray handicap features the Miami program, with Mr. Pepp victorious for E. F. Whitney. Boon Companion was second and Bookbinder third. Mr. Pepp coming around both in the stretch to win the six-furlong sprint in 1:12.

UMPIRES MAY GO SOUTH WITH TEAMS THIS SPRING

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—President Heydler of the National league, has rescinded an order issued last year prohibiting umpires from accompanying teams of the circuit in their spring training contests. Frank Wilson has received permission to go south with the Boston Braves and Bob Emslie with Brooklyn.

A year ago Heydler argued that the appearance of the league's umpires in the training contests, necessitating their constant presence at the camps, brought about too much intimacy between them and the players.

"This is still my opinion," he said today, "but there was so much criticism of the umpiring from men picked up here and there last spring that I have decided that to use our own officials will prove the lesser of two evils."

IZZY ZARAKOV AWARDED HARVARD BASEBALL TROPHIES

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Isadore "Izzy" Zarakov of Cambridge, Harvard's only three-letter man, has been awarded both the Barrett Wendell bat and the Dana Wingate cup for baseball proficiency during the 1925 season. George Abbot, chairman of the graduate athletic advisory committee, announced the award at a meeting of 100 baseball candidates tonight.

The Wendell trophy is given to the player displaying the best offensive ability and the Wingate cup is awarded to the best all-round player. Zarakov played third base last year. He has won his letter in football and hockey.

AGGIES BEAT TRINITY BASKETBALL FIVE, 32 TO 27, AFTER TOUGH BATTLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Feb. 9—Trinity proved to be a tough opponent in basketball here tonight and the Connecticut Aggies were forced to extend themselves to win by a 32 to 27 score.

Connecticut was off form tonight, failing to show the general all-round ability displayed in the earlier games this season. It may have been over confidence and the game was not under way many minutes before it was evident that Trinity was going to give the Aggies a real battle.

The game was nip and tuck through the first half with both teams trying hard to keep the lead. Trinity scored in the first of play on Thompson's toss from the free-throw line. Markofski connected for a double decker a minute later, giving Connecticut a one point lead. For the remainder of the half not more than three points separated the two teams. Twice Trinity took a one point lead but each time the Aggies came to the front again and at half time the score was 13 to 11 in the Aggies' favor.

Coach Dole shifted Markofski from center to guard at the start of the second half, sending Arthur Williams of Danielson to the pivot position. This helped the Aggie offense considerably as Williams consistently outjumped the Trinity center and Connecticut was able to take the ball on the tip-off. With this change in lineup the Aggies rapidly increased their lead over Trinity. Baskets by Eddey and Schofield followed by two in succession by Williams took the Aggies well to the front before the half was five minutes old.

Trinity then braced and cut down the Connecticut lead but they were unable to overcome the margin amassed during the early minutes of the half.

Toward the last of the half Trinity staged a rally with Captain Burr of Baltic and Thompson playing a prominent part. This brought the score to 30 to 27 with the Aggies in the lead. Capt. Markofski checked the Trinity rally by making another basket for the Aggies.

The Hartford team took time out with the score 32 to 27 against them and but two and one half minutes left to play. They tried many long shots when play was resumed all of which went wild and the game ended with no further scoring.

Tonight's game had a distinctly eastern Connecticut flavor. Danielson had two representatives in Bitgood and Williams, while Putnam had one in Allard. Baltic had one representative in Capt. Burr of Trinity. His brother Dud Burr did not get into the game.

Pop Williams, who has until now been unable to participate in varsity sports because of scholastic ineligibility, looked good tonight in his first varsity encounter for the Aggies. He outjumped the Trinity center and his work in this alone was a big factor in the launching of Connecticut's attack in the second half. In addition he connected with two pretty field baskets from the floor. Allard and Bitgood at guard played their usual strong game.

Capt. Burr of Baltic starred for Trinity making three baskets from the floor and one from the foul line for a total of seven points. He also played a fast floor and passing game. The summary:

NICHOLS SUBSTITUTED AS OPPONENT FOR SUGGS

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Jackie Nichols, of St. Paul, today was substituted as an opponent for Chick Suggs, bantam, of New Bedford, Mass., in a ten-round bout next Monday night at the new Broadway arena. Nichols replaces Joe Ryder, who withdrew on account of illness.

In two supporting ten-round bouts, Andy Martin, of Boston, will oppose Benny Hall, of St. Louis, while Black Bill, of Cuba, will face Benny Tell, of New York.

HELEN WILLS IS DISGUSTED WITH WAY CARLTON TENNIS TOURNEY IS CONDUCTED

CANNES, France, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The commercialism which has been entering into Riviera tennis, as exemplified by the sale of the exclusive moving picture rights to a private firm and heavy betting on her match with Mlle. Lenglen, nearly caused Miss Wills, the American champion to scratch today from the singles play in the Carlton club tournament, and for a few hours jeopardized the meeting between the French and American champions.

So disgusted was the California girl with the manner in which the organization has handled the tournament that, according to the belief expressed by her friends, only the thought that her default would be interpreted throughout the world as fear to meet Mlle. Lenglen in a singles combat, prevented her from announcing her retirement.

The elements in the shape of torrential rains, necessitating postponement of today's event in the tournament, have even conspired to delay the Lenglen-Wills match another day. Sunday, February 14, now appears the most probable date for their meeting.

Interest in the meantime is growing, but unfortunately, in the opinion of lovers of amateur tennis, the gambling element has entered the competition, and odds are freely offered in the Cannes, Nice and Monte Carlo Casinos on the contest, which is casting a spell of uneasiness over the coming match.

The managements of the three casinos avere that they are total strangers to any gambling on their premises, except legalized boule, roulette and baccarat, and that any betting on tennis is done outside their jurisdiction, nevertheless a Greek syndicate, which for three years has ruled supreme over the baccarat tables at Deauville and Cannes announced today that it has five million francs it is willing to wager on Mlle. Lenglen against one million francs on Miss Wills. Even money in small and large amounts that the California girl does not win five games in two sets is the most frequent bet.

Both Miss Wills and Mlle. Lenglen have showed great annoyance on learning of the reports of the heavy betting, but Helen, with her usual philosophy, remarked to the guests at a tea: "I suppose you cannot prevent gamblers from betting on anything. But it seems rather incongruous that the tennis activities of two young women are treated like a racetrack feature or a boxing match."

Suzanne, dancing at the Cannes Casino, remarked to her partner: "It is so silly; but I am pleased to see that I am a five to one favorite."

There is much discontnent among the English and American cameramen over the sale of the exclusive picture rights, which is said to have been for $100,000, and they are arranging to "shoot" the match from the top of nearby buildings and other vantage points.

Two thousand extra seats are being erected, and the price of tickets for Saturday and Sunday has doubled, but, even so, speculators are reaping a harvest and are offering best reserved seats for ten times the original price.

AMERICAN TENNIS OFFICIALS TELL HELEN TO "CARRY ON"

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—American tennis officials tonight cabled Miss Helen Wills, now appearing in a tournament at Cannes, France, to continue play, after reciving a message from her asking their advice following reports that there had been widespread gambling and commercialization in connection with her anticipated meeting with Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen.

FULLER SAYS HELEN HAS GOOD CHANCE WITH LENGLEN

BERKELEY, Cal., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Betting odds which make Suzanne Lenglen, world's tennis champion, a five to one favorite over Helen Wills, American title holder, are described as "ridiculous" by William C. "Pop" Fuller, veteran coach who is largely responsible for Miss Wills' great success.

Discussing the coming net battle of the two stars in France, "Pop" said today the American champion has a much better chance than many of the critics are willing to concede. Foreign authorities, he said, never have seen Miss Wills play her real game.

While not predicting a victory for his charge, Fuller issued a warning not to "get the idea that the match will be any walk-over," for Mlle. Lenglen.

"We know what Helen can do 'under fire'," he said, "and I am confident that she will play the greatest game of her career against the French star.

"I had a long talk with Miss Wills before she left and together we outlined her campaign of battle if she should step on the court opposite Suzanne.

"Her game will be centered around a hard-hitting, driving attack and she will attempt to keep her rival from the net where she is so deadly. A lobbing game against Suzanne in singles would be suicide and Helen knows this.

"Miss Wills realizes that she can not match Mlle. Lenglen in ability to cover court—being much slower of foot—and this means that she will have to put added speed on her shots."

VON ELM TO PLAY ON WALKER CUP GOLF TEAM

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—Acceptance of an invitation by George Von Elm of Los Angeles, Cal., to play next summer as a member of the American Walker cup team at the St. Andrew's links, Scotland, virtually assures this country representation by a full team of eight players for the international match, the United States Golf association announced today.

Von Elm's acceptance was considered doubtful, owing to the cost of the trip and demands of business on his time. The California star was finalist in the amateur championship two years ago and was in the semi-finals at Oakmont last season.

Although formal acceptance by Bobby Jones of Atlanta, Ga., is still awaited by the U. S. G. A., the national champion has indicated he intends to make the trip abroad. Other members of the team are Watts Gunn of Atlanta, Ga., beaten in the finals last years by Jones, Roland Mackensie of Washington, D. C., Bob Gardner of Chicago, Jess Sweetser of New York, Jessie Guilford and Francis Ouimet of Boston.

HORNSBY MADE DIRECTOR OF ST. LOUIS CARDINALS

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 9—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, playing manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and voted the most valuable National League player in 1925, was elected a director of the club at the annual meeting today.

Sam Breadon, was re-elected president nd Branch Rickey was re-named vice business and business manager. Clarence F. Lloyd was elected secretary and William G. De Witt treasurer, succeeding H. W. Mason, who resigned as secretary-treasurer. Lloyd was formerly traveling secretary. Hornsby succeeds Mason as director.

CHALLENGES GALORE FOR NORWICH'S CHECKER CHAMP

Sports Editor:

"Regarding Mr. Lariviere's checker challenge, would say that he can be accomodated at the Checker Club, 73 Main St., anytime he can find time or wishes to play. He can name his own stakes; fun, money or marbles and will find not one, but several at the above address only too willing to get a chance at his so-called championship. There is no one in this club who knows where he won it."

"KID" BROAD, HELD FOR DEATH OF "TIGER" SMITH

STAMFORD, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A hemorrhage of the dura, between the brain and the skull, which "might have been brought about by a blow to the head," was the cause of the death of Joshua (Tiger) Smith, of Norwalk, last night three hours after he fought four rounds of a scheduled eight round bout with Walter Broderick, an autopsy today disclosed. Broderick, known in boxing circles as "Kid" Broad, arrested on a charge of manslaughter was released in bond of $1,000 pending an inquest by Coroner J. J. Phelan.

The autopsy was performed by Dr. George Sherlill, medical examiner, and Dr. Bruce Weaver, who found that Smith had been in good shape physically.

State Athletic Commissioner Donohue who came here this afternoon to investigate Smith's death examined those who were interested with the exception of the referee, Young Mc Auliffe, of Bridgeport. Mr. Donohue went there late today to see Mc Auliffe.

As told to the commissioner, Smith had been examined by Dr. R. Rowell about 3 o'clock last night and found to have been physically fit to go on. During the first two rounds of the fight, Smith had the better of his opponent. After the third round he complained to his seconds that his hands were bothering him and wanted to quit. Being prevailed upon to bluff out another round Smith went through the fourth, and refused to continue the fight, the referee awarding the decision to Broad.

While sitting on the stool in his corner, Smith suddenly collapsed. Unconscious he was taken to the dressing room where he was examined by Dr. Everett Rowell, who ordered him taken to the Stamford hospital. Smith died three hours later.

DONOHUE CONDUCTS INQUIRY ON DEATH OF BOXER

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 9—(AP)—Boxing Commissioner Thomas Donohue, of New London, while visiting here tonight stated that he had conducted an investigation into the death of "Tiger" Smith, South Norwalk negro boxer, who died in the Stamford hospital following injuries received in a bout with Kid Broad there last night. The commissioner took the testimony of several spectators at the bout, seconds of the deceased boxer, and Dr. Rodney W. Rowell. He questioned Referee Henry Gerrity here tonight.

Dr. Rowell told Commissioner Donohue that he examined Smith at 7 o'clock Monday night and found him physically perfect. Dr. Rowell later attended Smith at the Stamford hospital.

Referee Gerrity informed the commissioner that the bout was not one-sided as reported as that Broad had only a slight edge in ability over Smith. In his testimony Gerrity stated: "The bell rang for the fifth round and Smith failed to leave his corner. I beckoned to him and he called me to his corner, informing me that his finger was hurt and that he could not place the responsibility or determine the cause of Smith's death, pending an autopsy and the coroner's inquest."

QUINN WANTS PLAYERS WITH "FIGHTING HEART"

BOSTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—President Robert Quinn of the Boston Red Sox, is looking for young ball players with a "fighting heart."

"I'd like to get a few young fellows with the sort of temperament that Mike Donlin had when he joined the Giants as a rookie," Quinn told newspapermen. Mike had not been with the club more than three or four days when he was kicking the bats around the club house to the general annoyance of Jesse Burkett.

"You're the freshest kid I've ever seen'," Quinn said Burkett had snarled.

"'Zat so?' returned Donlin. 'Well you'll have to get used to me because I'm going to be around here a long time'."

"As long as the banks hold out well continue to search for players with the fighting heart," said Quinn.

UZCUDUN KNOCKS OUT "SOLDIER" JONES OF CANADA

PARIS Feb. 9.—(AP)—Paoline Uzcudun, the Spanish heavyweight boxing champion, knocked out "Soldier" Jones, of Toronto, Canada, in the first round of their 12 round bout at the Cirque de Paris tonight.

"HAIR-GROOM"

Keeps Hair Combed, Glossy
Well-Groomed all Day

"Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which costs only a few cents a jar at any drug store. Millions use it because it gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to the hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. Even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is greaseless; also helps grow thick, heavy, lustrous hair.

MULDOON REFUSES OFFICE AND FARLEY IS ELECTED HEAD OF N. Y. COMMISSION

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—William Muldoon 81 year old authority on boxing and wrestling, today declined the chairmanship of the New York state athletic commission and James A. Farley, of Stony Point, N. Y., was re-elected for another term of one year. Muldoon and Farley cast the only votes, George Brower, of New York, third member of the commission, being absent.

Under the rotation plan observed by the board in former years, Muldoon was eligible for the chairmanship which he held up to February, 1926, when he succeeded by Governor Smith it was announced yesterday.

Indication that the general policy of the commission will be maintained this year was seen in notification to the chief usher at Madison Square Garden that he would be held partly responsible for observance of the board's rule against smoking in Tex Rickard's new arena. Spectators have been surreptitiously violating the rule, which Rickard has vainly attempted to have rescinded.

Mike McTigue, former light heavyweight champion, appeared before the board to accept a challenge by Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., to fight in Madison Square Garden on March 15 for the privilege of opposing Paul Berlenbach in a championship match. McTigue made his acceptance conditional upon the willingness of Berlenbach to face the winner within thirty days.

A welterweight title challenge to Mickey Walker, filed by Joe Dundee of Baltimore with the usual certified check of $2,500 was rejected on the ground that six months have not expired since Walker defended his crown against Dave Shade.

The board filed a letter from Chick Suggs, New Bedford, Mass., in which Suggs offered to meet any bantam chosen by the commissioners and olaced Joe Ryder of New York on the ineligible list for thirty days after he had announced illness would prevent him from boxing the New England negro here next Monday.

Charley Rosen, New York lightweight, was suspended sixty days for failure to make weight for a match tonight with Mickey Brown, forcing cancellation of the show. A match between Tommy Ryan and Midget Smith at Buffalo, N. Y., February 15, was approved.

John Reisler, manager of boxers, whose last appearance before the commission was followed by a rough and tumble fight in which Reisler's son and Referee Patsy Haley figured, was restored to good standing, Reisler's son will remain under suspension indefinitely however.

WESTERLY

DAVID JOHNSON NAYLOR'S FUNERAL HELD TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 9—Funeral services for David Johnson Naylor, Civil war naval veteran and owner of bravery medals, who died at his home in Potter Hill, R. I., Sunday, were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from his late home. Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church of Westerly, conducted the service which was largely attended. Committal services at River Bend cemetery, were in charge of Franklin lodge, No. 30, F. and A. M., of Westerly, with Worshipful Clarence A. Vars master, and Past Master William H. Clapham, acting chaplain. Not only was Mr. Naylor the oldest member of Franklin lodge in which he had held membership for 59 years, but at the time of his death he was also the oldest member of Palmer chapter, No. 28, Royal Arch Masons, of Pawcatuck.

The bearers were all ex-service men being Julian T. Crandall and Frank M. Hill, of Ashaway, and Harold T. Lowe and Wilfred Barber, of Hope Valley. At the grave "Taps" were sounded on the bugle by Frank M. Hill, of Gordon Greene post, American legion, of Hopkinton.

Records in the office of the Westerly town clerk are as follows:

Feb. 3. Richard J. Butler to Antone Genese and wife, Mary Genese, lot or parcel of land on south side of highway, known as Bradford road, lots Nos. 47 and 48, plan of building sites of Rhode Island Granite works.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Mrs. Dorothy Dubois Scott, 40, died at her home on North Main street, Saturday after several weeks illness. Besides her husband, Frank Scott, she leaves three daughters, Mrs. James Doyle of Springfield, Mass., Mrs. John Hanley and Mrs. Joseph Morin of Stafford Springs. She also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Derosier of Norwich and Mrs. J. DeFossee of Stafford Springs. The funeral was held at St. Edward's church Monday morning at nine o'clock. Rev. Felix J. O'Neill read the requiem mass and burial was in St. Edwards' cemetery.

The funeral of Emelio Cini was held at St. Edward's church Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. F. J. O'Neill officiated and burial was in St. Edward's cemetery.

Write it on the ice!

THIS talk about you "never could smoke a pipe" . . . write it on the ice! Sure, you can smoke a pipe. It's just a matter of picking the packing. Dig up that old jimmy-pipe and start fresh . . . with Prince Albert. That's the prescription that has brought pipe-joy to millions.

P. A. is so genuinely friendly. It hits your smoke-spot in deep center right off the bat. Doesn't bite your tongue or parch your throat, because the Prince Albert process said "nix on the rough stuff" right at the beginning. Just cool contentment in every puff—the urge to load up and light up again and again.

Prince Albert is great tobacco. You recognize that the instant you pull that cool, comforting smoke into your system. So fragrant that jimmy-pipes are more than welcome in "the best room in the house." So full-bodied and satisfying that you want to hit it up from morning to midnight. And do!

Don't put off till tomorrow what you can smoke today. Get a tidy red tin of P. A. now. Snap back the hinged lid and release that wonderful fragrance. Tamp a load into the bowl of your jimmy-pipe and light up. Now you've got it . . . that taste. Say—isn't that the goods, now?

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

You Can Lose Several Pounds a Week!

Safely, Easily—with SAN-GRI-NA

"SAN-GRI-NA is one of the most wonderful discoveries ever made, because while it reduces you, at the same time it greatly improves your health and vitality". People who have taken SAN-GRI-NA and reduced state that most of their ills disappeared after they had followed the treatment only a few days.

SAN-GRI-NA is the latest way of reducing—the most sensible and the safest. You should not use remedies which have been on the market for years to take off your excess fat. Most of these remedies have never changed their formula and they do not contain the latest ingredients discovered by scientists to safely remove unhealthy, flabby FAT. SAN-GRI-NA is the most up-to-date formula science has to offer. It has been endorsed by physicians nurses, hundreds of grateful patients and it is advised and recommended by Dr. Rudolph, former health commissioner as positively effective and absolutely harmless.

Most cases of reducing vary from three to five pounds a week. There is nothing secret about SAN-GRI-NA — nothing magic—nothing done over night, but a steady loss of FAT and a steady gain in health. Ask some people you know who have reduced, what they took. The answer will invariably be SAN-GRI-NA! Sold at all reliable drug stores or you can send direct to The Scientific Research Laboratories, 1841 Broadway, N. Y. C.

"I lost 56 pounds with SAN-GRI-NA," says Miss Ulbrich of Philadelphia. "My own friends do not recognize me."

SAN-GRI-NA is guaranteed absolutely harmless, and positive to reduce you, or money refunded.

On sale at Lee and Osgood's, Dunn's or Morgan's Drug Stores.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The snow of the last three days of last week brought a sudden halt to local building operations, especially where work was of the exterior nature. Other work was held up for a day owing to the inability of the workmen to get to the job but this held for only a day and the interior work made fairly good progress.

Work at the Sheltering Arms has made exceptionally good progress during the past few weeks and the building is ready for plastering which has been started a temporary heating system having been installed.

The work at the Norwich State Hospital is practically completed and all that remains to be done on the new ward building is a few finishing touches to the interior.

Work on the numerous garages in Norwich was halted temporarily by the snow but was resumed this week. The work on remodeling the second story of the Fay building on Main street is well along and it will be only a short time before the building will be ready for occupancy.

At the office of Fire Marshal Stanton during the past week there were no building permits granted but a number of applications for new buildings were received. These applications were in the large majority for garages and alterations to present buildings. It is expected that as soon as the cold weather begins to break there will be a marked increase in the building activities in Norwich and the eastern part of the state.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 12 sales of real estate, 2 sales less than for the corresponding week in 1925. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $82,950 and $53,800.

The sales of real estate in New London during the past week numbered 12, exactly twice the number as were recorded during the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans, for the respective weeks were $70,321 and $102,750.

State Building Permits

A much higher rate of building activity prevailed in this state last week than was noted in the like week of 1925. As shown by the records for the leading cities and towns reported in these columns there was a sharp increase for the week both in the number of building permits issued and in the total estimated cost of construction. There were 136 permits granted for building work costing $772,791. These figures represent an increase of nearly 100 per cent. over the like week last year. Important gains were made in Hartford and New Haven, with practically all of the cities and towns reporting slight increases.

NEW LONDON

Plans have been completed for three more houses on the water front off from Pequot avenue, to be erected in the near future by Hardwick & Walter, 340 State street. The houses will be of cottage type, containing six rooms each, with steam heat and other conveniences. The first of a series of houses to be erected by this firm on their Pequot avenue development is now being plastered.

The permit has been issued to M. Friedman for additions and alterations to be made at 217 Huntington street.

The house has been inclosed which Silas Maxson, Jr., 233 Bank street, is erecting in the rear of Montauk avenue.

Plans have been prepared by architects and engineers, for alterations at 106 Green street for Roman Wieczorek. It is proposed to raise the present building seven feet to provide for a store on the first floor. The new construction will be of brick.

The contract has been awarded to Everett Watrous, Groton, for the erection of the cottage on Squire street for Silas Maxson, Jr., 233 Bank St. The house, which will be arranged for one family, is now being framed.

Work has been started on a garage on Marshall place for Philip and Marie M. Grove. John B. Leary, 322 Coleman street, has the contract for the work. It is understood that Mr. Leary will also erect a residence on the site for the same owners.

BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED IN WESTERLY DURING LAST WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Feb. 8—With such a heavy fall of snow in Westerly as characterized the first week in February, 1926, it may seem a bit presumptious to think of outdoor construction work, but since the last of January, 1926, Westerly Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi has granted permits for the construction of a bungalow and also a large fire-proof commercial storage and service garage in the business section. At the beaches permits for two two-car garages, one near Pleasant View and the other at Watch Hill, where a servants' dormitory is also to be constructed. At Atlantic Beach permission has been given for the addition of a second story and piazza to the store in the business district just east of the Atlantic Beach casino.

Pawcatuck

In Pawcatuck on the two recently granted permits by Pawcatuck Zoning Commissioners George R. McKenna, John F. Gallagher and William S. Crandall, one for a two-car garage for Max Lahn on Hillside avenue and the other for a one-story brick business block for the estate of Morris Soloveitzik, the cold weather has forced a suspension of activity after the brick side walls had been raised but a few tiers at 6 Mechanic street.

Westerly zoning permits granted for the first week in February:

Feb. 1, George Hunter, Mountain avenue extension, bungalow residence 30x36 feet, Peter Nardone, contractor.

Feb. 1, Joseph A. Morrone, 125 Main street, fire-proof commercial garage, at 86 Main street, 58x75 feet with 15 foot front elevation and 12 foot rear, brick walls, steel sashes, tar and gravel roof, and cement floor, fronting on new set-back line, 30 foot centerline from street.

Feb. 1, Mrs. Albert Lanphear, Hartford, Two-car garage, Misquamicut Park, Pleasant View, Luigi Leone, contractor.

Feb. 4, James Pucci R. F. D., No. 1, Bradford, R. I. Second story addition and piazza to store at Atlantic beach, east of Atlantic Beach Casino.

Feb. 4, J. M. Goetchius, 243 Madison avenue, New York, two-car garage and servants dormitory on property corner of Everett and Wauswinnett avenue, Watch Hill, property of heirs of Anthony D. Bullock.

Building Permits

M. Freidman, additions and alterations, 217 Huntington street.

Marie M. Grove, garage, Marshall place, $400.

Number of permits issued for the week 2; estimated cost of buildings, $1,900.

OAKDALE

The Oliver Woodworth Co., have the contract for a large chlorinating plant at the Oakdale plant of the Massasoit Manufacturing Co. The building will be of concrete construction, 18x65 feet, one story high. Under the building and forming its foundation will be two reinforced concrete tanks together about 16 feet wide and extending the length of the building. These will be designed as settling and mixing tanks. There will also be a concrete roof.

NOANK

Eugene MacDonald has the contract for extensive alterations to the interior of the Third District town hall. The work consists of refinishing the interior walls, strengthening the galleries, replacing the seats.

COLUMBIA

Columbia had its share of the snow that fell last Thursday. The bus carrying the mail and high school pupils was able to get through on all its trips nearly on schedule time. The parcel post carrier also made his entire trips with the aid of a couple of horses and a wood sled. Some of the local schools were in session half a day Thursday, at others the teachers were unable to get there. The bus from Colchester to Willimantic, which usually makes four trips daily through here, made the first trip Thursday morning, and did not get out again until Monday morning. The state snow plow kept the main road open between here and Willimantic, but encountered such drifts near the town line of Hebron that it took them nearly 24 hours to get through.

About 16 friends of William Wolff paid him a surprise visit Monday evening in honor of his birthday. The party was arranged by Mrs. Wolff. A large package was presented to Mr. Wolff by his guests. He was finally rewarded when he got to the "core" of the bundle by finding a $5 bill.

STORRS EGG PRODUCTION CONTINUES TO FALL

For the third consecutive week, egg production fell off at Storrs. There was a decrease of 127 eggs during the fifteenth week of competition, with the 1,400 pullets laying almost forty-two per cent. The total lay for the week was 4,194 eggs, which represents a gain of 632 eggs when compared with the production for the corresponding week a year ago. Severe weather during the past three weeks has been the principal cause for the drop in egg production experienced in the contest flock. A grand total of 54,754 eggs have been laid to date.

Repeating their performance of a week ago, the Dudley Poultry Farm White Leghorns from Webster, Mass., shelled out a total of fifty-one eggs for the best score of the week. The Massachusetts Leghorns had to share first position on the honor roll with a New Jersey pen of the same breed, however, as Henry Rapp's entry from Farmingdale came through with a like score of fifty-one eggs. A pen of Rhode Island Reds entered by F. E. Freeman from Middletown, Ohio, came a close second for the week with a production of fifty eggs.

Another pen of Rhode Island Reds, entered by George B. Treadwell from Spencer, Mass., was third for the week with a lay of forty-nine eggs. The Barred Rock entry of The Ramblers Farm from Monsey, N. Y., was fourth for the week with a production of forty-six eggs.

The Dudley Poultry Farm Leghorns are laying heavily now, and are gaining on the Rhode Island Red entry of John Z. LaBelle from Ballouville, Conn., which to date is the high pen in the contest. LaBelle's Reds have a total of 688 eggs to their credit, while the Dudley Poultry Farm Leghorns made a record of 656 eggs. This gives the Reds a thirty-two egg lead over the Leghorns.

There was but one change among the leading pens, and that took place in the White Leghorn class. The entries of the Marquis Poultry Farm from Toms River, N. J., and Amaskasin Farm from Yonkers, N. Y., went up into third and fourth places respectively, while the entry of Toivonen Leghorn Farm from Girard, Pa., went down to fifth position.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes
The Locusts, West Cornwall, Conn.	482
Obed G. Knight, Bridgeton, R. I.	463
Barred Rocks
Edgar Stoughton, Wapping, Conn.	446

YANTIC

Yantic was a most fortunate little village in regard to the old fashioned blizzard that blew in last Thursday. Snow plows kept the trolley line open and while cars did not maintain the regular half hour schedule they ran into the village at every hour. The Central Vermont railway trains were not a half hour late and telephone service was perfect. The state highway employes kept the main highways well cleared and a horse drawn snow plow furnished by the American Woolen company cleared the streets. Very little traveling was done except of necessity and if there is any truth in the old adage "If February gives much snow a fine summer is due for show" nobody will mind this bit of inconvenience.

Chaplain Baker of the Submarine base occupied the pulpit in Grace church at Sunday's service.

Mrs. Feliz Malunas was taken to the W. W. Backus hospital Sunday morning for an operation.

The measles and whooping cough are still keeping many children from attending school.

The dance given Friday evening by the Yantic fire engine company was well attended. Shelby's orchestra furnished the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bennett of Kitemang spent Sunday with Mrs. Bishop's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steward Bishop.

Miss Elizabeth Kempton has returned to her home here for a brief stay, after spending the past ten days in New York.

Miss Helen Reid has returned to Hartford, after spending the week end at her home here.

ELLINGTON

Mrs. Lucy A. McKinstry, 76, well known resident of Ellington, died Friday morning at her home on East School street after an illness of several weeks, of heart trouble. She was born in Tariffville, August 30, 1849, daughter of John and Eunice Bancroft Allen. She married March 17, 1870, Alexander McKinstry, a prosperous farmer of this place, who died January 17, 1909. He was a descendant of Rev. John McKinstry, who came to Ellington in 1730 as the first minister of the Congregational church here. Mrs. McKinstry was a member of Rockville Methodist church and of Burpee post, Women's Relief Corps. She leaves a son, John McKinstry, of Ellington; a grandson, John McKinstry, of New Britain, son of the late George McKinstry, and a great-grandson, Sterling Cooley, of Rockville. The funeral was held at the home Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. Burial was in the McKinstry cemetery in Ellington where six generations of McKinstrys are buried.

BLACK HILL

As a result of the severe storm which drove them out of the swamps where they sometimes pass the winter a flock of at least 50 robins were seen at Birchwood Farms recently.

Roger Brown spent the week end with his parents.

All the available men are busy opening the roads.

Miss Ruth Moore is spending a few days with her parents.

Stanley Brown injured his knee while coasting recently.

Beanie Cornell is substituting for Stanley as engineer and chauffeur.

Compared with the amount a man wants it is surprising how little he can actually get along with.

BENJ. JAMES BOUND OVER, BAIL $5,000, ON ASSAULT CHARGE, AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 9—Benjamin James, a negro, who last August was employed in New London, but who since has been avoiding the police in New York and in Providence, undertook to escape detention but was bound over under bail of $5,000 for appearance before the superior court at the May term. He was charged in the police court this morning with a felonious assault upon a girl of 14, at whose home he was a roomer for a time while employed here. The negro pleaded not guilty and took what chance there was for him to convince Judge Prince that the stories that had been told to the police and which had been checked up to the minutest detail were the imaginings of some one, and that he was not guilty as alleged. In default of bail he was committed to jail. The child, for she is still only a girl of school age between sobs related enough of the vile story to convince the court what she might relate if she revealed the whole of the tale of abuse to which she had been subjected. There were other witnesses present but they were not called except Mrs. Jane Cassidy, the police woman who has been instrumental in ferreting out the details of the story and in listening to the recital of the child concerned. Police Sergeant Smith obtained from the girl the whole recital of the circumstances under which the developments came that led to the pursuit and arrest of James. The negro, on the witness stand, called upon God to witness his statements and protested that he was innocent, but he did not have the knowledge that the police possessed the information that had been given them. The girl had been adopted by a black woman who was employed about New London hotels and while this woman was thus engaged the negro had his chance to assault the child. She was an attendant at the grammar school here and was a familiar figure to several of the policemen as she went to and from her studies. James has since then married and has been residing in Providence where he has craftily concealed himself. It is understood that the child was given in adoption at Willimantic, though that might seem to be something that would be impossible. The parents of the child are white and reside in North Stonington, though not under the name by which the child is now known.

James is evidently depending upon an element in the community to support his contention that he is innocent which is not likely to go to his relief. As the facts dawn upon him that the state is in possession of all the details of his crime he will be apt to recede from the position he has taken and to thank his good fortune that he does not reside south of Mason and Dixon line where fellows of his sort are safer in prison than in the freedom of unrestricted liberty

Harry Hertz, who says he is the president of the New London Republican club, who has rooms in the former Ahlheimer building at 3 Railroad avenue, was with six men found in the place at 4 o'clock this morning, prosecuted for keeping a place which was, and was reputed to be, a gambling place. The place was raided at that hour by Lieut. James C. Sullivan and three police officers, and they took away with them when they left everyone found in the rooms visited. Charles Nahass was brought about the prosecution. He went to the police station hot-footed from the alleged gambling rooms and complained that he had been robbed in gambling of $40 of the $42 he had when he went into the club. He accompanied the raiding officers to the place and told of his experience. "Stud poker," he said, was the game played, and it was at that seductive shuffling of the cards that he was fleeced. Lieut. Sullivan told the court that he had been told by one of the police officers that the Hertz place was a gambling joint. The lieutenant ordered Patrolman Daniels to keep a watch on the place last January 23d, the day after the information came to the lieutenant, but though Daniels was stationed near the club entrance he could not get a line on any gambling. He entered the place on several occasions but there was nothing in sight that was not in accordance with law. Hertz objected to the presence of the policeman at the very door of the entrance and went to the police lieutenant with his grievance. Lieut. Sullivan asked why there was objection if the place was conducted as a club and there was nothing unlawful transpiring there. He declared on the witness stand that Hertz replied, "The presence of an officer hurts my business." Daniels was kept on duty on Railroad avenue after that. But farther than what was said that the place was a gambling place there was no evidence except that of Nahass. Hertz himself and two sailors of the coast guard declared that Nahass was lying, when he represented that he was in the Hertz rooms and that he had gambled there and lost money. They said he positively was not in the rooms. Hertz went so far as to say that Nahass came to the entrance door in which has a wicket that can be opened from the inside and which affords a view of any applicant for admission. Hertz said he looked out and saw Nahass at the door and then refused to admit him, as Nahass had before squealed when he had gambled and claimed than also that he had lost $40. The sailors represented that they were the guests of Charlie Bronstein, a "member" of the club and that they went there to pass away time and played rummy and read newspapers until 4 o'clock when the police appeared. So the testimony of Nahass stood practically alone and was not of a nature to convict Hertz when he was supported in his testimony by two others who claimed Nahass was not in the place. Prosecutor Hollandersky made a determined effort to secure conviction of the alleged keeper and the frequenters as well, but that result did not follow his argument to the court.

Mrs. Cornelius Lynch and infant daughter, of 8 West street, were patients dismissed today at Lawrence-Memorial associated hospital.

The property formerly owned by Miss Georgianna Gatter, located on the easterly side of the Niantic river road, Waterford, has been sold to Harry and Sadie Smith. Miss Gatter died about two years ago.

Olive J. Wolff has sold a dwelling, corner of Lincoln avenue and Lincoln court, to James and Katherine J. Bobgein.

One of the Groton & Stonington Traction company's trolley cars and a commercial truck owned by the New London Fruit & Produce company, Bank street, were in collision this morning on the New London approach to the Thames river highway bridge. The truck which was in charge of Joseph F. Hague, escaped damage, but the trolley car was put out of commission.

The Chamber of Commerce today received a despatch from Elvina Colby, Somerville, Mass., stating that the barge Sakonett was en route to New London from Newport News, Va., and that a member of the crew of the coal laden craft was Edwin M. Sanborn. A request was made of the Chamber of Commerce to cause Sanborn to call his mother by telephone at Somerville in a matter of vital importance. Secretary James G. Hammond, of the chamber caused the police to handle the request with the result that the Thames Tugboat company made it known that the barge had already arrived in port and had been towed to Allyn's Point where the craft's cargo was being discharged. The Towboat company officials communicated with Sanborn, informing him of the nature of the despatch.

Miss Edna L. Tyler, president of the New London League of Women Voters, has returned from New York, where she attended a special matinee of Tosca, at the Metropolitan Opera house, given under the auspices of the New York city League of Women Voters, Friday, which realized $7,000. Another well-known worker in attendance was Miss Katherine M. Ludington, a summer resident of Old LLyme, treasurer of the national League of Women Voters. Miss Ludington was a boxholder at the performance. Madame Jeritza and Martinelli had the leading roles with Scotti in the role of Baron Scarpia.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs Carlos Barry, Stone Acre, Quaker Hill, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Katherine Barry to Lieut. Com. Henry Danch, commander of the destroyer Downes, of the United States Coast Guard, local section base, No. 4, State Pier. Lieut. Com. Danch graduated from the local Coast Guard academy, in 1911 and is a native of Detroit, Mich. The wedding will take place place Feb 23.

Announcement is made of the marriage last Saturday of Walter Larsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Larsen, 63 Raymond street, and Miss Emily Champion daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Champion, 376 Jefferson avenue. The wedding was solemnized by Rev. C. S. M. Stewart at the residence of the clergyman, 21 Brooks street. The bridegroom was unattended, but Miss Marion Fuego was the bride's attendant. Mr. and Mrs. Larsen are making their future home at 17 Cliff street.

Miss Charlotte Lucia Woodruff, daughter of Councilor and Mrs. Albert C. Woodruff, 51 Fremont street, will become a bride within a few months for at a dinner party at the residence of the parents of the bride-to-be last evening announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Woodruff to Robert Skinner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Skinner, Roland Park, Baltimore, Md.

The town of Groton is to force the delinquent men and women of the borough, eligible to pay poll tax, to make such payment in the immediate future, for Personal Tax Collector J. Morgan Adams today handed the names of 40 delinquents to Prosecuting Attorney Warren B. Burrows. The names handed the prosecuting agent are from a list of several hundred residents who refuse to pay the tax. If delinquents are forced to make payment through prosecution it will mean that the poll tax will be about $18 instead of $3.

The funeral of Joseph Guerin, former veteran employe of the F. H. & A. H. Chappell company, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev Raymond O'Callahan. The bearers were James Kelley, William Guerin, William Walsh, John Sheehan, Patrick Gray and James Doran. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Samuel Ward, a sailor, stationed at the local section base, coast guard, was taken into custody this afternoon by Traffic Officer Frank Linehan when he started to essay the role of a "sheik." His portrayal of the role was of short duration, however, for he was quickly landed in a cell charged with intoxication.

Oaker Hill, a carpenter who has been arrested a score of times, mostly for intoxication, is a prisoner at the police station tonight on a charge of drunkenness and will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. Hill was on John street this afternoon and finally fell face down on the sidewalk. Patrolmen John Courtney and Henry Tack took charge of him as he was helpless and unable to proceed further with safety.

Miss Frances Mitchell, secretary to Superintendent of Schools Warren B. Hanson, is enjoying her annual vacation.

County Commissioner George Bradford, Montville, is at Miami, Fla., where he intends to remain the balance of the winter.

Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Young, 97 Linden street, are entertaining Mrs. Edward Davis, New York, formerly of New London.

The executor of the will of the late Georgianna Gatter, of Waterford, who was the best friend dumb animals in this section had, today, sold a house and land on the east side of Niantic river to Harry and Sadie Smith.

It is estimated that the removal of snow and ice has cost the city of New London more than far this winter than it expended the entire winter of 1924-25. The late storm left a large volume of snow on the ground and then moisture enough followed so that the snow became ice in a large degree. The past three days teams and men in the employ of the city have been engaged in the removal of the snow and ice from the principal business streets. The work has been practically completed as far as these streets are to be cleared.

Morris Furth's family is removing from Cole street to the Hovey house in Prospect street.

Miss Smart, probation officer of the Long Lane Farm at Middletown, was in New London today, attending a session of the police court.

The ice companies have their storage houses filled this winter, something they seldom have at this time of the year. The dealers declare that they usually get a good supply in January, but they have had to depend upon a cutting in February, something that will not happen this year. All the coves and ponds are now frozen so that there is excellent skating but the young folks do not seem to take to it as in years past.

It is claimed that there is less employment for women in New London now than there has been at any time in recent years. And why this is true no one seems to account for. The yeatursnits are not as busy as they are in the summer time, but otherwise there seems to have been little change. The machine shops are now operating five and a half days a week, which is a more extended working period than the shops have known in many months. It seems to be universal opinion that spring will bring a greater volume of business than has been known in many years.

The police will, it is understood, be asked to make a greater effort than ever to have snow removed from the sidewalks as soon as it falls in the future.

The frame of a three-decker house which Nathan Pumerantz is erecting on Montauk avenue, near Willetta avenue, has been raised and will be closed in during the week.

The Chronic Cough

—when caused by some irritation or congestion of the tissues of the air passages—is not only soothed and controlled, but a complete recovery is often made possible by PERTUSSIN.

POLICE CHECKING UP ALL NEGLECTED SIDEWALKS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 9—(AP)—Following the edict of Captain of Police Charles A. Finney that all patrolmen render a daily report at the police station of all sidewalks on the beats of the respective officers considered unsafe because of ice and snow, the patrolmen made numerous reports last night and this morning, and this forenoon the reports were handed over to the department of public safety. One of the reports stated that the sidewalks at the corner of Elm street and Garfield avenue and on Garfield and Jefferson avenues, owned by George S. Prest, were in an extremely dangerous condition, no attempt having been made to cause the removal of the snow and ice. Another report stated that the sidewalk in front of the property of the Advent church, Blackhall street, where work is in progress on the erection of a church, is also in a condition to endanger the safety of pedestrians. A third report showed that the sidewalk in front of the property of Nicholas Andrella, 81 Jefferson avenue, was in a dangerous condition. Other reports stated that at the corner of Bank and Summer streets, Washington street, near State street, Starr and Pearl streets and walks of property owned by Abraham Bronstein, of New York, located on Pearl and Tilley streets, were covered with ice and had not been sanded or provided with any protection tending to safeguard pedestrians.

TRYING TO FIX PRICE OF THE GAVITT PROPERTY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 9—A continued hearing of the board of compensation took place this afternoon in the council chamber, municipal building for the purpose of further discussing the proposed establishment of a building line on the west side of Bank street, between State and Tilley streets. The meeting was attended by a number of property owners on Bank street, who will be effected by the change in property line, if such is established, and it probably will be as the city officials have long contemplated such a move. The property owners were, for the most part, represented by counsel. The greater part of the hearing was consumed in considering the property of Frederick H. Gavitt, familiarly known as the Hotel Royal. Assessor Frederick C. Burrows was the first witness called and in reply to an interrogative by counsel for Mr. Gavitt, stated that he considered $7,251 a fair and just value of that portion of the Gavitt property to be taken by the city. James May stated that he believed that the assessment was exorbitant and that he believed Mr. Gavitt would be damaged 4,000 by the taking of the property. The hearing was not concluded, but will be resumed later in the month.

FREEMAN'S ADVICE RENEWS INLAND WATERWAYS INTEREST

Information which Congressman Richard P. Freeman of New London elected upon the subject of inland waterways while he was abroad last summer, has enabled him to make recommendations to the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association and other similar organizations which has stimulated them to boom inland water transportation as a way to ease the transportation problems now facing the country.

The Atlantic association has for its object the completion of an inland water route along the Atlantic coast from Maine to Florida. The Ohio Valley Improvement association is back of the work of developing traffic on the Mississippi and its tributaries. The construction of new locks and dams along the stretches of the Ohio river between Pittsburgh and Louisville, making that river navigable between these two cities throughout the year, has given impetus to river traffic throughout the entire inland country. The government recently decided to deepen the channel of the Thames river from Allyn's Point to this city, a project that Congressman Freeman, and the business and industrial interests of Norwich have been trying to put through for years. With a wider and deeper channel in the Thames this city will continue to enjoy the advantage in freight rates for water borne freight.

Much of Congressman Freeman's stay abroad was spent in an intimate study of the inland water transportation facilities of central Europe. He returned greatly impressed by what he had seen, and submitted recommendations to water ways associations that he showed them would permit them to realize more fully on the possibilities of inland water way transportation. He also placed a wealth of information before the house committee on rivers and harbors, of which he is the ranking member and material produced by him is expected to take form in bills that the committee will present to congress during the present session.

Truck Hit Sedan

Slight damage to the left rear door of a sedan automobile owned by Edward Holton, of Groton, was done there Monday shortly after noon when the machine was struck a broadside blow by a heavy truck driven by Lawrence C. Hoffman, of Norwich. The accident occurred in Thames street, near Holton's market. Hoffman was attempting to turn the truck around in Thames street and drive into a nearby driveway. In backing out, the truck skidded, and struck the sedan a light, but sharp blow.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Coming to The Palace

Thursday night will see the start of the old fiddlers' contest that was postponed from last week. All those whose names were entered last week are advised to be on hand this week and report to the theatre at eight o'clock. The names of those participating will be announced Thursday morning. Bebe Daniels in The Splendid Crime, a comedy crook story with energetic Bebe dressed as a man and playing the role of the crook, shows that Bebe can do something else beside straight comedy roles. A five-act Paramount vaudeville bill and The Scarlet Streak will round out the program. The management announces another Broadway success in The Wanderer, which opens Sunday for four days. This picture, produced by Paramount, which made the Ten Commandments and billed as its successor, is waited for with interest.

TODAY'S EVENTS

The fourth anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XI. will be observed in Rome.

Knoxville, Tenn., has arranged for a celebration today to mark the beginning of its 125th year.

Charles W. Bryan, former governor of Nebraska and late democratic nominee for vice president, today enters upon his 50th year.

The 16th legislature of the province of Ontario convenes today for what is predicted in some quarters may be its final session.

William Mitchell, late colonel in the U. S. army, is to present his views on aviation in a country-wide lecture tour to start in New York today.

Denying a plea of Charles E. Hughes for postponement, Secretary Work has ordered that the hearings of the federal oil board on the petroleum industry shall begin today.

Sebequonash council, No. 11, D. of P., meets at 58 Broadway.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Breed Theatre

Two more days remain for local film fans to see the Universal romantic spectacle, the Phantom of the Opera, now playing at the Breed theatre. In this production, Lon Chaney, who is sometimes called "the man of a thousand faces" because of his penchant for playing strange and unusual roles, portrays the "Phantom," which he considered his weirdest and greatest.

In his supporting cast are Mary Philbin, Norman Kerry, many other well known screen actors and a huge cast. Rupert Julian directed the picture.

The great Paris Opera House was reproduced in all details for the mighty movie, from the subterranean lake five stories underground, where many of the fortuous devices of the mysterious shadow dweller are laid bare, to the great statue of Apollo that crowns the pinnacle.

The lively and gay scenes of the opera with its fashionable throngs and brilliant festivities have been filmed in actual color by the Technicolor camera.

Broadway Theatre

In producing "The Goose Woman," a Universal-Jewell which is now playing at the Broadway theater, last time today, Clarence Brown has proved that he is one of the foremost directors of the industry.

The clear-cut way in which he unravels the thrills in this suspense-creating vehicle, proves beyond a doubt Brown is one of the greatest dramatic technicians living. Not once does he hint at his secret sufficiently to destroy the state of excitement to which he has elevated his spectators.

It is mystery and a murder with a newspaper backing. The newspaper backing, by the way, is absolutely true to life—something unusual in the movies. Not once does a reporter run around with a notebook in hand.

The picture is not a hackneyed murder story, but is an unusual yarn of a woman's life—the Goose Woman. She is an opera singer. She has a child, losing her voice. In the years that pass she becomes a notorious drunkard under another name. When a murder is committed near her home she sees her name mentioned in the newspaper reports.

Louise Dresser plays the title role, giving one of the most outstanding characterizations of her versatile career. Jack Pickford upholds the family name on the screen and furnishes the love interest opposite the justly popular Constance Bennett.

Other members of the cast who do unusually good work are Spottiswood Aitken, George Cooper, Gustave Von Seyffertitz, George Nichols and Marc MacDermott.

Five unusually fine acts are on the same program, and it's Keith-Albee vaudeville

The last half of this week, Norwich friends of the now famous Al Laubscher and family, and others interested in real entertainment will have an opportunity to see them in a very novel and original offering. Two Greeneville stars, aged 7 and 9, Julia Zigaro and Mary Chioda will offer something unique. Four other acts also.

Palace Theatre

John Barrymore, in The Sea Beast, continues to draw record breaking houses at the Palace and many of the first nighters are coming back the second time. The true test of any attraction is the number of repeats it draws and The Sea Beast is proving that in this respect it is second to none that has appeared at this theatre.

Barrymore's acting alone holds the spectator spellbound and the stirring storm scenes as well as the exciting battles with Moby Dick are very well done. Considering the picture runs for nearly two hours without an intermission and not a single person has left the theatre until the final fade out, is proof enough that they are living the absorbing adventure they are seeing on the screen. The Sea Beast will be shown for the last times today. The matinee starts at two fifteen, with an Our Gang comedy, then Aesops Fables and this brings The Sea Beast on the silver sheet at two forty. In the evening the doors are open at the usual time, six thirty. The performance starts at 7:15 and The Sea Beast goes on at 7:50.

Capitol Theatre—Willimantic

With more old-fashioned dancers desiring to try the graceful figures of 25 years ago, there are now three dancing sets which have accepted the reversing challenge issued by John B. Ethridge, of Hartford, to engage in a contest of square and contra dances at the Capitol theatre, Willimantic, this (Wednesday) evening. As the situation stood Tuesday, the Ethridge set of six couples will compete against sets headed by John Wadsworth, of Mansfield; C. C. Lounsbury and Howard W. Green, of this city. They will dance to old time tunes played by Eugene Maynard, of Lebanon, champion fiddler of Connecticut. Manager George Barthete did not stop there, however, to give the patrons of the theatre their money's worth. The dance contest and the selections by Champion Maynard, would, in themselves, make an attraction, but added to this will be the appearance of John Collins, champion harmonica player of New England. Another big treat will be the presentation of Joseph Rogers, of the Lemus studios, who is fast gaining recognition as a dance prodigy. The boy is five years old, and his exhibition of the waltz clog and Charleston is extraordinary. By request, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bennett, of Phoenixville, will demonstrate the Jennie Lind polka, the famous dance of long ago. Special stage setting is being arranged.

New Incorporation

Papers of incorporation of the Lighthouse Inn Co., Inc., of New London, have been filed with the secretary of state at Hartford. The company will begin business with $5,000. Frederic W. Mercer, J. P. Taylor Armstrong and James P. Sullivan, all of New London are the incorporators.

SCOTLAND

The funeral of Alistair McGregor, who died at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, last Thursday, was held at the parlors of Avery and Van Zandt Sunday at 1 o'clock. Quite a number of neighbors and friends from here attended the service. The deceased was well known and highly respected, and his death came as a blow to the entire community. He is survived by his mother and a brother, John, both of this place.

Owing to the severe storm and traveling conditions, the grange meeting was omitted last Friday evening.

Mrs. Susan Willis is making an extended stay with relatives at New Britain.

On account of the storm of last Thursday the roads were badly blocked and the local school was closed for the rest of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Willoughby have recently had a radio installed in their home.

Rev. Paul Sanger returned here Saturday night, for the Sunday morning service. He also had charge of the evening meeting, which dealt with the observance of the work and fund of Dr. Francis E. Clark.

NOTICE TO ARCHITECTS
Plans and specifications invited for the erection of buildings for the Mansfield State Training School and Hospital, at Mansfield Depot, Conn.

In conformity with the provisions of Section 64 of the General Statutes, Revision of 1918, "An Act Regulating the Employment of Architects on Public Buildings," architects are hereby invited to submit competitive plans for the following:

General Requirements:
Item 1. A Dining Room building for employees; room for 200, with coat rooms, lavatories, serving room, kitchen; one story; floors, rubber tile.
Item 2. Addition to Storehouse. Two story; 40x60; concrete foundation; cement floor, first floor; brick walls; to be heated from central power plant.
Item 3. Cottage for physician. Seven room; brick veneer. To have its own heating plant.

Cost not to exceed as follows:
Item 1. $40,000.00.
Item 2. $10,000.00.
Item 3. $10,000.00.

The architect of the plans selected by the committee in charge will be employed to prepare the working drawings and specifications and to superintend the construction of the buildings. For his compensation he will receive the commission authorized by the American Institute of Architects. No compensation will be paid for plans not finally accepted.

An estimate of cost from some reliable contractor will be required to be submitted with each plan. All plans must be signed by the architect and deposited with the Comptroller of the State at his office in the Capitol, City of Hartford, not later than March 15th, 1926 at 12 o'clock noon, Standard Time.

The committee in charge, in accordance with law, will give a public hearing on said plans in Room 8, State Capitol, on the 15th day of March at 11 o'clock, A. M., Standard Time.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Dated at Hartford, Connecticut, this 3rd day of February, 1926.
FREDERICK M. SALMON, Comptroller.

ORATORICAL CONTESTS FOR STATE SECONDARY SCHOOLS

The state board of education in a circular letter to all high school principals, superintendents and supervising agents in the state calls attention to the third national oratorical contest for secondary schools. Prof. Walter D. Hood, principal of the Gilbert school, Winsted, is state manager.

Henry A. Tirrell, principal of the Free Academy, is in charge of the New London county district.

The letter outlines the rules and requirements of the contest and sets forth the cash prizes that will be awarded to the county winners and the first three in the state contest and the free trip to Europe that is the grand prize for each of the seven speakers in the final contest in Washington.

The list of main regulations governing the contests throughout the state are brought to the attention of school heads in the circular, which has been prepared by Franklin E. Pierce, superintendent of secondary education.

Conforming with the rules of the contest, the state board circular states:—

"Any secondary pupil in any public, private or parochial secondary school in the United States, under 19 years of age on February 1, 1926, is eligible to compete in the contest.

"One contestant is to be chosen from each individual high school to compete in the county contest. School tryouts are to be held on or before April 2.

"The county contests between the winners in the individual school tryouts are to be held on April 16, at a time and place to be fixed by the count chairman. Prizes of $25 will be given the winner in each of the county contests by "The Courant."

"The final contest in the state of Connecticut will be held in Hartford on May 7. "The Courant" will award prizes of $100, $75 and $50. The winner in the state contest will compete in one of the seven districts into which the United States has been divided for purposes of the contest. The winner in each of the seven districts will compete in the third national oratorical contest in Washington on June 4, and the group of seven will sail for Europe on July 3, returning September 12.

"The subject for all orations in the contest must be one of the following: 'The Constitution of the United States,' 'Washington and the Constitution,' 'Hamilton and the Constitution,' 'Jefferson and the Constitution,' 'Franklin and the Constitution,' 'Marshall and the Constitution,' 'Madison and the Constitution,' 'Webster and the Constitution,' 'Lincoln and the Constitution,' and 'America's Contribution to Constitutional Government.'"

EMPLOYMENT CONDITIONS IN STATE GRADUALLY IMPROVING

HARTFORD, Feb. 9—(AP)—Maintaining the average decrease of the past several months, which show a gradual improvement in employment conditions about the state, 2,589 applications for employment were received at the five free employment bureaus of the state department of labor during January. The number was 329 less than during the previous month.

Situations were secured for 2,324 of the applicants last month which is approximately 6 per cent below the number supplied with work during December. Applications for workers by employers to the bureaus totalled 2,513, a decrease from 3,099. The largest decrease in applicants for employment was at the Hartford bureau, where during the month 981 applied as compared with 1,130 in December. The applications at other offices last month were: New Haven 392; Bridgeport 362; Waterbury 353; Norwich 501. The applications at these offices in December follow: New Haven 557; Bridgeport 987; Waterbury 814; Norwich 440.

Foreign exchanges irregular; sterling and francs slightly lower.

Cotton quiet and irregular.

Sugar steady; better spot demand.

Coffee higher; improved Brazilian report.

Chicago.

Wheat firm; better flour demand.

Corn steady; improved cash markets.

Cattle, choice grades firm; others weak.

Hogs steady to strong.

MARKET WAS ACTIVE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(By The A. P.)—Heavy buying of American Can, which soared 15 points to a new high record for all time at 204, rallied today's stock market after an early period of irregularity which was featured by the renewal of selling pressure against the so-called "food merger" stocks. Trading was again on a large scale, the day's sales running above 2,000,000 shares.

The recovery took place in the face of the highest call money renewal rate since January 4. The stiffer all money rate was generally attributed to be apparent hesitancy of some country banks in sending their surplus funds here for investment in the collateral loan market because of the publication of brokerage loan figures showing that more than $3,500,000,000 had been employed here for that purpose at the end of January.

Strength of American Can reflected publication of the annual report showing net income of $16,890,036, after charges and federal taxes, equivalent after preferred dividends, to $32.74 a share earned on the old common stock. This compares with $11,341,931, or $20.50 a share, in 1924.

California Packing opened at 155 and then broke to 148 1-2 in further reflection of the announcement that the Postum Cereal Company had withdrawn its bid of $135 a share for a majority interest in that company. Postum closed 2 points lower at 110 3-4 after selling as low as 108 1-2. Ward Baking B broke over 8 points to 60 7-8 and then rallied to 65. The A stock showed a net loss of 5 points at 180. New York Canners dropped 4 points to 74 1-4.

Formation of a new copper export association stimulated activity in the copper shares, American Smelting led the advance by climbing over four points to 142 1-2, and Anaconda, Calumet and Arizona and Utah advanced a point.

Oils were under heavy accumulation with California Petroleum, Sinclair and Standard Oil of California in the forefront of the advance. Sulphur, Sugar and leather stocks also gave good exhibitions of group strength.

Trading in the automotive issues was featured by a jump of over 5 points to a new high record at 50 5-8 by Motor Meter A, Hudson and Jordan each advanced a point.

Strength of several specialties seemed to bear a close relation to values as disclosed by earnings statements for 1925. Revival of activity and strength in Loft, Inc., which advanced 8 5-8 points to 11, the highest in years, followed publication of reports that 1925 sales exceeded $8,000,000, a new high record. Other outstanding industrial strong spots included Allied Chemical, American Snuff, Electric Power, International Harvester, Eureka Vacuum, Fairbanks Morse, Jewel Tea, Market Street Railway prior preferred, Montana Power, National Lead, Remington Typewriter, Sloss Sheffield, Underwood Typewriter, United Cigar Stores, United States Cast iron Pipe, United States Industrial Alcohol, and United Fruit all up 2 to nearly 6 points.

Heavy buying of "Katy" common, which crossed 44 to a new high record and the strength of the anthracite carriers, were the only features of the rail list.

Commodity markets displayed a firmer tone. Wheat rallied more than a cent a bushel on short covering.

Cotton closed four points net lower to six points higher. Raw sugar advanced 1-33 of a cent a pound and coffee futures moved up 5 to 21 points.

Call money held steady at 5 1-2 per cent, although "outside loans" were reported as low as 5 during the afternoon. Banks are reported to have called about $25,000,000 additional in loans during the day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges moved irregularly lower. Demand sterling eased slightly to around $4.86 and French francs sagged to a new low level for the year at 3.67 cents. The Canadian dollar went to a discount of 7-16 of one per cent. also a new 1926 low.

TAFTVILLE

Taftville friends learn with regret that Oliver Lemyre of Westerly, formerly of this village, is a patient at the Westerly hospital, following an injury to his knee, and it is feared that it may be necessary to amputate his leg. He has a brother, Leon Lemyre, of this village.

The regular weekly meeting of the A-o-wa-ki-ya Camp Fire Girls was held Friday evening with Miss Irene Mayor of Terrace avenue.

Octave Bousquet, formerly of Taftville, now of Danielson, was a visitor in the village Tuesday.

Joseph Bechard of Hunters avenue who is a patient at the Newport Naval Hospital at Newport, R. I., is spending some time in town.

Assistant Postmaster Edward V. Murphy said Tuesday that the personal tax bills were adding considerably to the volume of mail being received at the local postoffice, about 200 being received on one mail Tuesday.

Joseph Jodoin of Bolduc Lane is a patient at the William W. Backus hospital at Norwich.

Grand Knight John J. Daley presided at a meeting of Ponemah Council, No. 34, Knights of Columbus, held Monday evening at the council's rooms on Providence street.

FEBRUARY SOCIAL MEETING OF CATHOLIC WOMEN'S CLUB

The postponed February social meeting of the Catholic Women's Club was held Tuesday afternoon, in the rooms of the Ladies of Columbus. The president, Mrs. Thomas J. O'Rourke, presided at the brief business session, during which a report was given of the recent card party by the chairman of the committee, Mrs Frank A. Sisk. The receipts from this party and dance were $84.50.

Plans were made for a St. Patrick's matinee card party, at the K of C Home.

The usual social tea followed, the decorations being in pink and white. Sandwiches, cake, wafers and tea were served by Mrs. Sisk, Mrs. Maurice F. Kelly, and Mrs. Frances E. Donahue.

The chairman of the entertainment committee, Mrs. Bernard M. Coyle provided the entertainment for the afternoon, playing and singing, to the great pleasure of her listeners. There was a very good attendance at the meeting.

Y. M. C. A. BOARD HOLDS MEETING WITH ENTHUSIASM

The February meeting of the board of directors was held at 6.15 Tuesday evening with supper served by The Kings Daughters.

President James C. Macpherson presided and the attendance was one of the largest of the year and enthusiasm prevailed. The various committee reports indicated unmistakably splendid progress in all the departments. President Macpherson stated that he believed that never in its history had the association in all of its departments been running at such a rate of speed, he announced with a great deal of pleasure the decision of the management to open the physical department privileges to the girls and women of the city and expressed his satisfaction that the institution has found it possible to add another piece of real service to the community.

Eleven Birthday Party

Yvonne Boucher, daughter of Mrs. George Boucher of 108 North Main street, entertained Monday evening nine little friends in honor of her eleventh birthday. The table was decorated with red lights and each child received a hat and valentine for favors. Games were played, prizes being won in the peanut hunt by Kathleen Walsh and Winifred Kelley; March of the Tin Soldiers, Irene Charbonneau; donkey game, Winifred Kelley and L. Charbonneau; spinning the pan, Kathleen Walsh. Those present were Yvonne Boucher, Irene Charbonneau, Kathleen Walsh, Mary Driscoll, Mary Kelley, Mary Chioda, Dominico Chioda, Alice Cote, Winifred Kelley.

BOUND OVER ON ARSON CHARGE FOR SUPERIOR COURT TRIAL

After evidence had been presented in the city court Tuesday morning before Judge Arthur F. Libby, he found probable cause and bound Zezes Costules over to the May term of the criminal superior court on the charge of arson for the fire that took place at the Costules stores, 20 Town street, on the morning of Feb. 6.

Bonds were placed at $2,500 and were furnished by John Antone.

William H. Kinney, owner of the building which the store occupied was the first witness. He lives next door and he told of being awakened last Saturday morning about 2:55 o'clock by some one pounding on the door of his house. Going out, he told of being unable to get into the store by the door as it was secured, but he got in by a rear window by using a ladder, the window being broken in. Water was thrown on the fire by William House and Michael Buckley, which put the fire out. The witness said there was no padlock on the store door and he had never seen one there. He told of seeing cardboard containers on the floor, which contained alcohol, but he did not go into the store. Costules, the witness said, owed him a month's rent, which was due on the day of the fire. He said he did not know how much stock the accused man had, but the building was worth between $500 and $600.

Deputy Fire Chief Henry R. Taft testified to responding to a telephone call to central headquarters, going to the Town street store where the fire had been extinguished when he arrived. His investigation, he said, brought him to the conclusion that it was a "flash" fire, one that had flared up and then gone out. The witness told of seeing the containers with alcohol in them and the wicking between them and matches under the containers. He also said the Yantic firemen found two cans of ether on the shelves. The stove was too far away for the fire to have started from that, the witness said.

William House and Michael Buckley, who were the first at the fire, also testified. Mr. House said that when he went into the store he found the cash register on the floor. It was open and there was one cent, some keys and ice tickets in it. Mr. Buckley said the Costules store was in darkness when he saw it on his way home about 11:30. He said he had seen the padlock on the door at various times, and he did not believe that at the rear window, near which the fire started, could be opened from the outside.

Hoseman Forest Lewis, who responded with Deputy Chief Taft to the telephone message to the central station, testified to seeing a quantity of partly burned newspapers in the store and also the containers with alcohol in them.

Constable Lucius Fenton of Norwich Town, who arrested the accused man at his home on Forest street, told of being summoned to the fire by Deputy Chief Taft, of collecting the containers and other articles used in the incendiary attempt. After that he brought Costules from his home to police headquarters where the man was told of the charges against him and was shown the various articles.

Costules, the constable said, denied having these things in the store, and told the constable that he had missed the 10:45 car at Harland's corner. Previously to that, according to the constable, Costules had told him he locked up at 10 o'clock.

City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins conducted the prosecution of the case and the counsel for Costules was Attorney Edmund W. Perkins, who first called to the stand John Antone of 71 West Main street who told of meeting Costules walking about 11:30 o'clock at the Antone store on West Main street.

Testimony that Costules came home about midnight and was in the house until about 4 when he was arrested was given by a man who lives where Costules does.

PLEADS GUILTY TO LIQUOR VIOLATION CHARGE

After retracting his plea of not guilty to guilty on a charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell, Frank Obuschski, 36, proprietor of a pool room at No. 471 North Main street, was fined $200 and costs and given ten days in jail by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Tuesday morning. A similar charge against Bronislaw Obuschski, his wife, was nolled.

The arrest of the couple came about after local police had secured a bottle of "hooch" sold at the pool room. The raid was conducted by a squad headed by Sergeant Matthew Delaney. Officer William Sharvan walked into the place and was about to secure the evidence when Obuschski interfered. He was taken care of by Sergt. Delaney and between $75 and $100 worth of alleged liquor was secured by the police.

While the squad was busy at the pool room, Officers Henry Fenton and John Quinn went to Obuschski's house and inquired of Mrs. Obuschski as to where her husband was. She told them he was at the store and refused to let them in the house. They got in, however. In time to see her pour something down the sink. Taking off the sink trap they managed to secure a small quantity of liquor.

Defense claimed that a customer had brought the liquor in the place and had left it there intending to call for it. Counsel for the defense, Thomas M. Shields, tried to show that his client was framed and that the liquor was planted. Accused told of various visits from the police when they failed to find anything in the store in the way of liquor. He admitted that the officers had dropped in to look around and that on several occasions they had warned him.

Arthur H. Lathrop, local truckman, who was in the pool room said that prior to the raid, someone came into the place and passed something over the show case to Obuschski.

It was testified by Officer Peter Sullivan that he saw a man come out of the place and that the man was staggering. The officer went to the pool room and warned Obuschski. It is claimed that Obuschski at that time said to the officer, "Get me if you can. I don't care for the cops or Sergt. Delaney either." The officer told of seeing Obuschski put staggering men out of the place.

The accused paid his fine and went to jail to serve his sentence.

GAVE MAGAZINE PROGRAMME AT MISSIONARY MEETING

The Woman's Mission Circle of the First Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Woodworth, Spring Garden avenue, with a good number in attendance. The meeting opened with the singing of the hymn, More About Jesus, followed by scripture reading and prayer by Mrs. F. L. Lathrop. A very interesting program of selections from Mission's Magazine arranged by Mrs. Maude Wheeler was greatly enjoyed by all. As Mrs. Wheeler was unable to be present Mrs. Lena Perkins had charge of the program and gave a survey of the Burma mission. The remainder of the program was as follows: Mrs. Lewis Browning gave a personally conducted expedition in Burma; Mrs. Annie Church read Along the Trial of Adoniram Judson; Christian Education and Work by Mrs. L. A. Herbert; By-Products of Missions by Mrs. George Rathbun; Tragedy and Benediction at Zigon by Mrs. Frank Harwood. Mrs. LaRue Bliven told the story of the gospel preacher to the barbarians and Mrs. Charles Burke's topic was Three Months of Touring in India.

Workmen's Compensation

The following workmen's compensation agreements have been approved by Commissioner J. J. Donohue and filed with the clerk of the superior court:

Jewett City Textile Novelty Co., employer, and Benjamin Kyleski, employe, toe fractured, Jan. 14, at rate of $13.90.

Amos D. Bridge Sons, Inc., Hazardville, employer, and Joseph Tammaro, Thompsonville, employe, leg injured, Dec. 19, at rate of $13.00.

Adam Rojeski, Jewett City, employer, and Adhemard Labarre, employe, wrist broken, Dec. 30, at rate of $17.50.

Clark Construction Co., Waterbury, employer, and Tony Salamanca, New London, employe, finger broken, Jan. 11, at rate of $11.92.

Philathea Class Meeting

The Philathea class of the First Baptist church met Monday evening at the church parlors. Mrs. Frank Royce, Miss Amy Burlingame and Miss Elizabeth Bogue were hostesses. A delicious supper was served at 6:30 after which the regular business meeting was held. Sixteen members responded to the roll call.

VALENTINE TEA TO OPEN HOME SERVICE DEPARTMENT

In a statement issued Tuesday by the Norwich gas and electric commissioners the announcement is made that on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 10, from three to five o'clock a Valentine tea will be held in the new lecture room of the department for the purpose of introducing the home service expert, Miss Gladys L. Peckham, S. B. to the women of Norwich.

In announcing the opening the commissioners state they are constantly seeking for better and more efficient means of serving the people, and they wish each and every one of their patrons to feel assured of their co-operation in all such matters. They want every home maker in Norwich to have the opportunity of receiving instructions in the most up-to-date labor saving devices and in the easiest, shortest, cheapest methods of using their gas and electrical appliances.

The opening of this home service department is an educational movement of importance. All over the country work of this kind is being initiated for the betterment of communities and the people of Norwich may well be proud that our city is among the first to recognize its value and importance.

It is commonly said that, "women are not what they used to be," that, "the ancient and honorable profession of housekeeping; the oldest in the world, has perished from the earth," that, "women are not interested in housework, cooking, clearing, washing or ironing," that, "jazz, clubs, golf and careers are diverting the feminine mind from the old-time, womanly occupations of the home," but this department does not subscribe to such a sentiment. The intense interest that women are showing in home service classes indicates their eagerness to learn new and easier methods for eliminating the so-called drudgery of the home.

Home service departments, instead of lamenting the lack of woman's interest in the home, now are teaching modern methods that science has developed. They find that women do wish to know how to get the most from their appliances.

In harmony with the spirit of the times, and the needs of the hour the gas and electrical department has established this branch for the use of the public. Weekly lecture-demonstrations will be held on Wednesday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock in the lecture room, on the second floor of No. 28 Shetucket street. Classes will be organized on Monday evenings, beginning March 8th, and the women of Norwich are urged to avail themselves of this rare privilege.

PROVIDING MEMORIAL ROOM IN SHELTERING ARMS

Through a contribution of $4,000, Mrs. Willis Austin, Mrs. William A. Norton and Mrs. Lucius Briggs of this city have provided for a double room in the new Sheltering Arms building, which will be in memory of their parents, Arthur H. Brewer and Mary Phipps Young. A small tablet suitably engraved will be placed in the room.

For the first time in Norwich the opportunity is given to take care of old couples and it was considered fitting by the three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Brewer that action should be taken at a time when the new building of the Sheltering Arms at the head of McKinley avenue is under construction.

From the memorial fund of $4,000, the sum of $750 will provide for construction and the income on the balance will be for the lighting, heating and upkeep of the room.

It is hoped by the Sheltering Arms committee that this memorial will be a precursor of others. Now that the new Sheltering Arms building will care for aged couples it is believed that the initial memorial contribution will prove an incentive for other people to take similar action.

The rooms in the new building are practically completed according to plans of the architect. The opportunity of making a memorial of any one of the others is now open and will be a welcome addition to the building fund.

ROBERT M'NEELY IS DELEGATE FROM CARPENTERS

C. R. Anderson, of New Haven, was elected president of the Connecticut State Council of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, in annual convention at Stamford Tuesday. Other officers elected were: Seigfrid Peterson, Willimantic, 1st vice president; Thomas Quinn, Waterbury, 2nd vice president; Arthur Wallace, Greenwich, 3rd vice president; Thomas Russell, Hartford, secretary-treasurer; Robert McNeely, Norwich, delegate to the Massachusetts council; Peter McManus, Hartford, delegate to the New York council; William Bratt, Stamford, delegate to the New Jersey council.

OHIO IS STATE THAT WANTS GEO. E. CHANDLER

Ernest E. Rogers, treasurer of the state of Connecticut and president of the Connecticut chamber of commerce sent the following letter this week to the directors of the state chamber:

"As most of you are aware, one of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce of a middle-western state recently came to Connecticut to interview George E. Chandler, our executive vice president, with a view to securing his services as executive secretary of that organization. Out of courtesy to the other state, its name has been withheld from the public. I do not feel that this information should be kept from the directors longer. The state in question was Ohio.

"Pursuant to arrangements which this gentleman made with him, Mr. Chandler met a special committee of directors and members of the Ohio Chamber at Cleveland on Saturday, January 30.

"At that time it was understood that a definite decision would be arrived at and communicated by Mr. Chandler to me some time during the week ending February 6. This was not found practicable and the Ohio people have asked for a further extension of time.

"A special meeting of the board of directors of the Ohio Chamber has been called at Columbus for Friday, February 12, to meet Mr. Chandler and he assures me that under no circumstances will his final decision be delayed beyond February 13.

"I have discussed salary informally with Mr. Chandler, reflecting as accurately as I was able the views expressed by the directors at the meeting of January 28 at New Haven. He has assured me that the figure tentatively named is all that the Connecticut Chamber should be or will be asked to pay, but that he cannot be blind to the fact that Ohio has approximately four times the population of Connecticut and possesses great and growing industrial and other business interests. He believes that the state affords an unusual opportunity for building a large and influential state chamber of commerce.

"He has also personally reiterated to me the statement which he made to the directors at New Haven to the effect that, if he remains in Connecticut, he will be more interested in the backing which the chamber shall receive from the business interests of Connecticut and the kind of organization that he will have to work with and through them he will be in an increase of his personal remuneration. Mr. Chandler appreciates the support which the state chamber has received from Connecticut business and which he personally has received from its officers and directors. His strong preference is to remain in Connecticut and he is willing to do so at a considerable sacrifice in point of salary.

"As soon as a final decision is communicated to me by Mr. Chandler, I will take action at once in accordance with the authority and instructions received from the directors at their last meeting."

PROGRAMME FOR MISSION SERVICES AT CHRIST CHURCH

The following is to be the programme for mission at Christ church, to be conducted by Rev. D. Robert Bailey, to which the clergy and congregations of all churches have been invited:

NORWICH TOWN

When sixty or more members of Home chapter of the King's Daughters, assembled Monday afternoon, at the Johnson home, for the February meeting, through the thoughtful arrangement of the leader, Mrs. William E. Manning, a very entertaining programme on The Life of Abraham Lincoln, occupied the greater part of the time.

The meeting opened with Scripture reading and prayer by Mrs. Manning, also a hymn, which was followed by the receiving of one new member into the chapter. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Earle H. Christman, Vice-Leader Mrs. Charles R. Cross, acted as secretary pro-tem. The new treasurer, Mrs. Herbert R. Branche, submitted her report.

Announcement was made of the sewing bee, which is to be held Thursday, February 11th, at Buckingham Memorial, with Mrs. John C. Atterbury as hostess. At the March meeting, Home chapter is to observe its 29th anniversary, at which time there will be a roll call of the members.

The programme Monday afternoon as outlined by the leader, comprised many interesting facts, from "The Story Life of Abraham Lincoln." This biography of 500 true stories, told by Lincoln and his friends, was collected and put in book form as a memorial edition of Lincoln's birthday, by the author, Wayne Whipple. The stories read were as follows: Life of Lincoln, Mrs. Albert G. Miner; New Clothes, Mrs. Fred N. Clark; Lincoln and the Coal-heaver, Mrs. E. J. Mackey; Inaugural Address, Mrs. William E. Manning; a song entitled Ship of State, Mrs. Charles Burke. Other readings were: The Inscription on Greenbacks, Mrs. Thomas Keene; Wrathful Letter, Mrs. Herbert R. Branche; God Bless the Women of America, Mrs. William H. Whiteman; an article entitled Short Sayings, Mrs. Charles R. Cross, as well as ten terse quotations by Lincoln, given by ten members of the chapter.

Home chapter motto in unison and the singing of a hymn, brought the meeting to a close.

During the social hour, Mrs. Arthur Fulton, chairman of the refreshment committee, served cake and coffee.

Friends of Frank Skinner of Scotland road, were sorry to hear of his accident Monday while in the city, when he was caught between two automobiles. Although obliged to keep to his bed Mr. Skinner was reported to be resting comfortably Tuesday evening.

STORM ALONG COAST WAS THE MOST SEVERE IN YEARS

Naval Officials at New London Had Warned the Patrol Boats to Seek Shelter—One Patrol Boat Went Aground in Narragansett Bay—Another Came Into New London With Her Mast Gone—Storm Caused Two Heart Disease Deaths in New London—A Truckman Was Killed in Southington and a Section Hand Near Greenwich—Rail, Bus and Trolley Schedules Were Disrupted by Great Drifts of Snow—Storm Raged Throughout Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York and Pennsylvania—Nine Deaths and Great Property Damage Reported.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 10—(AP)—Connecticut again was buried in snow tonight.

Four deaths had been reported, rail and trolley schedules were shattered and highways were blocked by great drifts as the result of the second big blizzard of the winter which struck the state early this morning and continued throughout the day. Ten inches of snow had fallen when the first break in the storm appeared late this afternoon.

Bunded by a driving snow storm early this morning, Frank Bunyan, of Southington, drove his truck head-on into a two car trolley express on the outskirts of this city. The wreckage caught fire and he was crushed to death and badly burned before he could be freed from his cage-like driver's compartment.

Tony Cannello, of Stamford, a section hand employed by the New Haven railroad, failed to hear the signal of an approaching engine while at work clearing the tracks near the Greenwich station and was killed by the train.

James H. Goss, 71, dropped dead at the plant of the Sheffield Dentifrice company, in New London after he had walked in a blinding snow storm from his home to the plant. Albert Fargo, 90, died at his New London home after doing some outdoor work. The New London deaths were caused by heart attacks brought on by exhaustion.

Naval and marine officials at New London characterized the storm as the most severe that has been experienced along the coast in years. Forewarned of the approaching blizzard, patrol boats had been ordered to seek shelter and all were reported safe and unharmed with the exception of Patrol Boat Number 126, which went aground in Narragansett Bay and Patrol Boat Number 124, which came into New London with a mast gone. The 126 was in no apparent danger, having gone aground at the western end of the bay. Patrol Boat Number 289 stood by during the day to give any assistance needed.

The 126 a few hours before the accident had picked up the speed boat Tip Top of Newport and had sent that craft with a prize crew aboard to New London for violation of the navigation laws.

The U. S. S. Chewink, Submarine base station ship, was towing a large target to New York, when the storm broke but was reported to be weathering the blow.

Cities and towns throughout the state were just beginning to make headway in their fight against the 12-inches of snow which fell a week ago when today's blizzard, driven by a 40-mile an hour gale, hurled itself upon this section.

Trolley and rail lines began to encounter difficulties before daybreak and schedules were shattered throughout the day. The Connecticut company had scores of plows at work keeping its lines open and the New Haven railroad reports that its full equipment of plows and flangers were engaged in freeing the tracks of huge drifts.

The New Haven road went to the assistance of its subsidiary company, the New England Transportation company, when many of the latter's bus lines were forced to cancel schedules because of the high snow banks. The New Haven road put trains in operation to take the place of the crippled bus lines and patrons were urged to get in touch with the nearest station agent for information as to schedules. Many of the bus drivers reported that the drifts in the outlying sections were higher than the tops of their machines.

The state highway department sent out 175 plows and 1,200 men in an effort to clear the snow from the trunk highways. It was announced that it will take 24 hours after the storm ends to restore normal conditions on the arteries.

No attempts were made in many cities and towns to hold school sessions, many of the factories dismissed their employes at noon, stores were closed in a number of places and several court sessions were postponed.

REPORTS OF THE STORM SENT OUT FROM BOSTON

BOSTON, Feb. 10.—(AP)—A howling northeast snow storm tore into New England today. It snuffed out the lives of eight men. It buried communication lines and tied up shipping. It battered the coast with mammoth seas and sent in a tide nearly four feet above normal that rolled over sea walls, flooding streets and stopping street railway traffic. The storm caused a railway sideswiping accident near Revere, Mass., in which fifty persons were hurt.

The schooner Ralph Brown crashed at Briar Neck, on the north Massachusetts shore, with the loss of three of her crew of 21. No shipping moved in and out of New England's harbors and in-bound steamers clung to safe anchorages, while out-bound vessels remained within their havens.

An eight inch fall of snow tonight had been added to the 18 inches deposited in Boston a week ago. In some places in eastern and southern New England the fall was higher, estimated at 31 inches or more.

Since early morning the railroads fought the drifting snow, abandoning freight service in whole or in part, consolidating trains and using extra engines. The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, hardest hit of the steam lines, kept open its main lines west and south although delays ranged from one to three hours. But suburban and branch line service was hard hit and nearly a dozen trains were stalled in drifts and had to be dug out in the course of the day.

The Boston and Maine and the Boston and Albany reported that they had been able to move all of their trains. The Portland division of the Boston and Maine, however, gave trouble in the region of Chelsea, where one train was installed in drifts and had to be dug out.

Fifty passengers on a Boston and Maine train bound for Portsmouth, were cut by flying glass just after the train pulled out of Revere when the arm of a rotary snow plow crashed through the windows of three cars.

Street railway traffic in Boston was hampered by the storm. Lines in less populous areas struggled with the piling drifts. Various lines were completely snowed under and the eastern Massachusetts railway in the vicinity of Neponset and Brockton and in Fall River, was forced to discontinue service. Suburban service around Worcester and Between Worceste. and Boston also ceased.

CREW OF WRECKED PATROL BOAT SNOWBOUND IN BARN

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 10—(AP)—Six coastguardsmen of Patrol Boat C. G. 126 which was wrecked on the Rhode Island shore near Whale Rock light early today are snowbound in an old barn four miles north of the Narragansett Pier Coast Guard station. Frost bitten and cold, they huddled about an open fire in the shack and prepared to stay until the roads are open to traffic or the boat which is guarding their wrecked craft is able to take them off.

After all efforts to remove the men to a hospital had been abandoned as impossible and their weakened condition had precluded their going aboard the waiting patrol boat, coastguardsmen plowed through the snow to carry blankets and food to the beleaguered men and they were made comfortable as possible in their improvised shelter. The wrecked patrol boat, valued at $25,000 will be a total loss.

GLOUCESTER FISHERMEN SWEPT TO DEATH IN GALE

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Eighteen fishermen stood on the rocks at Briar's Neck today and watched three of their shipmates swept to death. A furious gale that drove snow and ocean spray into their faces left them powerless, while drifts on land and a raging sea thwarted efforts of rescue parties to reach the doomed schooner Ralph Brown, which dashed against the rocks early this morning.

And while these helpless men stood watching their ship and comrades, one of the victims, John Lopes, clung to the main boom of the schooner and shouted frantically in Portuguese to those

12 BRIDGEPORT NURSES HAVE SCARLET FEVER

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 10—(AP)—Twelve nurses and one ward maid of the Bridgeport hospital, most of whom lived in the same section of the dormitories, have been taken to the Englewood isolation hospital, suffering from scarlet fever, it was learned today. The condition of all of the patients was said to be good at Englewood hospital this afternoon.

The spread of the disease to patients in the hospital was prevented, hospital authorities said, by the extreme precautions taken in guarding against further cases. The first cases were reported two weeks ago Sunday, when two nurses were heard to be suffering from the disease. All of the nurses have been carefully examined by physicians and warned to immediately notify hospital heads of sore throats.

PROSPERITY IN THE TIRE MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Returning prosperity of the tire manufacturing industry is reflected in the annual report of Kelly Springfield tire company for 1925, showing net income of $1,462,577 after all charges, in contrast to loss of $1,535,748 in the preceding year The company has set aside a special reserve of $1,000,000 out of surplus to cover fluctuations in crude rubber prices.

COMPLAINT AGAINST THE KNIFE INFORMATION BUREAU

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—A complaint against the knife information bureau of Fitchburg, Mass., charging a combination to maintain a fixed uniform price at which machine knives, paper mill bars and machine bed plates were to be sold was dismissed by the federal trade commission today. Its chief counsel recommended the action because the practices charged had been discontinued.

ROBIN WAS PERCHED ON SNOW DRIFT IN TAUNTON

TAUNTON, Mass., Feb. 10—(AP)—This city is buried under huge drifts of snow, but it's going to enjoy an early spring just the same.

A robin, shivering but cheerful was seen today.

George W. Sprecht, veteran railroad engineer and local weather prophet reported seeing the bird perched upon a five foot snow bank.

SINCLAIR ADVANCES PRICE OF TANK CAR GASOLINE

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—An advice of one half cent a gallon in the price of railroad tank car gasoline at New York, Philadelphia and all Atlantic coast terminals was announced today by the Sinclair Refining company. The new price is 12 1-2 cents.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Mussolini Remains Firm

ROME, Feb. 10—(AP)—Italy refuses to accept any proposal to submit to the league of nations the question of the treatment of the German-speaking population in the upper Adige. Thus Premier Mussolini declared in the senate today in his answer to Dr. Gustave Stresemann, the German foreign minister, who yesterday in the Reichstag set forth Germany's side of the controversy with Italy over the former Austrian teritory, which Italy now holds by virtue of the treaty of St. Germain.

FREIGHT STEAMER ON ROCK AT NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 10—(AP)—A New York to Boston freight steamer which anchored off Morgan's Point near here during the storm last night, dragged her anchor and was resting today with its stern on Fish Rock.

Late this afternoon the captain came ashore at Lighthouse Point to inform his company of his whereabouts and to get assistance. Persons with whom he conversed understood that the ship was the Rose Way with 350 tons of freight aboard. The New Haven Towing coming sent tugs out tonight to pull her off.

The ship was resting easily with no sea on.

The steamer was first observed shortly before noon when the storm cleared slightly. Because of the dull weather, persons ashore could not make out the name of the vessel, nor were they able to determine whether she could be floated at high tide. The ships, a single stacker, appeared to be about 300 feet long. No distress signals were given during the night or today.

Whether the captain was trying to make the New Haven harbor before he anchored or desired to ride out the storm off shore was not learned.

BOSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT HAD HORSES FOR EMERGENCY

BOSTON, Feb. 10—Boston's fire department went back to horses today to lessen the fire hazard from the filled streets. Many a nag who thought to end his days pulling an ash cart found himself in a fire station, with a possible gallop to a "three alarm" in store. In all, seventy five horses were borrowed from contractors and coal companies, and in every district there were from one to three pungs in readiness.

The engines had little difficulty in making runs today, but the pungs were intended to carry hose and chemicals and to penetrate snow bound sidestreets where motor-driven apparatus could not venture.

Streets leading to hospitals were plowed out by the firemen and spaces were cleared in front of the theatres. The day platoons volunteered for night duty and were to stay with the night men until morning.

In spite of the snow plans for the annual firemen's ball went merrily on. A four alarm fire occurred during last year's ball, and so many blazes have come during previous parties that folk with a leaning to superstition were just a bit apprehensive. But the fire department was prepared for the emergencies.

CEREMONIES ON BOARD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

ABOARD S. S. PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, en route to New York, Feb. 10—(AP)—Impressive ceremonies were held on board the President Roosevelt today near the spot where Uno Witanen and Ernest Heitman lost their lives in the first attempt to rescue thec rew of the British steamer Antinoe.

Bishop Hiram A. Boaz, of the Methodist Episcopal church, conducted the service, assisted by Father Louis B. Pastorelli, of St. Joseph's seminary, Baltimore. A talk was made by Captain George Fried.

To conclude the ceremony the captain and the members of the life-boats crews which accomplished the rescues of the Antinoes men cast wreaths and bouquets of spring flowers sent by relatives and friends of the two dead heroes upon a sea almost as angry and restless as that in which Witanen and Heitman went to their deaths. In his speech Bishop Boaz paid a high tribute to the courage of Captain Fried and his men.

THREE PHILADELPHIANS HELD ON "RUM" WARRANTS

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Charged with being members of a rum ring which has flooded the country with millions of gallons of alcohol made here, three Philadelphians have been arrested and warrants issued for eight more. Their bail was fixed at $20,000 each. The case was characterized by federal officials as the "largest alcohol conspiracy since the advent of prohibition."

The indictments were drawn in Cleveland, Ohio, where the trials will be held. A total of 115 persons, here, in Cleveland, Washington and several other eastern cities are involved. Those under arrest here are Albert Halmowitz, a former policeman; Joseph Pomerants, real estate man, and Dr. James Silverstein, dentist. All furnished bail and will be given a hearing February 19.

SNOW STORM CAUSED A BRIEF SESSION OF COURT

BOSTON, Feb. 10.—(AP)—today's snow storm caused a brief session of the trial of 23 men, including Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley of Chelsea, charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. Court adjourned in order that witnesses, lawyers and court officers might get an early start for home.

The sole witness today, Percy Friedman, now under sentence for robbery while armed, testified that ergeant Edward Isbesler of the Chelsea force, one of the defendants, gave him a loaded revolver and told him to go out and get some money. He said Isbesler told him he was to use the money "to get booze." Friedman also testified to receiving $200 from Mayor Quigley for helping land a cargo of liquor.

TESTIMONY CONCLUDED IN THE COLEMAN SUIT

HARTFORD, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Testimony in the suit of Mrs. Florence Beach Coleman against the estate of the late Captain Henry Ledlei Beach, who, Mrs. Coleman claims was her father, was concluded in the superior court here today before Judge Dickenson. Mrs. Coleman's lawyers have a week in which to file a brief on the law under which she claims $50,000 from Captain Beach's estate for the failure of Beach to keep his alleged promise to leave her that amount if she never revealed in his life time that he and Mary E. Asher, were her parents. Counsel for the estate will have three days in which to file an answer to the brief.

Britain Has Sent Protest to Mexico

Anti-Alien Land and Petroleum Laws—In Line With Protest Made By United States.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—A formal protest against the Mexican anti-alien land and petroleum laws, said to be substantially in line with that made been lodged with the Mexican foreign by the Washington government, has office by Esmond Ovey, British minister in Mexico City.

Decision of Great Britain to file a protest was not unexpected here and the impression prevailed that other nations would take similar action in the near future. In this connection, it is pointed out, the new Mexican legislation applies equally to properties of all foreign nationals in that country and their interests naturally would be the same as those of American citizens.

Presumably, the British complaint also is based on objection to giving retroactive effect to the celebrated Article 27 of the Mexican constitution, although the specific agreement reached by the joint American-Mexican commission in 1923 as a basis for recognition of Mexico has been cited as an additional ground of protest in the American communications which Ambassador Sheffield has delivered.

The agreement would not apply to other than American nationals, and other governments protesting undoubtedly will do so on the ground that the retroactive provisions of the two acts as they apply to foreigners are in conflict with principles of international law.

THWAITES DISAVOWES LOVE FOR MRS. ADDIE L. B. JONES

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Emphatic denial that he ever avowed love for Mrs. Addie Louise B. Jones, 27 year old widow who is suing him for $250,000 for breach of promise, was made today on the witness stand by John Thwaites, wealthy manufacturer of Thwaites, Mass.

The numerous crosses with which he is alleged to have closed his letters to the widow, "meant nothing," the manufacturer said, when cross-examined by Frank P Walsh, attorney for Mrs. Jones. When one of the missives signed "much love" was shown him, he said: "Oh, I sign a lot of letters that way."

The cross-examination was stormy, the witness having several tilts with the widow's counsel He was repeatedly admonished by Supreme Court Justice Mitchell, who presided, to "behave himself" The court warned Thwaites that unless he answered questions properly he would be put out of the room and not allowed to testify.

It was brought out on cross-examination that Thwaites was divorced from his first wife and is paying her alimony. He married the present Mrs. Thwaites on June 29, 1916, it was shown. The witness said he was born in Halifax, Yorkshire, England, 54 years ago Mrs. Jones is the mother of two grown children.

It was brought out on cross-examination that Thwaites owned nearly all the stock in the Chrystal Springs Bleaching and Dyeing company, of Thwaites, Mass., the assets of which were given as $629,000.

IS GOING TO DIG DITCHES TO SPITE HIS DIVORCED WIFE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 10—(AP)—When he gets out of jail, Julius H. Preston, son of the Julius H. Preston, Sr., of Providence, R. I., is going to dig ditches to spite his divorced wife, he said today as he began a six months sentence in the Milwaukee house of correction for failure to pay her $450 alimony.

Preston, who inherited a $10,000 yearly income from his father, was divorced October 1, and alimony payments were to have started December 1. The decree provided that the money could be paid at one time, $20,000 being set as the amount. Preston said he went east to get the money and on his return was arrested on complaint of his former wife.

TAX BURDEN ENORMOUS ON BUSINESS ENTERPRISES

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Incorporated business enterprises in the United States during 1923 paid out more than a quarter of their net income as feleral, state and local taxes, the national industrial conference board announced today. The board's survey showed that the enterprises in 1923 reported an aggregate net income of $9,269,000,000 and paid out $2,572,000,000, or 27.7 per cent. in taxes.

The amount paid in taxes was nearly two thirds of the amount paid to stockholders in cash dividends.

JURY DISAGREED IN THE CASE OF ZIANG SUN WAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The jury which heard evidence here in the case of Ziang Sun Wan, 31 year old member of a wealthy Shanghai family, charged with killing one of thre Chinese found dead here in January, 1919, disagreed late today and was discharged.

Sec'y Davis Against House Air Corps Bill

Measure Was Drawn in Accordance With Suggestions Made by Chief of the Army Air Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—Secretary Davis made public today his unfavorable report on the air corps bill pending before the House military committee and which was drawn up in accordance with suggestions made by Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service.

HEARING ON SEPARATE AIR CORPS IN THE ARMY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—The investigation by the war department of the steps army air officers have taken in advocating creation of a separate air corps in the army, had an echo today in the house military committee, whose members gave considerable thought to the probable effect the inquiry may have on future testimony of officers by committees of congress. The committee plans to question tomorrow a number of ranking officers of both army and navy on the subject.

The committee also expects to continue tomorrow with the consideration of recommendations of Major General Mason M. Patrick, army air chief, for a separate corps. In this connection it will have before it an unfavorable report on the proposal by Secretary Davis of the war department. This report, in the form of a letter to Chairman Morin of the committee, was made public today, and is in line with recent testimony by the secretary before the committee when he disapproved the suggestion.

At a meeting today, the committee questioned Secretary Wilbur of the navy, as to his views on the recommendation of the president's air board for creation of an additional secretary in his department to handle aviation matters. Mr. Wilbur explained that in a recent appearance before the house naval committee he had said the navy could get along either with or without an additional civil official, but that he believed such an officer would be of much value in assisting with aviation development, especially in the procurement of new aircraft materials.

Meanwhile, Rep. La Guardia, socialist, New York, assester in the house that the department's investigation as "tyranny", and that the army general staff "tries to prevent our officers from think" while Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the democratic floor leader, announced he had asked the house rules committee to give early consideration to his resolution to prevent military officers from being taken to task for the testimony given to congressional committees.

NO MORE DEMONSTRATIONS BY ANTHRACITE STRIKERS

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Quiet prevailed throughout the Lackawanna valley tonight and police believed there would be no more demonstrations by striking miners. Union officials upheld this view.

Beyond a flurry of excitement over rumors, later disproved, that a new attempt was behind made to end the strike, the only outstanding event of the day was dispersed by the police "riot squad" of eight "coal bootleggers."

DENVER IS EXPERIENCING MILD WINTER WEATHER

DENVER, Feb. 10—(AP)—Ninety-two degrees of heat, enough to make a sizzling summer day, is the excess above normal winter temperature in Denver, during the last ten days. Since the first of the year, the excess has been 148 degrees.

Forecasts called for continued fair and spring-like weather for the Rocky Mountain region, except in northern Montana.

JURY OUT IN CASE OF TWO WORCESTER BANDITS

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 10—(AP)—After being out for four and one half hours the jury which heard the evidence in the charges of highway robbery against John Troy and Dennis J. Britt, reached an agreement at 10 o'clock tonight. Judge Nelson P. Brown, who had left the court house had directed that the verdict be sealed and it will be reported when court convenes tomorrow.

OBITUARY

Charles Roderick Makepeace

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Charles Roderick Makepeace, widely known mill architect and engineer, and one of the nation's $1 service men during the world war, died here today in his 66th year. Textile plants from his firm are to be found in nearly every state in the union, as well as in Canada, Mexico, South America and Australia. He was a member of the class of 1880 of Trinity College, now Duke University, of North Carolina and was a life member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

GILPATRIC TO MEET HIS CREDITORS IN U.S. DISTRICT COURT, HARTFORD, MONDAY

HARTFORD, Feb. 10—(AP)—C. Harold Gilpatric, will meet his creditors at ten a. m. Monday morning at the United States district court in the federal building here. An open hearing at which creditors are to be given the privilege of questioning the embezzler personally regarding his disposition of their monies will be held then, according to Receiver George M. Coffin, who, representing 75 per cent. of the creditors, will come to Hartford from Putnam, Monday for the hearing.

It is understood that the hearing will be held at the court because Referee in Bankruptcy Saul Berman decided that the likelihood of a number attending would make it inconvenient at the referee's rooms in the Hartford-Connecticut Trust building.

Just what disposition of Gilpatric while he is in Hartford will be made is not definitely known. Warden Henry K. W. Scott, of the Connecticut state prison at Wethersfield, said tonight that he had received no word of an intended quartering of the prisoner there. He declared that it was possible that he would not hear until Gilpatric's arrival and said that the prison had been designated before as a place for confinement of United States prisoners.

Gilpatric, accompanied by one guard will arrive in Hartford from Atlanta, either Saturday night or Sunday morning, officials interested in the case, predicted. In the event there is a slip in arrangements, either in Georgia or along the line, the hearing will be postponed until later Monday.

Receiver Coffin said he would make no estimate as to the number of creditors who will attend, adding that the majority will be from Hartford.

Clinton H. Scovell of Scovell, Wellington and company, of Boston auditor engaged by the governor's committee to investigate Gilpatric's manipulations will be in Hartford next week, it is reported that he will have a number of questions to ask the prisoner

SENATE APPROVES REPEAL OF THE INHERITANCE TAX

Also Votes For Provisions For a Retroactive Cut in the Higher Inheritance Rates in Effect Since the Present Act Became Law June 2, 1924—Repeal of the Automobile Passenger Car Tax Was Voted—Senate Bill Now Provides For a Total Tax Reduction of $452,000,000, or $125,000 More Than the House Measure.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—The senate added $100,000,000 to its $352,000,000 tax reduction bill today after voting to repeal the inheritance tax.

With the administration forces in rout as the taxes on automobile passenger cars and trucks, admissions and dues were voted out of the bill in rapid order, adjournment was taken until tomorrow when Chairman Smoot of the finance committee announced he would ask for reconsideration of some of the actions taken today and for a final vote on the bill.

Repeal of the inheritance tax, provided for in the bill as presented to the senate by its finance committee, was approved, 49 to 36, 18 democrats joining with 31 republicans in supporting the proposal.

Declaring it a "damnable outrage to take the tax off the millionaires," Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, one of the 14 republicans who bitterly fought repeal of the inheritance levy, then led a group of republicans in voting with an almost solid democratic lineup for repeal of the other taxes acted upon.

"Go ahead and ruin your bill," Senator Smoot shouted when repeal of the automobile passenger car tax, involving an additional reduction of $70,000,000 to the bill, was proposed by Senator King, democrat, Utah

The proposal was approved, 42 to 31, 14 republicans joining with 28 democrats and the one farmer-labor senator in supporting it Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, then appealed for a recess "in view of the appeal," and the senate quit after nearly eight hours of discussion.

Repeal of the levies on admission and dues, also proposed by Senator King, was accepted by a vote of 46 to 84. The finance committee had voted to cut $9,000,000 in revnue annually from this tax by increasing exemptions of tickets costing 50 cents and less to tickets costing 75 cents and less. Repeal of the tax adds $24,000,000 to the total reduction.

The committee also had voted to restore to the bill a two per cent tax on automobile trucks, which it was estimated would bring in $6,000,000 annually, but this was voted down, 54 to 12. The house also has voted to repeal the present 3 per cent tax on trucks.

The bill, as it stood tonight, provides for total tax reduction of $452,000,000 or $125,000,000 more than provided in the house measure and five times the tax reduction set by Secretary Mellon.

Whether the administration forces recoup or not some of the losses suffered today before a final vote tomorrow, some changes are considered certain when the measure goes into conference for adjustment of differences with the house.

House leaders already have given notice they would oppose repeal of the inheritance tax, and it is believed by some leaders that the majority voted in the house bill finally will become law. Some uncertainty exists, however, on the final disposition of the provisions for a retroactive reduction on the higher inheritance rates provided in the present revenue act and which was approved today by the senate.

Democratic members of the finance committee who entered into a compromise with republicans for a reduction in the maximum surtax rate to 20 per cent, in return for increased reductions on the lower surtax brackets were taken to task by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, in the midst of the debate today after Senators Norris, Nebraska, and La Follette, Wisconsin, republicans, had spoken of the "republican-democratic coalition."

When Senator Simmons, North Carolina, ranking democrat on the committee, had explained again the terms of the compromise, Senator Reed replied, "you swapped injustices with the republicans instead of settling these propositions on their merits here in the senate."

Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, and Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, too, also complained of the compromise and declared they had not been consulted.

Senator Simmons reiterated that the proposal of the minority members of the committee had been brought to the senate before the compromise was agreed to, it provided, he said, for acceptance of the 20 per cent. maximum surtax rate written in the house bill if $44,000,000 in additional reductions was provided for by a further cut on the surtax rates applying on the incomes between $30,000 and $100,000. If this was not accepted, he added, the program called for request of a higher surtax rate.

DEMOCRATS TO PRESS FOR COAL RELIEF LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—While the coal situation came in for a brief but heated debate in the house today, the New York democratic delegation took steps to place the democratic house membership on record as favoring action by congress to relieve the suspension in the anthracite fields.

The New York members announced they had obtained sufficient signatures to a petition to call a caucus of their party, and that when it was convened they would press for the endorsement of some form of legislation to relieve the situation. Just what form the proposal will take has not been discussed, but two bills now pending before congress are receiving careful consideration.

One, sponsored by Representative Boylan, democrat, New York, and similar to several other measures, would give the president authority to seize and operate the anthracite mines during an emergency. The other, introduced by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, would create a federal board of adjustment to be composed of the secretaries of labor and commerce and three citizens to be appointed by the president who are not interested in the production or distribution of coal.

BELGIAN DEPUTIES RATIFY WAR DEBT SETTLEMENT

BRUSSELS, Feb. 10—(AP)—The Washington agreement for settlement of the Belgian debt to the United States was ratified by the chamber of deputies today. Ratification was effected by a mere minority of the chamber, which was 121 deputies. Only 103 deputies voted, nine of whom cast ballots against the agreement.

A number of Catholic deputies tarried in the lobbies, not responding to the roll call, but reappeared on the floor of the house immediately after the vote was taken.

There was a lively scene in the chamber on an interpellation regarding the fascist demonstrations of yesterday. The socialist, M. Hubin, accused the famous Burgomaster Max of Brussels of having changed the route of the battle flags procession at the last moment in order to deprive the members of parliament of the opportunity of saluting those national relics. He demanded that he burgomaster be relieved of his functions. He charged the burgomaster with being double-faced.

President Brunet regretted that the chamber had not been informed of the change in route, so that homage could be paid to the flags.

A bill was introduced for ratification of the London agreement of December 31, 1925, consolidating the Belgian and Congo debts contracted with Great Britain.

STORM PREVENTED THE NOVEL BLASPHEMY TRIAL

BROCKTON, Mass., Feb. 10—(AP)—The element today prevented the first trial for blasphemy in the court annals of this city, and the case of Anthony Bimba, Brooklyn, N. Y., Lithuanian lecturer, charged with blasphemy under a 229 year old Massachusetts "blue law," was continued to February 24. The adjournment was caused by the inability of Irving Hoffman of Boston, Bimba's attorney to reach this city. He was now bound aboard a train stalled somewhere between Quincy and Braintree.

Bimba is charged with having denied the existence of a supreme being and also with advocating the overthrow of the government by force in an address here recently.

COUNTESS CATHCART AWAITS BOAT FROM ELLIS ISLAND

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—The young and vivacious Countess of Cathcart was an irate peeress in enforced exile today.

With nothing to do but click petulant heels on the wind-swept decks of the liner Carmania, she waited all day for a boat to take her to Ellis Island and an immigration board of inquiry. No boat came.

The authorities who detained her upon her arrival last night told her to be up and ready at 8.30 this morning. She was in a fur-trimmed coat and close-fitting cloth hat, she took her post at the ship's rail, waiting.

The wind swirled flurries of snow across the deck. It was cold. By noontime she had become a solitary pacing sentinel. The steerage passengers on the lower decks who were also waiting had lost interest in the boat.

"Some powerful enemy is at work," the countess said as she bundled into her furs, shrinking from the wind.

"The Earl of Cathcart, perhaps?"

The elderly earl divorced her four years ago. That, she thinks, is the reason for her detention.

"Not at all. He is very friendly to me."

"The Earl of Craven, perhaps?"

The younger Earl of Craven was the corespondent in the suit. She eloped with him to Africa. He later rejoined his wife, and is now said to be with her in Bermuda.

"I won't say," she replied to the suggestion.

"All this talk about the Earl of Craven," she continued, petulantly. "I had come across the Atlantic to see him, I would have gone to Bermuda if a British person can't go to Ellis Island."

It was almost dark in the harbor when she was told the boat from Ellis Island would not come until tomorrow. She suggested her willingness to hire a private boat. It couldn't be allowed.

PONZI WAS RELEASED UNDER BONDS OF $5000

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 10—(AP)—Charles Ponzi, Massachusetts "financial wizard," was released tonight under a $5,000 bond. He is charged with violations of a state statute relative to trust organizations.

Mrs. Ponzi, Calcedonia Alviti and his wife, who also were indicted Monday by the Duval county grand jury on four counts, made bond of $500.

The Alvitis are in Boston, where Alviti faces a six months workhouse sentence on a violation of the Massachusetts "blue sky" real estate law. While captases have been issued for them, no action has been taken, according to local authorities.

The four were indicted as the operators of the Charpon Land syndicate, an organization which for several months has offered Columbia county land for sale on a "certificate of indebtedness" basis. Ponzi was the trustee of this syndicate, duly designated by the other parties. Alviti purchased the land in Columbia county, deeded it to the syndicate with Ponzi as trustee, according to the records.

JUDGE JONES PLEADED NOT GUILTY TO MANSLAUGHTER

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 10—(AP)—Judge Fred A. Jones of Lebanon, charged with first degree manslaughter in connection with a fatal automobile accident January 23, was arraigned in the municipal court today and pleaded not guilty. Bail set at $2,000 was furnished and Judge Jones was ordered to appear at the May term of the Grafton county superior court in Plymouth.

OUTLYING TOWNS HARD HIT BY SNOW STORM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 10.—Willimantic was not overlooked by the second blizzard to sweep this section within a week. As was the case last Thursday when February became violent, much of the traffic in this vicinity was paralyzed. A northeast wind drifted the snow into impassable masses again isolating suburban and country areas which had hardly had time to dig themselves out from under the first blanket of snow. In practically every section of the city with the exception of some of the business streets where the buildings prevented drifting, people walked in single file along the paths which marked the sidewalks and automobiles followed along in ruts.

Traffic over the railroad is said to have suffered more severely by the present storm. All of the trains on the several divisions of the New Haven railroad arrived here late. Train No. 115 east bound, due here at 10 a. m., did not pull into the local yard until 1 o'clock. It was said that poor steam delayed the train at Vernon. Train No. 119 to Boston, an express, due here at 11.24 a. m., arrived at 12.45 in the afternoon. By hard and expert work the Connecticut company managed to maintain a schedule on the Norwich-Willimantic and South Coventry-Willimantic lines having terminals here. The trolleys arrived late, however, the car due here at 11 a. m. being fifty minutes late.

The Norwich-Willimantic highway was blocked for the larger part of the day. The most prominent danger point for automobiles was Franklin hill where several machines got into drifts and remained there.

Motor bus service was crippled. The Providence-Danielson and the Interstate line buses had not arrived in this city up to late Wednesday.

Late schedules were maintained by freight trains running on the New Haven and Central Vermont railroads. Train No. 118 New York to Boston express scheduled to arrive here at 1.07 p. m. was said to be one hour and forty minutes late.

Superintendent Irvin M. Ford of the city street department said Wednesday afternoon that will all of the streets in the city passable his main concern was to prepare the water courses in anticipation of a thaw that is likely to occur at any time. His men were opening up the mains at Valley and Main streets.

Approximately 25 truck plows were being used to advantage over the main highways in this vicinity. Farm houses on country cross roads many of which had not broken through the snow left by last Thursday's storm settled down for many days of isolation when the second blizzard Wednesday made matters even worse.

STRANGER TELLS WOMAN HER HUSBAND IS DEAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 10.—While he was on a job-hunt which took him off on an automobile journey to Manchester, Hartford and Middletown, "Dan" Pompeli of 70 Jackson street was reported as having been killed in an automobile in Manchester. This information was given by a taxi manager who aroused Mrs. Pompeli shortly after midnight Tuesday morning. The distracted woman failed to learn the identity of the informant. She quickly communicated with the police departments in Manchester and Hartford but failed to learn of any automobile fatality. Bearing up under a terrible mental agony Mrs. Pompeli and consoling friends sat in her home all day Tuesday and during the evening awaiting word. The woman was said to have been on the verge of collapse when the door of their home opened and in strode the welcome husband gloriously healthy. He is now looking for the stranger. Pompeli is employed in a local textile plant. Work is slack and he started in his car Monday morning to find work. He went to Manhester and then to Hartford and as night came on he went to Middletown to spend the night with relatives. He admitted that he was glad that the news of his death was unfounded.

The big old-fashioned dance entertainment which was to have been given at the Capitol theatre Wednesday evening, featuring a dance contest to decide music by State Champion Dennie Maynard of Lebanon, was postponed for a week on account of bad road conditions. The dancing contestants who were to appear were in several cases to come from the surrounding towns which have been practically isolated by the storm. The captains of the dance sets are: John B. Etheridge of Eastford, the challenger; John Wadsworth of Mansfield, C. C. Lounsbury and Howard W. Green of this city. John Collins of Chaplin, champion harmonica player and Joseph agara, five year old dance wonder, were to appear in feature numbers.

Anne Wood Elderkin chapter, D. A. R., held its annual guest day in the Woman's club rooms Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Lizzie Litchfield, Mrs. Isabell Chappell, Mrs. Almeda French and Mrs. Adele Howie in the receiving line. Piano selections were played during the receiving hour by Miss Dorothy Brown, of Windham Center. The program of entertainment: Readings by Miss Ruby A. Higbee of Windham; solo dance, Lelia Scripture; play, Young Doctor Devine, by a cast of members of the Girl Scout troop, of the Congregational church, including Ruth Conant, Barbara Elliott, Marion Branch, Lelia Scripture, Marion Bray Doyle Caswell and Ethel Sweet; playlet, Sunbonnet Girls, with songs and dancing by Girl Scouts including, Doris Caswell, Lelia Scripture, Margaret Hawkins, Ethel Smith, Thelma Clark, Fern Bronson, Louise Abernethy, Carolyn Smith and Sylvia Gane. A Girl Scout drill in costume followed, being given by Scouts Alice Brehant, Frances Smith, Jean Chamberlin, Ethel Bowman, Virginia Case, Gertrude Sismineau, Jean Branch and Gertrude Sussman. The piano accompaniment was by Miss Ines Paton.

Margaret Gluskin, Lelia Scripture and Ethel Smith presented a play, Mechanical Jack, which was followed by dancing by the following: Eleanor Killourey, Dorothy Ahern, Alice Costello, Margaret Colgan, Alice Connolly, Margaret Connolly and Marie Connolly and Velma Brown. They were accompanied by Mrs. Michael J. Farrell. The hostesses for the day were: Mrs. Dixon Van Zandt, Mrs. Ruby Higbee, Mrs. George C. Moon, Mrs. N. D. Webster, Mrs. Samuel B. Harvey, Miss Marjorie Harvey and Mrs. Frank Williams. Refreshments and a social hour closed the meeting.

With repairs and alterations nearly completed on its building which was badly gutted by fire two months ago Wednesday, the Windham National bank which has held temporary quarters in the Chamber of Commerce building, is preparing to return to its former locality. Although the upper floors of the building were swept by fire the damage of the bank quarters on the ground floor was mostly by water. The first floor has been finished in modern and beautiful materials and colors. The ceiling has been made sound proof and the finish of the African mahogany woodwork has been restored. Carpenters are still busy on the second floor which will mark the present height of the building. The third story has been eliminated since the fire. With the exception of an office for Attorney W. A. King, the entire second floor will be used by the bank.

A solemn requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Mary's church at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning for Mrs. Diana Michel. The funeral was from the late home, 237 Main street. Rev. J. J. Papillon was the celebrant at the mass; Rev. H. C. Belec, deacon and Rev. E. A. Mathieu, sub-deacon. St. Cecelia's choir, with Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau at the organ, rendered special music. The bearers were, Ludger Spenard, William Spenard, Theophile Michel and the Messrs. Dube, Roy and Leger. The body was taken to Manchester, N. H., where burial will take place in the Mount Carmel cemetery.

J. Frances Moriarty, lecturer and chairman of the entertainment committee of San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus, has arranged for the presentation of the Tighe-Sugrue Varieties, a talented minstrel show of local origin, at the meeting of the council to be held in St. Mary's hall, February 23. A musical program by the Melody Boys will be carried out. Refreshments and a smoker will follow. The council entertainment committee comprises, T. Francis Moriarty, chairman; George Bedford, Michael F. Sullivan, Andrew Carey, Ralph H. Gibson and Joseph F. Aubin.

Blizzards may come and blizzards may go but the city garbage collection goes on forever. That briefly tells the story of the work being done by Frank S. Campbell and his son, Ernest G. Campbell, who have handled the city collection contract for some few past years and are doing splendid work. Assisted by a two horse team in addition to a motor truck, the Campbells maintained a regular schedule during the past two severe storms when everything else in the traffic line was tied up or delayed. Their farm known as Sunset Farm, is over three miles from this city on the North Windham road, and one of the worst drift spots in this section is to be encountered on the trip.

Beth Ellen, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ethan H. Cutler, of Gurleyville, died at the home of her parents there Tuesday. The funeral services were held at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the late home with Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones, of Mansfield, officiating. The remains were placed in the receiving vault at the Willimantic cemetery. Arrangements were by the J. C. Lincoln company.

In the third serious coasting accident of the season, recorded locally, Eugene St. Helaire, 16, of 120 Main street, sustained severe injuries, which rendered him unconscious for nearly two hours, while coasting down Ives street Tuesday night. While descending the hill the young man's sled was struck by another and he was thrown forcibly to the ground. It was at first feared that he had a fractured skull.

Sessions at the local public schools were suspended Wednesday afternoon due to the severity of the storm. The fire alarm and factory whistles giving notice of the suspension, were sounded at 11:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Clarence A. Bowen entertained at a bridge and whist party given Tuesday afternoon, under the auspices of the Ladies' society of St. Paul's Episcopal church. The committee was composed of: Mrs. B. C. Bullock, Mrs. William A. Foote, Mrs. A. H. Reynolds, Mrs. Louis H. Arnold and Mrs. C. A. Bowen. Prizes were awarded to Mrs W. E. Hendry, first, and Miss Elizabeth Peterson, consolation at bridge and Mrs. Valentine L. Murphy, first, and Mrs. W. A. Foote, consolation, at whist.

The Willimantic Board of Underwriters met Tuesday afternoon and elected the following officers: President, George S. Elliott; secretary, William B. Sweeney; treasurer, C. M. Goddard, of Boston, Mass. Mr. Goddard is treasurer of the New England Insurance exchange.

JEWETT CITY

SNOW STORM AFFECTS JEWETT CITY BUSINESS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 10—This borough has experienced another blizzardette, if that is the proper cognomen for the unusual fall of snow which began before midnight Tuesday and blew and "sneo" frantically until the middle of Wednesday afternoon. Bus schedules were "off again and on again," all day, paths had to be cleared again and the state snow plow did business right along. The temperature stood at twenty above all day, about eight degrees colder than in last Thursday's storm. The fire alarm sounded the no school signal and every one is praying that it will not need to be sounded for fire, until the streets are more navigable than at present.

J. A. Choquette was in Middletown Saturday on business.

The highways are now opened and automobiles are running. Willimantic is reached by way of the Lebanon R. R. crossing on the state road. All vehicles with runners are being brought into use.

Although the traveling was very bad on account of the depth of snow the church services Sunday were held as usual. Rev. L. L. Harris' excellent sermon was developed from the theme, Who is the Wise Man, who can interpret this thing. Abraham Lincoln was eulogized in the sermon. The great heart of Lincoln being the theme.

Mail Carrier Saul Wachtel drove to the post office Thursday morning but there was no arrival of trains in time for his trip. Friday he covered his route, but with much difficulty as the snow was still drifting.

Milo S. Davoll made paths through the village Friday morning with his horse drawn snow plow.

J. A. Choquette is delivering a quantity of R. R. ties to Chestnut Hill station for the New Haven railroad.

Vernon Choquette drove his automobile truck to Willimantic Monday by way of Lebanon crossing. The road to village hill is opened but no one at this present writing has been through with an automobile.

Birds are being fed here and they come very close to get feed as the depth of snow makes it impossible to find food elsewhere.

At the C. E. meeting Sunday Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Caples sang a duet which was highly appreciated.

The mercury Tuesday morning was at the zero mark.

Experiments in London have proved that seaweed, known as Zosteria Marina, which is found in large quantities in the Sargasso sea, North Atlantic ocean, will absorb sound. Many conference rooms in new city offices and other rooms where silence is necessary are being ceilinged with the material, which is dried and then placed between sheets of ordinary paper, forming a padding. Sounds from the street coming into a room through the open windows are absorbed in the ceiling, without being audible in the room.

Inspector Goldwaithe of Boston, now associated with the legal department of Armour and Company returned on Tuesday afternoon from a business visit in Westerly.

Stonington Probate Judge Frank H. Hinckley of Mystic on Tuesday afternoon held a session at Pawcatuck when a number of estates were considered.

Thomas McKenzie, superintendent of the Westerly water works and Arthur N. Nash of Pawcatuck, left for Providence Wednesday noon, where they attended the 10th annual meeting of the Providence Engineering society. The meeting was held at the Providence Biltmore, where numerous celebrated speakers and entertainers were heard.

Miss Dorothy Stanton of Stonington was the guest Wednesday of Miss Marjorie Babcock of Pawcatuck.

Westerly Rifle club, Wilbur G. Cheever, president, held a meeting in the state armory on Dixon street Wednesday evening. Preparations are being made for a competitive shoot between teams representing the rifle club and Battery E, 243rd R. I. C. A. C., H. D., John S. Datson, captain.

An audience of over 100, the largest in many sessions, attended at the postponed meeting of the Westerly Historical society in the Westerly Memorial and Public library on Tuesday evening to listen to the illustrated talk of Dr. John Champlin on the subject, "Interesting Characters of Former Days." A pencil sketch of Martha Babcock from her son, Rev. E. W. Babcock from her son, Rev. E. W. Babcock, was accepted.

Entry blanks for summer outing preferences were distributed. Mrs Edward B. Coy, Walter C. Hiscox and Mrs. Marion T. Hiscox were voted into society membership and the Rhode Island state tax was voted paid.

Among the interesting characters of the 1800s mentioned and described as "eccentric, old, witty or otherwise," by the doctor, were William H. Cottrell, known as the judge, a stone mason and visioner, who wanted the Boston post road widened; Dr. John E. Weeden, who wanted to abolish the high school; Capt. Jesse B. Lamphere, a fisherman and fish story teller, skipper of the Blue Birds; Benjamin P. Babcock, a travelogue narrator; Case Chapman, and Benjamin W. Bentley, rich men and farmers. As mathematicians were mentioned, Joseph Alcorn, keeper of hogs on an island in the Pawcatuck river and a figurer on the sidewalks with pieces of chalk; James E. Sisson, soap manufacturer; Isaac G. Smith ,Charles B. Segar, Samuel B Segar and B. F. Underwood Court G Stanton was described by the doctor when his likeness was reflected on the screen as "The Wittiest Man of Westerly." Besides likenesses of Rowse Babcock, Charles Perrin, Thomas Crocker, Orlando Smith both young and old Zion Sisson, Esther Myers and Grampa Eddie Maxson, were shown street scenes, many of them snow scenes in the olden days in Westerly, also numerous old time business houses and residences.

Westerly high school juniors, class of 1927, is to hold the annual junior prom in the high and school hall on Broad street next Saturday evening. It promises to be a most enjoyable affair.

The hall is to be specially decorated for the occasion by the committee consisting of Raymond Meikle, chairman, DeRocco, Fisher, Turco, Mary Conway and Nan Scanlon. S. Turco is the chairman of the social committee and is assisted by Ruth Briggs, Vero Prestini, Meikle and DeRocco.

Narragansett circle, Daughters of Isabella, held its annual banquet on Tuesday evening at the Colonial club on High street. There were sixty members and guests present from Westerly, Stonington and Wakefield, R. I. Mrs. James P. McMahon, regent welcomed the guests and presented the toastmaster of the evening, Mrs. John Reardon, who introduced the speakers. Those giving brief talks were Rev. J. F. Vincent, S. M., chaplain, Past Regent Miss Minnie McAvoy, Past Regent Mrs. John Walsh all of Westerly and Past Regent Miss Mary Farrell and Regent Mrs. Gallant of Nina circle of Stonington. Miss Rose Bannon and Sophia Canavan rendered vocal selection, being accompanied by Mrs. James P. McMahon.

MYSTIC

BADLY BURNED WHEN DRESS CAUGHT FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

MYSTIC, Feb. 10—Mrs. Arthur H Crouch, of 101 High street, is a patient at the Lawrence hospital, New London, suffering painful burns about the back and head, received about 10 o'clock this morning when her dress caught fire as she was standing near an air-tight stove in her home.

Mrs. Crouch was unable to explain how the accident happened but as far as could be learned she was standing with her back to the stove while reading a book. Her clothing suddenly caught fire and the flames spread rapidly. The four small children sensing the danger aided their mother in tearing off the burning clothing and extinguishing the flames, but not until she had been painfully burned about the back and head, practically all of her hair being borned off.

A telephone call was immediately sent for her husband, who is employed at the Standard Machine company and he was sent home in a company automobile. The party was delayed when the automobile became stuck in a snowdrift but after some difficulty Mr. Crouch arrived home and sent for Dr T. P. MacGowan, who responded with a trained nurse. After dressing her her wounds, Dr. MacGowan called the Stonington ambulance and Mrs Crouch was rushed to the Lawrence hospital.

Late this evening it was reported that her condition was as comfortable as could be expected, although suffering much pain from her wounds.

CHIMNEY FIRE BREAKS THROUGH INTO HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

MYSTIC, Feb. 10—The smell of smoke in the house caused the members of the family of George Tift, of Pequot avenue, to conduct an investigation Wednesday, leading to the discovery that a fire was raging in one of the rooms of the house. Quick work by members of the family checked the flames in the one room, after considerable furniture had been damaged by fire.

The fire had originated in the chimney and had eaten through the walls and into the room before its discovery by the family who were in another part of the house.

News of the death of Miss Matilda Holloway at the home of her niece, Mrs. Frank E. Gates, 378 New York avenue, Providence, R. I., was received here on Monday evening. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Holloway and lived on the west side of the river on the Old Mystic road. For many years she was engaged in nursing and the latter years of her life having been spent in Providence with heriece. The funeral will be held at the home of Mrs. Gates and the body placed in a vault until spring when it will be brought here for interment in Elm Grove cemetery. Mrs. Daniel McGuire left Wednesday for Providence to attend the funeral and spend a few days visiting friends.

Mrs. Ettabelle Griswold, district deputy president of the Rebekah state assembly, invited her installing officers and guard team to her home on Monday evening. A social time was enjoyed and chicken salad, rolls, cake, ice cream and coffee were served. Mrs. Griswold was presented a leather suit case, Mrs. Bertha Ashcroft a silk umbrella and Mrs. Grace Bentley a gold pin.

Mrs. E. C. Paige has planned a meeting at which Rev. F. C. Chatter will give a talk on the Mohammedans and their home life, his own personal observations during one of his extensive travels. He has visited all countries with the exception of Alaska. A musical program has also been arranged.

James Campbell is substituting for F. C. Wheeler on the rura. route during Mr. Wheeler's illness.

Peter Flynn is confined to his home on East Main street by illness.

Miss Dora A. Welles of Old Mystic spent Tuesday with Mis C. F. Congdon.

William Cromwell, a former local resident, is a patient in a New London hospital.

The Parent Teachers' association of Mystic Academy holds a valentine social on Friday evening. Mrs. Artis Stoddard, chairman of the refreshment committee, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Pollard and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson will serve.

Conrad Rock has been engaged as sexton of the Methodist church, taking the place of Winfred Dick, who has gone away to school.

Mrs. Arthur Paine and infant son, Robert Nelson, have returned home from a hospital in New London.

Daniel Henderson is confined to his home with a sprained ankle.

John Edwards was a visitor in New London Tuesday.

Jesse Bennett and family are planning to move to Newark, N. J., in the near future.

M. H. Bartlett, master, and Mrs. L. B. Whitham, lecturer, have sent out notices of the next regular meeting of New London county pomona grange meeting to be held with Mystic grange. The meeting will be held in grange hall Main block and dinner is to be served in Odd Fellows hall. Mrs. Nancy Dealey, chairman and Mrs. Ellery Burdick, will put on a sketch The Train to Mauro. Ex-Master J. W. Pollard will deliver the address of welcome.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. Harvey Collins has returned home after visiting friends in Windsorville.

The pulpit of the Congregational church was filled Sunday morning, by the pastor, Rev. Victor Wain, who preached from the text "He taught as one having authority." The leader of the Christian Endeavor meting was Howard Squier, and his subject was "What does the Christian Endeavor mean to me?"

The well baby conference which was to have been held Thursday afternoon at the town hall, has been postponed for a month, Dr. Ingraham feeling that the traveling is so bad at present, that mothers and children would find it hard to get there. The exact date for the next conference will be announced later.

Dwight A. Lyman was painfully injured Monday afternoon, when he slipped on an icy place in the road, and fell heavily on his left side. He continued on his way to the town hall where the board of relief was in session, but was in such pain that a friend finally took him home. A doctor was called and found that two ribs were fractured. Mr. Lyman, who is 53 years of age, is as comfortable as he can be under the circumstances.

SOUTH WINDHAM

At the South Windham church on Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. J. J. Graham, preached on the subject the Church, What It Means and its Purpose.

The friendly visitation throughout the community by the members of the church was postponed until next Sunday on account of the poor condition of some of the roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Greiner met some of their friends here last week as they were passing through the village for the west where Mr. Greiner is to locate.

Monday evening the Windham community men's clubs held its regular meeting in Guilford Smith hall. Supper was served at 7 o'clock by the Mission Circle under the leadership of Mrs. Walter Abbe, Jr. The committee elected a month ago acted as waiters: J. W. Spokesfield, Mr. Sundickson, H. Nixdo from Windham, Arthur Beckwith, Henry Holden, George F. Stiles from South Windham. It was a patriotic evening and the supper menu was so arranged. The music and the addresses brought clearly to mind, as did the pictures and flags prominently displayed Washington the father of our country and Lincoln the savior of our country.

The speaker of the evening was Edwin J. Donnelly of Hartford who spoke on Dangers that Threaten Democracy. Among the dangers he mentioned that of taking too little interest in affairs, lack of respect for law, failure to enforce law, government by minority, bigotry, too much liberality in the immigration laws and the double standard of morals.

The answer to the question whither are we going? is found in education and understading.

The committee elected for the next meeting at Windham Center in March comprises Judge F. H. Foss, Ernest Johnson, Harry W. Avery of South Windham, Vantine Anderson, H. C. Lathrop and John Wilcox of Windham.

The matter of helping on some boys' work is to be considered by a committee composed of Rev. J. G. Graham, Allen Cook, Jack Thompson, Harry Avery and R'Ralph Scribner.

The Girl Scouts who are now in charge of Miss Helen Larkin have heard from their leader Miss Elizabeth Abbe, who is traveling in Egypt and the Mediterranean countries.

The Girl Scouts of Willimantic gave an entertainment Wednesday evening in the hall for the benefit of the local Girl Scouts.

ROYAL SOCIETY

Miss Ethel Sheldon of Willimantic normal school expects to be at home on Thursday to spend the holiday and week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mell.

Elias Miner is at work on the house recently sold to Dr. George Heath.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ricker and two children were at William Billings on Sunday.

Friends of Franklin Mattison are glad to learn of his improvement at the hospital.

Linda Wheeler spent Monday night with her cousin, Miss Emylin Billings in Mystic.

The grange gave a play in borough hall Wednesday evening before an appreciative audience.

There was no school at Taugwonk and the Road last Thursday and Friday because of the storm and roads blocked with snow.

Miss Mary Starr Wheeler of Philadelphia spent the past week with friends at Lake Placid, New York.

Miss Louise Wheeler and brother, Nelson Wheeler spent Wednesday evening with Miss Harriet Park in Mystic.

A. Gustave Salminen is at home from Harvard for the holiday after the winter examinations.

The school bus was not able to take its customary road on Monday morning and went by way of Wheeler avenue.

Charles Mell is making extensive repairs on the house owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Babonas and family.

Word was received last week that Mrs. Parker Johnson, formerly Miss Priscilla Billings of Springfield, was ill with pneumonia. The last report was that she was somewhat improved.

COVENTRY

On Sunday last the creosote in the chimney of J. R. Lee's brick house at the four corners took fire from the furnace. The family were at dinner and the first known of any thing wrong was when Mr. Lee heard some snapping. On going to the front room found the inside of the chimney a mass of fire and on going to the attic found it filled with smoke. There was a small flame coming up through the floor and a timber near the chimney was burning. He soon put this out with his force pump. Mr. Lee thinks it very fortunate that he was home at the time as the fire would soon have gained such headway that not have been

She Could Never Have Done It With Piles!

Bless the American girl who toe-glorified all the sports! She makes a pretty picture in the water, and is a plucky swimmer, too. Piles are unthinkable for active women. If you have them, you ought to know this simple thing to do!

At any hour or moment that you have the least distress or discomfort from piles, use a simple Pyramid pile suppository and go happily on your way! The worst hemorrhoids, even bleeding and badly protruding piles respond at once to the soothing suppository applied in perfect privacy. But bear the name in mind; Pyramid is the one every druggist has, usually the safe one he will sell his patrons. Pyramid is marvelous. Why suffer another single half-hour with painful piles?

DANIELSON

ADDITION TO KILLINGLY HIGH SOON TO BE STARTED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 10.—The stage is all set for the final moves that will lead to the actual starting of construction of additions to Killingly High school. At a meeting of the special committee of the town charged with the duty of making the building arrangements the revised plans, revised only in minor detail, have been approved and accepted.

Bids for construction are to be asked immediately and all such must be filed prior to March 16, when they will be opened, publicly, at the town hall building.

It is understood that numerous contractors have been awaiting submission of the accepted and finally approved plans that they may study them and submit their bids. The town has made available an appropriation not to exceed $150,000 for the construction of the additions, such alterations of the present building as may be necessary and for furnishings and equipment. Therefore, not all of the $150,000 will go to the contractors. It is very likely that the building contract will be let for a very considerable number of thousands under the maximum appropriation available. Keen competition for the work will induce contractors to figure very closely.

The plans that will be submitted to the contractors are changed only in minor detail from the general plan submitted to the committee several months ago.

With the contract likely to be awarded very soon after March 16, it will be possible to undertake work very early in the spring. The hope is that all the work to be done will be completed and the enlarged school ready for occupancy down to the last requirement when school opens for another year next September.

No difficulty in marketing the bonds that will be issued to meet the expenditure involved is anticipated. Killingly, with a good record of continuous debt reduction for years past, will be able to sell its special school bond issues under very favorable circumstances. The bonds are being sought after by a number of houses handling such issues.

STORM CAUSES MORE BAD TRAFFIC TIE-UPS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 10.—Another nasty northeast snow storm came to plague this section of northeastern Connecticut Wednesday. It had its inception in the early morning hours and was right smart at work by sunrise time. While not of the severity of the storm of a week ago today, it was not long in creating trouble for the transportation lines engaged in operating over state highways and in piling up difficulties for individuals whose duties obligate them to serve the public in one way or another.

By noon time, when the storm had commenced to diminish in intensity, about five inches of snow had fallen and more was added as the afternoon wore on. Long before noon, however, those who tried to operate motor vehicles over the state highway began to have their troubles, generally at places where the worst blockades of the past week were encountered. The miniature canyons, walled in by snow, began to fill rapidly as the driving northeast storm swirled snow into these cuts. Shovels were brought into action as early as 10 a. m. to get cars through from Brooklyn to Danielson. Before noon the Connecticut company abandoned its efforts to maintain a schedule and was ordering its coaches into the garage at the Dyer dam. They went off their runs at the first opportunity. Lines operating between Providence and Hartford via Danielson found their coaches hard pressed by conditions as early as 10 o'clock. One big coach got into difficulties on the West Side, near Day street, and had to be hauled out after it got stuck while trying to turn around and get back to Danielson.

State highway plows, manned by crews that have had an overdose of work the past week, rolled over the trunk lines passing through Danielson in a brave effort to keep them open to traffic. They did notable work—and are still doing it. To the crews engaged in this work February is proving to be just one battle after another.

Operators of motor cars complained of being blinded by the storm, especially those who resorted to opening the windshields of their machines in an effort to see. Windshield cleaners were unavailing against the driving storm.

Danielson's schools were not in session Wednesday, the first complete break of a day during the present winter season, though there was a one-session day last Thursday. The storm again paralyzed business, keeping practically all out of town trade away, which is saying only a little more than might be said about home trade.

Not so many cars were reported stalled along the trunk lines Wednesday as in the storm of the past week. A reason for this was that many drivers learned by their experiences of last week not to be too ambitious in their traveling plans. They did not venture far from home.

Low temperature was a feature of the storm. Mercury hovered between 10 and 12 above zero in Danielson during all of Wednesday. Householders watched with regret the consumption of additional fuel in a season when hard coal is so scarce and exceedingly difficult to get.

Some funerals scheduled for Wednesday were postponed on account of the storm and the extreme hardship it would have created for those who would have to venture out and in getting to cemeteries off state highways.

A new chapter unfolds in the marital difficulties of Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, resident in the eastern part of this town, and Mrs. Mary Harrison of 25 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., who obtained an uncontested divorce from him, on the grounds of desertion, in the superior court at Putnam the past week. It would appear from the testimony at the trial, at which Mr. Harrison did not appear, that Mrs. Harrison was exclusively the aggrieved party. She made out a case in which she represented that her husband left her in 1906, and that for years thereafter she did not know his whereabouts or as to whether he was living or dead.

The day after she had obtained the divorce she sought and obtained an interview with the writer of this column, and told a sob story covering details of her life since the separation with her husband, and she told it well, it may be said. She was gracious, cultured, conservative and all convincing. An important incident she failed to mention, or hint at, was that she remarried, taking on June 21, 1913, a chauffeur, Charles P. Whited, a man some years her junior. That act made her a bigamist.

In view of the publicity she invited, Mr. Harrison says, in a printed interview, that he has letters that prove she was aware of his existence when she remarried and as to where he was and what he was doing for a living. "I offered her a home at the farm here, but I knew she would soon get sick of it," he is quoted as saying.

It appears that Mr. Harrison speaks now only because of his wife giving out an interview for publication. His one desire was to avoid publicity, and this, it may be said, he has done all through the difficulties in which the divorce action involved him. Mr. Harrison is quoted as saying that he plans to sell his farm and go back to his trade as an engraver.

There was no milk for some Danielson families Wednesday from the countryside whence the supply is usually drawn. The storm blockaded some of the peddlers who come through highways that are especially prone to become blockaded in severe winter weather. Others, more fortunately situated near good roads, managed to cover their routes as usual Wednesday, not as punctually as is ordinary, but getting through and carrying on. In connection with the handicaps imposed upon about every variety of weather that involves moving about outdoors the past ten days, it has been remarked that housewives find many things they take for granted as always being in the market are not so plentiful just now. Necessaries have the call over things that are really non-essential, though pleasant enough and in common use. And on the other hand, an ice cream truck was noted plowing along through the storm and making deliveries Wednesday. Maybe spring will come after all.

This must be that particular period of the winter forecasted by the Cloud Digger to bring one storm after another in rapid succession, probably as an entrance test for snow shovelers.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Call, who went to Florida the past month have spent some time at White Springs, going from there to St. Cloud and thence to Deland, from which place communications were received from them here on Wednesday.

Computing roughly, ten days of February have produced approximately 20 inches of snow in this area. December and January snows amounted to little or nothing this season. In doing what it is doing, February is but living up to its reputation. A responsible writer who has access to weather records dating back more than a century finds by careful study and compilation of information therein contained that February is very generally the heavy snow month of the year in New England. Thank Allah or some other Charleston diety that February has but 28 days. It might be worse.

Mrs. Herbert C. Keech has charge of the arrangement of the program for next Monday evening's meeting of Killingly grange. It is to be a musical Valentine night and a very happy few hours are in prospect for all grangers.

Miss Lucile Downs, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Downs of Goodyear, and a senior at the Massachusetts State Normal school, is temporarily teaching in the commercial department of the Dedham High school, Dedham, Mass. Miss Downs' special work will in no way interfere with her graduation next June. Miss Downs is a graduate of Killingly High school in the class of 1922, and prepared the honor essay for the commencement exercises.

An alumni association dance to have been held at the assembly hall of Killingly High school Wednesday evening was called off because of the storm, and will be held Monday evening of next week.

With the present accumulation of snow, it would appear that a pressing requirement just now is to dig out such hydrants about the borough as are more or less buried under snowbanks and more or less inaccessible.

Wanted—a story about a robin, a guy wearing linen knickers, or an announcement of a clambake or some such thing to ease off the pressure of real winter that February is mercilessly handing down.

On the other hand, this particular section of New England is hoping through many minds that President Coolidge stands pat and lets the coal operators and miners take such a licking for lack of support of public opinion, as they so richly deserve. New Englanders may be cold, but they will not quit and do not relish being robbed. Remember the Mayflower!

PUTNAM

STATE ROADS ARE AGAIN BLOCKED BY SNOW DRIFTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 10—After getting the roads of Windham county back in normal condition for traveling, following the blizzard of last Thursday, Luther M. Keith, state supervisor, may have the work to do all over again and under worse conditions, for the snow that fell today was blown into drifts by the strong wind. The story of the work that was done, obtained from authentic sources, is highly interesting, and to those unacquainted with the situation, it is a revealing one.

After forty hours of almost incessant battling with the fiercest blizzard and heaviest snowfall in the past seven years Luther M. Keith, on Friday night, had the state highways of Windham county restored to almost normal traveling conditions. At some points it was a one-way road as far as big motor trucks were concerned. If those big machines went six inches too far off the roadway they were "stuck"; but 48 hours later these obstacles had been overcome. By the time that Rhode Island highway officials awoke to the fact that they were buried under snow from four to eight feet deep, the roads in this section had been cleared enough to permit travel both ways.

Only those who were engaged in the work or were eye witnesses realized the stupendous task that had been accomplished. In addition to the 60 men available on short notice for emergencies like these, Mr. Keith had picked up 75 more wherever he could find them. By noon Thursday he had a force of 135 manning the plows and trucks and plying hand shovels where the machines could not be utilized.

For 40 hours these men got an average of five hours' sleep, and no chance to sid down to a regular meal. They ate sandwiches and drank steaming coffee in a wayside garage or in the shelter of a heavy truck and then hurried back to their work. And Mr. Keith asked of no one what he was not willing to do himself. He did not remove his clothing for two days and nights, and he was in constant touch with every part of his district, which practically comprises all of Windham county.

He had a fleet or eleven heavy trucks with plows or shovels attached. They are not nearly as valuable as they were a week ago for the kind of work in which they have been used takes the life out of a machine like that the same as it exhausts the vitality of a man. But in some sections, due to the location of a road or the steep grades that flank it on either side, the power driven machines could not be used. There is a stretch of 1,400 feet of roadway north of Jewett City, where the power-plows could not push the snow, which had an average depth of from six to seven feet, to one side, for there are no sides. There was nothing to do but shovel it out. The man on the job did it and did it quickly.

Snow began to fall about midnight last Wednesday; two hours later the Connecticut officials whose duty it is to keep the trunk lines open to traffic, realized that they were up against the biggest blizzard that had occurred for many winters. And never has it been so necessary that state roads should be kept open. Railways and trolley lines have gradually reduced their rolling stock and a large part of the state's traffic—passenger and freight—is carried in motor driven vehicles. An idea of the immensity of this work can be obtained from the fact that in the supervisor's office in this city, one person was kept busy in sending out and answering phone messages. The foremen of the different gangs were making reports at regular intervals to local headquarters, advising of progress or asking for orders; there was a constant interchange of reports between all the state supervisors, and, most voluminous of all, was the steady stream of inquiries from motorists, wanting to know if they could get through from one point to another, or if not then, how soon; or if there was some other route open by which they could get to their destination. The information furnished to the public was almost invaluable.

And, as said in the beginning, it looks as if the work will have to begin all over again. All the R. F. D. routes were "covered" in full yesterday for the first time since the storm, but they cannot be tomorrow.

When Clarence Chase was returning from his delivery of mail on R. F. D., No. One, Monday evening, a heavy motor truck truck ran into his sleigh. The sleigh was demolished and Mr. Chase severely shaken up but not seriously hurt. The accident occurred on School street opposite the office of the Putnam Coal & Wood Co.

HORSE DRAGS INJURED MASTER INTO BARN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 10—It has often been said that horses are possessed of almost human intelligence and the following incident shows that there is something in it. A few days ago, as Chester A. May, of Woodstock, was walking beside his horse to water it in the barn yard, the animal's feet balled so with snow, that it fell, striking Mr. May in the leg with his hoof, causing him to fall. Neither man or beast was able to get up for quite a few minutes. Finally the horse struggled to its feet and started for the barn. Missing his master from his side, he whirled around and went back to where he lay. The horse bent its head to enable Mr. May to grasp it by the neck, and then dragged him to the barn, staying with him until help arrived. Mr. May's leg is badly swollen but no bones are broken.

At a meeting of the Belding-Heminway Silk company held in the Providence street plant, the following officials for the 1926 ball team were elected: Manager, Francis Murphy; assistant manager, Rudolph Nelson; captain, John Caffrey. Carl Nelson, who has been manager for the club for a number of seasons and to whom the club owes much of its excellent reputation, declined the renomination.

Miss Levan Dixon, of Woodstock, who is as usual spending the winter with her grand niece, Mrs. Shepherd, at Sturbridge, celebrated her 91st. birthday a few days ago. Friends from Putnam, Southbridge and Woodstock were invited to spend the day with her. The people from Putnam were obliged to remain over night because they found the roads so bad that it was impossible to return at night.

George Wetherell and George Nealey, who have been working for a construction company in Hartford, have returned to their homes, as the weather has made it impossible to continue with the work.

Miss Mary F. Potter, of Woodstock, who is engaged in Americanization work, is to attend the National Educational conference to be held at Washington this month. She will be gone about two weeks.

Emil Anderson and C. A. Potter, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., have been visiting relatives here for the past week.

Frances M. Gallagher, of New London, was a Putnam visitor yesterday.

Jack Cronin, of the Boston college, has been spending a few days with his family in this city.

The first "get together" meeting of Headquarters company was held at the armory and proved very successful. The committee served a lunch of hot dogs, cheese, doughnuts and coffee and the meeting was such a success that it is planned to have one every two weeks.

After lunch, Sergt. Charron, acting chairman of the evening, called first, on Capt. McGarry, who spoke of the welfare of the company. First Lieut. White also gave a short talk. Private Bouley was asked to give the boys a song and his rendition of "The Prisoner's Song" was appreciated by all. A quartette, consisting of Serpt. Bennett, Corp. Bove, 1st. Cl. Priv. Child and Priv Bouley, with Private Dumas at the piano, sang several selections.

Private Woodis gave several whistling selections. Then Sergt. Murphy entertained the company with several of his famous Irish selections on the piano. Corp. Bove, as a reader, proved himself a tip-top entertainer, and Sergt. LeClair told a number of his celebrated Italian stories, which was followed by several members of the company in a funny story contest.

The evening's entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

The captain reminded the boys that there will be a drill on Friday night of this week.

Second Lieutenant Shirreffs, who has been with the company a short time, has sent in his resignation to take effect March 3. Lieut. Shirreffs is well liked by all and the company is sorry that he has resigned.

Mrs. Cortland D. Arnold is at the Day Kimball hospital, where she underwent a serious operation. Her physicians say that her condition is encouraging.

The local chapter of the D. A. R. made "old-fashioned fiddling" a feature of their monthly meeting. Prof. "Bud" Short was impersonated by Mrs. Dorothy Prince, who played Turkey in the Straw, and The Spanish Cavalier, competing with Miss Gertrude, who, as "Uncle Dudley," rendered The Old Gray Mare, and Jingle Bells. The judges could not decide which was the better and a loving cup was presented each contestant.

In the attire of a Colonial Trio, Mrs. Pearl Wheaton, Mrs. Gertrude Letters and Mrs. Gertrude Thayer sang three selections very acceptably. April, my April, Love's Old Sweet Song, and Carry Me Back to Old Virginny. Six couples, dressed in old-time costumes, danced the Virginia reel.

There was especial interest in the announcement that the membership of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter had reached 200.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, of Norwich, is to hold a clinic at the Day Kimball hospital next Tuesday, February 16th.

The Thompson W. C. T. U. is to hold a meeting on Thursday, February 18, at the King's Daughters' hall at East Thompson. The speaker will be Francis Williard. The hostesses will be Mrs. Lizzie Pember and Mrs. Minnie Bixby.

PLAINFIELD

The contest which is to be sponsored by the Lawton Dramatic club, is to be held next Monday at the Community house. The best of the local talent will participate, and the Community association will award a cash prize to the group making the best showing. Those who will participate in the contest are: The Woodstock Gang, The Dramatic club, The Camp Fire Girls, and The Girl Scouts. Several rehearsals have been held by the different groups, and two of them have announced their program and casts. The Dramatic club are offering a two act comedy sketch entitled The Modern Spinsters association. This play brings out the efforts of a number of spinsters endeavoring to marry through a matrimonial agency. The play is set at the time of hoopskirts. There are 20 members in the cast and all parts are assigned to girls, as follows: Spinsters, Devonia Atkinson, Helen Lofgren; Miranda Meyers, Lillian Deschamps; Flossie Flint, Marie Jane Royer; Augustus Simmons, Irene Beaudoin; Jane Elaine Jones, Cecil Deschamps; Mary Ann Simpkins, Claudia Dupere; Prudence Pry, Irene Handfield; Roberta and Alberta Smith, Helen Eastham and Marceline Vincent. The Bachelors are: Daniel Martin, Antoinette Hebert; John James Doodle, Eleanor Dayon; Horace McCorkle, Cecilia Daigneault; Oswald Mrown, Florence Johnson; Lemuel Brown, Irene Bergeron; Duke Italino, Juliet Bergeron; Thomas Sherman, Antoinette Hebert; Pat O'Hara, Elsie Currier; Cyrus Fritter, Amelia Tetreault; Henree Voulynous, Blanche Dupere.

The boys of the Woodstock gang will feature an athletic number and tumbling act with the following performers: Jigers Jollicoeur, Edward Davignon, Eli Barstow, Hoot Gibson, Reynold Bergeron, Arthur Davignon, Roy Hebert, Peck Allard, Jake Driscol, James Foy, Hugh Englin, Arthur Daigneault, Bob Connelly, Frank Davignon, Alphonse Coulombe, Thomas Lang and IcDk Hilton. Boxing bouts will be given by Bud Burby, Arthur Davignon, Red Currier and Dele Bergeron.

A burlesque bout will be staged between Jigers Jollicoeur and Hoot Gibson. A quartet composed of Emile Arsenault, Byron Provost, Vernon Warhurst, and Harry Johnson will sing some popular numbers with a ukelele accompaniment. Exhibition of the Charleston will be given by Edward Bergeron, Vernon Warhurst and Harry Johnson. Albert Smith of Railroad avenue will give a novelty act, parts of his porfessional numbers.

Wilfred Clothier, 4 years of age will give a song and clog dance, and a vaudeville act will be given by the Buckingham Trio, James Foy, Jake Driscoll and Leo Jollicoeur.

This last snowstorm has again crippled traffic around the town. After several days of clearing by groups of snow shovellers it was made possible for traffic to proceed. All this work has been spoiled by this last blizzard.

St. Jean De Baptiste society recently held a whist party and dance at the Odd Fellows hall, with 28 tables occupied. The dance music was furnished by the society orchestra. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Joseph Metivier, Arthur Donais, Pauline Peltier, and Agnes Dupont.

The Children of Mary society held its monthly meeting at the Community house on Monday evening. Plans for the social work following the Lenton season were discussed.

The Knights of Columbus, St. John's council, held its regular meeting at the Community house on Wednesday evening, and the matter of new rooms again came up for discussion. Edgar Fobeille was appointed treasurer, to succeed Ralph Seney, who resigned for business reasons. Walter Laugherty will take the place of Mr. Gabeille as a trustee.

The installation of officers was held by the Artisans at a recent meeting held at the Community house. Napoleon Lavargante of Woonsocket was the installing officer, and was assisted by Mr. Dion of Taftville. An address was given by Mr. Lavargante, after which there was dancing. The officers installed were: President, Mrs. George Russell; vice president, Agnes Dupont; second vice president, George Russell; secretary and treasurer, Arthur Forcier; auditors, Joseph Carboneau and William Dupont; representative of the executive council, Adals Boulais.

STORM ALONG COAST SEVEREST IN YEARS

on shore, only a few feet away to send for aid, to throw a life buoy, to save his life. Lopes could not swim and even a swimmer would have had less than an even chance in that sea. After two hours of his pleading a giant wave crashed against the craft, she reeled over on her side, and Lopes was seen no more.

The other two men, who lost their lives, John Gravata and Manuel Mitchell, were swept out to sea when a wave engulfed them as they tried to climb over handed along a line that led to shore. The other members of the crew had obeyed orders and left the ship soon after she was dashed against the rocks, three miles north of this post, which annually sees its toll of lives taken from the ranks of the men who brave sea gales to visit the fishing banks.

One of the three bodies was recovered by coast guardsmen at dusk. Positive identification could not be made, but from descriptions furnished by the survivors and the police it was believed to be that of Mitchell. The body was wedged in the rocks below the high water mark, where the beach patrol was able to reach it after the tide fell. The body was taken to a nearby garage where it will remain until the roads back to town are broken out.

Captain Albara Quadros said that when the vessel was grounded at about 5:30 o'clock this morning he had ordered all hands ashore, after he had seen how close to land the vessel had struck. He, himself, swung out on a line from the rigging and landed on a rock without so much as getting wet. Other members of the crew followed, but Lopes, Gravata and Mitchell stayed behind to pick up their clothing and other belongings. While they tarried a great wave crashed against the schooner, loosened her from her mooring and drove her farther out to sea. She struck rocks again, however, and lodged a few feet from the shore but too far away to permit rescuing the three men on board.

"If they had obeyed orders, their lives would have been saved," said Captain Quadros.

The skipper also placed the blame for the crash upon the carelessness of Gravata. This man, he declared, had the lookout watch and he and the wheelman were the only ones on board that were awake. Gravata went below, Captain Quadros said, to warm himself by the galley stove and did not warn the wheelman that they were approaching land and failed to tell him that they had passed Gloucester harbor, their destination.

NINE DEATHS AS RESULT OF STORM WERE REPORTED

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Northeastern United States, the chosen battleground for the elements, tonight lay under two feet of snow as a result of the second blizzard to visit the region within a week.

Roaring down on the wings of northeast gales which piled up huge drifts on land and rolled up mountainous yaves at sea, causing shipping to scurry to shelter, the storm laid a fresh covering ranging from 10 to 15 inches over the snow blanket left by last Thursday's blizzard. The drifts ranged from six to 10 feet in height.

Nine deaths as a result of the storm were reported. Three of them were in the wreck of the fishing schooner Ralph Brown near Gloucester, Mass., two in Connecticut, one in New York city, two in Boston and one in Philadelphia. Scores received minor injuries as a result of street accidents. Railroads were crippled, motor and street car traffic was suspended or demoralized. Property damage was great, and the millions of dollars expended in removing the snow of last week from streets and highways went for naught.

The storm raged through Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Massachusetts. A survey of the area showed:

A score of railway trains stalled in New England; and on Long Island; all schools in New York and Rhode Island, and many in other states, closed. County courts on Long Island closed; factories and business houses everywhere closing hours earlier than usual; all mail deliveries slowed up; all traffic in Boston harbor suspended and trains, where running at all, seriously delayed.

The air mail service, for the second time since its inauguration, was suspended. All pilots between New York and Chicago remained at the hangars at which the start of the storm found them.

Shipping was hampered by the gale and heavy seas. Wireless stations reported a number of requests for radio compass bearings. The only casualty reported was the Ralph Brown, blown ashore at Briar Neck, near Gloucester. Eighteen of the crew of 21 were saved.

Suburbs and outlying towns in many cases were isolated from without and snowbound within. Thousands of commuters, forced to wallow through deep drifts to reach railway stations, were delayed in reaching their places of business. Taxicabs, which had reaped a harvest since last Thursday's storm, refused to leave the main highways at any price. Many private cars which attempted to force their way through side streets and byroads, were stalled and abandoned.

In the anthracite coal regions the storm added fresh burdens to hundreds of families impoverished by the six months strike of the miners.

In the larger cities a milk famine was threatened, due to the delay of numerous milk trains.

Rum Row was left to its own devices as the coast guard patrol boats scurried to shelter. However, the rough sea was considered a sufficient barrier to any unauthorized landing of liquor boats.

A man's favorite dish is the one his wife thinks too much of to throw at him.

CAPE COD CANAL

The rivers and harbors committee of the house is holding hearings on the proposal that the government purchase the Cape Cod canal at a price of $11,500,000 one half of which is to be paid in cash and the remainder in bonds, and it is being furnished certain reasons why it should make a favorable report.

The purchase of the canal by the government has long been urged. It is regarded as in line with the development that is being undertaken in connection with harbors and rivers and the ownership of the canal would not only be of great value to coastwise shipping, but also to the government vessels. The canal isn't to be closed if the government doesn't buy but there are handicaps existing at the present time which the government would eliminate, but which step would in all probability never be taken if it remains in the hands of the owners.

The canal eliminates the necessity of vessels going out around Cape Cod. Aside from the reduction of the distance between Boston and New York about 70 miles some idea of what would be gained is obtained from the statement of the chief of army engineers who reports that in the last decade there were 32 lives lost in wrecks on Cape Cod, $[illegible] interest and property to the value of more than $800,000 was lost. Getting around Cape Cod may be dangerous in good weather but there are numerous shoals and reefs which could be avoided by use of the canal.

The canal has never been brought to the point in its development where all vessels can use it. Shoaling has resulted since construction that will require a quarter of a million to remove, but further development by the government would not only open it to all shipping but would make it possible for the navy to use it at all times, whether in peace or war. Naval vessels as well as others have piled up on Cape Cod at no small expense to the government. Government acquisition of the canal would prove a great benefit as well as a relief to coastwise shipping.

THE FIRE LOSSES

When the announcement is made that the fire losses in this country and Canada last month reached the total of $41,118,000, it may not make a very deep impression unless some thought is given to the causes and the comparison with other first of the year months. What does hold attention, or at least should, is the disclosures as the result of comparison which shows that there was only a very slight difference between the loss this January and that of the same period a year ago.

For the year 1925 the fire losses for the United States and Canada reached the huge total of $373,500,000, a decrease of but four million from the year 1924. And now 1926 is opening with no prospects from the first month's losses that there will be any great change in the grand total this year.

These losses are being sustained, it is to be remembered, regardless of the tireless efforts that are being put forth in behalf of prevention and the tremendous sums that are being spent for the fighting of fire. Investigations show that for the most part the fires are preventable. That means that in spite of the lessons which have been taught by fire after fire there are those who utterly ignore the part they should play in preventing fires and proceed to show the same disregard for the great national ashheap which they are helping to build.

Certainly if the majority of the fires are needless there is a carelessness bordering on the criminal that is highly deplorable. The fire losses are heavy, but they should be showing a decrease each year instead of an increase. It is only the refusal to become educated in the matter of simple preventives, or the failure to comply with them after they are learned, that keeps the losses at such a high figure. It is clearly evident that we cannot expect to see the losses drop solely through the fire fighting activities of the paid departments. Faithful and efficient as their work is there are great responsibilities resting on the individuals to see that fires, small or large, are not kindled through their carelessness.

THE GULLIBLE ARE NUMEROUS

Not very many years ago this part of the country was pretty well upset over the outcome of the Ponzi operations. Many there are who can point to the losses they experienced, and yet down in Florida this week the grand jury has brought charges against this same individual. It will be necessary to wait and see how the trial turns out. Hasty judgment is not always just.

Those who have some way of estimating such things have recently stated that the people of this country lost a billion dollars last year through worthless securities. They were done out of their money in one way and another, and it is to be presumed that the alluring story of great big profits was the basis for it. So eager was the disposition to get rich quick, or to take a flier in the hopes of an impossible return, that there was scarcely any thought of the proposition being phoney. It was a dead open and shut proposition as pictured, and it was impossible to get that picture out of mind.

That those engaged in the disposition of such securities got, no more than a billion under such circumstances is the real surprising thing. Year after year there is the same report, except that the amount seems to be growing larger instead of smaller each year. The experience of others doesn't seem to have made any impression whatever, and even those who have been bit once proceed to subject themselves to that kind of treatment a second and third time.

Ponzi is not an unknown. His operations were given wide publicity. He went about his Florida scheme openly and if he is found guilty of the charges brought against him he can at least say that the people went into it with their eyes open. This doesn't mean that there should be a toleration of swindling operations just because a person has been convicted of participating in such activities before. An indictment does not establish his guilt in connection with the Florida matter but it should make some people do some real thinking regarding their judgment concerning such a man and his schemes.

EMBASSY OWNERSHIP

When testimony is offered before a congressional committee that it cost an ambassador $48,000 in certain instances to maintain his position abroad while he is getting only $12,000 as a salary, there is certainly good reason advanced for giving support to the bill which have been introduced calling for the appropriation of a sum with which to purchase embassy buildings.

We are far behind other countries in this respect. We are obliged to select men of large means for such posts. That may or may not prove a handicap to our diplomatic service but surely the maintenance of adequate embassies is a matter which concerns this government and should not be left to the different representatives.

There has been the experience of being forced to seek new quarters because the owners of existing ones either wanted them for other purposes or sought to obtain larger rentals. We have been about as unwise in connection with our embassies as we have with the housing of some of our government departments in Washington. Instead of being centered in government property they are occupying leased quarters and scattered about the national capital.

That the ownership of our own property in the capitals of other countries would prove a bit more sound economy as well as being a justified relief for our ambassadors seems clearly established. It is a matter which has been repeatedly urged. In some instances action in this direction has been taken but there seems to be no good reason why it should not become a fixed policy and be generally applied.

TIME TO ACT

Apparently one more effort is to be made to adjust the financial situation in France in the hopes that politics can be put to one side and a sane consideration given to the situation that exists. Interest thus centers upon the plan arranged by the premier with parliament to meet and adopt some kind of a financial bill.

It has been repeatedly set forth that France cannot go on indefinitely without the adjustment of its financial problems and yet there is opposition to every bill that is offered. Others in the post of premier have failed to get anywhere and it remains to be seen whether Briand must go the way they did.

The deplorable fact in connection with the whole situation is that while the opposition has repeatedly defeated the measures that have been brought forward, it has produced none itself. Its attention has been directed to this phase of the figure but there has as yet been no response on its part it adheres to the policy of doing nothing and refusing to permit those who are willing to do something to act.

Opposition in this instance appears to be based on contrariness. The interests of the country are entirely ignored. The responsibilities of the members making up the opposition are utterly disregarded. It is a serious situation when control exists under such conditions.

When Briand declares that something must be done one way or the other it is to be inferred that either a bill of some form must be passed or he gives up the attempt to deal with the situation further. France may well give serious thought as to whether it can afford to lose the benefit of Briand influence at this time.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Even a bread trust cannot be formed without plenty of dough.

The man on the corner says. Those who went to Florida are certainly missing something.

Even though Ponzi has again been indicted for fraud, there are still those who would hustle to put their dollars in his hands again tomorrow.

When Ireland cuts its military expenditures by $5,000,000 it certainly sets an impressive example in an unexpected quarter.

The governor of Maine and his party have reached Florida, but will what the governor of Maine has to say to the governor of Florida ever become as famous as the exchange between the governors of North and South Carolina?

Those senators who are urging the president to do something about the coal situation have entirely ignored for two years and a half his plea to enact legislation that would give him authority to do something. They have kept his hands tied and yet ask action.

The Delaware negro was convicted and sentenced quite as promptly as the one in Kentucky. Such is far preferable to snap judgment and the stringing up of a man to a telegraph pole.

ANITA DISCRIMINATES.

You will know right away what kind of girl Anita was when you are told that wives intrusted their husbands to her and that her girl friends always called her up to take their places when it was necessary that somebody other than themselves should keep a dinner date with their fiances.

Not that she was homely and stupid. Anita was a bright, well-groomed, rather chic young person, with remarkable gray eyes, but her cool aloofness and poise were rather disconcerting to young men. They passed her by and all the women of her crowd were accustomed to Anita's being a wallflower. She played fair, too. Never by the flicker of an eyelash did she attempt to make herself attractive to the men, tall and short, fat and thin who rang the doorbell and said variously that she certainly was a peach to fill Mary's place at the Rumsted dinner or go with them to the opera when Adele came down with a fierce headache. Yet they said good-night with a vague feeling that, things being otherwise, it might have been interesting to delve further into the life and character of this girl, who could be so charming and yet so obviously unimpressed by them. They were modern men accustomed to the open adoration and frank wooing of the women who liked them.

And Isabel would proceed to phone Anita and beg her to help Tom use up the theatre tickets for that night because the baby was feverish and she—Isabel—would better stay at home. Neither she nor the rest ever pondered over the fact that their Toms and Johns and Dicks and Harrys did not object when turned over to Anita the second time.

It had not dawned on anybody that since Anita so obviously refused to advertise to the public how nice she really could be, all that was necessary to make her howlingly popular was to have the men force upon her to find out for themselves. The fact remained that the men who were so thrown in her company all wore large collars and chains and it did them no good. The gay and unattached ones, roving as they would with no hand to guide them, surveyed Anita in passing, perhaps hesitated and then hurried on toward beckoning eyes and smiling lips and flattering words, and her memory was sponged from their consciousness.

"Oh, Anita," Flossy Gilmore's high treble came over the phone one day, "can you help me out? Belmore writes that he'll be here next week unexpectedly—and I'm maid of honor at that Kansas City wedding, with a million parties before the day. I've simply got to go—be nice to Belmore, won't you, and amuse him evenings?"

All the first evening that she and Belmore White spent at dinner and dancing Anita wondered secretly how on could have been attracted by such a frivolous little lightweight as Flossy Gilmore. Besides being good looking, he was such a broad-minded, charming, yet dependable fellow. She was amazed to find that it was 1 o'clock when she had thought it 10—and Belmore seemed in no hurry to say good-night at that.

They had so much to talk about. They did not finish their conversation the next night, either, nor the third so they tucked in lunch together every day after that, in addition to the evenings. Anita, something fierce and grim stirring within her soul, refused to think. There are times when all rules and prohibitions go by the board.

Seven nights after his business trip had brought him to town Belmore White was talking to Anita stormily imperatively, and she had no arguments to stop him.

"Why," he said, "we belong. I can't imagine life without you, Flossy? I haven't thought of Flossy once since I laid eyes on you, and I don't care and you don't—and she won't after five minutes. She's probably wiring now that she wants to break our engagement because she's met an Oklahoma millionaire. When are you going to marry me?"

Well, said all the women, they never in the world could understand how Anita, of all people, could do a thing like that. You just never could tell! But their men did not join in the chorus—they just smoked on as though they were superior beings who comprehended all happenings.—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

William Penn Cresson of Boston, who has been appointed American secretary to the general claims commission of the United States and Mexico, is well fitted both by diplomatic training and historical knowledge to assist in the disposition of the $641,000,000 in claims. He speaks Spanish fluently and has served as secretary of embassies or legations in various Spanish-American countries as well as in London, Leningrad, Lisbon, and other European capitals. He was chief of the American Military Mission to Belgium General Headquarters and also served as a captain in the air service during the war. At the Washington conference he served as diplomatic secretary. Mr. Cresson is a native of Delaware and studied at the University of Pennsylvania and in Paris. Before entering the diplomatic service he had practiced architecture in Washington and tried ranching in the far west.

From Small Beginnings

Vicente Guerrero, the Emancipator of Mexican Slaves

Fame is willing to stop for a moment by the grave of an ignorant Mexican revolutionist, and there place a wreath in his honor, for Vicente Guerrero ignorant, a peasant, a revolutionist, a man who lived by the sword and who died by public execution at the front of a firing squad, set free the slaves of Mexico.

He did this in 1829, a whole generation before Abraham Lincoln set free the slaves in the United States.

Vicent Guerrero was 47 years old when, as president of Mexico, he signed the decree abolishing slavery in Mexico. Two years later he stood before the firing squad and bravely met his death at the hands of his own countrymen. He had started as an ordinary land laborer. He worked on his farm land until he was about 23, when he, like every one else, was drawn into one of the almost constant revolutions that shook the country. Here the laborer fought and directed troops with such skill that he rose at once from the ranks, like some hero of old for some years he kept up guerilla warfare. Then when it looked as if the revolution would be crushed he sprang to the front and showed himself a real general. He would never consider a king for Mexico, and demanded full freedom. As a result, he had his way, defeated his enemies and was elevated to the vice presidency.

Now like Macbeth, he felt the drive of personal ambition, and that led to his ruin. When another man was elected president, in opposition to him, he encouraged a movement that drove the legally elected president away, and that gave him the highest office. He had won personal power—and lo! his enemies took things into their own hands, organized against his illegal seizure of the presidency, and thus brought about his execution.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

What is to Blame?

Mr. Editor:—Turning the question put by Observer in your columns today from "who" to "what", my intention is not to minimise his very well intentioned purpose, but rather to enlarge the scope of his conclusions.

The question "What is the matter with Norwich?" is a very broad one—one which we need not go all the way to New York to hear, many very other men at home—and there are some—are now studying this question; the causes of which they cannot lay to any one individual, nor class, nor club of actors, of which we have many.

I appreciate Observer's feelings in passing through Main street at some hour of the day and seeing it as if deserted. I have noted this solitude myself. Then again, after having done a necessary errand, on my return trip I have been hardly able to make my way through crowds of people, old and young, all well dressed and happy. Asking some one of the crowd who I may be also fortunate to know, why This is This, I am told—"Why the theater is just let out." I naturally wonder at this, because it is now in proper business hours when industrious people are employed in their places of business and house-keepers are at their homes. I wonder if this is not one of the things that is the matter with Norwich? But! suppose if all these people were busy at some money earning duties, the theaters would conclude that Norwich was a "dead place for business." Now, we are supporting three, seven days in the week with almost continuous performance, and I am told notwithstanding the incorporators are drawing no dividends. What is to blame here? Observer comments well on the forced sales in stores. All true, and it seems to be the only way a store can be run here now. A man who waits for the natural demand and supply trade, even in necessaries, will be left in the lurch—if he doesn't adopt the scare-line advertising method of the others.

Is is not an error in the policy of Norwich to think that if only the stores can be kept going that this is "business." A store maybe, and properly should be, a moneymaking concern, but it is not a money producing concern. It is in the shop and factory that we must look for the increase.

Here lies the increment of applied labor. The store is only a place of exchange of values.

It is the shop and the factory that must supply the force to run the stores.

So, also, the interchange of real estate is not indicative of prosperity. It may be, indeed, just the reverse—it is a money-making not a money-producing business. A score of operators in this business today where there used to be only two or three tells its own story. Has Norwich sustained its once famed manufacturing ideals? It would not be hard to form a list of industries that have passed out of existence within a lifetime. We have indeed some products yet of which to brag—but those have taken the place of others gone, to which they should have been an addition.

Recently a benevolent society offered a prize for a slogan with which to boost Norwich, and two good ones, almost identical, came from unexpected sources.

Both these worded,

"Norwich produces what all the world uses." Singularly enough, both these were transposed to read,

"The world uses what Norwich produces," which really means less, for the world uses what every city produces as well as Norwich. Transposing the objective, makes it a "World's Slogan," and not that of Norwich—and violates the thought and intent of the original authors, which to their credit was much in point, as a slogan should be.

Perhaps Observer is correct in thinking that our young men leave the city seeking opportunity to advance—but is not this a laudable ambition? Norwich may well be proud of some such young men who have gone out from here and made good. She has also made some good men illustrious at home. The giving attention to, and not overlooking these may have been considered a less virtue by Norwich than it should be.

A self honoring city will always be one in which they who were born and nutured, will love to inhabit, and love to honor if they do leave it. If Norwich may be said to be a good city to emigrate from it can surely make itself, by its social warmths, a grand place to return to.

Let us not forget this. The warm salutation and hand-shake, the word of praise where merited spoken freely and sincerely can do more to make Norwich a place beloved to dwell in than if its business even made it as large as New York with its millions and its wickedness.

Mocker Explains Why He Remained

When things are done quite out of season
There almost always is a reason.
—Mr. Mocker.

Nothing that Peter Rabbit could say would induce Mocker the Mocking Bird to tell him where he slept nights. "That is my secret," said Mocker, "and I mean to keep it my secret just as long as I can. You know very well, Peter Rabbit, that it is not any of your business. It isn't the business of any one, so there is no use teasing me. If you can find out, I won't have a word to say."

Peter knew that Mocker was quite right. He knew that it is very foolish for any of the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows not to keep their sleeping places secret. So he soon gave up teasing. "Anyway," said he, "you can tell me how it happens that you remained, instead of going south with the rest of the birds. That isn't a secret, is it?"

"No," said Mocker, "that isn't any secret. I stayed because I had to this year."

Peter pricked up both long ears. "Why did you have to?" he demanded.

"Because," replied Mocker, "I met with an accident. I met with an accident to one of my wings and it wasn't strong enough for me to make the long journey to the Sunny South when the time came.

This was news to Peter and he said so. "What kind of an accident did you meet with?" he asked.

Mocker chuckled. "I don't like to tell you," said he.

"Why not?" demanded Peter. "Accidents are nothing to be ashamed of."

"That depends on the kind of accident. Now, this accident that happened to me I am ashamed of."

This puzzled Peter. "What kind of an accident was it?" demanded he.

"It was a stupid accident," replied Mocker. "I didn't watch out and Sharp-Shin the Hawk almost caught me. As it was, he pulled two feathers out of one wing and they were two most important feathers. I couldn't make that long journey for the Sunny South without those feathers. In fact, I had hard work getting around here, though nobody knew it. So there was nothing to do but to stay. By the time I had grown a couple of new flight feathers it was too late to go. So here I am. I'm not sorry, either. I am having a perfectly good time. If the weather gets no worse than it has been, I think I shall get through nicely. I do hope that the supply of berries will hold out. But if they don't, I guess Farmer Brown's Boy will take care of me. Do you know what he has been feeding me?"

Of course, Peter shook his head. "I haven't the least idea," said. "What has he been feeding you?"

"Raisins and currants," replied Mocker. "Raisins and currants, and they are the nicest things."

"What are raisins and currants?"

"I don't know," replied Mocker. "All I know is that they are the nicest things."

"I wish I had some," said Peter.

"If you'll meet me over here to-morrow morning, perhaps I'll bring you some," said Mocker.

"I'll be right here," said Peter. "I'll be right here waiting for you. I'm always right on hand when there is anything good to eat."

Stories That Recall Others

Blowing Out the Budget

The intricacies and pitfalls before budgets for cities, counties and states are as nothing compared to those which beset the budget for the home and household expenditures, according to friends of a man who has had wide experience in budget making. Not long ago this man was found by his friends sitting at his desk with a maze of figures on long sheets of paper spread before him.

"Some inconsistency in the figures of the corporation budget, no doubt," remarked an acquaintance, fearing to intrude. "Perhaps he is proving some important tabulation."

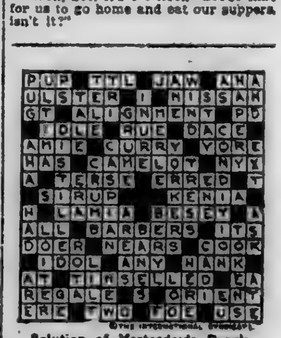
"No, darn it," the budget expert exploded. "My family budget is out of line $44.50, all because I blew out a tire yesterday."

Capacious Mr. X.

The company had arranged a spread for its employes in the office after hours. Desks were converted into tables which were loaded with several different kinds of cakes, sandwiches, salads, potato chips and the like. As usual at affairs of the kind the ones in charge had ordered too much and some in a neighboring office were invited to help eat it.

Among this number was Mr. X. After everyone had consumed enough to give him indigestion and was wondering whether he would be able to look at an angel food cake again, Mr. X glanced at the clock and turning to another said:

"Well, doc, it's 6 o'clock—about time for us to go home and eat our suppers, isn't it?"



Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

Let Tanlac restore your health

If your body is all fagged-out and run down, if you are losing weight steadily, lack appetite, have no strength or energy—why not let Tanlac help you back to health and strength?

So many millions have been benefited by the Tanlac treatment, so many thousands have written to testify to that effect, that it's sheer folly not to make the test.

Tanlac, you know, is a great natural tonic and builder, a compound, after the famous Tanlac formula, of roots, barks and herbs. It purges the blood stream, revitalizes the digestive organs and enables the sickly body to regain its vanished weight.

You don't need to wait long to get results. Tanlac goes right to the seat of trouble. In a day or so you note a vast difference in your condition. You have more appetite, sleep better at night, and the color begins to creep back into your washed-out cheeks.

Don't put off taking Tanlac another precious day. Step into the nearest drug store and get a bottle of this world-famed tonic. That's the first important step back to health and vigor. Every day's delay means unnecessary suffering, for Tanlac starts to clean out and tone up the system right away. And by acting promptly you will avoid further loss of energy and weight due to your present run-down condition. Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation.

Blacksmith Calls Tanlac "Wonderful Medicine"

"I am indebted to Tanlac for my present fine health. The dizziness and agonizing headaches that used to last for days, never bother me now. I eat, sleep and feel better than for many years."

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

Popular songs were sung by the large audience of employees. Lewis Aldrich rendered pleasingly an impressive vocal solo. A brief talk was given by Edwin Hill of the Y. M. C. A. who told the story of one of the great kings of Biblical history, especially emphasizing the manner in which he successfully met and mastered his problems and more especially the great affliction of the loss of a favorite son, who was slain in battle, and in whom, though the son was wayward, his heart was wrapped up. He overcame all of his hardships by leaning hard on the Almighty. We all would meet them successfully, we too must secure the help of the same God on whom the king leaned so constantly. It is well to be happy and jolly and we have a perfect right to enjoy life in all proper ways but it is the part of wisdom to know where to go when the clouds come into our lives.

Next week Rev. J. Harlow Graham will be the speaker at the noon meeting.

CHARGES FAILURE TO SUPPLY HEAT FOR THEATRE

Charged with failure to provide adequate heat for the Strand Theatre in this city, Dr. N. B. Lewis, will be presented in the city court on the morning of February 15th. Abraham Davidson is the complainant, being the lessee of the Strand theatre of which Dr. Lewis is the lessor.

Dr. Lewis was summoned into court after complaint had been lodged with City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins. A continuance until February 16th., was granted by Judge Libby so that the defendant could prepare his defense. If the accused should be found guilty the penalty it is understood, calls for a fine of $100 or 90 days in jail. Among those to be called as witnesses for the state will be: Cornelius King, 59 Freeman avenue; Michael Foster, 16 Laurel Hill avenue; James P. Sheridan, 30 Union street; Thomas Brooks, Chelsea File works; C. B. Flint, 128 Chestnut street; Edward Wright, 50 Boswell avenue; C. D. Grover, Disco building; Fred Holmes, 25 Platt avenue; Otis Fairbanks, 331 Laurel Hill avenue; Patrick Lynch, 20 Spring Garden avenue.

CITY RESUMES STRUGGLE TO CLEAR AWAY SNOW

Norwich was just about getting back to normal again after the blizzard of last week when another half foot of snow was dumped out of the clouds Wednesday. Snow shovels which had just been put away were hustled out again to clear off sidewalks, the trolley company rolled out its ploughs and Street Commissioner John C. Donovan immediately increased his force of shovelers to combat the snow clogged streets. The snowfall was not as great as the fall of last week but a strong wind served to pile up sizeable drifts that impeded traffic considerably.

Trolley traffic was somewhat interrupted but the cars were kept running on a remarkably good schedule. By late afternoon practically all the main streets of the city were again open to traffic. The city's night force went to work late Wednesday night and a half hundred men were kept at work removing the snow from Franklin square and vicinity.

NORWICH-NEW LONDON CONFERENCE FOR MUTUAL BENEFIT PROPOSED

The mayors and members of the courts of common council of Norwich and New London and the members of the borough government of Groton have been invited to attend a joint conference to be held in this city, at the Wauregan House on the evening of March 15th, under the auspices of Norwich Council No. 309, United Commercial Travelers of America. The civic committee of Norwich Council has sent the following letter to Mayor William C. Fox and the members of the New London city council:

Gentlemen:

The United Commercial Travelers, Norwich Council No. 309, through its 200 members are directly interested in promoting the mercantile growth of eastern Connecticut and particularly that of Norwich and New London. Our membership is about evenly divided between these two neighboring municipalities. It is our contention in promoting and developing industry, commerce, banking, mercantile establishments or any other thing of a civic nature in or between these two cities, cooperation must need be of mutual benefit.

Because of the many natural advantages that are so generously abounding on either shore of the Thames river, we feel that some plan can be worked out through a joint meeting of the executives of these progressive cities that will lead to or extenuate our future development along lines mentioned. Norwich Council, No. 309, U. C. T. of A., at a meeting of its executive and civic committees held recently unanimously voted to extend an invitation to you and through you to the members of the court of common council of New London to attend a joint meeting as outlined above to be held in the Wauregan hotel on the evening of Thursday, March 18th, 1926. A business men's luncheon will be served at 7 p. m. at a cost of one dollar per plate. May we hope that every member of the New London common council will be present?

Signed,

C. W. PEARSON, Secretary

To the Honorable William C. Fox, Mayor City of New London.

A similar letter was sent to Mayor Waters of Norwich who has assured the committee that the same will be accepted.

The following letter of acceptance has been received by H. R. Branche, chairman of the executive committee of Norwich Council from City Manager Holt of New London:

Office City Manager
City of New London
February 9, 1926.

Dear Sir:

Referring to your letter of February 6th, inclosing copy of the letter from Secretary Pearson to the mayor and council of the city of New London; This communication was presented to the council last night and it was voted to attend the joint meeting with the Norwich court of common council on Thursday, March 18, 1926.

Yours very truly
W. E. HOLT
City Manager

This is only a continuation of the activities of Norwich council along the development of eastern Connecticut as a whole. The United Commercial Travelers are a self sustaining organization and because of the scope of work engaged in they believe they are particularly fitted to aid in the development of civic progress in this and all other communities. While we may be called visionary it is through the aid of citizens with vision that communities are developed and that real progress is made. Vision, faith and action are the three great lights that illumine the pathway of community development in every instance where such development has taken place, said H. R. Branche Wednesday evening.

Instead of pitting eastern Connecticut communities in a mad struggle for supremacy against each other it has ever been our contention that there should be a greater amalgamation of eastern Connecticut civic forces into one great cohesive unit for the upbuilding of this grandest section of our splendid commonwealth, he added.

MEN STUDY BIBLE IN CLASS AT THE Y. M. C. A.

The Men's Bible class held its weekly session at the local Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening with a good group present. The Scripture used was twenty sixth chapter of 2nd Chronicles, the story of King Uzziah's reign. Among other points the following were brought out in the discussion; Uzziah's grandfather and his father were both kings before him and they both began their reign well, but finally became sinful and failures as rulers, and both were in turn murdered. Uzziah began his reign when sixteen years old, and for quite a number of years his reign was very commendable, but after a while he too, forsook the high ideals that at first controlled him. He was a man of great ability and prospered so long as he took God into consideration, but when he became foolishly independent, and proud he began to fail; he finally came to feel that he could do absolutely as he pleased, and that he was above the law of God or man. "He imagined that he was the author of his own prosperity," which is not true of any man, for without the help of others and especially without the help of God, no man can achieve success. Uzziah became a failure when he forgot the source of his strength, and this is always so. His proud and hearty spirit and his consequent independence led him to feel that he had a perfect right to enter the Temple and perform the service appointed to the priest alone, and when the priests remonstrated with him, he was the more determined to do it, and as if by the hand of God, leprosy appeared on his forehead, and he was cast out as a leper, a sad ending of what might have been a most brilliant career; once a king of great influence, now a leper cast out and all because he forgot God and committed sin. There is a sort of pride that is proper but there is another sort that is unwarranted and positively sinful. A sure cure for foolish pride and self conceit is found in contrasting one's self with Jesus Christ, for then we see clearly our defects and we are therefore made humble.

STATE PAYMENT STOPS WHEN PENSIONER DIES

Widows or other relatives of state pensioners cannot continue to draw the pension after the death of a state employe, Deputy Comptroller E. H. Wilkins has notified Mrs. Thomas H. Maclean, whose husband was formerly employed at the Connecticut State hospital, Middletown. The widow now lives in Vermont and wrote asking that the pensions be continued in her favor, as she is an invalid. Her husband retired in 1923 on a pension of $405 a year and died a few weeks ago. There is no provision in the law to allow payment of the pension to relatives.

STONINGTON MILL GIVES OUT PAYROLL CHECKS

The American Velvet Company's mill at Stonington initiated a new custom in that place Tuesday when the company paid the employes by check. It has been the usual custom of all the factories and mills to pay their employes in cash, but for the first time Tuesday morning 500 people employed at the Stonington mill of the Velvet company mill, received from the paymaster a check covering their wages for two weeks. These checks are payable on the Stonington National bank.

ALMSHOUSE HAS NEWEST TYPE FIRE ALARM BOX

The Norwich almshouse is now provided with a new fire alarm box that is a step in advance of others that are used in the city as it is of the latest non-interfering type. This means that if the box should be pulled while an alarm from another box is ringing, the almshouse box would not "come in" so as to confuse the other alarm, but would send in its ring after the other had finished, and without the box being pulled again.

Other boxes in use in the city are of the non-interfering type, so that two boxes will not ring at once, but the second box pulled has to be pulled again in order to send in its alarm after the first has finished.

As the almshouse box is a private one, No. 17, it is paid for by the town.

Given Surprise Party

A surprise party was given in honor of Floyd Lambert at his home at 210 Franklin St. last week, by young people of the Central Baptist church. Many games were enjoyed and covers were laid for thirty-five, salads, sandwiches, assorted cakes, pickles, fruit, ice cream and cocoa were served. The table was pretty decorated in pink, red, orange and blue. Each girl received a fancy powder doll and the boys roses as favors. The guest of honor for the evening was Emery H. Davis, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Assisting Mrs. George Lambert in serving were Mrs. Raymond Doolair and Mrs. Walter S. Huntley.

DESCRIBES NEAR EAST WORK IN THE CAUCASUS

An instructive talk by Dr. John H. Evans, who recently returned from Near East Relief work in the Caucasus, was a feature in the lecturer's hour at the meeting of Norwich Grange, No. 172, Patrons of Husbandry, in Steiner hall Wednesday evening. A brief business meeting at which the worthy master, Mrs. Ida Richardson, presided was followed by the lecturer's hour in which Mrs. R. J. F. Brown, introduced Dr. Evans.

In beginning his address, Dr. Evans said that the whole subject of Near East relief was such an extensive one and so full of changing conditions in the seven years in which it had been operating that he could touch only upon certain details of it briefly, and only of the work in the Caucasus, which he had known intimately. A tremendous work had been done there in caring for 25,000 orphans and feeding 30,000 people, giving them at least one meal a day. There are now 16,000 orphans in Caucasus, from 3 to 12 years old, and there is the same problem in Greece and in Palestine. These orphans in the Caucasus are children without a contact in the world, driven into a land without hygiene and without education. It is an agricultural country where the same primitive methods and implements are in use as were employed centuries ago. The Near East Relief felt that there were two things it might do for these children, help feed them and give them just a little education. So an agricultural school was established, 28 American tractors were introduced to do the ploughing, 10,000 acres were developed for cotton growing and mud houses were built to colonize this tract. The best of the boys from 12 to 14 years old are selected for the agricultural school, in which there are now 1,000 boys. The Russian government has recognized the value of the farm area and has taken it over, the first agricultural school ever existing in Russia. The Near East Relief has also established the first nurses training school in Russia and both of these will be continued as permanent institutions. The Near East Relief should be out of the Caucasus in from one and a half to two years, said Dr. Evans.

He also spoke of the problem that arises in the care of the orphans as they reach the age for dismissal from the orphanages, which is 16 for the boys and 17 for the girls.

At the conclusion of his talk he answered several questions and was given a rising vote of thanks.

The concluding feature of the programme was the appearance of the Peak Sisters, who gave one of the best entertainments which the grange has enjoyed. The ten sisters were dressed alike in old fashioned dresses of flowered voile, kerchiefs around their necks, carrying fans and big bandboxes, with pointed pink caps on their heads.

The cast was the following:

Keziah—In charge of "these young and delicate girls"—Myra Waters.

Dorothy—Who "took vocal lessons in a preservatory"—Grace Fowler.

Bethia—Tells of the "ideal Boston girl"—Ora Spencer.

Maria—Couldn't tell chicken from turkey—Ivy Peckham.

Betsy—Deaf and dumb, but does her part well—Mary Austin.

Sophia—The "cut-up of the Peaks" —Bessie Murray.

Belinda—Who "likes peppermint"—Eva Higgins.

Emmeline—Very quiet and ladylike —Bella Rathbone.

Clementine—Sings like a lark—Anna Woods.

Mehitabel—Who feels sorry for Keziah—Lena Pukallus.

Mrs. Ida Richardson was the accompanist.

Their programme was presented in a spirited manner that brought forth appreciative laughter and applause for the choruses and soloists. The chorus numbers were: How Do You Do, Muffin Man, My Bonnie Lies Over The Ocean, Rock A Bye Baby, Old Maids Song, Darling I Am Growing Old and Way Down Upon The Alaska River. The solos were Whistle Sophia Whistle, which was given by Sophia, and Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms, given by Dorothy.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening.

NOYES CO., CONSUMMATES $25,000,000 REAL ESTATE DEAL

A New York real estate deal which will involve $25,000,000 and result in the erection of twenty-two stories on the top of the three-story, block square Colonnade Building at the south end of Columbus Circle for the headquarters of the General Motors Corporation and several other leading motor concerns was completed this week.

In addition to the large capital that will be employed the ramifications of the deal makes it one of the most interesting closed for real estate in New York for several years. Wall street and the motor centers of the country were involved in building up the negotiations, which after two months were reported consummated Tuesday by the Charles F. Noyes company and Cushman & Wakefield, real estate brokers.

The General Motors corporation has leased thirteen floors in the proposed building for twenty-one years at a rental of $15,000,000.

The lease by the General Motors corporation is interpreted by real estate men and financial interests as the transfer of the executive offices and management of the world's largest motor company from the West to the East. Provisions are to be made in the building for private offices for forty directors and a large board room. The company will occupy about eight acres of floor space, or about half of the entire building, which will be about half the size of the Equitable building on lower Broadway, New York's biggest office building.

Neighbors of the corporation will include the Rolls Royce Company of America, Hudson Motor Car company, the Warren-Nash Motor company, Rickenbacker Motor company, the American Automobile association, the Metropolitan Automobile association and the Astor Cab company. These concerns will pay more than 1,000,000 a year rental. When completed the building may claim the reputation of being the New York center of the motor car manufacturing interests.

It is interesting to note that this is the third large operation handled by the Noyes Company during the last twelve months for the same general interests. The other two operations involved the successful financing and renting of the 16-story Furniture Exchange building and the erection of a 35-story building on the Delmonico site and the recent rental of twenty-one floors at $225,000 a year for 21 years in this building to the American Cyanimid company and the Duke interests, which established a new record in office renting. This record is now broken by the General Motors deal, which is the largest transaction of the group.

STATE HIGHWAYS OPEN IN NORWICH VICINITY

The snow storm of Tuesday night made new difficulties on the state highways radiating from this city but by the middle of the afternoon Henry T. Gorman, supervisor in charge of this district, was able to report that all roads in his territory were open with the exception of a point at Preston Plains on the Norwich-Westerly highway. The working crews had got through there once but the way had not been cleared enough to call it passable.

The road to New London, on both sides of the river, was open and so was the road to Colchester. The Willimantic road had been blocked for part of the day, but it was opened in the latter part of the afternoon. On the New London-Hartford highway, the section on which Mr. Gorman has charge which is from New London to Marlboro was open, but beyond Marlboro it was reported that the road was blocked so that the busses were not going through. The road to Jewett City was also open, but beyond there is outside of Mr. Gorman's territory and it was not known what the conditions are.

NAVY RECRUITING STATION OPENED AT POST OFFICE

A recruiting station for the navy has been opened in the lobby of the Norwich post office.

Physically qualified men between the ages of seventeen and thirty five are accepted for enlistment for a term of four years. The mechanical trades have special advantages.

Recruiting will be conducted from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. by Frank A. Patanovich, quartermaster first class, on duty here.

All men are foolish, but it's only the wise ones who find it out.

BODY OF DEAD WOMAN IDENTIFIED AS WAITRESS

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The body of a young woman found shot to death on the East Side Monday was identified today by Miss Eva Davis, a waitress formerly of Ottawa, Canada.

It was the third time the body had been "identified." A few hours before Miss Davis said the victim was her friend, Miss Dorothy Nottingham, a dancing teacher, said she believed the dead girl was Miss Lucille Finch, and Lucille Truman. On Monday it was mistakenly believed the girl was Genevieve McGuire, known as "Supercilious Jinny."

Miss Davis said she had known Miss Regan since 1923, when they met in St. Louis, Mo., since then they had lived together, working in cafes and night clubs in various cities. They were employed here in a Chinese tea garden in the Times Square district.

Last Sunday night, she said, her friend went out at 11 o'clock and did not return.

MISS WILLS DECIDES TO CONTINUE TO PLAY IN THE CARLTON TOURNAMENT

CANNES, France, Feb. 10—(AP)—Although friends of Helen Wills are urging her to withdraw from the Carlton tennis tournament because of the commercialism attached to the sale of motion picture rights, it was practically certain tonight that the American champion would continue to play in the finals of this event. She is expected to meet Suzanne Lenglen next Monday.

Miss Wills is keeping her own counsel regarding her intentions, but it is understood she will not withdraw unless instruction from the United States Lawn Tennis association advise her to do so. Meanwhile she is being urged to scratch her name from the Carlton lists, at the same time announcing that she is willing to meet the French champion at any other club on the Riviera which will not make the match a business proposition. In case of such change Miss Wills would require that the proceeds go to charity.

The California girl does not attempt to hide her annoyance over the many circumstances showing commercialism in connection with the Carlton tourney and the sarcastic comments made by some newspapers and tennis enthusiasts. She has lost some of her superb coolness, and unless she regains her equanimity she will be playing under great difficulty and stress when she meets Mlle Lenglen.

Never before have Riviera tennis circles been stirred so profoundly as by the developments connected with this tournament. The regional Riviera tennis committee decided today to investigate the sale of exclusive motion picture rights for the Wills-Lenglen match and to make a report to the French National Tennis federation. This is not being done at the request of Miss Wills, but at the instance of delegates belonging to other Riviera clubs.

Legal talent has been consulted and given the opinion that Albert Burke, who has leased the Carlton courts and is organizer of this tournament, and his brother, a tennis professional, are entirely within their rights in disposing of exclusive motion picture rights and that the tennis governing bodies can take no action against them.

For the second successive day heavy rains today prevented all play on the Carlton courts, however, Albert Burke announced the tournament will be run off according to schedule if the rain does not continue. He said some minor matches might be played on Frank J. Gould's new courts or the Gallia courts, but all semi-finals and finals would be decided at the Carlton club.

Miss Wills has spent the last two rainy days at her hotel, refusing to see anyone except intimate friends. She has complained of the loss of two days of much needed practice.

Late this evening Georges Simond who is handling arrangements for actual play in the Carlton event, had received no advice as to the American champion scratching or any intention to scratch.

All tickets for the expected finals between the two girl champions have been sold, and the receipts promise to be the largest ever drawn in a Riviera tournament.

MURCHISON WINS TWO EVENTS BUT IS INJURED

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 10—(AP)—Loren Murchison of the Illinois A. C. continued his sensational string of indoor victories at a meeting of the Newark A. C., tonight, winning the fifty and sixty yard dashes of a sprint series. His triumph in the latter event, however, cost him a strained tendon which compelled his withdrawal.

Murchison pulled up lame after leading Dehart Hubbard of Cincinnati by a step across the line in the sixty yard race. Earlier in the evening Murchison had defeated the negro flyer by a scant foot in the fifty yard event.

Chet Bowman of the Newark A. C., was third in both races, which Cyril Coaffee, Canadain star, finished fourth. Murchison's time for the sixty yard event was 6 3-5 seconds.

Murchison's injury interrupted a sensational winning streak in the east and middle west, during which the Chicago star had piled up seven straight victories, two in Chicago, one in Boston, six in New York and two in tonight's games.

With Murchison out, Hubbard succeeded in winning the sprint series by placing second to Bowman in the 70 yard dash. Hubbard scored 12 points, one more than Bowman. Murchison was third with 10 points and Coaffee fourth with seven. Bowman's time for the final sprint was 7 2-5 seconds.

F. Morgan Taylor of the Illinois A. C., intercollegiate and national champion, went down to defeat in the 70 yard high hurdle final finishing third to Carl Christierson of the Newark A. C. Ray Wolff, University of Pennsylvania, was second, the winner's time was 9 seconds.

LOG CABIN TO SERVE AS YALE GOLF CLUB HOUSE

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 10—(AP)—A temporary club house which will be on the order of a log cabin, will be started soon on the new Yale golf course, the Yale Athletic association announced today. It will be completed in time for the formal opening in the spring of the new Yale course which is being built on the Ray Tompkins memorial near the Yale bowl.

The building will contain ample lockers and showers for the graduates and undergraduates. There will be a large lounge room and dressing room, each with an attractive open fire place. A caddie house will be built nearby.

The site chosen for the house is on the knoll between the 18th green and the tees for the first hole, and will overlook the two lakes on the course. A flagstone porch running the width of the house will serve the golfers purposes until the permanent house is built on the knoll bordering the natural lake on the property.

MARCONIA WINS FEATURE EVENT AT MIAMI TRACK

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Marconia ran within a fifth of a second of the track record in the Fernanda handicap of a mile and 1-16 at Miami today, winning easily from Brainstorm and Laveen in 1:45 1-5. Sunsini was outside the money.

Laveen, odds-on favorite for the event, was outclassed from the start, Brainstorm providing the only opposition for Marconia. With the halfway mark passed the L. T. Cooper entry moved away fast and was not pressed.

The Baton Rouge handicap at New Orleans went to Prince of Umbria, at four to five, John T. D. gaining the place and Hopeless third. The time for the mile and 1-16 was 1:47 1-5, two seconds slower than Marconia's performance at Miami.

Tia Juana's feature was a claiming handicap at a mile, Prince Til Til capturing the event in a furious drive from Great Luck and Melachrino. The winner paid $17.20 to 2.

ACCEPTS CHALLENGE OF NORWICH CHECKER CLUB

Wilfred Lariviere, claimant of the New London county checker championship, said Wednesday evening that he would be willing to take on any or all members of the Norwich Checker club in defense of his title, which he claims he won in 1925, at Taftville. The champion says that he plays the sixty checker game, that is, each player having 30 men on a side rather than the game of 24 men. This is the game in which Mr. Lariviere claims his title. He says he is willing to play for fun money or marbles at his home at 9 Hill street.

ZIVIC AND MILLIGAN ARE MATCHED FOR FEB. 19

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Jack Zivic, Pittsburgh welterweight and Tommy Milligan of England signed contracts today for a ten round match at Madison Square Garden, Feb. 19. This is the second meeting of the two, Zivic winning a decision over his English opponent in a recent meeting at the garden.

LANDIS NOT UPSET OVER AMERICAN LEAGUE ACTION

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10—(AP)—Commissioner Landis does not intend to become exercised over the refusal of the American League to permit its pitchers to use resin. Before leaving here today, he said the rule adopted by the joint committee of the National and American Leagues was not compulsory.

"I would rather not make any definite statement about it," he said, "as it might be construed as prejudging the case. Eventually, the matter will be referred to me."

The commissioner added that he had nothing to say about the failure of the American League to endorse the National League's proposal to extend his contract ten years after the present contract expires in 1927.

"That is a matter for the leagues to decide, if they want me," he said.

INTERNATIONAL SCHEDULE MEETING NEXT WEDNESDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—The spring schedule meeting of the International Baseball league, will be held in New York, February 15, instead of Toronto, President John Conway Toole announced today.

In addition to adopting the schedule, the magnates are likely to discuss possible use of resin by pitchers and the new sacrifice fly rule, both of which were passed at the recent meeting of the joint rules committee of organized baseball.

Despite the fact that the Minor leagues were represented at the joint committee meeting by Dale Gear, president of the Western league, both measures require approval by each Minor league to become effective.

NATIONAL LEAGUE WILL ALLOW USE OF RESIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Unperturbed by American league refusal to concur in the use of resin by pitchers, John A. Heydler, president of the National league, today, characterized the present controversy as "trivial" and asserted that special rules governing the use of the substance in the world's series will not be necessary.

"If the American league does not want to sanction the use of resin I don't think any power in baseball can force its use," he said.

"The whole controversy appears trivial to me. The rule, as adopted by the joint rules committee, makes the use of resin optional. It says specifically, a pitcher may use resin. I suppose there will be pitchers in our league who will not take advantage of the rule."

The National league will not seek special rules to cover the use of resin in the world's series, president Heydler declared.

"They will not be necessary," he said. "The two leagues have differed before on various rules, but the foundation of baseball has not been rocked. We'll notify our pitchers to use resin, if they wish, and let the American leaguers hurl without it.

"We are permitting the use of resin this year only as an experiment. Our pitchers have been complaining for three or four years that the smooth surface of the ball makes it difficult to control and we thought we would take steps to relieve the situation. Everybody knows resin is kept on the bench for use between innings and we are just legalizing its use."

FRANK J. FARRELL, FORMER OWNER OF NEW YORK YANKEES, DIES IN NEW YORK

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 10—(AP)—Frank J. Farrell, who, a quarter of a century ago, placed an American league baseball club in New York, virtually forcing the National league to seek peace in a war that threatened the national game's existence, died in his rooms at the Ritz-Carlton hotel today.

Bartender, bookmaker, gambling house proprietor, baseball magnate and race horse owner, Farrell ran the gamut of sports in his 61 years. Since selling his New York team to the two colonels, T. L. Huston and Jacob Ruppert, he had confined his sporting interests to horses and had delved deeply into real estate in the vicinity of New York.

A native of the Lower West Side, Farrell was a boy friend of Governor Smith of New York state, an attachment that lasted through his life. He was intimated with Tammany's leading politicians and at one time was associated with the late Julius Fleischmann in racing.

Farrell made little money in baseball and in 1915 he parted with his holdings at approximately $450,000. Ruppert and Huston soon started a series of deals with the Boston Red Sox which made the Yankees a team of stars with such as Babe Ruth, the home run king, playing right field and drawing an annual salary of something like $52,000.

Ruppert and Huston realized upon the foundation that Farrell had laid through 15 years of effort in bringing the New York team to the fore. Clark Griffith, now president of the champion Washington Senators, was his first manager. His best year came in 1910 under George Stallings, "Miracle Manager" of the Boston Braves in 1914, when the club cleared $80,000.

That his interest in sport remained to the last is shown by the fact that about a year ago he sold a two-year-old racehorse, Nicholas, for $50,000. With Davy Johnson, Farrell once owned one of the greatest sprinters of all time, Roseben, which lowered the world record for seven furlongs at Belmont Park in a race that gave $100,000 to its owners in wagers. Willie Shaw, one of the greatest jockeys in the country, was in the saddle that day.

Farrell's rule in gambling houses started when such things were countenanced and continued into the forbidden days. One of his resorts, in 33rd street, presented steel doors and barricaded connecting passes when William Travers Jerome, then district attorney and the man who prosecuted Harry Thaw for the murder of Stanford White, attempted a raid.

Farrell formed friendship with William S. Devery before the latter became police commissioner, and, after Devery retired he became associated with Farrell in the American league club.

Y. M. H. A. JUNIORS VICTORIOUS OVER THE KNICKERBOCKERS

In a fast game featured with many spectacular shots, the Y. M. H. A. Juniors triumphed over the Knickerbockers Wednesday night at the Y. M. H. A. floor by the score of 46 to 17. In the first quarter the Knickerbockers were leading but the Juniors came back strong and tallied enough baskets to win the game. Jackson and Frink starred for the Knicks, while the Junior team had no individual star, teamwork being their chief means of victory.

The Y. M. H. A. Juniors challenge the Taftville Terriers or the Jewett City Tigers for a game sometime next week. The summary:

EDWARDS WINS BERMUDA OPEN GOLF TOURNAMENT

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 10—(AP)—The third annual Bermuda amateur golf championship tournament has been completed, with Ralph Edwards of New York winner over G. F. McLaughlin of Chicago in the final round 5 and 4.

In the semi-finals, Edwards defeated Laddie Riggs, also of New York, by the same score.

TO TRY TO BETTER NURMI'S MARK FOR 2 MILES

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Paavo Nurmi's marvelous time of 8:55 1-5 for the two-mile run, which has already withstood several record-breaking attempts by his compatriot, Willie Ritola, will be subjected to another attack tomorrow night at the annual Crescent A. C. athletic games. Ritola, George Lermond, of Boston, winner of the special 2-mile Millrose A. A. race, Fred Wachmuth, Metropolitan 10-mile champion, Jim Loucks, of Syracuse, Verne Booth and Andy Craw, of New York, are entered in the event.

Sprint events of 75, 90 and 100 yards will call out Loren Murchison, of the Illinois A. C., De Hart Hubbard, of Cincinnati, Cyril Coafee, Canadian star, and Louis Clarke, of Newark, N. J.

ORMSBY DOES HIS TRAINING ON THE JOB

CHICAGO, Feb. 10—(AP)—Instead of going south with teams to cavort around in the warm sunshine, "Red" Ormsby, American league umpire, is taking his spring training heaving radiators and other objects of more or less weight in the upper stories of a new skyscraper here.

"This beats going south all hollow," Ormsby said today. "Instead of taking the elevator, I run upstairs and throwing these radiators around gives me plenty of hard work, which is what I need."

Ormsby figures he'll be so tough when the season opens that pop bottles will bounce off him like snow flakes.

BRIDGEPORT COLORED FIVE WANTS GAME IN NORWICH

The Essex Biz Five, colored champions of New England playing under the professional rules, would like to arrange games with the Jewett City Pros., Plainfield Town Team, Brockton Y. M. H. A., National Guardsmen of Westerly, R. I., or any other teams playing the professional game. Games to be played on their home courts. They guarantee a first class attraction and are considered one of the best colored quintets the east has put on the court. They are arranging series of games with the Renaissance Big Five for the colored championship of the country. Write to Mgr. Edward Blanco, 661 Main street, Bridgeport Conn.

COUNTY CHECKER CHAMP'S CHALLENGE IS ACCEPTED

We noticed in the Monday issue of "The Bulletin" that Wilfred Lariviere holds the championship in checker playing. How come? If the champion will call at the Taftville Whist club we will guarantee to show him a real checker player who does not pose as a champion but who has been playing the game for only a few months and whom we have confidence in. His name is Charles Daignault. Furthermore, we are wondering what has become of the medal our club member, Raymond Girard, has taken from him several times in this particular game. The champion may name his own time when he wishes to play this game or series of games, but we hope it will be soon as our man needs no practice.

TAFTVILLE WHIST CLUB,
Raymond Girard, House Com.

PARI-MUTUEL MACHINES WILL CONTINUE IN OPERATION

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 10—(AP)—The Kentucky senate in sustaining, 26 to 11, an adverse report of the statutes committee on a bill for the repeal of the state Pari-Mutuel act, today prevented any further consideration of the Pari-Mutuel question during the 1926 legislation and insured continuance of the Pari-Mutuel machine operation on Kentucky race tracks.

A similar bill already had been defeated in the house and under ordinary procedure, the subject cannot be brought up again at this session.

CARPENTIER SIGNS TO FIGHT IN HAVANA THIS MONTH

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Georges Carpentier of France, former light heavyweight boxing champion, today signed with the United Promoters Corporation of Havana for a bout there the last week of February. His opponent has not been named.

The Frenchman and a sparring partner will leave for Cuba next week.

MORE WORLD'S SWIMMING RECORDS ARE BROKEN AT ST. AUGUSTINE MEET

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 10—(AP)—Miss Martha Norelius, of New York, became national champion in the 220-yard free style swim of the American Athletic Union swimming championships for women here and in winning the final she broke all existing records for the event.

Miss Norelius' time was 2 minutes 44 3-4 seconds in the final. The previous American record was 2:48 4-5, established by Gertrude Ederle in Brooklyn, in 1924. The old world record was 2:46 3-4 and was made in England, in 1923, by Hilda James.

The world record was beaten twice in the 220 today for Mariechen Wehselau, Honolulu, was 2:45 3-5 seconds in winning the first heat in which Miss Norelius was second. Miss Wehselau was fourth in the final. Second place went to Ethel Lackie, of Chicago, in a finish so close that Miss Lackie also was credited with bettering the old world's record. Ethel McGarry, of New York, was third.

Another world's record was established for the 220-yard breast stroke event which was won by Agnes Geraghty, of New York, in 2:58 4-5, the former world's record was 3:00 1-5, made in May, 1922, at Liverpool, by Irene Gilbert, of England. The old American record 3:03 1-5, was made by Miss Geraghty at the Wentworth pool, Portsmouth, N. Y., last August.

Sybil Bauer, Northwestern university, who represents the Illinois Athletic club, retained her national championship title in the 200-yard back stroke.

She won easily from a field that included Dorothy Colter, of Detroit, who was second, five yards behind Miss Bauer. The winner's time was 1:15 3-5, compared with her own world's record of 1:13 2-5.

TENNIS ASSOCIATION TELLS MISS WILLS NOT TO WORRY

CANNES, France, Feb. 10—(AP)—The worries of Miss Helen Wills were allayed by a cablegram which she received today from Julian S. Myrick, an official of the United States Lawn Tennis association, advising her not to be concerning over the filming controversy, but to continue to play through the Carlton tennis tournament and meet Suzanne Lenglen.

Miss Wills was greatly cheered by this, and said she will now go ahead and try her hardest to give the United States a victory.

JAMES H. GOFF, OF NEW LONDON, DROPS DEAD AT HIS WORK BENCH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 10. — While starting for his work at the plant of the New England Collapsible Tube company, Waller street, James H. Goff, 71, of 45 West Colt street, dropped dead this morning, shortly before 8 o'clock. Death was caused by heart trouble. Mr. Goff is survived by three sons, Edward Goff, of New Orleans; Robert Goff, of Chicago, and Philip H. Goff, of this city, and a daughter, Miss Mary Goff, also of this city. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus and was well and favorably known. For many years Mr. Goff was employed at the former plant of the C. D. Boss Cracker company.

Mr. Goff started for work about 7.30 o'clock and during the height of the miniature blizzard. He was feeling as well as usual, but because of the effort he exercised in walking to work, it is believed that the exertion aggravated the heart trouble, for immediately after entering the establishment where he had long been employed, Mr. Goff walked to his bench, following ringing in on a time-clock and as he started to remove his overcoat, he collapsed, falling to the floor. He died almost immediately and before a physician could be called. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman was summoned and following an investigation pronounced death as caused by heart disease.

Albert Fargo, 90, a well known resident of New London, and residing at 209 Thames street, died suddenly of heart trouble late yesterday afternoon. He is survived by two sons A. M. Fargo, with whom he resided, and C. H. Fargo, also of this city.

Mr. Fargo, in spite of his advanced years, was apparently in his usual health. During the late afternoon he went to the yard to perform a few light tasks and having completed them he returned to the house. As he entered the kitchen he was seized with a heart attack and fell to the floor. A physician was summoned, but Mr. Fargo was dead when the doctor arrived. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman conducted an investigation pronouncing death due to chronic heart disease.

"I'll go right to work this morning," was the words of Oscar Hill, a carpenter who has a long record for intoxication in this city when he was presented in court today for inebriety. "No, you will not go to work today," was the rejoinder of Judge Prince. "You'll go to jail for a stay of thirty days." Hill has been in court so often that he has become a familiar figure there. On his last appearance he obtained from an acquaintance the cash to pay his fine, and though he has been steadily employed since then at good wages he has made no payment of the money loaned him. That fact was known to the court so the penalty imposed today may bring Hill to a realization of his predicament.

The hearing by the compensation board on the establishment of a building line on the east side of Bank street, which was begun Tuesday, was terminated this afternoon when representatives of the New London City National bank, the Shea property and the Klinck estate were heard. The representatives of the first two named properties consider that they will be damaged by the establishment of the proposed line but they were reasonable in their estimates of the damages they represented would be incurred. The representative of the Klinck estate did not consider that any damage would be sustained by that property, but that the building line would be a benefit to the property and to the street. He pointed out that the property next north of the building which the Klinck property recently erected was encroaching on the sidewalk to a degree that was objectionable.

The board will make its report to the city council and the director of law, who has represented the city at the hearing, will also report to that body. It is not the intention of the board to acquire title in any land that may be used in the establishment of the proposed line beyond which no building shall be erected. That action must be taken by the city council, and that body has never in any way intimated that land is desired. It may turn out that an agreement can be reached between the property owners and the city that no building to be erected on the west side of Bank street shall encroach to the eastward beyond that line now established. If such construction should be attempted then the city could proceed by injunction and establish its right to define and maintain a building line, if it has any such right. Members of the city council are understood to regard the establishment of a building line that will necessitate to the acquisition of land on the east side of Bank street and the widening of the roadway by the cutting off of a portion of the sidewalk as an expensive project and one that will stand a great deal of study before undertaken.

Charles J. Frick was before the police court this morning at a fugitive from justice of the state of New York. He is represented by counsel who informed the court that the matter in which Frick is concerned is likely to be settled up and that a hearing will be held in New York the 15th inst. which is is hoped will terminate the proceedings of which the New London action is a part. With that statement in mind, the case was continued today till the 16th inst. and Frick was held in a bond for appearance.

A few sleighs were made use of in this city today—a very few—for the number of such vehicles is small. Probably no sleighs have been manufactured in this country in recent years, as there has been little or no use for them. The sleighs used today were made use of in the conveyance of freight. There was a time when the livery stables supported scores of sleighs and when they were the proper thing for winter travel. Everything was on runners in those times and the public service sleighs were of an elaborate sort and were very generally made use of.

Hundreds of men who are out of employment were engaged this afternoon in the removal of snow from the walks and tracks of the railroad and the trolley company. The snow, before it was trampled down, was easily taken care of, thus saving the people who paid for the removal hundreds of dollars. The newspapers gave the warning that colder weather was at hand so that the wise acted promptly this afternoon and this evening.

The funeral of Romain H. Rose, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Rose, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church. Burial will be in Jordan cemetery later in the week.

Sergeant Patrick Murphy discovered the entrance to the Mercier building, as well as some of the offices there, to be open, at 3 o'clock this morning. The officer notified police headquarters and Lieut. James Sullivan went to the building and accompanied by Sergeant Murphy made a thorough search of the place. Two of the offices found unlocked were those of Dr. Thomas A. Woodruff and Dr. H. W. Wellington. Nothing appeared to have been disturbed in either office. The officers caused the places to be secured for the balance of the night, but could not secure the building entrance.

Mrs. Eliza Ugucciani, 38, wife of Enrico Ugucciani, died last night at her home, 35 Smith street, after an illness of over a year. Mrs. Ugucciani, besides her husband, is survived by four sons, Guido, Charles, Lebro and Enrico Ugucciani, all of this city, and a daughter, Mrs. Doris Montali, also of New London.

Miss Lucretia Smith, 29 Masonic street; Miss Katherine Goss, 41 West street; Mrs. Samuel Hoops and infant son, 163 Huntington street, and Miss Ruth Banker, 1 Mitchell court, were patients dismissed at Lawrence hospital today.

Groton fire department was called out this afternon to combat a serious chimney fire in the residence of Harry Kay, 94 Elderkin avenue. The burning soot furnished a lively blaze, but a liberal quantity of chemicals, sufficed to extinguish the fire and without damage of consequence.

Eugene O'Neill, well known playwright, came to New London this afternoon from New York, for the purpose of looking over his realty interests, one of which, a tract of land, corner of Bank street and Ocean avenue, is shortly to be sold. Mr. O'Neill is a son of the late James O'Neill, former actor and who gained country-wide reputation in "Monte Cristo."

A chimney fire occurred this evening at the residence of Benjamin Dean, 79 Garfield avenue. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Deputy Chief Thomas Shipman and the Niagara Engine company responded. The blaze was a stubborn one and required a considerable quantity of chemicals to extinguish it. The damage was slight.

CONCLUDE HEARINGS FOR BANK STREET CHANGES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 10—The board of compensation, which started hearings in the council chamber, municipal building Tuesday afternoon, in connection with the proposed plan of the city to establish a permanent building line on the west side of Bank street, between State and Tilley streets held another session this afternoon. With the conclusion of the session the hearings were concluded. The board will in the near future, make a report of its findings to the city council.

At today's hearing, H. R. Douglas, contractor, stated that an expenditure of between $5,000 and $6,000 would be necessary for the New London City National bank to convert the entrance of the institution in order to conform to the proposed building line. He also stated that in the matter of altering the interior of the entrance, contractors and bank officials were undecided as to just what course to pursue. Attorney Nathan Belcher, representing the bank, stated that the institution would not claim damages against the city by reason of taking a portion of the sidewalk, provided that the bank be allowed to retain its steps and cornices. Attorney Belcher stated that the bank valued its property at $1000 per front foot.

James R. May, a witness for Miss Mary Shea, owner of the Shea block, stated that he believed the damages to the property by the proposed changes would be $2106, plus the cornices and other decorations of the four story structure. Thomas S. McGinley was another witness for Miss Shea and he corroborated the statements of Mr. May.

Waldo E. Clarke, representing the Charles H. Klinck estate, stated that no damages would be asked as a result of the proposed change as he considered them a decided improvement to property where it is intended to widen the highway.

MANY STORES CLOSED BECAUSE OF THE STORM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 10—New London was struck by another miniature blizzard early this morning which continued until late in the afternoon. About 3 inches of snow fell and during the blizzard water traffic was practically tied up, although the New London line steamers made their way safely through the sound. Train traffic was hit the hardest for practically every train to arrive in New London from either New York or Boston was anywhere from 30 minutes to two hours late, while trains arriving in New London from the Pennsylvania division were three and four hours late. Trolley traffic was interrupted, but not so much as was the case when the first severe storm of the winter occurred last week. Two big snow plows were operated throughout the night and today and as a result all lines of the Connecticut company were kept open, although the cars were not operated according to schedules. Up to about 3 o'clock cars between New London and Norwich were considerably off schedule, but late this afternoon and this evening cars between the two cities were operated on time. The Groton & Stonington Traction company also operated cars at intervals between this city and Groton and Mystic, but no cars were able to reach Westerly.

With the abatement of the storm shortly after 4 o'clock property owners started to clear the sidewalks and not in the memory of the oldest resident of the city can it be remembered when there was such a general clearing of the walks immediately following a severe storm as was the case this afternoon and evening.

Because of the severity of the storm many of the State and Bank street stores suspended business at noon.

Miss Ella Miner, Niantic, a patient at Home Memorial hospital returned to her home today.

Feeble Old Folks Often Victims of Chronic Fatigue

Thousands of folks blame age for their weak, feeble, sickly condition—when in an enormous number of cases they are really suffering from chronic fatigue.

Chronic fatigue is an unnatural tired feeling—usually due to lack of sufficient organic iron in the blood. Nuxated Iron, which contains true organic iron like that in the blood and in spinach and lentils, quickly restores this iron and banishes chronic fatigue. It gives new strength and endurance in 2 weeks or money refunded. Will not injure teeth or disturb the stomach like old-fashioned mineral iron medicines. At all good druggists.

COSTS COAST GUARD SAILOR $20 TO TRY TO HUG A GIRL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 10.—When Samuel Ward, a sailor on the roll of the coast guard steamer Trippe, moving along Main street about three o'clock in the afternoon, grabbed a young girl who was passing along that thoroughfare with her mother, the child made an outcry and Officer Frank Lenihan grabbed Wood. The officer shook him up pretty well and after observing the condition of the sailor directed him to shape his course so that he would get right over to the state pier and aboard the craft to which he was assigned. Wood didn't take the advise kindly and proposed to argue the matter so the policeman took him into custody and presented him in court this morning for disciplne. That he received ample pay for he was fined $20. Wood was in the police court very early in the month on a similar charge. He was then fined, but he disclosed that he received a penalty of a $20 fine on the ship also. "Well, it's time you learned your lessons," he was told by Judge Prince, and then came the fine imposed today. Wood arranged to pay the fine and was released from custody. It is understood that the coast guard authorities are not disposed to look upon offenses by the sailors with lenient eyes in the future and that a sailor who was in court on Monday for intoxication and taking liberties with an automobile that he entered in front of the Plant building, where it was parked at night, was dishonorably discharged from the service.

Palace Theatre

Coming to the Palace Sunday, for a run of four days, is another big production, "The Wanderer." The same identical production that ran five days in New York, at prices up to $2.00.

Way back in the days when caravans were popular instead of automobiles and caravansaries were the forerunners of road houses, the prodigal son left home to become a self-made man—with the aid of his father's coffers and advice. The former he clutched and the latter he cussed as he mounted his mule and set out for the city under the villainous guidance of a wicked merchant. For then, even as now, there were sirens and scoundrels, gamblers and pawnbrokers to make the road to the city attractive and easy going for the country boy.

William Collier, Jr., plays the part of Jether, the country boy, Ernest Torrence is the professed protector and Greta Nissen entices as the beckoning city girl.

Whether you are a willing or an unwilling, twentieth century wanderer, or even no wanderer at all, you will be sure to be fascinated by this Paramount picture opening at the Palace theatre next Sunday. You will be convinced, more than ever that the old song is right—"there's no place like home."

Wallace Beery, Tyrone Power and Kathlyn Williams complete the featured cast of the production, which was written for the screen by J. T O'Donohoe from the stage spectacle of the same name by Maurice Samuels Raoul Walsh directed.

Gem Theatre, Willimantic.

The powerful drama, The Fool, a gripping and novel play by Channing Pollock which opened under most auspicious conditions in all the leading cities of the country, will be presented at the Gem theatre, Willimantic, tonight (Thursday) by the Charles K. Champlin Stock company. Probably the leading favorable critics of The Fool may be found among the clergy. In his life work of studying the human nature the average clergyman finds in The Fool an earnest endeavor to bring out the best and noblest qualities to be found in human nature. In a letter sent unsolicited to Mr. Champlin, Rev. Robert W. Campbell, pastor of the First Congregational church of Brimfield, Mass., had the following beautiful thought to express regarding The Fool: "Personally I believe that the 'drama' can be used to greater advantage in some ways, than all the sermons preached, to bring one's better nature into play. Your company was splendidly above the average stock company and I am sure that your presentation must have its influence for good on many who watch it. Kindly accept for your company and yourself my heartfelt appreciation and good wishes for your future success in presenting good, clean plays." This is the fourth appearance of the Champlin company in this city under arrangements with Manager John R. Pickett. The Fool, in itself an expensive production, is offered at popular prices. Plays to be presented Friday and Saturday respectively are Strange Bedfellows and The Mad Honeymoon.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BEST YEAR FOR GRAHAM BROTHERS

The recent absorption by Dodge Brothers Inc., of Graham Brothers, the largest exclusive manufacturers of motor trucks, lends special interest to the new business record achieved by Graham Brothers during 1925.

Shipments by the truck industry as a whole, according to official figures recently released by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, totaled 492,000 units, an increase of 31 per cent over the record of 374,017 for 1924.

By comparison Graham Brothers increase in total shipments from 10,791 in 1924 to 24,056 in 1925 from their four plants, Detroit, Evansville, Stockton and Toronto, a gain of 123 per cent seems remarkable.

"Month by month this year sales have surpassed the preceeding month. In fact production for the first six months of this year equalled the entire production for 1924.

"At no time during the year, nor at any time during Graham Brothers history, has there been any over-stocking of trucks by dealers. Our problem has constantly been one of increasing manufacturing facilities to supply the demand for our product.

"The number of trucks on hand at the end of November, compared with the number at the end of the same month last year, shows a substantially smaller increase than the rate at which production has been advanced.

This is because the big volume of retail sales has cleared the stocks of the dealers so rapidly."

"To produce sufficient trucks to supply the constantly growing demand," states Mr Jordan of Jordan Auto Co. local Dodge Brothers dealer, "Graham Brothers have been engaged in an almost continuous program of expanding manufacturing facilities. When they moved their Detroit plant into new quarters July 1 this year their 265,000 square feet of floor space represented an increase in space in Detroit of nineteen fold in a little over 4 years. Their plants at Evansville, Ind., which now occupy 301,000 square feet have made a similar growth during the same period.

"The new plant opened this summer in Stockton, Cal., for manufacturing trucks required by dealers in the Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain states has an area of 40,000 square feet and the new Canadian plant at Toronto, Ont., 20,000. This gives Graham Brothers a total floor area of nearly 15 acres.

"The excellent business record made by Graham Brothers last year and their record of having risen in five years to leadership in the industry is unquestionable evidence," Mr. Jordan continued, "of public recognition of the merit of their products. Now that Graham Brothers business has been purchased outright and become an integral part of Dodge Brothers, Inc., the outlook for even greater achievement in 1926 is exceedingly bright."

Palace Theatre

Today brings to the Palace theatre five big acts of Paramount vaudeville and the Paramount picture with Bebe Daniels in "The Splendid Crime." Tonight will be a big night for all who attend as the Palace will have old fiddlers' contest. Two hundred dollars in cash will be awarded to the winners in the finals. Those who are entered in the contest tonight are Philip Morris, Orin Price, H. A. Wheeler, Franris, Orrin Price, H. A. Wheeler, Francis De Mara, Edmund Capron, Ovala Greenwood, W. H. Whitman and others. "The Splendid Crime," starring Bebe Daniels, makes its local debut. For those who enjoy a sparkling crook comedy-drama, laid against a contrasting slum and society background, tinctured with romance and rich in humor and pathos, this photoplay will fill the bill from koup to nuts.

The story, written by Mr. de Mille himself, centers about a droll little girl crook, effectively portrayed by Miss Daniels, whose foster father, an amusing old rascal, is responsible for her burglarious tendencies. It finally occurs to her that "housebreakin' ain't no work for a lady," but she is forced to postpone her reformation because her father and his crook companion need her help in pulling off just one more job.

Neil Hamilton is happily cast as the millionaire who loses his money and is tempted to turn crooked. Dividing principal honors with him are Anne Cornwall, as his flapper-sister and Anthony Jowett, as her boy friend.

Breed Theatre.

The latest stage play to burst the bounds of the proseucium and find expression in the wider frame of the cinema is Willard Robertson's "The Sea Woman," to be seen here at the Breed theatre Friday and Saturday, under the title of "Why Women Love," with Blanche Sweet, Robert Frazer, Dorothy Sebastian, Russell Simpson, Allan Roscoe, Charles Murray, and a half dozen other important screen players in principal roles. The play deals with a modern phase of shipping—the fast oil tankers—and also brings to the screen a realistic revelation of possibly the most lonesome sort of existence, that of folks who keep the lighthouse beacons shining. This First National offering was directed by Edwin Carewe.

"The Phantom of the Opera," which has been showing at the Breed theatre since Sunday will end its engagement today. Last two performances at 2.15 and 7.30.

Sold in Montville.

Joseph K. Panek and Nicholas Tymcheck, real estate agents, have sold for Charles Donikowski of Montville, property consisting of a six room house, barn, and a garage, and eight acres of choice land. The property is located on Mohigan Hill, off Norwich-New London highway. The new owners are Wladyslaw and Antonis Wozniak.

The same agents have sold for Theresa and Annie Foley, the corner property at 313-315 Central avenue, consisting of one store and an eight room tenement to Mr. and Mrs. Pawel Sabjewski. The new owners have purchased the property for an investment and a residence.

Attended Banquet

Charles Glaske was in New Haven Tuesday and attended the Kissel Motor Car Company's banquet and demonstration of cars. The Kissel six and eight both sedan and coupes were shown. Mr. Glaske is the distributor at the Jewett City service station.

ECZEMA GOES IN SEVEN DAYS

Or Money Back

Thousands of people who suffer from itching skin, Eczema and unsightly eruptions will be glad to know that Moone's Emerald Oil, a clean, powerful, penetrating, Antiseptic Oil, will banish their trouble in seven days or less.

For years they have been using Ointments and Salves and while they helped to relieve the itching, soreness and pain they often choked the pores and did not allow the poisonous matter to escape.

Moone's Emerald Oil overcomes this objection for the Oil penetrates down thru the pores to the cause of the trouble and leaves them free to discharge all poisonous secretions. It is very concentrated and only a few drops are required at an application. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

The wonder program of the season opens for an engagement of three days only, at the popular Broadway theatre today, matinee. It is a super-special bill of comedy and novelty sensations.

Real artists. Keith Vaudeville circuit come here today to give local theatregoers a wonderful treat.

Something new, novel and original is offered by Al Laubscher and his Family, introducing Buddy and Muril, New England's juvenile star artists, in a divertisment of song, dance and harmony. Their many local friends will be grateful for this opportunity and nothing but praise will be heard from others.

Harry Gee Haw, who created a positive sensation about two years ago at this theatre, is back again with something even more startling. He is a Chinese importation and is considered the greatest impressionist on the stage today.

Mallon & Case is promised to be the biggest laughing hit ever to appear in Norwich. They offer "Keeping the Doctor Away," and if you do not laugh you'd better see a doctor.

Raines & Avery, the laughlanders are just what the title imply. A long string of laughs with just enough song and dance for a rest of your jaws.

Ed Nestor and Belle Vincent have a smart and clever offering that is excellent.

Two Greeneville juvenile stars will be put on as an extra added attraction for tonight only. They are Julia Zigaro and Mary Chioda, ages 7 and 9 respectively. If you know any whom you claim to be better than they are, get in touch with the management, who will give them a chance to show their talent on Monday night in the local talent contest to be held then, better do it at once as entries are limited.

Thrills alternate with laughs to make "Spook Ranch" one of the cleverest and fast moving Westerns ever shown at local theatres. Hoot Gibson is starred in this Universal Jewel production, which is coming to the Broadway theatre today. A thrilling rescue of a beautiful girl, good comedy and one of the finest horse pursuits ever filmed go to make this the fastest moving picture Gibson has ever released. He is admirably supported by Helen Ferguson, Robert McKim, Tote Ducrow, Frank Rice and Ed Cowles. Direction was by Edward Laemmle.

DR. MEREDITH UPHOLDS WINDHAM SCHOOL BOARD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 10—The claim held by the town school committee of Windham against the town of Mansfield, to recover tuition fees is justifiable, and the outstanding bill should be paid by Mansfield, according to a decision of school commissioner r. A. B. Meredith, which was made known tonight at the meeting of the Windham school committee. Dr. Meredith's opinion of the matter was read to the Windham school committee by Secretary Egbert A. Case. The session was held at the home of Chairman William J. Sweeney. Other business transacted was of routine nature. In a tangle over the payment of tuition fees for children of Mansfield attending Windham High school the respective school boards under the leadership of Secretaries W. F. Kirkpatrick, of Mansfield and Egbert A. Case of Windham have been in a controversy, which had neared a deadlock when Mansfield agreed to submit its side of the question to a decision of the state board of education. Mansfield required that all its children should secure a permit from its school board before registering in any high school each year. Some of the children failed to do this and the board refused to pay the tuition fee. Out of nearly a dozen such cases the parents succeeded in having the Mansfield board agree to settle up but there were a few straggling cases pending. The Windham board finally issued an ultimatum. Mansfield was to either submit to a decision and pay the bill, or no Mansfield pupil would be allowed to enter Windham High school. Literally Mansfield was going on the black list. At the eleventh hour the Mansfield committe agreed to subject itself to a decision and with its rendition the matter is considered a closed event.

OFFER PRIZES FOR ESSAYS ON THE CONSTITUTION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 10—Patriotic night was observed at the weekly meeting of the Willimantic Exchange's club Wednesday night. President Egbert A. Case presided. The speakers were A. Wilson Greer, whose subject was Washington, and Allen B. Lincoln, who reviewed the life and accomplishments of Abraham Lincoln. The members donated the sum of $25 to be given in prizes for competitive essays on the Constitution to be written by pupils of Windham High school in the national contest. Clinton Wood was elected to membership.

EAST WOODSTOCK

Vernon Wetherell attended a reception and banquet tendered Mr. and Mrs. Hill at Brooklyn, Monday evening. Mr. Hill is the new Y. M. C. A. country secretary. Others in the party were Principal and Mrs. Maurice Childs, Miss Rouse, supervisor of music, Miss Constance Grigg, Robert Stanton and Nils Shuning.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Marshall Bolleau is ill at his home on Westford avenue.

The local council Knights of Columbus are arranging for an old time fiddler's contest to be held at Memorial hall. Among the contestants will be John Comfort, 84 years old, one of the real old timers and who took second prise recently in a contest at Rockville.

POETRY

Winter Hills

The mighty, elemental hills
Are wrapped in daylight dreams,
And brooding in the sunless noon
And stilled the laughing streams.

The latticed boughs against the sky
Of tender, lambent gray
Proclaim the wondrous artistry
Of winter's potent day.

The icy down that folds the world
Within its tufted drifts
On every bleak and barren shrub
Its dust of silver gifts.

Betimes the wind upon the hills
Mid crag and leafless tree
Awakes in wordless loveliness
An ancient symphony.

But now, as though its mood had passed
In retrospection soft,
No rugged harmonies intone
Within its organ loft.

The hills, the lifting hills are mute,
In solemn state they stand
And gaze in wide reflection on
The hushed and waiting land.
—Maude DeVere Newton in Christian Science Monitor.

Song: Youth and Sorrow

Lofty against our Western dawn arises Achilles.
He among heroes alone singeth or toucheth the lyre.
Few, and dimmed by grief, are the days that to him are appointed!
Love he shall know but to lose, life but to cast it away.
Dreamings of peace and a bride, he sees now the foes at the portal:
Paris, a traitor to love; Phoebus, accorder of song!

Freely he chose, do ye deem, and clave to anguish and glory?
Rather, the Fates at his birth chose, yet he gladly assents.
Is it a warning that death untimely and bitterest sorrow,
Sorrow in love and death, follow the children of song?
Yet will the young man's heart still cling to the choice of Achilles—
Grief, an untimely doom, fame that eternal abides.
—William Cranston Lawton.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

To test your sparker, stand under the thistletoe.—Boston Transcript.

Doctor—Did the medicine straighten your husband out all right?

Wife—Yes, we buried him yesterday. —Washington Star.

Small boy—"Dad, how do they catch lunatics?"

Father—"With face powder, beautiful dresses, and pretty smiles, my son."—Answers, London.

"When I found myself in debt I went to father to raise the wind."

"Well, with what result?"

"I am now waiting for it to blow over."—Toronto Globe.

Mr. Dumhebd—When I see some of the wonderful inventions in electricity it makes me think a little.

Miss Keene—Yes, isn't it marvelous what electricity can do?—Tit-Bits.

Boss—Young man, it will pay you to keep your eyes open when you are in this office.

Office Boy—Yes, sir, that's just what your wife told me when she came in and saw what a pretty stenographer you had.—Life.

Dix—Do you often have to rush to catch your morning train?

Wix—It's about even. Sometimes I go standing at the station when the train puffs up and at other times it is standing at the station when I puff up.—Judge.

A man was driving his Ford through heavy traffic when a woman frantically waving her arms stepped in front of him.

"Do you live in Shreveport?" she screamed.

"No!"

"Oh, I'm so sorry. You know, I have a friend there with a car just like yours."—University of Chicago Phoenix.

KALEIDOSCOPE

In Turkey and Persia fashionable women dye their hair and the palms of their hands and the soles of their feet with henna.

A European chemist has found a preparation for butter which contains no milk, but said to be palatable, nutritious and cheap. Waste fats and tallow are used, flavored with honey.

Two chemists in Germany have devised a process of heating helium by electricity, thus artificially increasing its volume to provide the necessary buoyancy on rising and making it unnecessary to discharge gas on landing of dirships.

Somebody stole E. R. Kerfoot's car at Hutchinson, Kas., and when it was returned to him from Missouri, Kerfoot found 100 $50 bills in the spare tire. Kerfoot wasn't caring if the car was stolen again at that rate, but an Oklahoma bank has since claimed the $5,000. Bandits had used Kerfoot's car in robbing the bank, overlooking the tireful of loot afterward.

A runaway horse owned by Nathaniel Nutter hauled a heavy express wagon on the ties over the 300-foot railway bridge across the Connecticut river between Wells River, Vt., and Woodsville, N. H., without receiving so much as a scratch, while an express train, which had been flagged, awaiting its arrival on the Vermont side. The bridge is ninety feet above the water and has a railing on only one side.

Constantinople has become a model city for persons with weak nerves or irritable dispositions. Under a mayoralty edict, the hours between midday and 3 in the afternoon and between midnight and morning are to be regarded as hours of rest for the population. During these periods residents of houses are not to be disturbed by the playing of hurdy-girdies, phonographs or pianos, or by the raucous cries of peddlars, knife sharpeners, old clothes hawkers, or itinerant hucksters generally.

The death rate of infants in Japan is on the increase, principally because of the deficiency of relief and sanitary measures. Official statistics disclose that more than 1,300,000 babies die in the empire every year. In the light of these facts the home ministry has decided on the establishment of sanitary stations in every city throughout the country in which the population is more than 50,000. It is expected that more than 2,000,000 yen will be expended in this work. Physicians and nurses will be on duty at each of these stations.

Copies of two general orders, one promoting U. S. Grant from brevet second lieutenant to second lieutenant, and assigning him to the 7th infantry, and the other announcing the death of John Quincy Adams, have been received by Col. Frank Morrow, commander of the 7th infantry, U. S. A., at Vancouver barracks. The copies were sent by G. M. Kinsely, an army veteran, who saved the orders from destruction years ago at Ft. Leavenworth. The order announcing the death of Adams was signed by President James K. Polk, and was received by the 7th infantry while on duty in Mexico in 1848. That promoting Grant was issued September 30, 1845.

DANGER IN NEGLECTED COLDS

Serious diseases may develop from neglected coughs and colds and make them dangerous. There is no better remedy for quick relief from coughs and colds than Foley's Honey & Tar Compound. "My grandchild could get no relief whatever from a very bad croupy cough, until I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar," writes Peter Landis, Meyersdale, Pa. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks irregular; American Can and General Electric advance to new peaks.
Bonds steady; semi-speculative rails active.
Foreign exchanges mixed; sterling easier.
Cotton steady; better cotton goods reports.
Sugar featureless.
Coffee higher; trade buying.

Chicago

Wheat weak; lower cables. Corn declined; sympathy with wheat.
Cattle lower. Hogs higher; light receipts.

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Price movements lacked uniformity in today's stock market which was featured by a few sensational advances in the so-called "rich men's stocks," and renewed weakness of the food shares. Trading was again in heavy volume, total sales running close to 2,000,000 shares.

Financial and trade news was mixed in character. Operators on the long side found encouragement in the reduction in call money rates, which opened at 5 1-2, dropped to 5 and thence to 4 1-2, closing at the bottom. The weekly steel trade reviews reported that business so far in February was running better than last month but some uneasiness was felt because of the easing price tendency of scrap iron and finished steel. Zinc broke below 5 cents a pound for the first time in several months on the announcement of a sharp increase in stocks on hand. Several additional favorable 1925 earnings reports made their appearance during the day, those of the Kelly-Springfield and Pierce-Arrow Motor Car companies, making a splendid comparison with 1924.

United States Steel Common displayed a strong undertone despite the announcement that unfilled orders in January showed a drop of more than 150,000 tons below those of the preceding month. This reduction, the first since last September, was explained by the fact that operations and shipments were maintained at a high rate while forward business showed a seasonal slump.

General Electric was the outstanding individual feature, soaring 1 1-2 points to a record high for all time at 265 1-2 on renewed talk of recapitalization plans. American Can, whose stockholders recently approved a reduction in the par value of stock from $100 to $25 and a stock dividend of 3 per cent., soared 10 points to a new record peak at 214. Commercial solvents A jumped nearly 10 points to 147.

Heavy liquidation of Ward Baking B carried that stock down 10 points to 55 as against a recent high of 85 3-8. New York Canners broke 3 1-4 points to 65 and then snapped back to 70. California Packing sagged 2 1-2 points to 146 1-2, as against a high of 152 last week and Postum Cereal showed net loss of 3 5-8 at 197 1-8 also developed in Cocoa man's Bakery, Loft Candy and sugar stocks.

Equipment stocks gave a ration of group strength ctric Supply soared over 76, and Westinghouse ed three points to 79, prices for the year. s also were in good wing 3 points high- showing a net gain Other outstanding s included Allied al Match Preferred, Royal Company, and United St. Iron Pipe, American Brake American Tobacco, Foundation Company, National Distillers and United States Industrial Alcohol were conspicuously heavy.

Rails attracted a little more attention but speculative activity was confined to a few issues, with the strength and activity of the Chicago and Alton shares and a jump of 4 1-2 points in Delaware and Hudson as the chief features.

Commodity markets were irregular. Active wheat futures broke 2 1-4 to nearly 4 cents a bushel on reports that wheat was being offered more freely in the Argentine. Cotton showed net advances of 6 to 12 points with some of the buying influenced by failure of cotton shipments to reach here from the south for delivery. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee futures closed 10 points higher to four points lower.

Time money and commercial rates are unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were slightly easier. Demand sterling broke below $4.86 and French francs ruled around their recent low of 3.67 cents. Danish crowns showed independent strength.

FAIR TODAY; FAIR, WARMER TOMORROW

Norwich Bulletin

NORWICH, CONN., THURSDAY, FEB. 11, 1926

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Thursday, Feb. 11, 1926

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The secondary disturbance that developed over Virginia and North Carolina during Tuesday moved northeastward with rapidly increasing intensity and it is centered east of Cape Cod, Nantucket, Mass, reporting a barometer reading of 29.38 inches.

A disturbance of wide extent is over the Canadian northwestern and the western part of the United States with two centers, one over Alberta, the other over southern Nevada. The lowest barometer reading is 29.48 inches at Calgary, Alberta. This disturbance has caused rains in the northern plateau region and in the Pacific states from central California northward.

Fair weather will prevail almost generally Thursday and Friday in the states east of the Mississippi river. The temperature will change very little Thursday, but it will rise Friday throughout this area, except possibly northern New England.

Advisory Nine Thirty P. M.

Northeast storm warnings continued north Boston to Eastport, Maine. Storm central east of Cape Cod moving northeastward.

North of Sandy Hook—Strong north and northwest diminishing and weather mostly overcast Thursday; snow over east portion.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh, possibly strong northwest and north, and generally fair weather Thursday.

Forecast

For Southern New England and Eastern New York: Fair Thursday and Friday; continued cold Thursday night, slowly rising temperature Friday.

TAFTVILLE

Over 200 attended the supper and entertainment given Tuesday evening by the Ladies Benevolent society of the Taftville Congregational church in the vestry of the church. A delicious supper of chicken patties, green peas, potato chips, pickles, rolls, assorted cake and coffee was served. The general committee in charge of the supper was Mrs. Clarence J. Nagle, chairman; Mrs. Alberto E. Pingree, Mrs. Walter L. Barritt, Mrs. James Edwards, Mrs. George H. Young, Mrs. Edmund Hindle and Mrs. Arthur E. Atkins. The table committee was Mrs. Eugene N. Monty, Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis; Mrs. Charles T. Webster, Mrs. Walter S. Grant, Mrs. Allan Bogle, Miss Anna M. Beardow, Mrs. John Volkman, and Mrs. Richard B. Snow.

The waitresses were Miss Flossie M. Meyer, Miss Elsie Heap, Miss Bertha Monty, Miss Sadie Newton, Miss Millicent M. Cotton, Miss Mary Greenhalgh, Miss Elizabeth E. Houston, Miss Isabel Barrett, Miss Eleanor Herlarich and Miss Virginia Grover.

After the supper there was an enjoyable entertainment ,musical numbers being given by a quartette, Robert Gray, tenor; Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., soprano; Mrs. Helena M. T. Church, contralto; and William A. Lund, bass. The members of the quartette also gave several solo and duet numbers. They were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Olive Roberts. There were entertaining readings by Mrs. Myra E. Ward, which were greatly enjoyed by those who attended.

Who would ever suspect that with snowdrifts 8 and 10 feet high and the roads well nigh impassable, one would meet such a gentle creature as a game warden, especially in a remote part of Lisbon and on a Sunday morning when good game wardens are usually found in other places. Joe Kannoski of Lisbon had the misfortune of making a sudden and unexpected acquaintance with deputy game warden Watson, and Joe learned right then and there that it was contrary to law for an alien to have a shotgun in his possession, especially on the Sabbath day. Of course it was loaded, and Joe had a few more shells in his pocket that he was unaware of. In the Lisbon court Monday, it cost Joe about $25 for his Sunday excursion, also the forfeiture of the gun.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ponemah Wheel club which had been postponed from the first Tuesday of the month was held at the club house on Norwich avenue, Tuesday evening, with a good attendance. President E. Tracy Clark presided.

Frederick Helm has joined the ranks of the radio fans and has had a receiving set installed at his home in Lisbon.

The committee in charge of the meeting of the Men's club of the Taftville Congregational church, has invited all the men of the parish to meet at the vestry this (Thursday) evening for an instructive talk and social evening. General William A. Aiken, who was to have addressed the club on The Life of Abraham Lincoln, has been taken ill and will be unable to attend, but Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, will be present and will speak on The Moral Grandeur of Lincoln.

STORM DELAYS OPENING OF CHRIST CHURCH MISSION

Owing to demoralized train service due to the snow storm Rev. D. Robert Bailey, who was scheduled to open a four day mission at Christ Episcopal church Wednesday was unable to get to Norwich. Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong, rector of Christ church, received a telegram Wednesday from Rev. Mr. Bailey, informing him that he was unable to come to Norwich owing to the storm. Rev. Mr. Bailey filed the telegram at Boston. As a consequence the childrens song service and mission address scheduled for 4:15 in the afternoon and the evening mission service scheduled for 7:30 o'clock were called off. Rev. Mr. Bailey is expected in Norwich today (Thursday) and the programme arranged for the mission will be carried out as already published.

A man's second love is likely to be worth more money than his first.

SPEAKS TO ROTARIANS ON CULTIVATING CIVIC PRIDE AND COMMUNITY SPIRIT

The members of the Norwich Rotary club, who braved the icy and snow-laden winds that swept the city on Wednesday, were well repaid by the very interesting and much-to-the-point talk on Community Spirit by Rotarian James L. Case, president of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Case's talk contained much that was of interest, not only to Rotarians, but to every citizen of Norwich. His talk was as follows:

Provided those of you who were present at last week's meeting and listened to Mr. Larrabee's inspiring address have, during these intervening days ,put into practice some of his suggestions, any appeal of mine along similar lines today, will be but an anticlimax. His clear and logical analysis of existing conditions in New England —in Connecticut—in Norwich—made a deep impression upon all of us, for I have heard many expressions of approval of the ideals and suggestions he so clearly and practically laid before us.

For Community Spirit

Because, in recent months, I have so often spoken of what I have been pleased to term "the need of a more aggressive Community Spirit or Civic Pride in Norwich," the program committee has summoned me here today, to ,tell you, in greater detail, just what I mean by such a statement. What Mr. Larrabee said has helped to make such an attempt, a real pleasure and I hope that in the next few minutes, we, together, may find a common motive that will cause us to be bigger and better and broader in our relations with each other and with our fellow citizens, as well.

Whenever and wherever people choose to congregate and dwell, a city or a town springs into being; sometimes natural beauties determine its location; sometimes it is climatic conditions; again, it is for other causes, but for any one of these reasons, the early settlers of Norwich, back in 1659, may have discovered those things for which they sought, and founded the town, of which, you and I are a part, today.

Often a city grows and prospers because of its natural attractions; sometimes because of oil, or coal, or gas, or gold, that lies beneath its surface, but no permanent or lasting success can ever be attained without a worthy and intelligent citizenship.

Interests Inseparable

The interests of the city and the citizen are inseparable because each bears a very definite relationship to the other. One is animate, the other inanimate, but both are essential to a common growth and well-being. The citizen may help to make the city but the city also helps to make the citizen.

The right kind of Community Spirit or Civic Pride is the result of many causes and of varied conditions. It is, however, my purpose, this noon, to merely call your attention to two or three of the outstanding causes, and to ask you to think about them, and to put them into practice, after this meeting has adjourned.

Appreciate the Past

If I am able to do so, I shall consider that the real object of this simple talk has been attained.

I mention as a first requirement, a sincere appreciation of an honorable history and of the worthy accomplishments of the citizens of the past. In this respect, Norwich has been most fortunate, for the men and women of the days gone by laid a sure and solid foundation for a typical New England city.

The early history of the town is a fascinating story and we of today are proud of what our forefathers did to help make possible a new nation in the late colonial days.

Later, the "Boys of 61" fought, bled, and many died on the fields of battle, to save it—for, they said that, "no nation could long exist half slave and half free."

Other citizens honored themselves, as well as their city, their state, and their country, by the manner in which they filled high positions of honor and of trust both at home and abroad, for there is scarcely an office to be found, from that of the vice-president of the United States, down to the most humble place of service, that has not, at some time, been occupied with credit and distinction by a citizen of the Rose of New England.

Generous and charitable were those men and women of the past, and their example is one that, we, of the present day, may well emulate. But the book of the past is now closed and only its memories can help us to be the citizens we ought to be.

Loyalty to Present Ideals

Our generation must be loyal to those accomplishments and to those ideals which we have inherited, but at the same time, we should both preach and practice such a loyalty as present day conditions deserve and demand. We should be loyal to ourselves, to our homes, and to our families; to our friends, and to our neighbors, with which we live and dwell. We should see the good that lies about us and strive to eliminate the bad. Our criticisms should be constructive and at all times we should be willing to bear a full share of the burdens of community life.

Community Service by Each

I almost hesitate to mention the name of service in this connection, simply because the word itself has been so often misused and so harshly abused in the recent years. But because Community Service is indispensable to Community Spirit and to Community Pride, I bespeak your sympathetic consideration of such a theme, with open minds.

It is utterly impossible for me at this time to enumerate the various forms and types of Community Service that exist, or should prevail in Norwich. You know how many sided the "picture" really is. You know, too, that it is personal in its application, for one man serves along one particular line, while another man adds "his mite" along another.

You and I, and the 34,950 other citizens of our town and city, must find our places, and know our tasks, and then perform them to the very limit of our ability. If we only would do so, what an ideal city we would have.

Real community service must always be sincere, practical, and efficient. Whereever there is a need, there must be a corresponding service, and the manner in which we meet the need, will determine our success or failure. Because efficient, dependable, community service is greatly needed in Norwich, today, I challenge you, my "Fellow Rotarians" to do your part to produce it.

You and I may often be called upon to sacrifice a portion of our time, of our ability, of our money, of our strength, for such a cause, for no permanent success was ever attained without it. May I assure you, however, that such an end will always justify such a means."

A city like ours needs men and women of purpose, vision, and of character; men and women who are determined and willing to be their best; do their best, and give their best, at all times. Far too many of us are inclined to be perfectly satisfied to sit by and let the "other fellow" attend to our city meetings, to serve as Mayor, aldermen, councilmen or other public officers and then reward them for their labors by criticising their failures far more often than we praise their virtues. If by some unknown process or by some great power we would, here and now, persuade ourselves that, from this day, and from this hour, no call of "Community Service" that may come to us shall ever be lightly set aside without first having received a full and fair consideration of relation towards it, I am sure some of the problems we face, as a municipality, would vanish in a day.

Need of Strong Men.

I believe many of us do have just such desires and purposes and all we need is an opportunity to express them. With us today, sit two men, both Fellow Rotarians, who have occupied the position of Mayor of Norwich, with great credit to themselves and to the honor of the city. Others, too, are here who have been aldermen, councilmen, clerks, and judges.

The great call of the hour is for men—red blooded men — strong men —worthy men.

The opportunities for "Service," "Loyalty" and "Sacrifice" are to be found everywhere, and the future of Norwich will influenced by the manner in which you and I, and the thousands of others like us, respond to them.

On Friday next, the American Nation will pause for a day, to honor the memory of a real American; one who lived nd died a Christian man.

Abraham Lincoln was in very truth one of God's noblemen. He sprang from a humble home, poor parents, a limited schooling, but possessed of a great ambition to be and to do something well worth while. He overcame obstacles, cast barriers aside, freed a million slaves, and preserved a nation. He was shot down in the very hour of his greatest triumph. How truly does Lothrop Motley says of him: "He went through life bearing the load of a peoples' sorrow with a smiling face. As long as he lived he was the guiding star of a whole brave nation and when he died little children cried in the streets.

"His, indeed, was a great life, and his memory is precious. He had a keen appreciation of the acomplishments of great men who had lived and performed well their tasks. He was loyal to the core, to the ideals of the age in which he lived."

"His was a service unselfish and sincere," and his completa sacrifice of all he possessed, even unto death, has done much to make America the land she is, and, we, the people that we are.

May it be, Fellow Rotarians, that you and I are better citizens because of his life and for his example of national service and of national pride. Down deep in our hearts can we not hear a still, small voice say today—"Lives of great men all remind us

We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints in the sands of time."

Another very interesting talk was that given by Dr. A. C. Freeman who was the scheduled five-minute speaker of the day. Dr. Freeman took for his topic the Changes in the Medical Profession. In opening his remarks Dr. Freeman spoke of the length of time required in training for the profession and then the picking of a locality in which to practice. This latter is more or less of a chance and some times it is pretty hard sledding for a time. As time goes on there come about changes in the medical profession that are always a step forward. Years ago the physician was supposed to be an authority on all diseases but now we have the specialist to whom the physician turns in severe cases. Years ago the common treatment of all diseases was about the same. A fever pill and other drugs and that to tuck. Now we have the serums, the X-ray and many other modern methods of combating and preventing disease with greater rapidity and accuracy. All these new discoveries of the medical science tend to make life more certain and it is an accepted and proven fact that the death rate is steadily decreasing in the larger majority, if not all, diseases.

At the business session President E. A. Harris presided and Joseph W. Curtis acted as song-leader. A very enthusiastic report of the Danielson Charter night was given by Russell A. Clapp who spoke in glowing terms of the remarkable Rotary spirit shown by the Danielson club in putting on the first meeting.

J. Harry Shannon, recently returned from a trip to Florida, gave a very interesting talk on his trip to the winter resorts of the south.

TEN DRIVERS HAVE THEIR LICENSES SUSPENDED

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out Wednesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are six names on the list. One was a Connecticut operator arrested in another state. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles. The list follows:

Albert Bolling, Greenwich; Herman Buttery, Darien; Gordon Eager, Hartford; Michael Guerrera, Oakville; Joseph MacNamara, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Oliver J. Olsen, Forestville.

Lebanon Whist Club

A whist club was formed at Lebanon at a meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. G. R. Yerrington, the following being members: Mrs. Walter Burgess, Mrs. John E. Burgess, Mrs. William A. Pultz, Mrs. Frank Rockwood, Miss Florence Rockwood, Mrs. C. W. Sweet, Mrs. G. R. Yerrington, Mrs. W. F. Clark, Mrs. Henry Hewitt, Mrs. Arthur Hewitt, Mrs. Rodney Hewitt, and Mrs. Morse. Mrs. G. R. Yerrington was elected president of the club and Mrs. William Pultz, treasurer.

Three Fined For Theft

Following complaint by officials of the Uncasville Shelton Woolen mill at Uncasville that petty thievery had taken place at the plant of the company, three men were arrested by State Policeman Fred Caron there on Tuesday and fined $5 each when presented before Justice Oscar Church. The men were Stanley Lakowsky Stanley Edulao and Louis Courkosky, all former employes of the company and residents of Uncasville.

SOCIAL TEA INTRODUCES MISS PECKHAM TO NORWICH

What the housewives of Norwich have been wishing for is now to be provided.

An expert is to be at their disposal to aid them in solving their problems and perplexities, if any arise, in their use of gas and electrical appliances.

Wednesday afternoon, at a valentine tea given at 34 Shetucket street, at the offices of the Norwich Gas & Electrical department, Gladys L. Peckham, S. B. met local home-makers and announced her readiness to help and instruct all women who may request her advice.

Miss Peckham, a very engaging and efficient young woman, earned her degree of Bachelor of Science at Rhode Island State college, Kingston, following her four years' course in Home Economics. Since she was graduated, in 1924, she has been one of three girls in the service of the Providence Gas company, gaining exceedingly valuable experience

She comes to Norwich to devote each day, from 8:30 to 5, to practical assistance of Norwich housewives, who have the privilege of calling upon her freely. Each morning she is at liberty to honor any patron's request to help with gas and electrical appliances. Every afternoon she will be at her office for consultation. All that is required of any individual or family using municipal gas or electricity is simply to telephone 2830 and Miss Peckham will answer in the most practical way.

Not only this, but she is at the call of patrons for party help service, or arranging menus for dinners, or by assisting in budget-making. Her trained aid will be willingly applied to any or all household problems along the lines indicated.

Furthermore, beginning next Wednesday at 2:30, Miss Peckham is to start a course of free lecture-demonstrations on her special work. It will mean a great deal to each woman attending to have the assurance that Miss Peckham is to give free the copies of the various recipes which she will prepare during her lecture. She is also to hold free classes each Monday evening.

To meet the housewives of Norwich and vicinity, Miss Peckham was formally presented to her public at a pretty valentine tea Wednesday from 3 to 5. The office was made most attractive in decorations of pink and green, representing a garden, where carnations, cherry blooms, smilax, and palms combined to make a charming setting for the dainty tea table.

At the table was Mrs. Charles W Taggart, wife of the general manager of the company, and receiving were Mrs. Edward A. Rich, Mrs. Clarence D Sevin and Mrs. Earl G. Taggart. The girls serving were Miss Marian Bliven and Miss Helen Bates. Mrs. Richard Berkoff assisted during the afternoon. Tea and dainty cakes, nuts and bonbons were served.

A most enjoyable musical program was given by Mrs. Lloyd Williams (Lucile Winifred Guile) at the piano and George A. Guile violin.

CLAIMS REPAIR MAN DAMAGED HIS AUTOMOBILE

Before Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court at New London Wednesday the trial was begun and concluded in the $2,000 damage suit of Aldo Guilliani against Samuel Blonder, both of New London. Judge Brown took the papers and reserved decision.

Guilliani, a sailor in the navy, now stationed in French waters, alleges that he placed his touring car in Blonder's garage in 1924 to be repaired and that Blonder appropriated the car for his own use, seriously damaging it during one of the times he used it.

Blonder denies the complaint and said on the witness stand that the car when first brought to him was worth only $25. Guilliani's brother, on the stand, valued the car at $900 and said that Blonder did not repair it satisfactorily.

A suit is now pending in which Guilliani is the defendant and Blonder the plaintiff. Blonder testified Wednesday that he repaired the car so that it was in good running order and that he would not let Guilliani have the car until he could pay him for the work, which included more than $100 ,which Blonder said he had paid for having machine work done on it.

When Blonder's suit was filed, Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin, who served the papers, attached the Guilliani car, which was then in Blonder's garage. Blonder was then empowered to move it to his own garage in Waterford, where it now is, according to testimony in court.

HONOR SCORES CHANGED IN BRIDGE WHIST RULES

Rules regarding the scoring of honors in auction bridge have been changed to give all honors, regardless of suits, as equal value. In the revoke regulations the penalty has been modified by giving the innocent side one trick but no penalty in points.

When the new rules are ready for publication the Whist club will announce the date for them to become effective.

No trump honors are unchanged. When there is a trump simple honors, regardless of suit, count 30 points, four honors divided 40 points, five honors divided 50 points, four honors in one hand 80 points, four honors one hand and fifth in partners 90 points, five honors in one hand 100 points.

The following rule was adopted:

Honors are scored in the honor score of the side to which they are dealt; their value is not changed by doubling or redoubling.

This revision towards simplified scoring was announced following a conference of experts last Saturday. Milton C. Work, chairman of the committee on rules of the Whist Club of New York, and representatives of the American Whist League, the Knickerbocker Whist club and the New York Bridge Whist club, attended the conference.

TWO PAID FINES IN COURT FOR FIGHTING

Fines of $10 and costs were imposed on Martin Keough, 46, and James McGrath, 40, both of this city by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Wednesday morning. They were charged with breach of the peace and the fines in each case were paid. Both pleaded guilty.

However, Keough claimed in court that he did not know who hit McGrath whose face was disfigured and who has two black eyes. McGrath declined to say that it was Keough who hit him. Keough received a cut on the head. They were arrested Tuesday night in McGrath's barbershop in the Falls where the alleged fight took place.

Three men were fined for intoxication and one, who couldn't pay had to go to jail to work his fine out.

Superior Court Session Here.

The superior court which is holding the February term in New London, will hold a session in this city today (Thursday) for the trial of two cases that have been assigned. Judge Allyn L. Bdown is presiding at the court session.

BEGINNING NEW SERVICE FOR FARMERS' BENEFIT

An entirely new service for the benefit of farmers of the state has been inaugurated by the state department of agriculture. It will consist in supplying information to owners of farm implements and machinery which is in need of repairs, parts for which can not be obtained in local markets. The patterns for parts of many machines the manufacture of which has been discontinued by the original makers, have been sold to other companies.

The department proposed to collect information regarding these changes in ownership of patterns and furnish the same to the farmers upon application. Many machines, even of recent manufacture, have lost their usefulness because the owners have been unable to replace broken or worn-out parts as they are no longer carried by local implement dealers. The new service hopes to overcome this condition. Much of the information desired has already been compiled by the department and is available at once.

Anyone desiring to know where a certain part can be procured should forward the following information to the Commissioner of Agriculture, State Capitol, Hartford, Conn.: name of machine; by whom manufactured; year of manufacture; model; name and number of the part desired. Practically every implement or farm machine used in agriculture from the complicated reapers to the common lawn mower will come under the new service.

SEEKS FORECLOSURE AND INJUNCTION IN SPRAGUE

Suit for foreclosure of a mortgage and for an injunction to prevent wood cutting has been brought against Horosyn and Olga Boyko, alias Gooko, also of Sprague. The suit is returnable in March.

Foreclosure of a mortgage for $1,800, dated Jan. 9, 1922, and payable $150 annually, is brought on the ground of default in the payments due Jan. 9, 1926, which with interest amounted to $234.25. The mortgage is on two farm tracts in Baltic, one of 45 and the other of 30 acres.

It is also alleged in the complaint that the defendants have cut and sold from the farms timber to the amount of over 60 cords, worth $10 a cord, this being done without permission and the wood that was taken was not required for domestic use.

Besides the foreclosure of the mortgage, damages of $600 are asked for and an injunction against cutting, carrying away or selling wood at any time from the farms.

DISALLOWS COMPENSATION IN UNCASVILLE CLAIM

A workmen's compensation claim by Earl Benson, of Uncasville, against the Robert Gair Co., of that place, has been disallowed by Commissioner J. J. Donohue, after a hearing given in the case.

Benson was employed in the beater room and came to the mill nurse early in September for attention to his finger which was sore. The nurse, according to the finding, show that she asked him at several times, what the cause of the trouble was and his answer was that he did not know. At the hearing he claimed that he stuck a hook into his finger on Aug. 31, but the nurse's record showed that he seemed to have a small splinter in his finger. Commissioner Donohue finds that Benson has failed to establish his claim to receiving injury arising out of and in the course of his employment so that no compensation can be allowed him.

DIRECTS THAT DOCTOR'S BILL SHALL BE PAID

A bill for $22.25 of Dr. F. W. Hewes of Groton against the Griswold Hotel, Eastern Point, in a workmen's compensation claim has been approved by Commissioner J. J. Donohue. The doctor treated Simeon Edwards, an employe of the hotel, who hurt his leg in a fall on the stairs on Aug. 31. The bill had not been honored because the insuring company claimed no report could be obtained from the employer. At the hearing, however, the compensation commissioner found that the watchman had reported the injury to the night clerk of the hotel who said that he would notify the insurer. The commissioner accordingly directs the payment of the bill.

GIVES APPROVAL TO BILL DOCTOR PRESENTED

Approval of the bill of Dr. John J. Donohue of Uncasville against the Robert Gair Co., for services in a workmen's compensation case has been given by Commissioner J. J. Donohue. The dictor's bill was for $42 for first-aid and ten visits to the home of a mill employe who lives four miles out in the country. The insurance company objected to the bill because of the frequency of the doctor's visits to the patient, from July 6 to July 17, but Commissioner Donohue finds that these were warranted by the treatment that was needed to a punctured wound in the employe's foot. He accordingly approves the bill and directs that it be paid.

CHARITABLE CIRCLE HAS ANNUAL MEETING

Tuesday evening the annual meeting of Charitable circle of the King's Daughters was held in the Sunday school room of the United Congregational church with a good attendance. The reports of the officers showed the circle to be in excellent condition and much good work had been done during the year.

Officers were re-elected as follows: Leader, Miss Clara B. Griswold; vice leader, Miss Bessie L. Wilbur; secretary, Miss Nellie S. Howie; treasurer, Miss Hattie L. Carter.

Return to Florida.

Mrs. A. C. Hill and son, William, have returned to Miami, Florida, after visiting with Mrs. Hill's mother, Mrs. Petroni of 56 School street.

During her stay north Mrs. Hill accompanied her brother, Joseph Petroni to Philadelphia, where he underwent an operation on his leg, necessitated by an accident in December of last year. Mr. Petroni is now convalescing at his home, but is still unable to get about.

Monitor Survivor Dies.

Willis Sanford Drake, believed to be the last survivor of the crew of the U. S. S. Monitor of Civil war fame, was dead at his home in Elizabeth, N. J., Wednesday, at the age of 85.

Drake was injured by the recoil of one of the Monitor's guns during the historic battle with the Merrimac and was discharged from the navy five days later. He was then 17. He engaged in the merchant service and acquired a vessel of his own, but shipwrecks deprived him of his fortune. His widow, two daughters, four sons and seven grandchildren survive him.

COAL STRIKE SETTLEMENT TODAY ALMOST A CERTAINTY

Miners' Scale Committee Has Been Called to Philadelphia—Leaders of the Miners and Operators Had Been in Separate Conferences There Throughout the Day—If Events Transpire as Planned Last Night the Mines Will Be in Operation Within Ten Days.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11—(AP)—All signs tonight pointed to a settlement of the anthracite strike tomorrow.

Unless the unforeseen occurs, it is expected an agreement, subject to ratification by a delegated convention of miners, will be signed by tomorrow night.

Late today leaders of the mine workers summoned the full scale committee to Philadelphia for a meeting in the morning to act on the work of its sub-committee, indicating that President John L. Lewis and his associates have agreed on a proposition to send the miners back to work.

After the scale committee acts, it is planned for the joint committee of miners and operators to meet to formally sign the agreement.

If everything proceeds as tentatively planned tonight the mines will be in operation within ten days, with peak production about the end of February.

No inkling of the nature of the agreement was permitted to leak out, but it is known that it is based on the old wage scale with some additions. Neither side likes to speak of compromise, but that there were some trade appeared certain.

UNOFFICIAL CONDITIONS OF STRIKE SETTLEMENT

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Feb. 11.—(AP)—It was learned here tonight on reliable, but unofficial authority that the basis of the settlement of the anthracite strike, under consideration in Philadelphia, substantially is as follows:

First, that President Coolidge be invited to mediate the differences between the miners and operators.

Second, that pending the mediation of the president the miners shall return to work, or, under certain conditions, remain on suspension until the decision is made known.

Third, that in the event the mediation decision is unsatisfactory President Coolidge shall be asked to sit as a judge and make a decision on the question at issue.

This decision to be binding on both sides, with the provision that either side may appeal on questions of fact within ten days.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON ON THE COAL SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Hope for a renewal of negotiations between the anthracite miners and operators to bring an end to the strike which now has equalled the longest hard coal stoppage on record, was brought more plainly to the surface than ever today in government circles most intimately in touch with the situation.

Just what will emerge from official conferences and utterances today on the subject was not evident tonight. Likewise, there were no indications that President Coolidge would abandon his hands-off policy.

Secretary of Labor Davis conferred with the president at the white house on the situation and congressional debate again touched upon the subject. The republican steering committee of the house also decided to hear five republican members tomorrow on their reasons for suggesting immediate action on coal legislation by the house commerce committee.

Meanwhile, at the labor department, where action was confined strictly to the law which makes the federal government stand ready to assist with mediation and conciliation services in any industrial dispute, the basis for a new plan of settlement was nearly completed. Whether the plan would be offered by the government or some other mediation agency for proffering at further negotiations was an unanswered question.

Leaving the white house, Secretary Davis said to newspaper men, "if you would quit writing stories about coal for six days, there might be a change in the situation."

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the republican leader, told the house that it was time that "loose talking" stopped, and he called on those who believed the president or congress should settle the strike to "take pad and pencil and draft a law that is constitutional, and that will end the coal strike now."

The speech drew a reply from Representative Fish, republican, New York, who declared that it "was absurd to contend that no legislative remedy has been proposed."

The house republican steering committee will hear tomorrow Representatives Fish, Wainwright and Tolley, all of New York, and Gibson, Vermont, and Treadway, Massachusetts.

Representative Somers, democrat, New York, who circulated the petition for a house democratic caucus to place the party on record as favoring immediate coal legislation, declared in a statement that the decision of the republican steering committee to "at last take up coal indicates that the pressure brought to bear since the strike started five months ago has had its effect."

MERGER OF BANKS WITH RESOURCES OF $1,000,000,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—The merger of the Chase National bank and Mechanics and Metals National bank with combined resources of $1,000,000,000 was announced tonight by Albert H. Wiggin, president of the Chase National.

Mr. Wiggin said the new bank will be second in size among the banking institutions of the country, the National City bank of New York being first with resources of $1,215,023,000.

The merger was first forecast several months ago when it was predicted that the two banks and several others would finally be formed into one gigantic group. At that time it was reported in Wall street that steps were under way to effect the amalgamation of several banks by twos, with later mergers among these groups.

The merger of the Chase National and Mechanics & Metals National was announced after several weeks of conferences between the officers and directors of the two banks.

The Chase National bank in its last public statement revealed total resources of $638,050,230. The Mechanics and Metals National had total resources of $308,761,214.

The Chase National is 48 years old, and the Mechanics and Metals National was established 115 years ago. The latter bank began as the first labor bank in the country, its original directorate in 1810 being chosen entirely from members of the Central Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen.

The Chase National was organized by John Thompson and four others who named it in honor of Salmon P. Chase, Lincoln's secretary of the treasury. Launched with an original capital of $2,000,000 and with 15 clerks, its capital today is $20,000,000 and its clerical force number 1,487. Its surplus and undivided profits amount to more than $27,000,000 and its deposits to more than $565,000,000. Its total resources of $638,050,230 do not include its subsidiary, the Chase Securities Corporation engaged in the general underwriting business.

The Mechanics and Metals National bank, whose dominating figure has long been Gates W. McGarrah, started in a three story building on Nassau street which had been the home of Alexander Hamilton. Its original capitalization was $1,500,000.

The Mechanics & Metals present capitalization is $10,000,000. Its deposits total $322,507,370, and its surplus and undivided profits $16,124,300.

$750,000 DAMAGE SUIT SETTLED FOR $600,000

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The $750,000 damage suit in federal district court here of the Pneumatic Scale Corporation against the Sunkist Raisin Growers' association has been settled out of court, the defendant to pay $600,000 damages which includes the cost of the machines manufactured for them by the scale corporation.

Attorneys for the defendants recently filed reasons in federal district court for a new trial in the case, which will be dropped. The suit was instituted on allegation by the scale corporation that the Raisin Growers' association had violated its contract. The jury which heard the trial, awarded the complainants $325,000 damages without the machines but the defendants asked for an arrest of judgment while arguments were being heard for a new trial.

VERDICT MONDAY IN $250,000 BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—A sealed verdict to be returned in supreme court next Monday was ordered by Justice Mitchell today in the $250,000 breach of promise suit brought by Mrs. Adele Louise B. Jones against John Thwaites, millionaire owner of the Chrystal Springs bleachery at Thwaites Mass.

Justice Mitchell issued this direction after the jury had been out about three hours. The case went to the jury shortly after noon today.

His anger aroused by an attack upon him by Frank P. Walsh, Mrs Jones' attorney, who characterized him as a "marauder in the stores of New York" Thwaites stamped out of the courtroom during Mr. Walsh's summation this morning. He did not return until after Mr. Walsh had completed his argument.

Mr. Walsh referred to Mrs. Jones' assertion that Mr. Thwaites called on her frequently while she was a saleswoman in the Wunamaker store.

Isaac Goodhue, attorney for Mr. Thwaites, asked the jury to believe his client's testimony that Mrs. Jones a widow and mother of two grown up children, knew at their first meeting that Thwaites was a married man. Justice Mitchell in charging the jury called attention to the fact that both parties in the case had been through the divorce courts and that "neither of them is a child."

FRENCH DEPUTIES SHIFT ON FINANCIAL MEASURES

PARIS, Feb. 11—(AP)—The shifting of positions in the conflict over the financial restoration measures continued in the chamber of deputies today. The radicals accepted a modified system for the transformation of bearer bonds to nominative bonds while the socialists reserved their decision.

The tax on agricultural profits, on which a compromise was reached yesterday, again came up and was adopted.

Both the government and the chamber were much impressed by representations made by delegates from different senate groups that unless the senate was very soon put in possession of measures to balance the budget the situation would become most critical. It is the action of the senators that had the greatest effect on the finance committee of the chamber when that body met this morning to consider a compromise proposal with respect to bonds, presented by the finance minister, M. Doumer.

The radicals at once decided to accept this proposal, but the communists and socialists put through an adverse motion. M. M. Lamoureaux, reporter of the committee, thereupon left the committee room with the intention of resigning, but the radical leaders induced him to return. The previous action of the committee was reserved, and the Doumer compromise adopted. This plan gives preference to nominative bonds, but leaves the issue of bonds to bearer optional.

TO TAKE LEGAL STEPS TO RESIST EXTRADITION

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 11—(AP)—C. O. Burton, whom Hancock, New York authorities say is Fred G. Beale, wanted for "grave robbing," is expected to take legal steps to resist extradition, it was learned after New York authorities had been granted requisition papers in Tallahassee today for his return to that state.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Mussolini Less Arrogant.

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Though Premier Mussolini's second speech is not thought calculated to improve the strained relations between Germany and Italy, it is realized in official quarters that its tone is less violent than at first, and it is understood that Dr. Stresemann, the German foreign minister, has no intention of making a specific reply. The government, it is asserted, considers the incident closed for the time being.

LINCOLN DAY DINNER BY NEW HAVEN Y. M. C. A.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 11—(AP)—Abraham Lincoln's birthday anniversary which falls upon the morow was observed as is its long custom, by the Young Men's Republican club, of New Haven, tonightw ith a dinner in its club house.

The toast to the martyred president was given by Rev. Elmore M. McKee, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, who spoke on the humanities of the man and by Congressman A. M. Free, of the eighth California district, who added political flavor to the after-dinner speaking.

Congressman John Q. Tilson, of this district, member of the club, and majority leader in the house, was unable to attend but he sent a letter explaining that he felt that it was a paramount duty to remain in Washington and on the 'field of action" just at this time. His letter was read by President M. Leon Smith, of the club. Mayor J. B. Tower was also a guest and responded briefly to his introduction.

Congressman Free said that he was pleased to be the club's guest because he held Mr. Tilson in such high regard, and he felt that the third Connecticut district was greatly honored in having its member in such a dominant place as house leader. Republicans in congress, Mr. Free said, felt that they had acted wisely in making Mr. Tilson their leader on the floor of the house.

HIGH WINDS DRIFT DRIFTS OF SNOW ON HIGHWAY

HARTFORD, Feb. 11—(AP)—Sweeping winds and below freezing temperature following closely on the heels of Wednesday's seventeen hour snow storm, continued all day today and tonight to baffle workers on city and state highways in their efforts to once again restore normal traffic conditions throughout the state.

George E. Hamlin, superintendent of repairs of the state highway department, said late tonight that these conditions have been particularly disastrous to those working to open up state roadways. He said that a high wind, sweeping across the countryside was driving great drifts of snow across the roads already opened and was filling them up just as badly as before.

"Most of the main trunk lines in the state," he said, "are open, but we are finding it almost impossible to make any further headway. All we are able to do now is to maintain the advantages we have already gained. In addition to fierce winds, there are places where the men are working, where the highest temperature recorded all day long was but 14 degrees. This works a particular hardship on the shovellers, who are, however, performing nobly under the conditions.

"The main routes are virtually open, but I will not vouch for the morning. The wind, throughout the state, is terrific in places, and many of the roads now open, may be buried by great drifts before morning comes again."

LAFOLLETTE RESTORES ORDER IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—(AP)—Another storm broke in the senate today around Senator Couzens, republican Michigan, chairman of the special committee which investigated the internal revenue bureau.

The senate's youngest member, "Bob" LaFollette, of Wisconsin, was presiding. With quick decisions and vigorous enforcement of the rules, he restored order as Mr. Dawes in a front row seat gave smiling approval.

The storm broke as Senator Pine, republican, Oklahoma, challenged a conclusion of the majority of the Couzens committee that an oil company could charge more than 100 per cent depletion under the present tax law. Senator Pine declared "that is not true."

Resenting this statement as a reflection upon the veracity of the majority members of the committee, Senator Couzens said that if Senator Pine would take his seat and wait long enough he would prove the accuracy of his declaration.

VIEWS OF THOMAS A. EDISON ON HIS 79TH BIRTHDAY

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Thomas A. Edison, on his 79th birthday today, expressed favor with prohibition, evolution, the world court and Colonel Mitchell's air policies, and said he felt "nowhere near" 79 years of age.

Mr. Edison was host of two parties of newspaper men during the day at his Fort Myers home, where he answers each year reporters' questions. His eyes sparkled during the discussions and he walked about his home like a youngster in searching for books to show the newspaper men just what he is interested in at present.

He was asked if he intended ever to retire. "No, no! I couldn't retire," he replied. "Just like trying to stop smoking cigarettes."

MISSING MAN WAS FOUND ALIVE AT UNDERTAKER'S

UXBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 11—(AP)—A missing man was found in an undertaker's establishment here today, but was alive and well. The actions of Samuel W. Seagrave, 73 year old recluse, led searchers to dig frantically through deep snow banks, but the trail ended in the undertaker's where Seagrave was arranging for the funeral of his wife.

Seagrave said he hadn't been lost at all, but failed to explain why he had left his home a week ago. The death yesterday of his estranged wife, Mrs. Edith Seagrave, in a Worcester sanatorium had heightened the mystery but Assistant Medical Examiner Ernest L. Hunt announced today after an autopsy that the woman had died from gas poisoning, probably accidental.

RE-ARRESTED UPON RELEASE AS FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, Feb. 11.—(AP)—George MacDonald of Sydney, Nova Scotia, was re-arrested today on a warrant issued by the police of Richmond county, N. Y., as he was released from jail after serving a 60-day sentence for evading a hotel bill. MacDonald is being held until the arrival of officers from New York, where police say he is a fugitive from justice.

Worcester Bandits Get 15 to 20 Years

Two Men Found Guilty on Counts of Robbery and One Count to Commit Murder.

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 11—(AP)—The curtain was rung down today on the melodramatic career of a youthful hold-up band when Judge Nelso P. Brown in superior court sentenced John F. Troy and Dennis J. Britt to serve from 15 to 30 years in state's prison for banditry. They had been found guilty by a jury on six counts of robbery and one of intent to commit robbery.

Troy, the state charged, was the leader of a group of three youths who terrorized Worcester county last summer, holding up restaurants at gun point, and covering a wide area in stolen automobiles. One of these, Walter S. Derosiers, was shot down by a policeman as he attempted to rob a luncheart in this city.

Troy and Britt were arrested after a long search, and brought back to face trial.

The career of the so-called Troy gang began last August with the holding up of a luncheart in this city. In the days that followed the newspapers followed their movements closely as they raided as many as five places in a night. Attacks on women were attributed to the band as well as robbery, and several automobiles were stolen for use in the work of crime. In the end it was the theft of a pair of spectacles that brought about the undoing of the robbers.

In an attack on an all-night lunch place, Derosiers was shot and his body was found next day in an automobile abandoned by the roadside. A pair of spectacles stolen in a previous holdup from Anthony Verano was found on his body, and at the trial Verano became a witness to identify the defendants. The jury last night returned a sealed verdict which was opened today. Troy and Britt were found guilty on all counts. Judge Brown denied a motion by the defense for a new trial.

SHIPWRECKED CREW LANDED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—The shipwrecked crew of 28 men, from the Norwegian freighter Johanne Dybwad, were landed here today from the Belgian ship Arminco. The Arminco put into quarantine to replenish her fuel oil which was exhausted in her race to the assistance of the Johanne Dybwad. Representatives from the Norwegian consulate general's office met the Arminco, and are providing for the rescued men.

OBITUARY.

Lyman S. Catlin.

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Lyman S. Catlin, for more than fifty-two years treasurer of the Mechanics and Farmers Savings bank, died tonight at his home, Mill Hill avenue, at the age of 86. He had been in failing health for a year, but had been able to attend meetings at the bank. He served in the 19th Connecticut Infantry in the Civil war.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

This man whose homely face you look upon
Was one of Nature's masterful, great men;
Born with strong arms, that unfought battles won,
Direct of speech, and cunning with the pen.
Chosen for large designs, he had the art
Of winning with his humor, and he went
Straight to his mark, which was the human heart;
Wise, too, for what he could not break he bent.
Upon his back a more than Atlas-load,
The burden of the Commonwealth, was laid;
He stooped, and rose up to it, though the road
Shot suddenly downward, not a whit dismayed.
Hold, warriors, councillors, kings! All now give place
To this dead Benefactor of the race!
—Richard Henry Stoddard.

Denial by Ex-Convict William H. Anderson

Former Superintendent of N. Y. State Anti-Labor League Disclaims Unconditional Release.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—William H. Anderson, former superintendent of the New York State Anti-Saloon league, today denied recently published reports that he had been granted a full and unconditional release by the state board of parole.

Anderson was released from Sing Sing prison on December 24, 1924, after serving nine months of a sentence of from one to two years for third degree forgery. He had been convicted on two counts of charges involving the splitting of commission with a former solicitor of a fund for the league, since his release he has been on parole.

In his statement today Mr. Anderson said that the only thing the state board of parole did was to ratify its action at the time he was released from prison, relieving him of monthly reports after one year. This ratification, he points out, was a month late, instead of "eight weeks in advance" as reported.

"Further," the statement says, "there is no automatic restoration of any right when the mximum expires March 24, next, except the right to be at liberty. I will still be deprived of the right to vote and still be disbarred from the practice of my profession, the law, although I was not even technically guilty of any crime, and the only way my conviction could be upheld was by the court of appeals reversing the settled law of the state to the effect that proof of criminal intent beyond a reasonable doubt is necessary for conviction of a felony, which fact was hidden by its failure to file any opinion."

TELEPHONE OPERATORS RESCUE THREE CHILDREN

BOSTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Three girls, telephone operators in the University Exchange here, rescued three young children from a burning building today in a two-alarm fire at Austin park. Mrs. Edward Adelam, owner of the house, discovered fire in the cellar and tried to notify the fire department. When she attempted to return to the second floor she was barred by smoke.

While Mrs. Adelman stood screaming on the front sidewalk, the girl operators, Katherine Lydon, Lillian Murphy and Mildred Dolley, made their way up the back stairway. They carried down Marian and Theodor Adelman, 4 and 3½ years old, respectively, and John Lynan, aged one and one half years. Firemen said the fire originated from spontaneous combustion of coal in the cellar.

NYE IS NOMINATED FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR

BISMARK, N. D., Feb. 11.—(A. P.)—By unanimous vote the non-partisan-republican state convention today nominated Gerald P. Nye as a candidate for the United States senate.

Congressman James Sinclair was renominated as a candidate to succeed himself for the third district.

SECRETARY MELLON SOUNDS WARNING AS SENATE CONTINUES TAX CUTTING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—(AP)—The senate continued its liberal tax cutting ways today while Secretary Mellon sounded a warning from the treasury that a deficit was certain if the reductions already authorized became law.

Without event a record vote, the senate approved a slash in the alcohol tax, involving an eventual loss of $8,000,000 annually, and by a vote of 48 to 18, it increased from 25 to 30 per cent the amount of allowance to be given for depletion on discoveries of oil and gas wells.

The reduction in the alcohol tax was the same as voted by the house, and provides for a 25 per cent beginning next January 1, and for a total reduction of 50 per cent, beginning January 1, 1928. The finance committee had disapproved this slash, but Senator Smoot announced it had rescinded this action.

In protesting against the alcohol cut, Senator Reed, republican, Massachusetts, declared "you are giving away another $8,000,000 without the revenue to meet the loss." Senator Smoot also told the senate he could not vote for any more reductions.

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, urged that the provision allowed deductions for depletion in discoveries to owners of oil wells and mines be wiped out entirely since it amounted to a "gift of $37,500,000 a year in taxes to the oil industry."

The senate, however, voted to continue the allowance, but accepted the change proposed by the finance committee for basing the depletion to be allowed for oil and gas wells on a percentage of the gross income. The committee had recommended an allowance of 25 per cent of the gross income, but after Senators Neely, democrat, West Virginia, and Harreld, republican, Oklahoma, had strongly urged a 30 per cent. rate, this figure was approved.

The proposal to continue the board of tax appeals with a membership of sixteen to be appointed for terms of ten years, instead of fourteen as provided by the house, also as approved. Other items approved were:

An amendment by Senator Jones, republican, Washington to allow exemptions for taxation of the income of American citizens who live abroad six months during the year, and which income is received through the conduct of American trade.

The next tax proposed to the house of one-tenth of one cent a gallon on cereal beverages. This levy had been asked by the treasury to give prohibition enforcement officials power to inspect breweries.

On a division vote an amendment by Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, allowing doctors to deduct from taxable incomes money spent in traveling to medical conventions, was approved.

Without a record vote, the senate also accepted an amendment by Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, exempting employes of municipal waterworks from the penalties of back taxes. These employes were at one time held exempt from federal income taxes, but the courts have rules them liable.

The last soldier of the south on the active duty roster of the United States army is a 79 year old Kentuckyian who daily trudges to work at the army base in South Boston. He is Nat Poynts, who served under Morgan the raider, and who has been an army field clerk since 1916.

With West Hartford snow plows fighting to reach her, Mrs. Charles F. Beyers, of Brook street, Hartford, snow-bound on her way to the doctor's, with her four children, all under ten, including a two week's old baby, was brought from a stalled car on North Main street, West Hartford and put to bed in the home of Abraham Stroh.

ENSIGN NARRATES STORY OF WRECK OF THE C-126

Headed Up Narragansett Bay, in Blinding Snow Storm, With Radio Out and Compass Bad, the Ship Crashed on Rock Without Warning—One by One the Men Went Overboard and Made Shore Through a Heavy Surf—Boatswain's Mate Libby Collapsed as He Called Aid For His Comrades—Rescuers Housed the Men, Built a Fire and Summoned Neighbors Who Wrapped the Men in Blankets and Served Them Hot Coffee.

NEW LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Swathed in blankets, six coast guardsmen, saved from death by exposure by the action of one of them members, after the C-126 was wrecked off Narragansett pier Wednesday night, were carried ashore here late today, from the cutter Mojave and taken to a hospital for treatment.

Tonight the survivors of another epoch of the sea, which was lashed by a blizzard yesterday and the night before, told of their struggles through mighty waves and snow drifts to shelter, and of the brave work of Boatswain's Mate Joseph Libby who, barefooted and wearing out little clothing, walked for a mile through the blizzard to a water tower where he summoned aid. All six of the men were suffering from exposure and their feet, hands and ears were frozen.

They are Ensign N. S. Fulford, of Greenville, N. C., commander of the 75-foot patrol boat 126; Boatswain's Mate Joseph Libby of Lowell, Mass.; Fred W. Thornhill, of New Bedford, Mass.; Tony Simon, machinist mate, of New London; Wilbur A. Minnick, motor machinist mate, of Scranton, Pa., and John H. McQueen, ship's cook, of Los Angeles, Calif.

Simon, as he was carried ashore, told Chief Boatsman Mate Williamson, who with a seaman, a few hours before the 126 crashed, had been put aboard a speed launch which had been picked up by the patrol boat and sent to this city, "you missed a little excitement, chief."

Ensign Fulford propped up in bed at the hospital, with his feet and his right hand badly frozen, told the story tonight of the wrecking of the craft. Heading up Narragansett Bay, in a blinding snow storm, about 3 a. m., Tuesday, with the ship's radio out and the compass bad, the ship crashed on the rocks without the slightest warning. Libby and McQueen were asleep in the fore castle. Simon was on duty in the engine room. Just before the forward compartment filled with water, these three got on deck. The life raft was put over the side and lash-

21-GUN SALUTE TO BE FIRED FOR CAPT. GEORGE FRIED

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A 21-gun salute fired from Governor's Island will be New York's first greeting to Captain George Fried and the crew of the U. S. liner President Roosevelt, when that ship arrives next Monday.

Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador to this country, and John W. Davis, former United States ambassador to Great Britain, were added today to the list of those who will laud them for their rescue of the crew of the British freighter Antinoe in last week's gale on the Atlantic.

When the seamen actually land in New York, which will not be until Tuesday, they will receive a welcome beginning with Mayor James J. Walker, and lasting until they depart a week later. Dinners, theatrical entertainments, and a concert will comprise the greater part of it.

Mayor Walker will present them with a scroll commemorating their heroism, and with individual medals. The reception committee appointed by the mayor, of which Vincent Astor is chairman and Grover A. Whalen, vice chairman, completed its arrangements for the official welcome today.

GILPATRIC QUESTIONING TO BE MONDAY AFTERNOON

HARTFORD, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Actual questioning of G. Harold Gilpatric Monday when he will appear before Referee in Bankruptcy Saul Berman in the United States district court will be postponed from morning until afternoon, it was announced today. Lawrence A. Howard, lawyer for the trustee, received a letter today from Waltic Gilpatric, brother of the prisoner, who comes to Hartford from Atlanta soon to be examined by his creditors. Mr. Gilpatric asked that the hearing be delayed until afternoon as he could not arrange to come to Hartford from New York until that time.

Referee Berman said today that, due to the announcement of the hearing having been sent to creditors with the time set for 10 a. m., there will be a meeting at that time. He will then order the hearing postponed until after 2 p. m., Monday.

DRESS MFGS. TO SELL ONLY TO INDIVIDUAL STORES

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—A bulletin distributed today at the convention of the National Retail Dry Goods association said that members of the Associated Dress Industries of America at a meeting last night signed an agreement to refuse to sell their products to the American Retail association. The latter is a group-buying organization.

The 250 manufacturers and jobbers attending last night's meeting each filed a bond of $5,000 with an agreement that it would be forfeited for failure to adhere to a resolution to sell only to individual stores, according to the bulletin. The group buying organization is composed of 17 large department stores distributing throughout the country which are estimated to have an annual purchasing power of $125,000,000.

A $25,000 FIRE IN ZERO WEATHER IN CLINTON, MASS.

CLINTON, Mass., Feb. 11—(AP)—Fire which started in a store of the Morse business block in the center of the business section late today, was brought under control after an hour and a half's fighting near zero weather. The damage to that and other stores was placed at $25,000. All available equipment was called to the fire.

The fire was thought to have originated in the heating plant of William H. Ryder's furnishing store. It was confined to the store and to the adjacent "chocolate shop" of McCann Brothers. Smoke damage was suffered by a drug store, a dry goods store and a cobbler's shop.

PATROL BOAT 126 GROUNDED NEAR GARDINER'S ISLAND

NEW LONDON, Feb. 11—(AP)—The coast guard 75-foot patrol boat, 126, which was reported ashore on Gardiner's Island, Long Island sound, was located tonight by patrol boats from the local base, high and dry on Tobacco Lot light, near the entrance to Gardiner's bay. The craft was upright and in no immediate danger. Ensign F. T. Kenna and his crew of eight men were aboard the vessel having refused to leave.

CONNECTICUT BANKERS IN SESSION IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 11—(AP)—Bankers from all corners of the state gathered here tonight for the mid-winter banquet of the Connecticut Bankers' association, its purpose being merely the seasonal get-together. No business was transacted beyond the announcement by R. E. Chambers of Ansonia, president, that the annual convention will be held at the Griswold in New London, on June 18, and 19th.

There were 475 present at the banquet. Mr. Chambers, acting as toastmaster, said that Connecticut banks have subscribed $3,020 toward the educational foundation being raised by the American Bankers' association. The amount is an oversubscription as the committee on the foundation of which Edmund H. Wolfe of this city is chairman, had assigned the state a quota of $2,300.

A smaller assembly of trust officers of the various banks met this afternoon for a discussion of wills and estates, with Maynard T. Hazen, vice president of the United States Security Trust company of Hartford, and Arthur Mason, vice president of the State Bank and Trust company of Hartford, as speakers.

GEN. PERSHING BACK FOR HEALTH'S SAKE ALONE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—General John J. Pershing returned here today, from another post of duty in a foreign land, a sick man.

"There has been some misappreansion concerning the cause for my return," the general said, "but I can assure you that it was for the sake of my health alone that I came here."

The former commander in chief of the A. E. F. came home quietly and without ceremony. At his request, patriotic celebrations planned in his honor were cancelled. Only a group of distinguished officials and former army colleagues were on hand to welcome him when he arrived by train from Florida, where he landed Tuesday after a speedy voyage from Arica, Chile, aboard the cruiser Denver.

ALLEGED TAMPERING WITH JURY IN LARCENY CASE

SALEM, Mass., Feb. 11—(AP)—Alleged tampering with the jury in a larceny case on trial here today led to the declaration of a mistrial and the arrest of three men on contempt charges. John Cohane of Salem pleaded guilty. Francis J. Sheehan of Lynn, a defendant in the trial and Juryman D. J. Gallagher of Peabody pleaded not guilty, and all three were held for disposition of their cases tomorrow.

The district attorney charged that Cohane at Sheehan's behest went to Gallagher after he had been drawn for jury duty and asked him what his price would be for favoring Sheehan. The juryman was alleged to have promised Cohane he would send a man to him "to see about it."

Retrial of the larceny case was set for next Wednesday. The defendants, Sheehan, Sidney F. Stevens and Lawrence Greenleaf, were charged with breaking into a wine cellar at Hamilton and stealing $15,000 worth of liquors.

STRIKE OF WEAVERS AT BIDDEFORD SETTLED

BIDDEFORD, Me., Feb. 11.—(AP)—A strike of weavers at the Pepperell Manufacturing Company's textile mills here, which lasted nearly two and one-half months and threw more than 5,000 persons out of work, has been settled. Announcement was made today that the Weavers' union had voted steadily, until a week ago 2,800 of multiple loom system being tried by the company. The company's experiments under which the number of looms operated by one weaver was increased were objected to by the union.

TO PLAN DISSOLUTION OF THE CON. STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The board of governors of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, by vote of 18 to 8 adopted a resolution today calling for a conference with members to plan the dissolution of the exchange and the liquidation of its assets.

The resolution was adopted after 24 hours of argument among the governors, following the assumption of control by the committee of five appointed under the injunction obtained against the exchange by Attorney

WILLIMANTIC

Office, 904 Main St. Tel. [illegible]

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT PHONE DEMONSTRATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 11—Over 800 local people braved the severe traveling conditions tonight to be enlightened into the mysteries of the telephone service, at a demonstration given in the Windham High school auditorium by expert operators of the Southern New England Telephone company. The affair was held under the auspices of the Willimantic Chamber of Commerce.

President A. Linn Weatherhead opened the meeting. The opening talk on the program by Local Exchange Manager John C. Frazier, who welcomed the public and members of the Chamber of Commerce on behalf of the 75 local employes.

The first part of the program was given over to interesting motion pictures, each of one reel, entitled Making Telephone History, Assembling a Desk Telephone and Treat 'Em Right, the latter picturising a conversation on two office telephones. A clever explanation of the various types of telephone calls and the method in which they are handled was given in unique and concise manner with the assistance of appurtenances which brought the audience behind the scenes of the service. How local toll and AB calls are passed was explained by word and action by Miss Josephine Harrigan assisted by the Misses Ruth Scriven and Grace Murray, employes in the New London office.

The second and concluding sketch was at once humorous and most instructive. Sample dialogues displaying errors in making use of the telephone were carried on by Miss Ruth Weatherhead, Leslie Beebe, Frank McCarty and Edward J. Sullivan, with Miss Harrigan as the switch board operator. A trouble hunter appeared on the stage and after enumerating various inconsistent telephone habits, which are disastrous to good service, gave an outline of corrective measures. At the conclusion of the program, Rev. W. C. Norris, on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and the local citizens, expressed gratitude to the company for its excellent cooperation with its subscribers. He led in a rising vote of thanks. Several of those present then privately inspected the apparatus set up on the stage.

FELL AGAINST BUCKSAW, SUFFERED CUT ON LEG

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 11—While descending the stairway leading to the cellar at her home on West Main street, Mrs. Stephen Ahern, 32, stumbled against a bucksaw and sustained a deep gash on her right leg. One of her four children notified neighbors and Dr. S. J. Turcotte was summoned. Four stitches were required to close the wound which was about two inches long and located near the shin bone.

Becoming violently insane Napoleon Mabeu, 24, of 55 Main street, was committed to the State Hospital for the Insane at Norwich Thursday forenoon in order of the Windham probate court subsequent to his examination by two physicians. The young man who is said to have been acting strangely for some time became mentally unbalanced at his home Wednesday night. Armed with a large jack-knife he threatened his parents as he gradually became more vicious. A physician was called and at his suggestion the police were notified. With much difficulty Mabeu was locked up at police headquarters. He became calm during the night out evidence of his loss of mind prevailed strongly at the time of his examination. The case was referred to First Selectman Ernest P. Chesebro Thursday morning.

Taking up shovels which had just been put aside Willimantic and its adjoining towns were well on the way to getting out from in under. Of course the city street department and the state road plows played a big hand in improving conditions as they were left by the second visitation of a snow storm. State roads were uncorked Thursday for the first time in twenty-four hours. The Connecticut company motor busses on the Putnam-Willimantic and Norwich-Willimantic lines put in an appearance Thursday morning. The Norwich-Willimantic bus started from Norwich for this city during the storm Wednesday forenoon and got as far as Franklin Hill. There it met four trucks and about half a dozen passenger automobiles which had plowed into drifts several feet high and remained there. The motor bus remained on the Hill until some hours later when it was hauled away by another bus and returned to Norwich. It was said that a Dodge sedan was the first machine to encounter difficulties on the Hill. The sedan remained there until evening when a group of orchestra players heavily armed with shovels and good backbones came along. The musicians were digging themselves through and their car was the first one to complete the trip from Norwich to this city. They also dislodged the sedan. The road was clear Thursday. Highway employees who were shoveling a wider path between the snow banks had piled the snow as high as seven feet in some stretches. A sharp wind threatened to undo their work but abated toward evening. The Danielson-Willimantic road had not been opened up to late in the day. With the breaking down of a plow Thursday forenoon midway between North Coventry and South Coventry the work of clearing that highway remained uncompleted.

The trains on the New Haven railroad division were maintaining a fairly accurate schedule Thursday. They averaged from ten minutes to half an hour late.

After all the criticism of the trolley car for its awkwardness, slowness and every other thing, it came in for a generous share of praise during and since Wednesday's storm. When every other type of traffic stopped or was seriously crippled the trolleys on the Norwich-Willimantic and South Coventry division kept going on nearly on schedule and it became the only access at travel to the residents of bottled-up sections.

The tuition bill which the town of Mansfield must pay to the town of Windham on the strength of a decision rendered by the State Board of Education amounts to $100 in one case and $155 in another, a total of $255. The $100 is understood to have been due for two years in payment for the tuition of a girl named Beers who made her home with a family named Owens in Mansfield. The girl graduated from Windham High school in 1924.

Campaign Director E. J. McCabe of Hartford announced Thursday that the financial campaign for the local corps of the Salvation Army is not yet ended as al lof the fields have not yet been fully covered. The tag day scheduled to close the drive week on January 30, will be held in April.

Louis Phaneuf, 69, one of Willimantic's best known French residents died at his home, 15 Milk street at nine o'clock Thursday morning after a brief illness. The deceased was born in St Ture, Canada, November 8, 1856, the son of Noel and Marie St. Germaine Phaneuf. He formerly conducted a dry goods establishment on Main street here, later removing to Union street. Some years ago he retired from active business. Surviving him are five daughters, the Misses Lena, Aldea, Amelia, Eva and Emma Phaneuf, all of this city; two sons, Exelaus of Miami, Fla., and Philip of New Hampshire; four sisters, Mrs. Manual Pelletier, Mrs. Pierre Peltier and the Misses Amelia and Emma Phaneuf, all of Natick, R. I., and two grandchildren. The deceased was a devoted member of St. Mary's church.

Other than the closing down of the three banks in the city and the plant of the American Thread company, which will not reopen until Monday, there will be but little observance of Lincoln's birthday today (Friday). Schools will also be closed. The postoffice, mercantile houses and most of the industrial plants will continue business as usual.

The following were prize winners at a whist party Wednesday evening, given in St. Joseph's hall with forty tables in play: First: Mrs. J. P. Bocash and Joseph Breault; second, Mrs. John O'Neill and John Sears; consolation, Mrs. William A. Costello and J. Smith; special, Mrs. Nora Dillon and Frank Klosowski. Children's prizes: first, Lillian Pickett and Donald Haggerty; consolation, Margaret Monahan and Thomas Costello. Leroy Hallahan was awarded a portrait. Mrs. Edmund R. Fortelance was chairman of the arrangements. The prizes were donated by members of the choir and Miss Henrietta Steincamp.

Mrs. Retha May Pelham died at the Mansfield State Training School and hospital Wednesday. She was born in Pond Ridge, May 19, 1883, a daughter of John and Marie Birdsall.

Slipping on ice as she came out of one of the stores of the E. F. Casey block at Thread Hill square, Miss Evelyn Goodwin, of 705 Main street, sustained a fractured left leg about one o'clock Thursday afternoon. The young woman was taken to her home and the fracture was reduced by Dr. S. J. Turcotte. The injury was between the ankle and knee.

Engine company No. 1, answered to a still alarm at 9:10 o'clock Thursday morning for a chimney fire in the residence at 12 Mansfield avenue, owned by Oliver Lussier and occupied by C. Griggs and family. Three gallons of chemicals were used.

Francis Busse, of East Willington and Miss Susan Hattin, of Mt. Hope were united in marriage in Brimfield, Mass., last Saturday evening by Justice of the Peace Gifford. They are making their home with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Busse of East Willington.

In the absence of Miss Marion Cleland, who is recovering from an operation sustained at St. Joseph's hospital, Mrs. Frederick R. Noble is acting as secretary to Principal George H. Shafer of the Willimantic State Normal school.

Hosea Smith is seriously ill with pneumonia at the home of his sister, Mrs. Bertha Smith.

Dr. Frederick E. Wilcox was host at a meeting of the Willimantic Medical society held at his home Wednesday evening. An excellent turkey dinner was served. Twelve physicians and Attorney W. A. King as guest, were present. Decorations were significant of the Valentine season.

Danielson asked for a story of a robin, linen knickers or clambake Thursday morning to relieve the tension of too much winter weather. An answer to Danielson's want advertisement was no doubt expected to be one of those country store yarns that even Houdini would fail to figure out—but Willimantic can produce the goods and if called upon, prove the story at that. A local youth in silken pajamas, was seen at the window shortly before [illegible] Thursday morning. Another of the family had driven out earlier in the day and left the family car on the steep incline of the street. A heavy truck came down the hill and the jarring released the brakes of the machine. The family car started to roll down the hill. Forgetting the sheerness of his attire, the young man wearing house-slippers and donning a hat as he left, rushed out of the house and after the machine. He jumped into the car and pulled up the brake in the nick of time to save it from crashing into a telephone pole. Pedestrians stopped, some of them ladies. The young hero refused to leave the machine until an overcoat was brought to cover his shivering and exposed body.

Fire Chief Henry J. Kelley and Hoseman Edward J. Manemann of Engine company No. 1, were again called upon to remove snow from the sloping roof of the Chamber of Commerce building to prevent its sliding down on pedestrians.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Alpaugh, of Cincinnati, Ohio, are spending the remainder of the winter in southern states after touring Texas. Mr. Alpaugh was formerly superintendent of the Holland Manufacturin gcompany plant here and a member of the Rotary club.

Mrs. Lena Tripp, Mrs. Alice Bentley and Mrs. Maud S. Deming, local officers of the Woman's Relief corps, were in Bridgeport, Thursday, to arrange for a department convention to be held in May.

Miss Esther Taber, of New Haven, and Miss Sumia Taber, of Hartford, will spend today (Friday) and week-end with their father, John C. Taber.

Mrs. J. F. Wright left Thursday to Mrs. William Turnbull, in Hartford make her home with her daughter.

Principals George H. Shafer and Frederick R. Noble will attend the state convention in New Haven today (Friday) and Saturday.

Mrs. George C. Livesley was a visitor in Hartford Thursday.

The membership and financing campaign of the Tolland County Y. M. C. A., is to be conducted the last week in this month and will run through six days, February 24 to 28, inclusive.

JEWETT CITY

THREE VIOLATORS PAY COURT SUM OF $1,151.57

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 11—Prosecuting Attorney Richard Dudkowski this morning presented the three men arrested by the state police from Danielson barracks in Judge Parry's town court. Fred Maynard was charged with reputation, intent to sell and actual sale. He pleaded guilty and was fined $500 and costs amounting to $547.79 and was given thirty days in jail, the latter sentence being suspended. William J. Brickley was charged with the same three counts and pleaded guilty and was fined $400 and costs amounting to $447.79 and was given ten days in jail, judgment suspended. F. X. Casavant was charged with reputation and intent to sell, and pleaded guilty. He was fined $125 and costs amounting to $135.79. The combined amount of fines and costs was $1,151.57, which they paid. Half that amount goes to the town treasury.

Pachaug grange play postponed until Feb 23.—Adv.

The Methodist Men's class gave a chicken pie supper in the church vestry on Thursday evening, in spite of the fact that some of the pies, vegetables and cakes were snowbound in the country, and the rolls mysteriously are roaming around looking for their destination, there was plenty for everybody, and it was a fine supper. The men who served were Robert Robertson, Merton Bartlett Delwin Martin, Oliver Carter, Charles Saunders, Harry Howes, James McClusgage, Edward and Irving Thornton and Mr. Main.

The bus drivers are having their troubles with the one way traffic in some places in the town of Plainfield. Thursday, one of the afternoon busses, the Plainfield High school bus, several trucks and numerous private automobiles were all lined up near Wauregan, stuck in snow banks. Stories are told of truck drivers who appear to be regardless of the one way traffic, and plow through at a great rate of speed, narrowly escaping any other car in the same road. The road from Jewett City to Norwich is in fine shape.

Tonight, whist given by Catholic women St. Mary's hall.—Adv.

George W. Robinson, 78, died at his home on Soule street, early Thursday morning. Mr. Robinson was born in Norwich, October 14, 1843. He was the son of George and Sarah Gates Rathbun Robinson. His education was received in the public schools in Plainfield, Danielson, Lisbon, and the Peck private school in Hanover. He came to Jewett City in 1870 and entered the employ of his uncle, Philetus Rathbun. He married Della A. Soule, daughter of the late Dr. Wesley Soule in November 1878. From 1870 to 1884 he was employed by Mr. Rathbun, Mr. Ross, Frederic Partridge and the Slater Co., in their stores. In 1885 the family moved to Willimantic, where he for nine years was shipping clerk for the Willimantic Linen Co. Then ill-health compelled his return to Jewett City. In 1884 he united with Newen Congregational church at the same time his son Clark was christened. Later he brought his letter to the Jewett City Congregational church, where he was still a member. During his stay in Willimantic he came to Jewett City to join Undaunted Lodge, No. 44, K. of P. and was initiated by his wife's father, Dr. Soule, who was at that time a member of the Supreme Lodge. He later joined the Red Men, Pocahontas, Pythian Sisters, Reunion Lodge, I. O. O. F., the Rebecca, and American Mechanics. He had served as chancellor commander in the K. of P. and noble grand in the I. O. O. F. Mr. Robinson was the oldest of three children, a brother, Frank E. Robinson, secretary and treasurer of the Jewett City Savings bank survives him. A sister Helen died in early childhood. He is survived by his wife. A daughter Helen died in infancy and a son Clark died in 1906 at the age of twenty-six. Mr. Robinson was a man of the most kindly disposition. His position as caretaker of the town building, the library, bank and telephone exchange brought about a wide circle of friends. Always with a pleasant word, willing to help anyone, sticking to his post without a murmur, although greatly hampered physically for the past few years. A faithful trustworthy, Christian man has gone to his reward, and will be truly mourned by many friends.

It is said that there are enough automobiles in the United States at present to carry every man, woman and child in the nation at one time.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

BOROUGH IS RECOVERING FROM EFFECTS OF STORM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Feb. 11—In common with other New England towns Stafford experienced the heaviest snow storm Wednesday that it has seen for a number of years. The younger generation say they have never seen anything like it, but the old timers claim it was not a patch on the blizzard of '88. It was big enough however to cause considerable annoyance and traffic of all kinds was interrupted and leaved from eleven o'clock Wednesday morning until late at night. The Central Vermont trains were all late, but managed to get through. The trolleys were all off time after 11 o'clock and the jitney busses were probably the hardest hit of any. An effort was made to keep the public schools opened in the forenoon, but the attendance was so small that those pupils, who did venture out were sent home before noon. The sun came out bright Thursday morning and Street Commissioner Towne had a large force of men at work all day, clearing and carting the snow from the streets. They did excellent work, but there is still much to be done. It seemed as though everyone who had a sleigh or sled was out Thursday and many a cutter which had been stored away made its first appearance in years on the borough streets. This storm, coming so soon after the big fall of last week, has piled snow several feet high on some of the back roads and it will be several days before those in remote sections of the town will be able to dig themselves out.

Superintendent of Schools F. S. Brick and Principal Alfred Towne of the high school will attend the annual meeting of the state teachers' association in New Haven today (Friday) and Saturday.

Frank Thomas Ruby, nine months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ruby of Rockwell Hill died Wednesday night.

Charles E. Kellerg of West Stafford has gone to Lynn Haven, Fla., for the winter.

The Hospital Aid society is to meet at the Johnson hospital Tuesday afternoon.

Charles H. Moore will leave today (Friday) for his annual vacation at Pinehurst, N. C.

Arthur Rabinowitz, a former resident now of Hartford, was a Stafford Springs visitor this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wasserman have been in New York on a business trip.

Fred Greaves, Julius Carocon and Al Trembley have gone to Canada on a fishing trip.

BOLTON

Miss Elizabeth C. Summer of New Haven spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Sumner.

Forty five employes from Cheney Bros.' South Manchester took a sleigh ride to Bolton Monday night and the Ladies' Aid society got them up a supper.

Bolton had its share of snow.

Miss Ethelind Pinkerman spent the week end with Miss Lavina C. Fries.

Miss Eleanor G. Hutchinson of Andover formerly of Bolton and Donald Tuttle of Andover were married at the bride's home in Andover by Rev. Frederick C. Taylor of Bolton. There were twenty-five present from Hartford, Manchester and Andover. Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle are taking a short trip on their return will reside in Andover where Mr. Tuttle had a big farm.

Mr. Samuel M. Alvord of Hartford was in town Saturday.

Miss Jeanette Sumner and Louise Phelps spent four days with Miss Muriel Treat in Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dreyer of Willimantic have bought some land on the state road leading to Andover from Nathan C. Maine of Bolton.

There is to be a whist party Saturday night.

EAGLEVILLE

Edward Lyman, who has had a serious case of blood poisoning in his hand, is improving slowly.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Loomis of Hartford spent the week end with Mrs. H. F. Thompson.

There is much sickness in this community.

Lawrence Greene who has been seriously ill with grip is recovering.

Gladys, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Slater is very ill.

Miss Margaret Tootell is employed in Hartford.

F. M. Chadwick of Storrs spent Tuesday with Mr and Mrs. James Green.

Miss Hazel McKinney is a patient at St. Joseph's Hospital, Willimantic, following an operation for appendicitis last Tuesday.

Winter has arrived at last with plenty of snow and zero weather. Some of the back roads are not yet opened from last week's storm, as it as much snow fell Wednesday as during last week, making the roads still more impassable.

THOMPSON

DANIELSON

PEOPLE ARE TIRED OF THE DUNNING LETTERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 11—A big phase of the pestiferous practice of sending unsolicited merchandise through the mails is the dunning letters that are coming to people who either returned the goods sent them or declined to accept them at the postoffice. Some rather snappy letters have gone out of this town to the purveyors through the mail of merchandise that people never ordered and would not keep on any account. Most of it is of what is known as "junk" quality. Not wanting it, those who have received it have in most instances sent it back.

Now, about every week, letters come to these people asking them why they do not pay the concern for the goods received. Nothing at all is said about their being sent back. Irritating as this is, there seems to be little that can be done about it. A bill now pending before congress would make the practice of sending out goods not ordered illegal. In the meantime one must continue to be rankled by an impudent insistence that goods not ordered, but received and returned be paid for, and to submit more or less gracefully to insinuations that one is not honest if he does not pay. A few letters to a particular firm in Buffalo relative to this matter has informed them they can go to Coral Gables (new name for a hotter place) before they can ever hope to get any money out of the Danielson people they are hounding for money that is not owed.

It is noted that the Putnam Chamber of Commerce has recently adopted a resolution favoring the adoption by congress of a pending measure that would stop the practice of sending sample packages of merchandise through the mails where any charge to the addressee is involved.

Thursday afternoon found highway crews again mastering the difficulties Wednesday's storm piled up for them in blocking state highways. Lines were open north and south, to the east and of the west. No such effort was required to making traveling conditions passably good as during and after the storm of last week. There was less snow to be moved, for one thing, and it was light and feathery. However, getting to Providence was not too easy. There was a lot of tough going between the state line, five miles east of here, and the Rhode Island capital. This section of highway has been in poor condition since Thursday of last week. Machines were moving through Thursday afternoon, with the promise that no great obstacles would stand in the way of anyone who cares to travel between Danielson and Providence today. No motor coaches were operating over this route during the morning hours, but they began to get through in the afternoon.

Country highways hereabouts are in about as bad condition as they were after last week's storm. None too thoroughly cleared at that time, the new consignment of snow has blocked them again and a mighty lot of work will have to be done to clear them suitably for traffic purposes.

The appeal in this column Thursday morning for a sign of spring was promptly answered. One was cheered at the postoffice by the twittering of 300 baby chicks. They could be regarded as harbingers of the coming vernal season, now only ten or twelve snowstorms ahead.

Thursday morning the funeral of Mrs. Blanche Methe, wife of Oliver Methe, was held from their home with services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. The officers of the solemn high mass of requiem were Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S., Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., and Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S. Many relatives and friends were in attendance. The bearers were Edgar Mathieu, P. Mathieu, Alphonse LaBlanc, Alfred LeBlanc, and Edward LeBlanc. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

There was a service at St. James' church at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S., officiating for Georgette LaFrancois, two and half months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis LaFrancois. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

At the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Craig, Water street, Thursday afternoon at one o'clock funeral services for Lester Ray Craig were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church. The body was entombed at Evergreen cemetery, Central Village. The bearers, representing Moriah Lodge, F. and A. M., Leo J. L'Homme post, American legion, and the Baptist church, were John T. Ashworth, Henry Caffery, C. Clinton Cleveland, Bernard Casey, Arthur Wild and Harold Greene. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

Thursday afternoon the body of Mrs. Mabel Wescott, 51, who died Wednesday at Norwich, arrived here and was taken in charge by Undertaker A. F. Wood. Mrs. Wescott had been a resident of this town for many years. She was a daughter of Edwin and Hanna Pinney Passmore, long resident in East Killingly. Mrs. Wescott, widow of Frank Wescott, leaves three sisters, Mrs. Jennie Russell of Attawaugan, Mrs. Bob Dawley of East Killingly and Mrs. Vincent Adams of Attawaugan; also three brothers, Fred of East Killingly, Charles of Boston and Jesse of Attawaugan.

To the south of here there were one-way stretches of highway on the trunk line Thursday, but traffic was moving along nicely. Snow piled up at Shippee hill, just over the southern boundary of the town, so that breaking out the highway its entire width at that point was deferred for the time being.

Excavations made in Danielson within a few days reveal that frost goes down to a depth of 30 inches. Only emergency digging is being resorted to by companies that have to do this sort of work from time to time.

The epidemic of old-time fiddling contests has developed an off-sheet that promises to be of widespread interest now "contest" dancing of old-fashioned numbers is going to have a tryout. One is planned for this week end in a Windham county community and Uncle Joe Shippee, champion fiddler of New England and his orchestra will furnish the music. From far and near exponents of the niftiest dancing of old-style lancers, quadrilles, money musks, Virginia reels, etc., will be on hand to try for the prizes. The plan sounds interesting.

A native of Danielson, Dr. Charles E. Bigelow, born here October 11, 1855, died the first of this month in a hospital at Leominster, Mass. He was the oldest practicing physician in that city. Dr. Bigelow's early education was obtained in the schools of Killingly. Later he studied at Brown university and then entered Jefferson Medical college. He had practiced medicine in Leominster for 43 years. He was a highly regarded and well known resident of that community, affiliated fraternally with Masonic organizations and the Order of Red Men, of which he had been the Great Sachem of the state. Dr. Bigelow left no immediate relatives. Mrs. Bigelow having died about two years. Two sons died years ago.

Immediately after returning to his home in Winsted on Monday, after attending the funeral of his brother here in the morning, Thomas Head had to undergo an operation for appendicitis. There was no indication while he was here that he would become ill so suddenly.

Ice 13 inches thick is being cut at Quinebaug lake, where the houses were filled the past month. Ice now being taken out is for immediate delivery, the contents of the houses being preserved intact.

Rural Carrier Arthur W. Logee of the Danielson postoffice is ill at his home on Winter street.

Amades Varieur of Academy street, seriously ill with pneumonia, was removed in an ambulance to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam Thursday morning.

Attorney Archibald Macdonald of Putnam was a visitor in Danielson on Thursday.

For the third morning this week the mercury was down to zero in Danielson on Thursday.

J. Carl Witter is to give his services in aid of a feature of the Valentine tea of the Woman's board of the Day Kimball hospital.

K. of C. carnival at the Casino tonight, Saturday and Monday evenings. You are invited.—Adv.

Railroad stations at Summit and Coventry, R. I., on the line from Providence to Plainfield have been closed. Coach lines now provide the passenger service required by people living in that area.

Charles Gunderson is at his home in South Killingly after a trip to California, via the Panama Canal.

Next Wednesday—Ash Wednesday— marks the opening of the Lenten season. A number of Mardi Gras events are being arranged for Danielson and vicinity.

In observance of Lincoln's birthday, the Danielson Trust company will be closed today (Friday).—Adv.

A brigade of snow shovelers had managed to clear off miles of walks in Danielson during Thursday, so getting about is made easier once again.

A telephone employee dance at Putnam Thursday evening attracted attendance from this town.

MYSTIC

A. C. Latham camp No. 19, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War held its meeting in G. A. R. hall Tuesday evening. Commander Royce Wolfe presided. Brief exercises in observance of Lincoln were held, several members taking part. Delegates and alternates were elected to the annual encampment to be held in Hartford in April. The delegates are W. G. Mooney, W. C. Morgan, and Royce Wolfe; alternates, Harmon Bradley and Edward Bayer. The invitation from Past Division Commander Robert Alcorn of Hartford, relative to the district meeting to be held in Essex Wednesday evening, Feb. 17 was accepted. W. G. Mooney and Clifford Holmes offered the use of their automobiles. It was voted to hold a dance in grange hall Main block later this month, with the following committee in charge, W. G. Mooney F. M. Williams and Royce Wolfe. A discussion followed on forming a bowling team to participate in a contest with a New London team. Arrangements will be made for a match in the near future. Members of the prospective team went to the bowling alleys for a try out. Plans are well under way for the final meeting of the series of the fifth district meetings held this fall and winter for the betterment of the various camps in the district. The meeting will be held next month with Jared Avery camp, New London. Each camp in the district will bring candidates to this meeting at which time the state degree team will work the degree and state officers will be present. A large delegation is expected to go from the local camp. Supper will be served by Ann Rogers Lyon camp, Daughters of Veterans.

Frank Karl of 41 High street, who was a patient in a New London for several weeks and has been home for more than a week, is to leave soon for a visit with relatives in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. MacDonald of Denison avenue have gone to Statesville, N. C., to spend several weeks with their daughter.

Members of the Hook and Ladder company are to have a turkey supper in I. O. O. F. hall Saturday evening.

Mystic academy had a half day session on Wednesday on account of the snow.

Amos G. Hewitt was a caller in Stonington.

Friends have received The Evening Independent, published at Saint Petersburg, Fla., from W. L. Main. Many offers of land for sale are found in the 20 pages it contains.

Those living here who teach in New London remained there Wednesday night.

The talk to have been given by Rev. F. G. Chutter in the Congregational parish house, Thursday, was postponed.

A Double Treatment for Colds

IT is an obstinate cold indeed that can resist the direct, double action of Vicks VapoRub. When it is rubbed over throat and chest at bedtime, Vicks acts in two ways at once:

(1) Direct to the inflamed air passages with its medicated vapors, released by the body heat; and

(2) Direct through the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, "drawing out" the tightness, soreness and pain.

Head or chest colds may easily sap your vitality and undermine your health. Don't neglect them.

PUTNAM

NEW BRITAIN SPEAKER TO TALK ON REVALUATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 11—There is to be a special meeting of the revaluation committee of property in the Chamber of Commerce room at 4:30 o'clock this (Friday) afternoon, Thomas H. deCoudres, the chairman, has been urging every member to be present. An endeavor will be made to inform, by telephone, all the committee, which consists of eighteen members. Mr. deCoudres is hoping that all who read this notification will attend.

The meeting was to have been held Wednesday afternoon, but because of delayed trains the speaker G. H. Waddell, of South Manchester, could not reach here. His city has experienced the same trouble in the assessment value of property for taxation purposes than confront Putnam. Mr. Waddell is thoroughly informed of the various steps taken by South Manchester to meet the situation and as he is making a special effort to be here, Mr. deCoudres is hoping that everyone of the committee, by attending the meeting, will show him the same courtesy while gaining at first hand the speaker's knowledge of what was done and the way it was done, as well as his ideas on the wisdom of it.

AGAINST MAILING OF MERCHANDISE NOT ORDERED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 11—The directors of the Putnam Chamber of Commerce held a meeting and supper at the Putnam Inn this week. At the meeting a resolution was passed endorsing a bill introduced to congress to prohibit the sending out through the mail of unsolicited merchandise, with the request that the consignee return the package if not desired.

All of the directors present had had personal experience with the objectionable practice and were glad to go on record as thoroughly disapproving of it and would welcome the passage of the bill. Judging from newspaper comment, the citizens of Putnam have had to endure more than their share of the pestiferous nuisance. Nearly every director had been selected as a "victim" of some form or other of the nuisance.

Sometimes return postage accompanies the package, in other instances the recipient is advised that some article can be kept as payment for the postage and some of the senders make the bold request that in return for such a valuable of Christmas goods" (they are generally sent out at the beginning of the holiday season) "are not desired, please return promptly."

One party during the early part of December received through the mail, a bulky package of tissue paper of various colors and sizes with a roll of gummed tape. This, he was informed, he could keep if by chance he did not want the assortment, to cover the cost of the return postage which was eight cents. The package has not been returned, the contents are unused and the consignee does not want the gummed tape or the paper

PUTNAM ODD FELLOWS BAN THE CHARLESTON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 11—The officers of Israel Putnam lodge, I. O. O. F., whose rooms are frequently leased for dancing parties and public balls, have had large placards printed and posted on the walls of the rooms which read: "Dancing of the Charleston is not allowed."

Rev. Albert E. Stone, formerly pastor of the Baptist church of this city, now of the U. S. steamer Rochester, will broadcast a lecture from WGBS, New York city, on Saturday evening, February 13. Many of the Putnam radio fans will tune in as Mr. Stone was very popular in Putnam during his residence here.

Arthur D. McIntyre, Jr., of Miami, Florida, son of Major and Mrs. A. D. McIntyre, of this city and Miss Avis Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lee, of Miami, Florida, were married at Miami, February 1st. Mr. McIntyre is part owner of the Miami Cabinet company. The young couple spent their honeymoon in West Palm Beach, Florida.

Wesley Keller was before Judge Geissler in the city court and was found guilty of drunkenness and of stealing crockery from Renick's store. He was placed under probation for one year under both counts.

On Thursday afternoon the Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Willis on the Pinam Heights road. The meeting was to have been held last Thursday but was postponed because of the blizzard.

State Highway Commissioner and Mrs. John A. Macdonald are in Tampa, Florida. W. S. Johnson, Mrs. Macdonald's father, who lives there for the greater part of the year, has been in impaired health and it is feared that his condition is not improving.

The automobile of Harold Peterson, of Brandy Hill, skidded in the snow near the residence of Thomas Ryan, in the town of Thompson, and crashed into a telegraph pole. The car was badly damaged and the pole was broken off near the base. Mr. Peterson escaped with only minor bruises and a severe shaking up.

Putnam grange recently held an old fashioned social at Odd Fellows' hall. The costumes, music, dancing, and even the refreshments were all of old time order. There were some worn out titles discovered among the charactrs, on of them claiming to be the Duke of Putnam Heights. Fiddlers played for the dancing. There was an unusual large attendance.

The committee of the Easter Monday ball of the Cargill council, Knights of Columbus, are already far along with their plans for that annual social event.

Fr. George F. Donohue, of the Holy Trinity parish at Pomfret, will make an address on Friday morning to the Athletic association of St. Mary's church. The meeting will be held at St. Mary's school so that the members of the school will be able to hear him. Rev. Fr. Donohue is an eloquent speaker.

Miss Ruth Murray recently treated her pupils of the East Woodstock school to a sleigh ride, also furnishing refreshments after the ride.

Senaxet grange, of Woodstock, will celebrate its 40th anniversary next Wednesday evening with a special meeting Worthy Lecturer G. H. Hamilton is preparing a program worthy of the occasion. It is planned to invite the officers of the neighboring granges.

Prof. John W. Wetzel, of Columbia university, who was to have been the speaker at the meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association, was unable to get here and Attorney Eric H. Johnson was called on and gave a very interesting talk. Wallace Smith sang some solos and Miss Esther Rouse played several numbers on the violin. After the program there was dancing.

Several Putnam people attended the reception given at Grange hall, Brooklyn, for Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hill. Mr. Hill is the new Y. M. C. A. secretary for Windham county. Miss Esther Ronuse, violinist, of this city, played and there were other entertainers and a few short talks by state "Y" officials.

In the bulletin sent out by the state highway department, of which John A. Macdonald, of this city, is commissioner, it was stated that the new Memorial bridge at Putnam was erected at a cost of $41,846.15.

Malvina Dragon has made application to the probate court that she may be appointed administratrix of the estate of Ildrege Dragon, late of Putnam. Mr. Dragon was found dead in his tailor shop in the Stombelis block with the gas turned on.

L. J. Leavitt, of Woodstock, has been appointed administrator of the estate of the late Adeline Murdoch, who died recently at the Woodstock town farm.

Alfred Bonneville, of Woodstock avenue, spent Wednesday in Providence.

Edmund Keane, of the Putnam fire department, attended the ball at Southbridge, Mass., given by the fire department of that city.

Mrs. Joseph Walters and little daughter, of Providence street, are the guests of friends at Worcester, Mass.

Adolph Montigney, a substitute carrier at the local postoffice, has been confined to his home because of trouble with his eyes.

Mrs. Lucy Hibbard, of Woodstock, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Alice Hayward, of Hartford.

John Simonsi and Lawrence Phaneuf are visiting friends at Keene, N. H.

Mrs. Karl T. Philips and two children, of Church street, have returned from a ten days' visit with Mrs. Phelip's parents at Amesbury, Mass.

Miss Pauline Lynn, of Hartford, has been visiting her uncle, George Lynn, of Woodstock.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Newton Vaughn will leave Putnam tonight, (Friday) on a ten days' visit to Tampa and other Florida cities on both the Gulf and ocean sides.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Wulf have been in New York city on a visit.

Not one of the R. F. D. carriers left the postoffice Wednesday. They all started out Thursday and met with varying degrees of success. None of them completely covered his route and some only skimmed the edges but they were more successful than they had hoped to be.

The sudden cessation of the storm that, for a while, threatened to equal its predecessor of last week, was welcome to everyone connected with the highway departments of the state, town and city.

Because the New Haven trains have been running from one to four hours behind their schedules G. H. Waddell, of South Manchester, was unable to reach Putnam in time to talk to the committee on Property Revaluation. He may be able to get here in time for an afternoon talk today, and if he can prompt notices will be sent to the members of the committee. The meeting is to be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

NOANK

Samuel Chesebro of Middletown is visiting in the village.

Herbert Burdick has gone to Danielson for a visit.

Edward Morgan is the guest of Freeman Rogers of Spring Hill.

The birds that do not go south are not forgotten in Noank. On Tuesday morning Miss Annie Spicer of Front street fed over a hundred little sparrows and other birds. Since the snow has covered the ground the birds find it hard to get anything to eat. Miss Spicer has built little bird houses around her yard so they can sleep where it is warm.

New Emulsion Conquers Chronic Constipation, Asserts McCoy

Brings Natural Bowel Action in 10 Days: Says Man Who Has Made McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets Famous the World Over—Guaranteed

This new preparation which McCoy guarantees to entirely overcome the most stubborn case of chronic constipation in 10 days or less is known to druggists as McCoy's Rinolin.

It is not an experiment, because it was tested by thousands of men, women and children, suffering from habitual constipation, before a bottle was sent to any druggist.

In this big test, McCoy's Rinolin proved beneficial in every instance—in the great majority of cases after a 10 days treatment the bowels begin to function normally and naturally and continued to do so for many days with no help whatever except in some cases a glass of water in the morning.

Just now Lee & Osgood Co. and all druggists have McCoy's Rinolin and Mr. McCoy has told everyone of them that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless they are benefited.

So you can buy at any store a bottle of McCoy's Rinolin with the distinct understanding that if taken as directed for ten days it does not cause the bowels to function naturally and regularly you can have your money back.

And McCoy's Rinolin is such a pleasant preparation and so easy to take—children really like it.

Think it over; why go on using harsh salts and violent cathartics that can only purge, when McCoy's Rinolin will cause the intestines to get back to natural action and normal peristalsis? Rinolin tonight—Pep tomorrow.

WESTERLY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 11—Thursday Trainmaster William Smith announced that no trains were cancelled on the New Haven road. Busses out of Westerly to Hope Valley, Bradford and Watch Hill maintained their schedule Wednesday with difficulty. The Norwich busses, 12 o'clock trip, proceded no further than Preston Plains, where the drifts held them up with the result that the return to Westerly was at 4 p. m., and the last trip. Thursday the attempt to get through was successful and regular trips were run.

The highway departments of Westerly and Pawcatuck, with forces of men, were early on the job with snow plows and shovels and the Connecticut and Rhode Island state road workers continued efforts to keep the snow from the main traveled highways. Westerly Highway Engineer A. L. Leon had both ears frozen on the job. No regular sessions of school for Westerly and Pawcatuck were held. The "No School" whistle sounded at 7:45 o'clock. Retail stores reported very little business and many of the clerks returned home early. Sleighs have made their appearance on Westerly streets and farmers coming in from the country have used horse-drawn sleds, for on many country roads drifts are reported stretching across the road from wall to wall.

Max Raithel, deputy bird commissioner of Westerly, was out Wednesday afternoon, to visit the farmers, to whom he carried supplies of grain, with the request that they place it where the wild birds congregate. The ground is so covered with snow that it is feared that partridges and quail will starve unless all cooperated in their feeding.

Thursday morning a through freight truck by way of the Boston Post road, having left Wakefield at 5:30, where it remained all night, arrived in Westerly at 10:30 o'clock and reported many autos of all descriptions stuck in the snow banks all the way along. At a number of places the driver was forced to cross neighboring lots to get around snow and auto obstructions.

Shovelers and workmen who labored all night, reported another snowfall in Westerly Thursday morning between 1 and 2 o'clock.

Westerly W. C. T. U., at its meeting Tuesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Frederick R. Wilcox, 36 Newton avenue, heard reports from the Providence conference, held Jan. 29th. These were given by Mrs. Louise Babcock, Mrs. Jennie Nichols and Mrs. Jennie Parker. Mrs. Grace Thompson read an article on activities of the Rhode Island Women's Committee on Law Enforcement during the past year, written by Mrs. Jennie Rook, honorary state president. Plans were made for a Frances Willard anniversary meeting, Feb. 23, in the vestry of Broad street Christian church. This meeting will be public and a speaker will be brought from Providence. Ten members of the local union signified their intention of taking the home study course in citizenship.

Westerly branch of the Loyal Temperance legion, the juvenile society of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, was organized Wednesday afternoon at a meeting held in Grace Methodist Episcopal church. These officers were elected: President, Elmer Bailey; secretary, Jean Melkle; treasurer Pearl Payne. It was voted to meet every other Tuesday. Mrs. Jennie Parker and Mrs. Ethel Whitaker, representing the W. C. T. U., had charge of the meeting and superintended the formation of the L. T. L.

Peter S. Beradinelli, of 31 Franklin street, who left Westerly Monday, for New York, sailed from that city Wednesday at 3 p. m., on S. S. Conte Rosso for Genoa, Italy. Mr. Beradinello is not in very good health and plans to remain for a year, near his birthplace, where he has not been for 37 years. Many relatives and friends bade the traveler goodbye, some accompanying him to the New York boat at New London, and others saying farewell from the New York dock.

In the first game of the bridge tournament at the rooms of the Westerly Masonic club, on High street, the opposing teams were lined up as follows:

Capt. Charles M. Lamb, James Hodgson, Farquhar Smith, Ralph Spargo, John O. Mills, Karl Koelb, Francis G. Haswell, William H. Clapham, Dr. E. Whitford, Raymond Hiscox, Samuel Culley, Clifford Barber, George E. Broughton, Earl James, William Healey, Samuel Bailey, William Stillman, Samuel Counsel and A. Ralston.

Capt. L. G. McLaren, D. Everett Hoxie, Henry A. Stabile, Olcott G. Mills, Hobart Saunders, Theodore Samuels, Capt. Walter Davis, G. Maurice Nye, Frank Saunders, Herman Driggs, William Browning, Alexander Mitchell, Caleb Mudge, John Opie, Abraham Datson, Robert Wilcox, Daniel Larkin, Ralph Koelb and Dr. Thomas Robinson.

This, (Friday) morning Judge H. Williams will hold the first business and his second sitting of the third district court since his recent re-elevation to the bench.

"Art and the Community" is to be the subject of the address by L. Earl Rowe, director of the Rhode Island School of Design, at the opening night of the art exhibit in the gallery of Westerly Memorial and Public library on Broad street. The exhibit, which is to be devoted exclusively to the work of professional artists who got their start in Westerly, will continue for a period of six weeks. Carl J. Nordell, of Boston, a painter of national reputation, has informed the committee in charge that he will be unable to enter any of his works owing to the fact that they are widely scattered and not available at the present time. However, he has promised to exhibit in his old home town at some future date. The artists who have agreed to take part in the exhibit are John R. Frazier, of Providence; William H. Drury, Newport; Howard A. Coon, Gloucester, Mass., and Stephen Wesley Macomber of Westerly. These four and Nordell received their early art training under Miss Hallie M. Hood, in Westerly public schools.

In Pawcatuck, Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, Mrs. Nellie Fish and Howard Osborne, both of that place, were married at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Crane, at 86 Mechanic street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. A. Walker, pastor of Calvary Baptist church. They were unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Osborn are now on a trip to New Haven and New York city. Upon their return they will make their home at 8 Wilford court.

Four seniors, seven juniors, five sophomores and seven freshmen are on the honor roll of Westerly High school for the half-year ending Jan. 31. The list of honor students, as announced Thursday by Principal Charles Mason, follows: Seniors—Louis Guiliano, Mildred Bray, Myrtle Evans and Olga Gervasini; juniors—Lloyd Briggs, Ruth Briggs, Marjorie Chapman, Jeannie Cruickshank, Lydia Nichols, Libera Ruga and Julia Stahle; sophomores—Alfred Dower, Eleanor Daley, Mary Kenyon, Madelyn Sutcliffe and Lila Carpenter; freshmen—Esther Chapman, Eleanor Fain, Lua Kenyon, Ruth Williams, Marguerite Lenihan, Marian Smith and Janet Thompson.

The annual banquet of Loyal Progressive Lodge, No. 14, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Manchester Unity, was attended by nearly fifty members, in Pawcatuck, Wednesday evening at the Inn. The menu included grape fruit, soup, pineapple salad, pineapple fritters with lemon sauce, roast turkey, mashed potato, mashed turnip, jelly, celery, pickles, ice cream, cake, nuts, after-dinner mints, rolls and coffee. The committee in charge of arrangements was Edith Jones, Elsie Counsell and Mary Platt.

A BIG CROWD ATTENDS SOCIETY CIRCUS AT ARMORY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 11—The Society Circus at the State Armory, Thursday night, under the auspices of Westerly Young Women's Community association, drew a crowd which filled the big top of the armory drill shed. Admision began at 7 o'clock to enable the side show to be inspected before the glittering pageant of the Grand Circus was unfolded, soon after 8 o'clock.

ST. MICHAEL'S BOY SCOUTS PRESENT "CHARLEY'S AUNT"

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Feb. 11—In spite of the stormy night a large audience witnessed the presentation last night of the farce comedy, "Charley's Aunnt," under the auspices of St. Michael's Troop of Boy Scouts of Pawcatuck. The presentation was most successful. Following was the cast: Jack Chesney, Anthony Murfillo; Brassett, George P. Chapman; Charles Wykham, Delmore Kinnery; Lord Fancourt Babberly, George Ward; Kitty Verdon, Cecilia Smith; Amy Spettigue, Blanche Hughes; Col. Sir Francis Chesney, John Troy; Stephen Spettigue, Myles Brennan; Dona Lucia D'Alvadores, Jessie Hughes; Ela Delahay, Lucina Bauerle.

John Conway of the United Theatre staff directed the play, assisted by William S. Martin. George P. Chapman, deputy scout commissioner, had general supervision of the production. Song and dance specialties were provided between the acts by dancing pupils of Miss Mary G. Driscoll. Miss Driscoll led one number, "That Certain Party," in which Hilda Nowell, Margaret Anderson, Evelyn Ferraro, Madeline Keefe and Matilda Long also took part. Two little girls, Eunice Hughes and Lavina DeParry, danced the Charleston. Miss Jessie Hughes was accompanist.

STONINGTON

No trolley cars were running Wednesday morning owing to the stormy weather, and the school was also not in session for the day.

George Fratus and Antone Longon left New York Tuesday for a tour of Italy and the battlefields of the World War.

Killingly High defeated Stonington High at Killingly Tuesday after the local boys had put up a hard fight.

Cards have been received in the borough by friends of Harry A. LeVey who is at present in the Panama Canal Zone. Mr. LeVey states that he expects to return to Stonington next summer, coming home by way of California and train.

YANTIC

A second blizzard reached here Wednesday morning and found a very good foundation to work on. By the time it had spent its force, local pathfinders went out in search of the old paths but gave the task up and started making new ones.

The road men connected with the state highway department kept the highways open but with great difficulty as the wind that accompanied the snow made driving most trying. They were making a headway clearing out gutters Tuesday but will have to repeat that task by Saturday.

There was no afternoon session in the village school and no children seen on the streets, none even getting a "hitch" on the few horse drawn sleds that came into the village for grain or groceries.

An unavoidable automobile accident occurred Tuesday morning when the Overland touring car owned by William Kone and the Buick sedan owned by E. Allen Bidwell met at the end of the trolley line. With all the snow packed in the gutter the space was very narrow and the cars collided. The front left tire was stripped from the Buick and the left rear wheel of the Overland was smashed to pieces. Both cars were taken to a garage for repairs.

Emergency notes will be ordered issued by the common council in Bridgeport next Monday night to defray the cost of snow removal, provided the board of apportionment and taxation finds it impossible to appropriate money from other sources for this purpose.

Makes Fat People Slim

New York Physician Perfects Simple and Easy Method of Reducing Weight.

Dr. R. Newman, a licensed practicing physician, of 286 Fifth Avenue, New York, announces that he has perfected a treatment which has quickly rid fat people of excess weight. What is more remarkable is the Doctor's statement that he has successfully treated thousands of patients for fat reduction without unnecessary change of diet or burdensome exercise. He also says that fat people who suffer from chronic rheumatism, gout, asthma and high blood pressure obtain great relief from the reduction of their superfluous flesh. Realizing that this sounds almost too good to be true, the Doctor has offered to send, without charge, to anyone who will write him, a free trial treatment to prove his claims, as well as his "Pay-when-reduced" plan. If you want to rid yourself of superfluous fat, write him today, addressing Dr. R. Newman, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City, Dept. R.

BURNING SOFT COAL

Probably there is more bituminous coal being used at the present time than ever before and there seems to be no prospect now but what there will be an increasing demand for it as the remainder of the winter is faced.

There are several kinds of bituminous coal running all the way from the gaseous, high volatile coal to the semi-bituminous, low volatile, smokeless coal. There is the bituminous coal that is well thought of for household use and there is that which is not and ought not to be used for such unless it is fully understood and given careful attention.

Bituminous coal should never be sold for anything else than what it is. It is a gross injustice to the consumer to have a quantity of soft coal, or even semi-bituminous, delivered for anthracite, but many a consumer has come to like bituminous after they have given it a trial. In such cases where bituminous is used in place of anthracite it is decidedly important that there should be instructions obtained as to how to burn it. It is necessary to treat it differently than hard coal, but when the requirements are met those who use it have been free to say that they get more heat and a smaller percentage of ash.

In many of the larger cities there have been demonstration stations established with excellent results, at which heaters have been in operation fired by bituminous coal. Such instructions have been highly valuable and such a scheme for New England had the endorsement of the governors of the several states. The campaign to instruct users of soft coal was even furthered by placing outfits on trucks and driven about explaining how soft coal can be burned in a kitchen stove without trouble.

It is a mistake to think that one kind of coal should be treated in the same manner as the other, but with the special attention given in keeping with requirements results are invariably satisfactory provided the coal is what is represented.

THE SENATE AND TAXATION

From the action of the senate on Wednesday one is given little idea of which to expect in the way of a revenue bill. There were times when it was guided by sanity and there were others when it crushed all claims to anything of the kind. There were those who were determined that there should be a continuance of the inheritance tax quite the same as there were those who insisted there must be retained the obnoxious publicity provision. According to the judgment of the majority of the upper house the inheritance tax should go and there are excellent reasons for believing that such judgment is good. The inheritance tax has been tried and its detrimental features have been demonstrated. It is a form of taxation that should be left to the states and even then there should be such an understanding between states that estates are not drained and enterprises forced out of business because of the exactions. There is no good reason why estates should be taxed to death any more than individuals.

There is a difference of opinion between the senate and the house relative to the inheritance tax. The senate would wipe it out now and make its provisions retroactive. The house would reduce the tax and gradually wipe it out. What will be done when this matter gets into conference is uncertain but there is certainly a chance for a compromise.

For the senate to go off on a tangent and proceed to boost the tax out far beyond the bounds of reason doesn't reflect favorably upon that body. There will be opportunity for the reconsideration of these matters before the senate finally acts on them and should chance for bringing about an all around in conference that will keep within the danger line. The idea of jumping over the traces, however, and making a wreck of the bill just because the majority is able to exercise itself and stand by the committee report places the senate in anything but an enviable position before the people. It is to be hoped that it redeems itself when it gets the chance.

DISARMAMENT

Repeatedly it has been urged that the disarmament conference should be held in this country, the belief that it would stand a far better chance of success than if held in a country which is more deeply interested in the maintenance of a large army than the United States. It has been made clear [illegible] only when the time was [illegible] would there be an

Since the postponement of the disarmament conference called for Geneva it has been urged again that this country step in and call a conference here. This seems to have been the suggestion of an enthu[illegible]ld not seem to realize the [illegible] which this would place th[illegible]

Just when the pre[illegible] gathering will be held at Geneva or some other place in Europe is rather uncertain. Reasons advanced for it have seemed a bit far fetched and yet it is to be realized that there is good ground for wanting Russia as a participant therein, while other developments have indicated that the time may not be quite ripe for such a gathering in spite of the results accomplished at Locarno. The exchange of words between Italy and Germany hasn't served to smooth the way.

The fact is that it would be futile to attempt to hold such a conference until there was some degree of certainty that it would be successful. No one would think of starting something of that nature that couldn't be finished, and as for this country stepping in under existing conditions and trying to pull the chestnuts out of the fire it is unreasonable. Disarmament which includes the army is a problem which most deeply concerns Europe. We have little that we can contribute. Our position is different than it was when the navy was involved. And yet our views and coperation are not to be withheld. Conditions in Europe rather than on this side of the ocean are responsible for the postponement.

ALIEN REGISTRATION

With all the opposition that is raised against the registration of aliens there is no convincing reason advanced as to why this country should not undertake to do something to protect itself against the foreigners who get into the country unlawfully and continue to show their disrespect for the privileges enjoyed and the laws of the country.

There is no disposition to insist that all aliens are to be classed and there would be no desire to impose registration upon all of them if it were possible to reach those wanted in any other way. Should registration be asked it would be imposing no greater obligations upon them than are required in the countries whence they came. They are familiar with such demands and certainly it is asking very little in return for the privileges which are extended to them on these shores.

Perhaps there would be greater appreciation of what is being obtained here were such a requirement in force. Certainly there can be no justification for the bootlegging of aliens. There is however good reason for stopping such smuggling, and it must be apparent that all the responsibility for the smuggling does not rest upon the smuggler. The alien who cannot get in otherwise, or who got in illegally, has no claim upon this government and the quicker those who defy the laws of the country can be excluded the better it will be for law and order in all directions. Those who oppose registration of aliens offer no effective method of meeting the situation otherwise.

SCHOOL SIGNALS

Complaint is registered in Springfield over the fact that even though the decision had been made that there would be no school on the day of the heavy snow storm, and there was no school, hundreds of little children were uninformed and trudged through the snow to the schoolhouses to find out that they must turn around and go home. This meant a needless trip in the snow, the very thing which the decision to hold no session of school had been intended to prevent.

Springfield is one of the cities which abandoned its public fire alarm signal. There was a central siren which was used, as is the fire alarm system in most cities, to inform the community when there would be no session of school, or previous to the equipping of the schools with telephones to indicate when there would be one session because of storms. The abolition of the siren leaves Springfield helpless in this respect.

If there is merit in having no session of school as a protection to the children they should certainly be warned in time to prevent them from encountering those conditions which it is believed they should be kept from. This is of course true in any community and indicates that there was one use for the Springfield fire alarm which was ignored when it was eliminated.

Quite frequently it is the case that the no session or one session decision simply means that the children will be spending their time outdoors, in rain or snow which might be better employed in the school room, but the good of the greatest number is what must serve as the guide in such matters and in justice to them adequate provision should be made for getting the information to them.

THE SEWING CIRCLE

A busy and contended silence had reigned in the assembled group for some moments, until the young matron with the auburn wave bit off her thread with a snap and sighed gently "sudden prosperity is awfully trying," she observed. "I lunched today with a woman who has financial indigestion so badly that she really is an object of compassion. She used the dollar mark as a sort of universal tape measure, so to speak, in fact, she is a typical specimen of what the average European imagines all Americans to be because at heart he is, himself. And what, in fact, few Americans really are." She threaded a needle with indignant rumble.

"Of course they're not," agreed the fluffy-haired blond soothingly, "even among the war-time fortunes. And I went to the theatre last night with a man who has made a million in the last six months without getting horrid. He is so modest that if you ask him what kind of car he drives he only mentions the one he is using at the time, without even hinting at the three others in his garage at home. And for an enthusiastic motorist thats some modesty, believe me!"

The circle nodded.

"He told me the other day," continued the fluffy-haired blond, "that he had once heard happiness defined as the capacity for wanting things and the ability to get them, but he guessed there must be some mistake about that, because somehow it didn't work out that way. He seemed rather embarrassed to be discussing the subject at all, but very much in earnest and I was awfully interested myself, so I egged him on as tactfully as possible."

The sewing circle nodded again questioningly.

"He said," went on the fluffy haired blond, "that he supposed the theory would be sound enough if a fellow was nothing but a human animal with physical needs, but that, although he was no sermonizer or anything like that, he had it pretty clearly figured out in his own mind that all that was the smallest part of a person's real wants—I'm giving it to you in his own phrases you know—and, he said, unless the money could be made to help you to learn how to get the things that no money could buy he didn't see that it was much of an asset in the long run."

"Good for him!" said the black-headed member, heartily. "I'd like the pleasure of his acquaintance. * * * I know a woman, a school teacher, who told me the other day that she was determined to find some way of making a lot of money. I asked her why, and she said, well, everybody else needed to have lots, so she wanted it, too. I asked her if she was tired of her work and she said oh no, she loved to teach. Then I asked her a whole wad of questions, because I was really terribly curious to know what it was she really did want, as she was a woman of fine mind and very simple tastes. And the only luxury that she could honestly say she yearned for and didn't have was a chauffeur."

"W-e-ll," hesitated the fluffy-haired blond, "of course a chauffeur is a nice thing to have——"

The black-headed member interrupted her with a polite snort, which she smothered as a maid appeared in the doorway.

"Your car is here, ma'am," said the maid, "and Perkins says shall he wait at the door or around the corner out of the traffic?"

"You may tell him not to wait at all," said the black-headed member, sweetly. "Which is really what he meant," she added with a growl as the maid receded into the distance, "it's Perkins' evening off again, and I'm supposed to go without my tea so that he can get the car off his hands and be free at 6 o'clock. I'm sick and tired of regulating my whole life for the convenience of my servants, and I want to ride home on the bus anyway, like a regular human being. That school teacher girl didn't know what she was talking about. Make my tea strong, that's a dear, and give me sugar and cream and both kinds of sandwiches. Thanks aw'fly, old thing."—Exchange.

From Small Beginnings

Lars Skresfrud, a Great Missionary

In a small shop in Norway a boss mechanic stood looking on at the workmen in his shop. Among them was a light-haired, slender young man, who worked very carefully and slowly. To him the boss turned and called out: "Lars Shresfrud, are you going to be all day at that? Why do you bother about it so? There's no hurry, to be sure, but can't you see that you are taking twice the time anyone else would?"

With a laugh Lars Skresfrud answered: "Why hurry? As you say there is lots of time—and besides I like to do well what I do at all. I like to try to make every job the best job I ever did."

If the boss had followed this young workman home that evening he would have found him still at work. He was bending over a book with small print and by his side he had a large dictionary. With fingers hardened by long work in the shop, he turned the pages of his Greek lexicon—for he was studying Greek. He had already carried work in Latin much farther than the average college person does today, and he had mastered the rudiments of Greek, so that now he was translating freely in addition to this the young mechanic had picked up English and French, partly by study and partly through friends, in the evenings he was slowly, month after month, accumulating knowledge. By this time he was in his first twenties. Lars Skresfrud was something more than a very careful workman with tools; he was a real scholar in languages. Now with his knowledge came a desire to use it. He went to a school in Berlin and there prepared to go to India as a missionary. At 23 he was on his way to India. There again he did his work with utmost care, but he still followed his old love of language study. He took up the Indian speech as he had taken Latin, Greek and other languages back in Norway.

Before Lars Skresfrud died at the age of 70 he had translated the Bible into one of the many languages of India, and he had written a grammar and a dictionary of that strange oriental language. With all his work over books he worked actively in the mission field, and made himself famous through the things he accomplished. He developed into a powerful lecturer and did more than almost anyone else to turn attention to his particular field in India. He was always what he had been as a boy—a hard worker and a patient student.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. James A. Beebe, who has been elected president of Allegheny College in Pittsburgh, is a theologian and educator of wide reputation. A product of the middle West, born in Kansas and educated at one of the smaller colleges in Iowa, Dr. Beebe was ordained to the ministry, of the Methodist Episcopal church in 1902 and for three years thereafter held a pastorate in Des Moines. Then he went to New England, where for several years he filled pulpits in Newport and Manchester, N. H., while at the same time taking the course at Boston University School of Theology. In 1909 he returned to the west to become pastor of a church in one of the Chicago suburbs. Six years later he was made president of Iliff School of Theology in Denver, where he remained until 1920. In the latter year he was chosen dean of the Boston University School of Theology, a position he still fills.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

What is Needed in Norwich

Mr. Editor: Having read the letters in your paper in the past issues on What is the Matter With Norwich?" I have become interested. I can see no reason for beating about the bush and blaming real estate deals or theatres for the conditions that exist in our community today and have existed for years. The war proved that wages earned and spent in the community made that community prosperous and in order to earn wages you have got to have industries. That is what Norwich has not and never will have under existing conditions in our town today.

How do you expect to get any decent industry to come into a town that has two governments, high tax rate in each of these and a town that takes everything and gives nothing to these industries to induce them to come here? I can remember when I was a boy we had machine shops, founderies and gun shops, places that employed men not women and we had a fairly prosperous town. They all moved out and what did Norwich do to stop them? You know the answer—they just marked time and let them move and have never done a thing to replace them only talk about it. The sooner Norwich wakes up and establishes one form of government here and puts a real honest revaluation of property in action the sooner we will get some real industries here that pay good wages to be spent in this community.

Don't blame any one organization for these conditions because no one individual or organization is to blame and cannot remedy it. In order to correct this situation it will take every organization and every man and woman in Norwich. It is going to be a hard job and you are going to hurt a lot of people's feelings but it can be done by education and agitation. Forget our party politics and prejudices and put our shoulders to the wheel as one big organization and I don't think the job will be as hard as we think.

Speaking of empty stores we certainly had a fine ad on Main street for strangers coming to town. There is a large empty store with signs painted on the windows "Crushed on the rocks of disaster", etc., that have been there for several months. I think it is about time that somebody with the authority has that ad removed before strangers think the town is going out of business.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for the space in your paper I beg to remain

Yours for action and less talk

WILLIAM H. DONAHUE

Stories That Recall Others

Matter of Hypnosis

The following episode took place in a boys' class in the primary department of the Sunday school following the visit of a hypnotist to the city.

Each Sunday morning the teacher tells a Bible story to the entire class which is reviewed the following Sunday as part of the lesson. She had told the story of Philip baptising the Ethiopian, and a seven year old boy was trying to review it "And then-and then-Philip-baptised him. You baptize babies; you hypnitise men."

A Quick Reply

It was one of those games where one of the party goes out of the room while the others select a word for the absentee to guess when he returns. On request of the guesses each answers a question of the guessee in a sentence in which the word is used. The object is to use the word so skilfully in the sentence that the guesser is baffled and passes on to the next person.

The word selected on this occasion was "to" and the Mrs. A was the first one asked by the guesser to use the word in a sentence in reply to his question: "Where are you going tonight?"

Mrs. A thought of a quick answer and was delighted that she did not have to study over a reply. "To bed," she said.

She was sent out of the room at once.

A Reproof or an Audience

May Whitcomb

Jason, who was four, was visiting at his grandmother's and during the course of the afternoon took a nickel from the telephone stand, went to the corner and bought a sack of candy. He ate part of the candy and when questioned by Grandmother and Aunt Jane, he failed to tell the truth about taking the money.

Grandmother and Aunt Jane and Aunt Mary were dreadfully upset. Something must be done at once. The child couldn't be allowed to steal and lie and go unpunished. And so the remainder of the candy was taken away from Jason and he was told most severely that he could not have it until the next day. This really didn't seem to bother him very much—probably he had already eaten about all he cared for—and then Aunt Jane took him up on her lap and told him what a terrible thing it was for a little boy to take things that didn't belong to him and tell naughty stories. Aunt Mary sat by and looked very sad and said everything that Aunt Jane happened to forget. Next Grandmother took a turn and told him how wicked he had been, and when she had finished Grandfather added a few parting admonitions as Jason set out for home.

Mother was not at home when Jason and Aunt Jane and the candy arrived, but early next morning Aunt Jane called to know if Jason had told his mother the sad story. He had—an entirely new version—and Mother was properly shocked to hear Aunt Jane's account. She scolded Jason, even slapped his hands a little, and then told Father about it. Father insisted something must be done, so he gave Jason a nickel and took him over to Grandmother's to apologize. And Mother refused absolutely to give him the rest of the candy until he came back.

Arrived at Grandmother's the whole tale had to be repeated (in front of Jason) for the benefit of Uncle Bob who had been away the day before. At the conclusion of the story, with many promptings, Jason delivered Father's nickel and a stereotyped apology.

Just then Uncle Fred came in, and Jason greeted his new audience with delight. "Uncle Fred know what Jason do? Stole a money an' bought lotta candy an' told naughty story. Can I have candy now, Daddy?"

"Of course it was terrible," said Aunt Jane who was relating the incident, "but he was so cute we just couldn't help laughing at him, and then he told it all over again."

Children make mistakes, get into mischief and sometimes intentionally do wrong, and a wise reproof or explanation of the wrong-doing and its consequences, given by one person, may bear a great deal of weight. But reiteration of the reproof and exaggeration of the wrong-doing by several persons is almost sure either to crush the child or, more likely, make him think he has done something very clever. If he finds that doing something he shouldn't is a very sure way of attracting a great deal of attention, he soon makes use of the discovery.

An explanation to the child by Mother or Father as to why he may not do certain things, suggestion as to what he can do to right a wrong, and reasonable "consequences" if he persists in an undesirable course of action, will make a real impression and start the formation of an extremely valuable habit—that of doing everything possible to correct mistakes and atone for misdeeds rather than simply saying, "I'm sorry."

An unidentified man of about 30 years of age was instantly killed when it is believed, he struck an overhead bridge near Chester, Mass., while riding on the top of a Boston and Albany train.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Quick Relief

No need of Strong Medicines or Diet—Famous but Simple Old English Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition, Banishes After-Eating Distress

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system by following unnecessary starvation diets.

Never hurry your meal or overeat of anything, but within reason most folks may eat what they like—if they will keep their stomach sweet, clean and active and free from the souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a small amount of pure Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless and inexpensive form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia, which may be obtained from any druggist for only a few cents, will easily convince you of the great value of this old English recipe.

Be sure and get BISURATED Magnesia—not a laxative.

WEDDING.

Mudge-Charron

Miss Blanche Rose Charron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Charron of Sargeant street, Hartford, and William Charles Mudge, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Mudge of Westerly, R. I., were married Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in the rectory of St. Anne's church, Hartford. The Rev. J. V. E. Belanger performed the ceremony, using the double ring service. Miss Jane Mudge of Westerly, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and the best man was Alfred Charron, brother of the bride. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, at which only the immediate members of both families were present. Mr. and Mrs. Mudge left for a wedding trip to New York and Washington, D. C. and after April 1 will be at home at the Lancashire apartments, c. p. Clinton street, Hartford. The bride is a graduate of Windham High school. Mr. Mudge graduated from Westerly High school and was with the First Pursuit squadron in the United States army air service. He was prominent in military circles in Westerly and was instrumental in the organizing of the present National Guard company of Coast Artillery.

AWARDS COMPENSATION FOR DRIVER WHO WAS HURT

A workmen's compensation payment of $142.08 to be made to Frank L. Bitcliffe of Waterford is directed to be made in a finding by Commissioner J. J. Donohue. The payment is for 7 2-7 weeks at $19.50 a week and the finding was against Mrs. Julia K. Shay, of 19 Mott avenue, employer, and the Eagle Indemnity Co., respondent insurers.

The finding also decrees that the insurer shall pay to Dr. Frank M. Dunn for medical services and attention in the case, $112 last July.

Bitcliffe was driving one of the employer's trucks when at the wharf of G. M. Long Co., in Groton, it started suddenly and threw him beneath the wheels, causing lacerations of the scalp, concussion of the brain, lacerations of the back, legs and shoulders. The insurance company claimed that the accident had not been reported in due time, but Commissioner Donohue found that it had been reported to the local office in New London.

COMPARES NORWICH EXPENSES WITH 75 YEARS AGO

The expenses of Norwich 75 years ago as compared with the city's departmental expenses of the present day was the subject of a talk given by Mayor Milo R. Waters at the regular meeting of the Norwich Lion's club at the Wauregan hotel, Thursday noon. The meeting was presided over by President William A. Anderson and Herbert Corey acted as song leader with Pete Ethier presiding at the piano. The singing of America opened the meeting and there was the usual programme of club and group song numbers. Rudolph Henschel entertained with humorous stories which were heartily applauded. Edward L. McAvoy was awarded the attendance contest prize, a key container.

William O'Neil was introduced as the five-minute speaker by Earl Taggart, chairman of the entertainment committee. Mr. O'Neil spoke relative to the betterment of the city and the carrying out of its ideals. At the business session Earl Taggart was unanimously appointed corresponding secretary for the remainder of the year. Harry Schwartz entertained with pleasing song numbers and also gave a recitation which was thoroughly enjoyed. A large flashlight picture of the New Year's party, held at the Palace theatre, by the club for the children of the city, and taken by Dana Houghton, was on display at the meeting. Mayor Milo W. Waters was the speaker of the day. Mayor Waters devoted his interesting and instructive talk to a comparison of the cost of city departments of 75 years ago, with the greatly increased cost of the same departments today. In closing Mayor Waters said: "I wish to appeal to all of you as representative business men and professional men to take a deeper interest in municipal affairs, and when the opportunity comes to take an active part in them even if it means some personal sacrifice. Norwich is your home and my home, it is your city and my city and if it is not worth giving our best to I'm afraid that Mayor Thayer was right when he said that "the best citizens of Norwich were in Vantic cemetery."

THE DAVID H. FANNING HOME IS TO BE DISMANTLED

Friends of the family of the late David Hale Fanning, of Worcester, learn that to date there have been few changes in his household on Woodland street. Eventually his sightly home is to become the property of Clark university which adjoins the Fanning residence.

When the law in its process of settling the estate of the millionaire philanthropist accords permission so to do, the dismantling of the house will be begun by Mr. Fanning's daughter, the chief beneficiary of his estate, Mrs. John H. Lancaster, of Worcester. Mrs. Lancaster spends much time abroad and returned to America in the early fall, as soon as conditions warrant, she plans to return to Paris.

So far, the household is being maintained as before. Mr. Fanning's devoted nurse and the efficient supervisor of his home, Miss Lenora D. Huestis remains, expecting to go later to her home in Holden, Mass., for a long rest.

Although always very prudent, Mr. Fanning was very liberal and since his death it has become known that he made many generous gifts to individuals and institutions which have never been recorded. Particularly was he generous to Hahnemann hospital, for which he donated the site, gave a liberal endowment, etc., and to this institution he was very generous in gifts of expensive equipment, instruments, fittings and the like.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Michael Otostolas

The funeral of Mrs. Eugenia Otostolas, wife of Michael Otostolas, of Elm street, was held Thursday afternoon from the parlors of Undertakers Cummings and Rink, Main street. Relatives and friends were present and there were a number of beautiful floral tributes. The service was conducted by Rev. Panteleimon Skyriotid, pastor of the Greek Orthodox church, and burial took place in Maplewood cemetery, friends acting as bearers. Mrs. Otostolas died Tuesday at her home on Elm street. She is survived by her husband.

John M. McDermott

At 5.15 o'clock Thursday morning the body of John M. McDermott who died at his home in Jersey City, N. J., arrived in this city and was taken in charge by Hourigan Bros. The funeral was held from their rooms on Main street at 8.30 o'clock Thursday morning and at 9 o'clock there was a solemn requiem mass in St. Patrick's church, Rev. John J. Reilly was the celebrant, Rev. C. W. Brennan, deacon and Rt. Rev. Msgr M. H May, sub-deacon. Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the piano and Roderick M. Sullivan sang Pie Jesu at the offertory, Jesus, Lover of My Soul for the waiting hymn and Lead, Kindly Light, for the recessional.

There were numerous beautiful floral forms and a large attended of relatives and friends. The bearers were John, Thomas, James and Neil McDermott, George Cassidy and Daniel Daley and the body was placed in the receiving vault at St. Mary's cemetery, where Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May conducted a service.

Coal Gas Made Fire Call

BERT LUCAS GIVES PICTURE OF PRESENT DAY MIAMI CONDITIONS

"Miami As It Appears Today" is the subject of a letter to The Bulletin from Herbert W. Lucas of this city, who is spending his third winter in the Florida city, where it is reported that fortunes are made overnight but little is heard of the thousands who miss out in the making of millions.

Mr. Lucas writes as follows:

This being my third winter in Florida I want to give a review of the past and present situation as I see it. The first winter was one of much pleasure, rooms were fairly reasonable, as, for example, the first winter we (2) paid $5 apiece for one room; now, the same place $10 apiece, with anywhere from two to seven in a room. But this will all be changed in due time. Real estate had just got started then and everyone seemed to be enjoying himself as it didn't cost so much to live then as it does now and things were not so crazy as now.

The second winter I could see profiteering beginning to a certain extent and rooms were scarce. Last winter one could hardly get a room during the mid season and the chamber of commerce was kept busy asking people to help the situation out, by opening up their homes to the tourists. I arrived in Miami in September last fall and saw the town completely captured by tourists and mechanics, and the town was crowded with people. The real estate men were very, very busy and I found it very hot and uncomfortable.

Peak of Speculation

The peak of the great speculation in real estate was then reached. Since then all through the fall has been very quiet, with many salesmen leaving town. I think the big boom has passed and the stampede from the north is over for a while anyway. There are not as many people here now as there were last summer. It is said there are just as many but it doesn't look that way to me. The auto congestion is very bad, almost unbearable at times. One has to watch his step constantly.

Building has let up a lot which is caused to a great extent by the embargo on all building materials. To make matters worse the Yacht Valdemar was entering the harbor three weeks ago, and she tipped over on her side and completely blocked the channel, which is very narrow. This bottled up all the ships and vessels on the inside and kept a lot outside waiting to enter the harbor. There have been as many as 50 vessels on the inside at one time, unloading lumber with some 40 or 50 waiting to enter the harbor as there wasn't room for them to dock.

The steamer Gov. Nash of the Clyde line and Seneca have been bottled up more than three weeks. The local people have been trying to get the yacht out of the channel but I think the government has taken charge now. Some think it was a very strange circumstance and due to politics. Some things are run very funny here. The embargo has made it very bad for everyone as many who want to build a home had to abandon the idea. Things look better in that regard now.

Cement was as high as $20 a sack and lumber was very dear but they are all coming down in price. Profiteering took a hand in the whole thing, I guess. At this time a good many mechanics are laid off, but this year it seems more prevalent than usual. Many mechanics are leaving town and the activity has certainly died down considerably. They say there will be a lot of building this year and I guess there will if all the permits granted are used. Many people from all walks of life are here trying to get a living. Some are living on easy street, some are on the bum, and some will be if things keep on the way they are lately, as many real estate men have given up the game.

Many people have come here with the intention of entering some small business but are compelled to look for work on account of awful overhead expenses and the new taxes they have been compelled to pay and the raise in rents so often. It's a losing game for a small fellow but time will remedy all the graft, I think when once they see that the people are tired of being gouged, they will get wise. It's too bad as Miami is headed to be a great metropolis in the near future, but if they don't watch out they will lose out. Many people have left here in disgust with the way things are being done. Graft is plentiful. One thing in particular is the graft in the taxi service. One man was taken over to the station from a hotel and they charged him $20. He was so mad he went back and measured the distance and found out it ought to have really been about 50 cents. He lost his train and got no satisfaction. There is another scheme of short changing you, if you don't count your change.

They even charge you for matches, the ones that are free samples. The people seem to be money mad. In regard to cost of living, things like clothing, shoes and wearing apparel are reasonable. Eats are not so bad, if you buy and cook them yourself, but housing conditions for the worker are terrible. They have to live in a hen coop and travel 15 or 20 miles to work.

Awful conditions for a mechanic and no place at all for a poor person. I used to travel 20 miles each day; then travel all around by auto doing the work, and liable to get clipped every day by some crazy "Georgia cracker" who drives like a mad man through the traffic.

Exorbitant Rents

It is nearly impossible to go into a small business as rents are all taken up by real estate men who pay exorbitant prices for a lease. One big real estate firm paid $40,000 for a front foot for an office. Restaurants are cleaning up a bunch of money. So are hotels and especially the Western Union Telegraph company. They are employing old men, women and boys as messengers. Some cleanup $10 for 24 hours.

Rents are at the peak, now and I think they will be cheaper in another year. The racing season opened up January 21st, and 31,000 people were out for the first race.

The bubble may not have burst but it can't hold much more hot air. I am not pessimistic in regard to Florida but the big boom is over for a while anyway. There will be building for some time but the peak has been reached and things must right themselves again in regard to the big real estate speculations and will probably go on some staple values.

If one could live as he would up north it would be great, but to live in fine houses one must pay. I have a very nice room where I was living in Miami, good as one would want, but in a tourist camp down here it is different, to have to rough it, especially in cool weather. Many are leaving here daily disgusted with the whole system.

Police Busy With Fines

The police department takes anywhere from $30,000 to $35,000 a month in fines from tourists and all kinds of people. One time this fall if you left your car parked in a wrong place the cop would jump into it and drive it to the police station. Another would take out your cushion and take it down to the station. I remember I stood on the street one day and a fellow came to his Ford. Well, he said, someone has taken out my seat. I said I guess a cop took it, and you will have to go to the police station and pay a fine for parking. He said nothing doing, so he took one out of another Ford in back of him and drove off.

Everything goes here, if you can get away with it. I saw a girl the other day driving an auto with 1924 license places on it. Traffic is crazy as a cross word puzzle. When the signal tells you to go the police tell you to step on it. They are very cool and not very courteous. I have heard them swear many times at auto drivers without any reason. All in all, I had rather live in New York or any northern city. At times I like it, but at other times it is very disagreeable here. I think, though, inside of five years it will be a better place for business and to live in than at present.

New Business License Law

A new law went into effect October 1st., licensing everybody who enters any kind of business. It has more than paid for their yearly budget in six months' time. If you sell anything without a license you are liable to a fine of $150 and jail. One man who was hard up, was selling a book of poems he had composed. He was arrested and it cost him $100. Another poor chap who was down and out, was getting a little change from the crowd. He was also arrested and put in jail. They are not using the tourists any too good. If one goes into a big bank, unless he is a big man, he is not really wanted to do any business with them. If you have anything less than $1,000 balance you don't get any interest.

It's nothing but expense all the time here, if one wants to live like a human being.

Meets Norwich Men

Five young men were found sleeping on the porch of the Biscayn Yacht club recently, and were fined and jailed. One had $50 in his pocket and couldn't affort to pay $10 to $20 a night for a room. Tough to spend $50 to get here and have the grafters take the rest away. It is a peculiar thing here if you ask anyone a question no one seems to know anything. They always answer "I don't know." I met Jack Dempsey yesterday. He was in a real estate office. I often run into Jack Flynn, P. Hayes, Harry Shannon, Leslie Manchester and Mr. Hill, and his son, Mr. Johnson, Louis Bruette and a lot of Norwich boys.

We have had two or three real cold spells. One night as I was watching a K. K. K. parade I thought I would perish with the cold. It was in November during which month it rained 11 inches in as many hours and the people were going around in canoes in the flooded streets. The third cold snap lasted about a week. It was from Jan. 12 to 19th and I slept in all my clothes with blankets, overcoats and everything I could find piled on me. Of course I live out in a tourist camp in a cabin and it is only one of the warm weather type. They tell you its very unusual to have cold weather here but a man who has lived here 20 years told me they have these cold spells quite frequently. Well, I guess he was more than half right for two years it was very cold, too, but last winter the weather was beautiful every day. I think the climate changes here as quick as it does up home.

Feels the Cold

I recall one night this winter I was so cold and chilly I had to get up about 1 o'clock and heat some water and drank about a pint of hot whiskey to get my blood circulating. I went back to my bed and you can believe I didn't feel the cold any more that night. Oh, boy! On two successive mornings the moisture had frozen so hard on our windshields that we had to scrape it off with a knife. The cold is peculiar here and one feels it even more than up north. They say the reason is that your blood gets thin down here. But I never was so chilly before in my life. Since then it has been delightful, the temperature going as high as 86 degrees. Even at that, I think, it will be a fairly cool winter here as the wind seems to stay in the north a great deal. Generally it comes from the south or southeast and blowing from the Gulf stream it is warm.

Jails are Overflowing

Holdups here are very numerous occurring day and night and some developed into shooting affrays. Thievery goes on daily and the jails are full to overflowing. Last fall some of the prisoners tried to escape and five men were shot. Sheriff Chase has recently been tried for murder, but was set free. Only last week a negro escaped from the jail, ran down the streets onto the railroad track and up into the negro section. The cops chased him and fired at him all the way. There also seems to be much dissension among the officials. Only lately a Mr. Sewell, a long time resident of Miami and president of the Chamber of Commerce, resigned because of trouble with some of the business men and someone threatened his life. The postmaster I understand is about to step out and there has been trouble between the post office department and the police in regard to traffic of the mail wagons. He threatened to guard the U. S. mail wagons with U. S. troops. The postmaster is also having trouble and there seems to be a great deal of disagreement here among the business officials. Several proprietors were fined for short weight. This resulted from a campaign against short weight and all such tricks to take advantage of the tourists who come here to enjoy the winter months. Until all these things are done away with it will be a poor place to live in.

They are tearing down the two best buildings in the city, a hotel and the First Baptist church. The latter was put up so strong that I think that three contractors have gone broke on the job and now they have decided they won't build. They were to build a 24 story office building with the church combined, but they will sell the lot for it will cost too much. They have recently built a wooden tabernacle costing $12,000. There is some awful heavy blasting done right near here, blowing up stumps and subdividing. It fairly rocks the earth.

Grade Crossings Dangerous

Well, I guess I have told all about Miami, but there is a whole lot that could be told that would never be. Auto accidents occur here every day. A bad one happened up this side of Hadlindale last Friday. A Mr. Smith and wife and his mother and two others were involved in the accident. Mrs. Smith was killed instantly, Mr. Smith died in the hospital and the others are all very seriously injured. They stopped at a crossing on the Florida East Coast railroad to let a passenger train go by, but failed to see a freight train following directly in back of the passenger, and drove onto the track in front of this train. The crossings here are very poorly protected, having neither flagmen, bells nor gates, merely a warning sign on the right of the road. On the sign is a kind of a diagram of the road and railroad with epitaphs "Better to be living than dead." All the way from Jacksonville to Miami one can see autos on both sides of the highway, some turned turtle, some up in a tree, others over in the swamps. I saw the above accident and many others here. I have been in two myself, but very fortunately escaped serious injury.

Real Estate Rides.

If one wishes to take in the real estate rides here he can travel for miles for merely a song. There are certainly some great trips. I have of late taken in three or four. The first one was down to a place called Redland District, a sub-division put on by a syndicate and called Parvenir, situated at Homestead, a 75 mile ride in big auto busses. A free dinner went with the ride and this is what they gave us: Chicken soup, roast beef, sliced tomatoes, beans, celery, spinach, sweet potatoes, mashed white potatoes, cranberries, boiled onions, hot biscuit, pie, tea, coffee or iced tea. Another trip was to Key Largo, another sub-division. This time we went by boat, a sail of about 50 miles down toward Key West. They also gave us a lunch and big supper on the return trip. We arrived here at 11.30 p. m. The best trip so far was up to DeSota beach, another sub-division being put on 36 miles north of Titusville, a distance of 250 miles from Miami. We left Miami Friday morning at 10 o'clock in a beautiful bus, arriving at Titusville at 5.30 p. m. where we stopped at a swell hotel (The Dixie Hotel). Next morning we arose at 7 and at 8.30 they took us in the bus to DeSota beach, a very pretty place, and showed us around and then drove us back at 1.30 where they served a fine dinner. At 5 we started back for Miami but we put up at the Melbourne hotel for the night. Two nights in a hotel with one dinner free we arrived back at 2 p. m. Sunday, after a most wonderful trip. There are many other fine trips much longer than these. One can go away on a trip to the west coast at very little expense. At DeSota Mr. Studebaker, automobile manufacturer, is building a fine house. Miami bank clearings are gaining as I see that ending Feb. 6, 1926, they have gained 34 per cent. over last year.

Well, I have told all for now. I think after a few months or years Miami will be a big city and Florida a big growing state.

BERT LUCAS.

VETERAN EDITOR DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Charles E. Perkins, 61, managing editor of the Hartford Times, died at his home, 171 Barker street, Hartford, early Thursday.

Mr Perkins had suffered for six years or so from attacks of endocarditis. He suffered a serious illness in 1924 and 1925 which necessitated his absence from the Times office for about 10 months. Shortly before his last illness he seemed to be feeling unusually well and on Thanksgiving Day he and his family visited relatives and friends in Chester.

Upon their return to Hartford, Mr. Perkins developed a high fever, which continued intermittently until his death at 2 o'clock Thursday morning.

Mr. Perkins attended the South Congregational church of Hartford and was a member of the Baptist church of Chester. He is survived by his wife and a daughter, Dorothy L. Perkins.

He was born in Essex on Aug. 11, 1864, the son of James and Phoebe Dickinson Perkins. He had seven brothers and sisters, all of whom he survived. After attending the common schools of Essex and Hills academy, he went to work at the age of 13 for the Southworth Mfg. Co., makers of ivory goods. After three years with this company, he went to Chester in 1881 and for nearly eight years was employed by the Russell Jennings Mfg Co., makers of bits.

Following this, Mr. Perkins conducted a weekly newspaper and job printing plant in Chester for two years, and was then for about one year, up to the beginning of 1893, foreman of the Sound Breeze, a weekly newspaper published at Lyme. From Lyme Mr. Perkins went to Middletown where for 17 months he was a reporter and county editor of the Middletown Tribune.

On Sept. 1, 1894, Mr. Perkins went to work for Charles A. Kirkland, owner of the Deep River New Era, and was employed on that paper until Jan. 1, 1900. During his connection with the Deep River publication Mr. Perkins was active in the civic life of Chester. He was chairman of the Chester republican town committee from 1896 to 1898, and was secretary and treasurer of the Chester Agricultural and Mechanical society for several years. During these years he sang at the Baptist church in Deep River. On Jan. 19, 1898, he was married to Miss Emma Leet, daughter of Joseph H. Leet, of Chester.

On April 17, 1900, Mr. Perkins went to the Hartford Times as assistant editor and later became city editor and has been connected with it ever since except for the two years, 1903-05, when he returned to Middletown, as editor of the Middletown Tribune.

In June, 1918, Mr. Perkins was made assistant managing editor of the Hartford Times, and in 1919, news editor. He became managing editor in 1922, holding that post until his death.

He was the Associated Press correspondent for Hartford territory for nearly 30 years.

During his service with the Times, Mr. Perkins ably served that paper in many capacities. He was a sports writer and became sporting editor in 1906. He reported the activities of the house of representatives in the general assembly of 1909 and was a court reporter for some time.

Snow Buries Groton

Reports from the outskirts of the town of Groton, indicate that the farm sections were hardest hit by the heavy snowfall. Nearly all of the roads leading to remote portions of the town are filled with drifts that completely block automobile traffic.

Thursday morning a force of about 30 men and three automobile trucks with snowplow attachments, under the direction of the town highway department, began clearing town roads and highways. Another body of workers, from the borough water department, was at work clearing the snow from fire hydrants, many of which had been completely hidden by huge drifts.

C. L. OF C. CARD PARTY FILLS HOTEL BALL ROOM

An evening of cards, with whist, bridge and pinochle, conducted at the Wauregan hotel, Thursday evening, by Mercier assembly, No. 12, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, resulted in one of the record breaking card parties of the season. Approximately 100 tables were arranged in the ball room and there was scarcely room to squeeze another table in.

Those to receive the pretty prizes were the following: Whist—gentlemen, J. E. Carey, Edward Sullivan, J. H. Donohue; ladies—Mrs. E. J. Edwards, Miss Catherine Hanrahan, Mrs. Combies. Pinochle—gentlemen, M. Matasas, 5,560; J. Mara, 5,520; ladies, Mrs. Schelin, 5,580; Mrs. William Farrell, 5,430. Bridge—gentlemen, N. C. Disco, 3,421; A. H. Disco, 3,052; ladies—Mrs. N. C. Disco, 3,905; Mrs. T. J. Driscoll, 2,118.

Following the play, a short entertainment was given by Al Laubscher and Family, headliners at the Broadway theatre, comprising a quartette that included Mr. and Mrs. Laubscher, with their children, Buddy and Muriel, two juvenile stars in singing and dancing.

Dancing for which D'Atri's Wauregan hotel orchestra provided a popular programme, concluded the evening.

The arrangements for the evening were carried out with complete success by the committee of which Miss Margaret Daly as general chairman and the following committees assisting:

Ticket and advertising: Chairman, Ritta Sheehy, Lillian O'Brien, Irene Gallivan, May Gallivan, Maud Quinley, Anna Welch, Jennie McVeigh; hotel and music, chairman, Nora McCrohan, Agnes Bresnahan, Mary Bresnahan, Teresa Leonard, Dora Pelequin, Mae Murphy, Alice Driscoll, Mary Corcoran; prizes, chairman, Mrs. Madeline Sweeney, Anna Kelley, Mary Brennan, Rose Dennis, Helen Flynn, Loretta Lasch, Maizie Maloney; tables, chairs, cards, chairman, Mrs. Julia Sweney, Mrs. Nora Carney, Mrs. Margaret Desmond, Mrs. Katherine Wheeler, Mrs. Margaret McGarry, Mrs. Margaret Dutton, Mrs. Ella Bowne, Mrs. Mary McNerney; floor committee, chairman, Irene Gallivan; Maud Quinley, Jennie McVeigh, Etta Ward, May Gallivan; scorers, chairman, Marie Desmond, Loretta Gadle, Katherine Finnegan, Katherine Lasch, Katherine Redden, Elizabeth Sullivan, Frances Kelley, Jane Sullivan, Mary Weller, Loretta Lasch, Mary Mara, Mary Hamill, Mary Hanrahan, Mable McCarthy, Katherine Wagner, Elinora Ludwig; ticket sellers, Mrs. Margaret McGrory, Miss Frances Kinderker.

Appreciation for courtesies extended is due to Quinn & Desmond, Henrietta Shop, Willimantic, Joseph Farrell, P. F. Sweeney, Lee Clegg, Frank Leonard, Porteous & Mitchell, Boston Store, Morgan Cronin, John L. Corcoran, Wauregan Hotel, Madden's Cigar Store, Foresters, Richard Hourigan post, Cummings & Ring, Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, and Knights of Columbus.

CONN. SECRETARIES WANT CHANDLER TO STAY HERE

The secretaries of the various chambers of commerce in Connecticut, through the Connecticut Commercial Secretaries' association, sent to Ernest E. Rogers, treasurer of the state of Connecticut and president of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, the following letter:

"The Connecticut secretaries, at a meeting held last Friday, learned with great regret that there is a possibility that the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce will lose the services of George Chandler.

"A committee was appointed to convey to you and to the directors of the Connecticut chamber our hope that Mr. Chandler will remain in Connecticut. Every secretary of a chamber of commerce in the state is under deep obligation to Mr. Chandler for his assistance and encouragement and we should all feel a great sense of loss to have him leave us."

Mr. Rogers, on behalf of the directors of the state chamber, sent the following letter to J. F. Ferguson, secretary of the New Haven Chamber of Commerce, who was chairman of a special committee appointed to act for the Connecticut secretaries:

"The letter regarding the possibility of Mr. Chandler's leaving Connecticut which expresses the sentiments of the Connecticut secretaries through their special committee of Mr. Warnick, Mr. Crane and yourself, means a great deal to me as president of the state chamber, and I know it will mean even more to Mr. Chandler himself.

"I know it has been Mr. Chandler's aim at all times to help every local chamber in every way in which he could. That his efforts have proved of practical assistance to various of the secretaries is a reward in itself.

HOFF BETTERS WORLD'S POLE VAULT RECORD IN EXHIBITION JUMP

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—Charley Hoff's performance in bettering his world record for the pole vault by half an inch and a three yard conquest of Vic Lally of New York, over the former Penn state flash, Allan Helffrich, in a 500-yard run featured the Crescent A. C. games in Brooklyn tonight.

Hoff, who has twice broken the indoor vault record since coming here from Norway, a few weeks ago, scaled 13 feet, 2 inches, with ease on his first attempt but the record will not stand as it was not made in competition.

Lally scored his victory over Helffrich in 59 3-5 seconds, rounding his most dangerous opponent on the first lap to lead to the end. Adrian Paulen, Holland's star, was expected to show in this event, but failed to appear.

Willie Ritola, of the Finnish American A. C., New York, won the two-mile race first feature event of the Crescent A. C. meet in Brooklyn tonight, in 9 minutes 17 seconds.

Jimmy Loucks, of Syracuse, finished a half lap behind Ritola after sprinting past Verne Booth of the Millrose A. A., New York, in the final lap.

Loren Murchison, king of the indoor dash men, was unable to appear as he suffered a strained tendon in his right leg at the Newark A. C. meet last night, he probably is out of competition for several days.

S. D. P. Blunt, of New York university, with a 45-yard handicap, defeated the former Georgetown star, Jimmy Connolly in a 1,000 yard event, Connolly starting ten yards behind scratch. A. Silverstein, of the Glencoe A. C. was third. Brunt's time was 2.20 1-5.

Georgetown university's relay team of McLean, Ascher, Swinburne and Burgess defeated Syracuse at a mile in 3 minutes, 25 2-5 seconds.

Dehart Hubbard, negro flash from Cincinnati, sped to victory in the 75-yard dash first of the spring series. His time was 8 seconds. Henry H. Cummings, of the University of Virginia was two yards behind for second place and Cyril Cosffee, Canadian, third.

Couffee gain the honors in the 90-yard sprint in 9 1-5 seconds, with Hubbard a yard behind and Cummings third.

Bill McKillop of Boston college produced a final sprint in the half mile which gave him victory over George Marster of Georgetown in 1 minute, 59 3-5 seconds, Marster was only a yard behind, with Walter Gegan of Georgetown third.

Willie Plant, American champion, outwalked a field of seven in a two-mile event, Harry Hinkel of the New York A. C. taking second place more than half a lap behind. The time was 13.54 2-5.

Vincent Lally, of New York registered a surprise when he defeated Alan Helffrich, former Penn state star, in the 500-yard run. Johnny Holden, formerly of Georgetown, finished third. Adrian Paulen of Holland was on the program for this event but did not appear.

MORE WORLD'S RECORDS BROKEN AT ST. AUGUSTINE

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 11—(AP)—Three world records were broken, Ethel Lackie, Chicago, national 100 yard free style champion, retained her title and the Women's Swimming association of New York, swam to the national 400 yard crown in the third days' events of the national women's A. A. U. swimming contests here tonight.

Sybil Bauer, Chicago, broke her own world's record when she negotiated the 500 metre back stroke against time in four minutes, 53 2-2 seconds. Her old mark was four minutes 59 3-5 seconds.

Not allowed their new world records set last Tuesday because of the defects of the turning boards, Agnes Geraghty and Martha Norelius, both of New York, tried again in special events and reset their laurels. Miss Geraghty made the 300 yard breast stroke in 4 minutes 59 seconds and Miss Norelius in a special 250 yard free style event was clocked in 3 minutes 12 seconds.

Two world records established earlier in the week were disallowed today by A. A. U. officials when it was found that on the swelling of the bulkheads used as turning boards, the pool was found to measure three inches short. The marks thrown out were in the 200-yard breast stroke, which Agnes Geraghty of New York was credited with world's record time of 3 minutes 53 4-5 seconds and 250-yard swim in which Martha Norelius was clocked in 3 minutes 9 4-5 seconds.

To give another chance to break records, special events at the same distance were added to tonight's program and both girls succeeded in beating the world's records. In the 200-yard breast stroke, Miss Geraghty did it in 3 minutes, 59 seconds. The former world record was 3 minutes 2 1-5 seconds held by Irene Gilbert, of England. The world record in the 250-yard event was Gertrude Ederle's mark of 3:14 3-5.

YALE SWIMMING TEAM EASILY BEATS CITY COLLEGE

200-yard relay—won by Yale (Sullivan, Stage, Meany, Bunnell). Time 1:43 3-5.

HOUBEN SAYS HE WILL COME BACK IN MAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—Announcing he would return to this country next May with intentions of competing for national outdoor titles, Hubert Houben, German sprint star, sailed for home today expressing confidence that he would outrun America's fleeting dash men on the cinder track.

Although disappointed over his inability to win any of his three starts, Houben, the first prominent German athlete to appear in this country since the war, said he had been "royally received by Americans" and was pleased that wartime feeling had been submerged in a generous welcome to him at each of his appearances on the track.

"I am coming back to prove to America that I am a better man than I appeared this winter," Houben declared. "I am confident I can beat Murchison and Hussey in outdoor races."

Houben explained that he was unaccustomed to the short indoor sprints on the boards. He likes 100 yards as his best distance, he says, and will direct his efforts toward annexing the national crown at that distance upon his return here.

ENGLISH LACROSSE TEAM TO INVADE AMERICA

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 11—(AP)—The combined Oxford-Cambridge lacrosse team, expected in the United States on March 30, will play the Yale team here on April 21, according to the Yale Lacrosse association's announcement tonight of the schedule of the 18 games the British team expects to play in this country.

The schedule follows: April 1, St. Stephen's at Poughkeepsie; 3, Maryland at Washington; 6, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; 8, Swarthmore at Swarthmore; 10, Johns Hopkins at Baltimore; 12, Mount Washington at Baltimore; 14, Harvard at Cambridge; 16, Union at Schenectady; 17, Syracuse at Syracuse; 19, Hobart at Geneva; 21, Yale at New Haven; 22, Princeton at Princeton; 24, Crescents at New York; 27, Stevens at Hoboken. Two games are still on the pending list.

College Water Polo

At New Haven: Yale 41; C. C. N. Y., 13.

SILVER SONG WINS THIRD MIAMI EVENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—Silver Song of the Princess Anne stable became a three-timer winner at the Miami track today by capturing the Deland, with Bookbinder second and Dedans third. The time for the six furlongs was 1:13 4-5.

Willis Sharpe Kilmer, announced at Miami that he would dispose of his entire stable in training with the exception of some young fillies, because of the ill health of Frank Bay, trainer.

Cherokee Lee took the Panzareta handicap of one mile at New Orleans in 1:40 4-5, with Bargain Day second and Morning Cloud third. In the fifth, at mile and 70 yards, Baggenbaggage made a show of his field to win in 1:45 2-5, ahead of Eric and Prickly Heat.

Miss Lester equalled the track record at Tia Juana when she took the four and a half furlong sprints in 1:53 1-5, leading Buck Pond, joint holder of the record, by a nose. It was Miss Lester's fifth victory in six starts. Carlaris, a three-year-old, won the six furlong handicap feature. He paid $13.40 for $2. Runastay, the favorite, finished fourth. The track was uncertain, and it rained after the seventh race.

SCHOOL BOY ATHLETIC MEET AT "Y" THIS MONTH

Local school boy athletes are looking forward to a real tussle when their annual indoor athletic meet comes off in the "Y" gymnasium the twenty-third of this month. Considerable friendly rivalry is said to exist between the school teams and judging from the strenuous and exciting competition shown in the previous meets it is quite evident that this season's winning team will have no easy sailing to carry off the honors.

The events will be as follows:

Standing broad jump, obstacle relay race, basketball relay race, baseball target throw, potato race, girls' Indian club relay race, girls' rope skip for time—35 skips.

To further encourage the lads in their wholesome sports, the Norwich Evening Record has offered a beautiful trophy cup to be presented to the winning team, and suitable awards will also go to the individual winners of the various events.

This will be the sixth season that the indoor meets have taken place under an athletic committee consisting of School Principals Frank Clapp, J. B. Stanton, J. E. Murphy and E. J. Fritz, of the Y. M. C. A.

YOUNG COULON LEAVES TOWN FOR A YEAR

There is some mystery regarding what Al Beauregard (Young Coulon) is to do for the next year according to the message received Wednesday by his brothers Romain and Armand. Young Coulon telegraphed from New York that he would not return home for at least a year as he had signed up for that length of time.

Just what he meant in the telegram is not known but his family is of the opinion that he may have enlisted in the army. Coulon, since the cancellation of the bout with Dark Cloud Bradley scheduled for New London last week, has been very much disgusted with the way things were conducted in that bout and in the fight game in general and had expressed an opinion that he would like to join the army where he would be sure of some action.

Word is expected from Young Coulon daily with a more complete statement as to what he intends to do.

HUFFMAN TO FIGHT SHARKEY AT GARDEN TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—Eddie Huffman, rising young Californian light-heavyweight, will step into the ranks of the heavyweights at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night when he faces Jack Sharkey of Boston in the 10-round feature match.

Huffman is ambitious to work his way into a position where he can demand a battle with Paul Berlenbach for the 175-pound title. If he is successful against Sharkey, Jess McMahon, matchmaker at the Garden, says he will be offered matches with Mike McTigue and Jack Delaney to prove his eligibility for a title match with Berlenbach.

The 10-round semi-final bout brings Joe Dundee, Baltimore welterweight, against Jimmy Jones of Youngstown, O., while the opening 10-round match will see Ray Neuman, Jersey City heavyweight, fighting Jack De Mave of New York.

GREB AGREES TO MEET TUNNEY IN FLORIDA

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 11—(AP)—Harry Greb, world's boxing champion in the middleweight class, announced today that he had agreed to meet Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion at Miami, Fla., the latter part of March. He said $25,000 was deposited in a bank there to guarantee his appearance.

Greb will fight a 10-round bout here tomorrow night with Owen Phelps middleweight champion of Arizona. The championship will not be involved, as Phelps will come in the ring overweight.

Mason Retains Title

LONDON, Feb. 11—(AP)—Harry Mason of Leeds, lightweight champion pugilist of Europe, retained his title tonight by defeating Ernie Rice. Rice was disqualified in the fifth round for low hitting.

Pool Challenge

A Westerly pool team of five players issues its challenge to any similar team in Norwich, Willimantic, Putnam, Danielson and the surrounding towns of New London and Windham counties for a match game to be played there or in Pawcatuck.

ALL IS SERENE AT CANNES BUT THE WEATHER CONDITIONS HOLD UP PLAY

CANNES, France, Feb. 11—(AP)—The atmosphere of the Riviera, which has been troubled for the past three days by the possibility that the long looked for Wills-Lenglen tennis match would not take place after all, has become settled, and with both Suzanne and Helen committed to playing through the tournament, there would seem to be no further hitch to prevent the meeting.

The Riviera sun, however, is still sulking after three days of steady rain, and even should the deluge end tonight the courts would not be ready for play before tomorrow afternoon. It is hardly likely that the meeting between the French and American champions can take place before Monday next, or perhaps Tuesday.

There is a possibility that the exclusive picture rights may be cancelled and that all camera men may be allowed to take pictures of the finals. Both Mlle Lenglen and Miss Wills have protested against the publicity caused by selling the rights, and the adverse comments appearing in the French press have led Thomas Burke, lessee of the Carlton Courts, who negotiated the moving picture deal, to think seriously of reconsidering his decision.

The arrival at Cannes today of the American who was reported to have purchased the exclusive privilege, and his failure to produce the amount agreed upon is said also to have exercised influence upon Mr. Burke's hesitation to go through with the arrangements. No contract has yet been signed, the agreement being only verbal thus far.

In the meantime George W. Hilliard, former secretary of the Wimbledon association, has been selected as umpire, and eleven linesmen, none of them Americans or French, have also been chosen.

There remain 156 matches to play in the open events, while all handicaps have been cancelled owing to the delay necessitated by the rain.

The referee, Georges Simond, says he will hurry the women's singles along with all possible speed so as to have the finals Monday. Tentatively the hour of the great match is fixed for Monday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, or Tuesday at 11 in the morning.

Three days absence from the courts is a much greater handicap to Helen than to Suzanne. The American girl needs all the practice she can get while the French woman, playing all winter, rather wants rest, which she has been getting.

Miss Wills this evening seemed less perturbed than she had been during the filming controversy. She did some painting today from a hotel window overlooking the rain soaked palm trees and the foggy Mediterranean.

NEW YORK FERNWOODS AT PLAINFIELD THIS EVENING

What no doubt will be the best basketball attraction in eastern Connecticut in a number of years will take place at the Plainfield Community House this (Friday) evening when the nationally known Fernwood team of New York will clash with the Plainfield Town team. The Fernwood club is undoubtedly one of the best teams that has ever appeared on the Plainfield floor and is a team with a remarkable reputation throughout New England and New York.

The Fernwoods have defeated such teams in New England as the 1924 Westerly team which was made up largely of the Boston Whirlwind players, the Haverhill Pros, one of the leading teams of New England, the Brockton Y. M. H. A. five and many other fast clubs. In a recent game with the Original Celtics the Fernwoods came within an ace of running the world's champions. Included in the lineup of the New York team will be McAuley and Kaiser, forwards, Lassman, center, Edgert and Delaney, guards. Mgr. Salisbury received a telegram Thursday from the Fernwood manager stating that the team would be in Plainfield on the afternoon train and would be ready to take the floor at 8:30 sharp.

Plainfield will use the regular lineup of Normandin and Cheseaver, forwards, Norin, center, Benson and Madden, guards. There will be a fast preliminary game.

BRAUMAN LEADS IN FREE-THROW COMPETITION

Much interest is being manifested by local basketball players in the national free throw tournament, the local competition of which is now being held in the "Y" gymnasium, and which will continue through this and part of next week. Many entries are being received and some good scores are being made.

Alec Brauman captured the lead in individual scores yesterday by tossing 45 baskets out of his 75 trials, thus passing Aubrey Brown, who had been leading with a total of 43 baskets. Third position is being held by Arthur Armstrong with 40 counters to his credit.

The intermediate division which includes boys 15-18, is headed by Robert Burke, who located the basket 29 times out of his 60 opportunities. Ledile Pitt is second man with 26, followed by P Ferra and Frank De-Atri who are tied with 25 points.

Junior division top notchers are Cecil Menschel, Ernest Stevens and Anthony Gomiembiski, who made 18, 12 and 13 baskets out of 40 trials.

Team honors are now in possession of the C. F. C.'s which totalled a score of 126 points.

The contest is still open to all players and teams in this vicinity and they may enter without cost by applying at the "Y" and arranging for a convenient time to take their trials. The scores now being made will count in the national competition and suitable awards will be presented to the winners of the local championships.

TENNIS STARS FIND LITTLE TROUBLE IN EARLY PLAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—Completion of the draw for the National indoor Tennis championship next week at the Seventh Regiment armory today developed little opposition to early triumphs by French and American stars.

William T. Tilden, national outdoor champion, and Jean Borotra of France, winner of the 1925 indoor crown, are seeded in the lower half. Players whose names have appeared frequently in tournament competition will oppose them, Tilden having drawn M. Gossett of the Harlem Tennis club, New York, and Borotra being called upon to meet M. Goldman of the Sunningdale club.

Vincent Richards, No. 5 on national ranking, and Rene Lacoste of France are seeded in the upper half, with New York players as opponents. Richards in the first round will face Everett Smith while Lacoste will meet William Kinsman.

Three other players have been seeded, Francis T. Hunter, a former indoor champion, in the lower half faces A. L. Von Bernuth, former Columbia star, in what is looked upon as the outstanding first round match. Jacques Brugnon, third member of the French team, will play A. L. Bruneau of New York in the same half.

Fred Anderson, runner-up to Borotra for the title last year, has been seeded with Richards in the upper half. His opponent will be Merritt Outler of New York.

Other first round matches are: Fred Mercur vs. Allen Behr, Julius Seligson, vs. Fred Damreau, H. L. Bowman vs. Winthrop Lens, Dr. William Rosenbaum vs. M. T. Scheriand, Reginald Talmadge vs. R. Oshman, Louis B. Dalley, Jr., vs. F. J. Lagros, Gerald E. Emerson vs. H. C Brunie, Stephen V. Brubane vs Francis Bonneau.

Play will begin at noon, Monday.

JOCKEY CLUB OFFICIALS ARE APPOINTED FOR 1926

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—At a meeting of the stewards of the jockey club today the following officials were appointed for the year 1926.

Mars Cassidy, starter; W. S. Vosburg, handicapper; E. C. Smith and C. Cornehlsen, placing judges; Albert Burlon, clerk of the scales; Nelson Strang, assistant to the clerk of the scales; James McLaughlin, paddock and patrol judge; Goodloe McDowell and Harold Vosburg, patrol judges; E. C. Potter, assistant to the stewards at the starter; John Miller, timer.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

The last invasion of an Oxford-Cambridge lacrosse team was in 1922, when the Englishmen succeeded in lifting the cup offered by the Intercollegiate Lacrosse association. In the series of games that year, the visitors won 3 and lost 7. The cup, however, was awarded on the basis of goals scored and yielded. The Britishers scored 76 points to their opponents 66.

In 1923, the Syracuse university team went to England and brought the cup back, winning 6 and losing 3 games.

Chicago has replied to Little old New York" and its mammoth new Madison Square Garden with the announcement of plans for an indoor arena for sport events that will be bigger, busier and better than anything the eastern metropolis can boast. Eight million perfectly good dollars are to be spent in building the Chicago amphitheatre. It will have a seating capacity of close to 40,000, capable of expansion as the occasion demands, and its arena will be of sufficient area and height to accommodate football games as well as hockey, horse shows, track and field meets, six-day bicycle races, polo and other competitions.

SLEIGHS AND HORSES ARE BREAKING TRAILS

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—People of the northeastern United States, accustomed to mot ortravel, tonight heard the old fashioned jungle of sleighbells as dobbin was called forth to break trails where motors would not go.

Twenty-four hours after the passing of the second severe snow storm within a week to sweep the region, most highways were impassable to motors and all but the principal streets in cities and towns were likewise blocked. The two storm s left a one blanket two feet deep on level ground and many frozen drifts six to twelve feet deep.

Along Fifth avenue the mecca for expensive motor cars, traffic drew aside today as four sleighs loaded with girls from a Broadway musical show bobbed along to the melody of sleigh bells.

Dobbin, however, was missing from the scene, as the sleighs were drawn by a motor car in which was stationed a motion picture camera. But the procession of waving tam o'shanters and gauntleted arms attracted more attention than would horse-drawn sleighs.

In smaller cities and country districts horse-drawn sleighs had temporarily displaced automobiles and trucks as possessor of the roads.

The progress everywhere toward a resumption of normal activities was slow. The weather was clear, but below freezing temperatures greatly handicapped the thousands of shovel gangs which sought to clear the streets and highways.

Railroads had returned almost to schedules, but surface cars in many suburbans and outlying districts were entirely isolated, except for rail connections.

The weather bureau predicted clear, cold weather for tomorrow, with rising temperatures late in the day.

The death list as a result of the storm stood tonight at 17, and the number of accidents was mand times greater. The property damage had not been estimated, but the cost of clearing streets and roads already had run into millions of dollars.

FEAR THAT SEA WALL WILL BE WASHED AWAY

WINTHROP, Mass., Feb. 11—(AP)—Fears were entertained today for the safety of the Winthrop sea wall. Driven by the gale that brought yesterday's blizzar an augmented tide has for two days swept over portions of the wall to the Winthrop shore drive, flooding streets and cellars. Some 350 feet of the driveway and sidewalk between Sturgis and Tewksbury streets in the Winthrop Beach section has been washed away. Residents are worried over the effect continued high tides and heavy surf may have on the wall.

FILM CORPORATIONS RESENT ACTION OF FRENCH COMMITTEE

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—Four American news reel corporations today protested to the United States Lawn association against the exclusion of their photographers from the prospective tennis match between Helen Wills, American champion, and Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, European titleholder, at Cannes, France.

Urging that their arguments be placed before the French Tennis Federation, the exhibitors declared that they would refuse to purchase the films from private concessionaries, a step which would prevent their showing in America.

The concerns signing the following protest were Kinograms, Fox, International and Pathe:

"The undersigned, exhibiting news events in every motion picture theatre in America, wish through the United States Lawn Tennis association to protest vigorously at the exclusion of our representatives from the Lenglen-Wills match. Such discrimination is a violation of the rights of news organizations to cover events of universal interest.

"Moreover, showing through our products is the only possible method for millions of Americans to see the pictures, as films taken by private concessionaries positively will not be purchased by any of the undersigned. We respectfully urge the transmission of our protest to the French association."

BASEBALL PLAYERS ARE GATHERING AT HOT SPRINGS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Stanley Coveleskie, "Bullet" Joe Bush, pitchers, and Johnny Tobin, outfielder, today joined Sam Rice, and Goose Goslin outfielders of the Washington American for preliminary spring training. Coveleskie said he anticipated another successful season in 1926. Bush and Tobin were obtained by the Senators in a deal with St. Louis. Coveleskie stated he was reporting this season weighing less than at any spring training camp since entering the big leagues.

Rice and Goslin have been here for about a week. They play golf each day and both are entered in the finals for the president's cup being played over the local course.

Carl Mays, of the Cincinnati Reds, also is here for preliminary work.

Saturday, four pitchers from the Detroit Americans are expected and on Sunday fifteen members of the Cleveland Indians will reach Hot Springs. Early in March, the Indianapolis and Milwaukee teams will be here for three weeks of hard training with several exhibition games scheduled between these clubs.

BURRITT WINS LAWN BOWLING CHAMPIONSHIP

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Dr. C H Burritt, of Mitchell, Ontario, is the champion lawn bowler of the United States. He won his title in the final match of the first open national lawn bowling tournament by defeating A. C. Terrell, of Grand Rapids, Michigan 23 to 5.

There were 64 starters in the singles event, including the best bowlers in the United States and Canada.

WOMAN BECAME HYSTERICAL DURING TRIAL IN COURT

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 11—(AP)—Losing control of her emotions in superior court this afternoon, Mildred Brown Sweeney, formerly of Shelton and now resident in New Haven, shouted distraughtly at an attorney immersed in an argument before Judge Isaac Wells.

The deputy sheriff assisted the hysterical woman from the court room, but two small children running screaming in their wake.

Mrs. Sweeney brought an action for divorce against Edward F. Sweeney, a mechanical engineer, who modestly stated he was sparring partner at various times for some of the best pugilists in the country.

Judge Wolfe reserved decision on the divorce petition.

GOLF LINKS ROMANCE RESULTS IN WEDDING

TORONTO, Ontario, Feb. 11—(AP)—The wedding of Miss Agnes Lewis and Jesse Sweetser, former amateur golf champion of America, which will take place in New York tomorrow, was not contemplated two weeks ago, the young lady's father, Adam E. Lewis, said before leaving this afternoon to attend the wedding.

The romance had its inception on the links, for the golf star met his bride-to-be at the Lambton Golf club here.

MARKETS TO OBSERVE LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—Lincoln's birthday will be observed in the financial district tomorrow by the New York Stock Exchange and also other securities and commodities markets. All will resume business for the usual half Saturday session, except the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, which has taken a three day recess until Monday. The banks will be closed tomorrow as it is a legal holiday.

LINCOLN DAY STATEMENT BY WAYNE B. WHEELER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—(AP)—Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America in a Lincoln's birthday statement tonight again attacked the reported presidential aspirations of Governor Smith of New York and Governor Ritchie of Maryland.

"Oath bound officials and legislators in slacker states like Maryland and New York," he said, "cannot blot out the Lincoln challenge—'If you withhold the laws necessary to enforce the constitution do you not commit perjury?' These words eliminate the governors of these states as presidential possibilities. Their states' rights plea for national wrongs was answered by Lincoln forever in his debates with Douglas."

ELECTRICIANS CAUSED BURGLAR ALARM TO SOUND

BOSTON, Feb. 11—(AP)—Nine state detectives rushed through the state house corridors toward the state treasurer's office today, for the burglar alarm had sounded. They burst into the room prepared to battle with bandits, but met the inquiring gaze of two electricians. The experts had been making repairs.

BILL TO CREATE $200,000,000 AGRICULTURAL CORPORATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—(AP)—Creation of an agricultural corporation with a capital stock of $200,000,000 subscribed by the federal government and designed to balance production of all basic farm commodities, was proposed in a bill today by Representative McLaughlin, republican, Nebraska.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

General Pershing returned to Washington.

A senate vote tomorrow on the tax bill is forecast.

The White radio regulation bill was reported to the house.

The house approved an army of 118,583 men, and 11,749 officers.

The shipping board rejected the Dollar bid for the Admiral-Oriental Line ships.

Washington officials evidenced a hope for resumption of the anthracite negotiations.

The shipping board was charged with unfair tactics in selling ships to Henry Ford.

Charles R. Forbes, former Veterans' Bureau director, appealed his case to the supreme court.

Another investigation of the Aluminum Company of America was recommended in a senate judiciary committee report.

Name out the lowliest mother's humblest home,
With less than measure poverty's most scorn;
No schooling worth the name, yet, maybe worse;
Could any good from such small seemings come?
Ah, yes; then our history's greatest name!
Broken the scale—shines forth his noble soul.
Spurning a life which saved the nation whole,
And crowned its structure like a glistening dome.
Guidemer of millions! Who thy secret shares?
Bearer of burdens! Whence thy mystic power?
Redemptive manhood! Tell us now thy name!
My secret waits for him who nobly dares:
"My strength is shared by him who meets the hour.
Bearing a nation's cross, I fell on fame.
—Clarence M. Gallup in Providence Bulletin.

After the Snow Storm

Earth, you shelter whiteness in your heart;
Trees, you hold a wonder on each bough;
Earth, you seem a fairy-world apart—
Never were you beautiful as now!

Every twig with pure white glory hung,
Every weed-stalk crystal-mantelled o'er;
Earth such dreams before my eyes you've flung
You do not seem the same world as before!
—Agnes Choate Wonson in Boston Transcript.

Work

Ah! blessedness of work! the aimless mind,
Left to pursue at will its fancies wild,
Returns at length, like some play-wearied child,
Unto its labor's knee, and leaves behind
Its little games and learns to soothe its blind
Wide belongings in the sweet tranquility
Of limited tasks, whose mild successions wind
In peaceless mazes unto the distant sea;
For blank infinity is cold as ice,
And drear the void of space unsown with stars.
And dolorous the barren line of shore;
Therefore it was with lover-like device
This lower world was built, through whose dark bars
The limitless sun of Truth shines more and more.

Visitor—Fog be hanged! I was lost before it started.—Punch, London.

"Thass one thing I can't understand."

"Whass that?"

"Why a public official will praise a subordinate so highly while kicking him out."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"What did you put in this prescription?"

"That I can tell only to the doctor," said the druggist.

"The doctor wants to know. Seems I gave you a Chinese laundry ticket and you filled that."—Peabody Star.

The waiter was exceedingly slow and the diner began to bet annoyed.

"Look here, waiter," he said at last. "Bring me some coffee, and while you're away don't forget to drop me a line occasionally, just to let me know how you're getting on!"—The Progressive Grocer.

"A man I know, in a hurry to get rid of some of his home brew, poured it into the goldfish globe. And on his return, he discovered that the fish had eaten their way out of the globe, had killed the cat, overturned the kitchen stove and were putting the finishing touches to the family bulldog."—West Pointed Pointer.

FARMING AND GOVERNMENT

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

Some days ago an Illinois congressman took up an hour's time of the house of representatives telling a pitiful story about the woes of one of his farmer constituents.

In brief, the story boiled down to this: The farmer in question, during the soaring boom of farm-land prices, three years ago, thought he saw a chance to get rich quick by speculating in land. Prices were sky-hooting and it seemed to him that all he had to do was to buy "an eighty" for $20,000 on Monday, borrow the money to pay for it, and sell it for $25,000 on Saturday. It was a bootiful pipe-dream. And it ended in smoke and ashes, as too many pipe-dreams are apt to. Instead of continuing to go up forever and ever and ever, as he seems to have assumed it would, land value began to drop off. It has dropped off till he can't sell his for half what it cost him. And now he is in danger of foreclosure, because he can't keep up the interest on the mortgage he gave.

He is bankrupt, discouraged, hopeless. He faces the loss not only of the land he bought as a speculation on borrowed money, but also the loss of his original farm which he mortgaged as security for the loan. And he wants government to "do suthin'" about it and for him.

The Illinois congressman who, like too many others of his breed cares more about conciliating voters than he does about constructive statesmanship, was very sympathetic over this farmer's failure and evidently agreed with him that 'congress ought to "do suthin'". Anyway, he carefully refrained from suggesting that the farmer in question had made his own bed, and would have to lie in it.

Now you and I, though we are "hayseeds" and "country rubes" and various other things, are in one respect at least like Shakespeare's Hamlet: we can tell a hawk from a handsaw when the wind is southerly. Here was a farmer whose greed outran his gumption. He "bit off more'n he could chaw." He undertook to carry more sail than his ballast warranted. He attempted to do business on a shoe string,—and borrowed the string. And now he's all snarled up.

Whose fault was it? Or whose misfortune, if you prefer the softer word?

It has happened a great many times in the past and will happen a great many times in the future that even the canniest speculators, versed in the very innermost secrets of the stock market, have met disaster in their attempts to discount the future. We don't any of us know quite as much today as we shall next week about such things as what the weather will be, or how the cat will jump, or which way the market will move.

When an ordinary farmer quits following the plow and starts flying speculative balloons he takes his chances. If he has common sense, he knows from the outset that those chances are "agin" him. In all gambling, it is the few who win, the many who lose. The farmer who bets his farm that the dice will turn up a six-spot, knows that there are five chances to one it will show some other face. If it does, and he loses, let him take his loss like a man, and not boo-hoo like a slapped baby.

The farmer's business is production. He doesn't, as a rule, get very good prices for what he produces. Neither does any other producer in any other field. The world pays more for frills than it does for fodder,—always has and probably always will. It gives more for diamonds than it does for eggs though, size for size and weight for weight, the egg is intrinsically and potentially much the more valuable. If one is not too hungry he can make a breakfast off the egg; he would gain small nutriment from the diamond, no matter how long he cooked it. But the world, being mostly inhabited by frill-lovers and fad-hunters, pays more for the diamond.

When the farmer abandons egg or potato production in order to "take a flier" in real estate gambling, he is really betting about ten to one on a horse he's picked as favorite against the whole field. When the professional horsejockey does this, he pays his loss without a whimper. There's no reason why the other fellow should snivel.

The other day, I was enabled to give you a bit of light on the Iowa farm situation from an Iowa business man who knows his state. By another chance I am permitted, this morning, to tell you the story of two farmers of that same state. From the reading I think you'll be able to see why one is in despair while the other is "sitting pretty."

Last winter Farmer A had 5,000 bushels of corn and 40 head of "as fine polled angus steers as you could wish to see." He had an offer of $1.14 a bushel for his corn. But he wouldn't take it. He was "holding" for $1.50. So he sold his 40 steers for $60 a head to Farmer B. This latter, Farmer B, didn't try to sell his corn. He fed it to those steers and to his own hogs and later sold it in the form of beef and pork, for $1.95. He reported that he was well satisfied 'not only with the profit he made on the steers and the corn he fed into them, but also with the grand lot of manure he was able to put back on the land.

In the meantime Farmer A, who had "held" his corn for $1.50, sold it for 62 cents, the best he could get when the bottom fell out of the market. He got $2,000 for his 40 steers and he lost $2,400 on his corn. He was at least $600 to the bad, however you figure it. The other man, Farmer B, was more than $3,000 to the good, though of course not all that was clear profit.

Right there you have, in plain illustration, the difference between successful and unsuccessful farming. It is the difference between a dogged, persistent, slow but sure following of productive effort, and an erratic chasing of side issues which gleam and bob about over the swamp. Farmer B chose the course of small but fairly sure profit. Farmer A wanted something more; he wanted to get rich quick from one harvest. Like Macbeth, he had a "vaulting ambition," and like Macbeth's, that ambition o'erleaped itself and fell flat.

'David Harum," in the biography of that title, remarked that he had found in trading horses, that it was wise to "let the other fellow a chance to make a leetle suthin', and not try to nor it all for himself. One can't blame the farmer, of all men, for wanting the biggest price obtainable for his produce, knowing that even the highest price the market quotes is comparatively inadequate. By that I mean inadequate as compared with prices ruling in other industries. But in this workaday world it isn't the price he ought to get which governs, but the price he can get. And he is just as foolish when he refuses a good sale in the hope of a better as the boy who let go the bird he had in hand reaching for the bigger one in the bush.

He is most foolish of all when he abandons the true work of his vocation to take up gambling in either the grain market, the stock market, the real estate market, or the more innocent and fairer game of draw poker. He is or ought to be an expert in matters of production. In all those other games he's just a dub, at the mercy of more experienced and better trained sharps.

It appears to be true, as true in the boo-hooing west as in the grouchy and grumbling east, that success at farming depends nine times in ten upon whether the farmer earns and deserves success. If he uses the best brains he has and works faithfully and plans shrewdly and uses thrift he will make a live of it. Judged by money receipts he can very rarely attain what the Shylocks of finance and commerce consider wealth. But money is not the only or the true criterion of success. There are a great many things that are worth a great deal more than money, and which money can't buy.

Of course, the farmer is liable, with the rest of humanity, to accident. He is also liable, with the rest of humanity, to make perfectly honest mistakes. Either accident or mistake may prove disastrous. Such cases call for neighborly help and forbearance. But not even they excuse a demand for government charity or congressional molly-coddling. It is constantly growing more apparent that most of the demand for government aid, of whatever sort, comes from farmers who have brought their own troubles upon themselves, either by thriftlessness or by sheer ignorance or by over-covetousness for easy money and quick gains. For such the real "dirt farmer" can have little sympathy.

God knows and so do all the farmers of the land that there is something rotten in the very heart of a society which scatters millions for newgaws but grudges pennies to the producers of real values. An intelligent and honorable civilization would exactly reverse that procedure. But government can't change or greatly modify human nature.

I never yet have met a real farmer who wanted government coddling in any shape or form. Frankly, I don't believe there is any such animal. The unsuccessful farmers who want government to pick 'em up and carry 'em over all the hard places are usually of a sort which would fail in any other vocation.

Our troubles, as farmers, are real enough and serious enough, in all conscience. But they're troubles which are beyond the jurisdiction of congresses or legislatures.

Congress couldn't have compelled that Farmer A of whom I've told to sell his corn at $1.14 and save $2,600. Nor was governmental action necessary to lead Farmer B to buy those steers and make a nice profit off them. The difference was in the men themselves. Not all the king's horses nor all the king's men nor congressional enactments nor constitutional provisions could have made the one wise or the other foolish. The failure of one and the profit of the other were due to their different characters and their different capacities.

And, even if government could insure the fool as big a profit from his folly as the wiser man from his wisdom—which it canNOT,—who wants it to?

Has not the prudent and forseeing man the inherent right to reap the rewards of prudence and foresight? Ought not those rewards always and inevitably to be greater than the rewards of folly and greed?

The only purpose of government is to assure the greatest good to the greatest number. Now, the greatest number are hardly fools or greedy-guts. Not among farmers, anyway.

Why should the great majority be ignored for the sake of coddling a backward minority?

After Sickness Get Strong Quick

New Pleasant Way to Take Cod Liver Oil—Puts On Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But nobody wants to take the fish-smelling, horrible tasting, stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness and especially after the Grippe or a stubborn cough or cold.

Ask Lee & Osgood or any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that this men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist is authorized to return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—50 Tablets — 50 cents.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Peter Turns Up His Nose

'Tis silly to turn up your nose
When things prove not as you suppose.

Mr. Mocker.

Peter Rabbit had promised Mocker the Mocking Bird to meet him very early in the morning under the vine on Farmer Brown's house. Mocker was to bring him a taste of the good food Farmer Brown's Boy was putting out for Mocker. Now, you know how very curious Peter is. Nothing would have induced Peter not to be there when he said he would be there. As a matter of fact, he went there before daylight. He was sitting there when Mr. Mocker arrived from his secret sleeping place.

Mr. Mocker's eyes twinkled when he saw Peter. "Good morning, Mr. Curiosity," said he.

"Good morning," replied Peter in his politest manner.

"I see you are on hand to sample the fine breakfast I know Farmer Brown's Boy will have waiting for me," said Mocker.

"I shall be very glad to sample those new things you told about," said Peter.

"No it wasn't," said he bluntly.

er. "What did you say Farmer Brown's Boy puts out for you?"

"Raisins and currants," replied Mocker smacking his bill two or three times. "Raisins and currants, and they are the best things ever. If you will wait right here, Peter, I will go around to the feeding shelf and get a raisin for you."

"I'll wait," said Peter. "That is what I came over here for."

Mocker disappeared around the corner of the house and Peter waited. He waited and waited. He began to think something must have happened to Mocker. But presently Mocker reappeared and Peter could see that he was carrying something in his bill. "I hope you'll excuse me for being so long," said Mocker, "but I really had to eat my breakfast first. I never feel right until I have something in my stomach."

"Neither do I," said Peter looking longingly at the raisin Mocker had brought. He didn't say so, but he was disappointed. That raisin didn't look like a real mouthful. It didn't look like a real taste of anything. But he was eager to taste it and find out what it was like. "Is that a raisin or a currant?" asked Peter.

"It is a raisin," replied Mocker, "and it is the most delicious thing."

"What is a delicious thing?" Peter inquired.

"Something so good that all you can think of is more," replied Mocker.

"I like things like that," said Peter. "Do drop that raisin so I can taste it."

Mocker dropped the raisin and it fell on the snow at Peter's feet. Eagerly Peter picked it up. It was so small that there wasn't enough of it to chew, so Peter swallowed it whole. There wasn't much of any taste to it this way. Peter looked up to tell Mocker that he did think much of raisins, but Mocker had disappeared. Peter began to suspect that Mocker had played a joke on him. But Mocker hadn't. In a moment he appeared again, and this time he dropped at Peter's feet a currant, then he looked up at Mocker, then he looked back at the currant. The raisin had been small, but to Peter the currant looked like nothing at all.

"Did you eat the raisin?" asked Mocker. Peter nodded. "Wasn't it delicious?" asked Mocker.

Peter turned up his nose, that funny wobbly little nose of his. "No, it wasn't," said he bluntly. "If that is all Farmer Brown's Boy gives you to eat, he doesn't treat you very well. Now, if it were something nice, like a big piece of turnip, or a slice of carrot, or half an apple, it would be something worth talking about." Peter sniffed at the currant and once more turned up his nose.

Mocker was laughing. Peter suspected that Mocker was laughing at him. He didn't see anything to laugh at himself. He was so disappointed that he was very near to losing his temper.

GALES FERRY

The storm of Wednesday was much more severe than was the heavy wind and snow storm of Thursday, Feb. 4. Snow began falling about 3 o'clock Wednesday morning with a rapidly falling temperature and produced one of the worst storms experienced in many years. The place is now snowbound. Earl B. Lawson the R. F. D. mail carrier from the local postoffice who has been unable to cover his entire route since the snow storm of last week was unable to cover any part of his route Wednesday, the roads being impassable.

In the Sandy Hollow section of the town of Ledyard a part of Mr. Lawson's route, the highway has not been opened for the entire week.

The February meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society was held at the home of Mrs. Harmon L. Perkins Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, the president Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt presiding. The meeting opened with singing the hymn—The Call—Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins conducted the devotions. The reports of the secretary Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop and the treasurer Mrs. C. E. Colver were approved as read. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. George Smith Brown read a letter from Mrs. Jerome Greer of Thompsonville, conference corresponding secretary in the interest of home mission work. Mrs. Brown moved that the society pay five dollars more on a pledge and it was so voted. A paper, Does the Woman's Missionary Society need a Periodcal? was read by Mrs. Lucy A. Hurlbutt. Another paper, Community Work at Puget Sound, Pacific coast, was read by Mrs. Brown. Chapter 3, Slavic Community Life in America, in the study book, Peasant Pioneers, was read in paragraphs by members of the society. Mrs. J. C. Birch conducted the missionary enigmas and gave the numbers attached to Valentine favors. During the social hour, following Mrs. Perkins, assisted by Mrs. Birch and Mrs. Minoe Noxley served sandwiches, fancy wafers, cake and tea.

At a meeting of the Ladies' Aid society, held at the home of Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, Friday afternoon, the vice president, Mrs. Nelson Parker presiding, arrangements were made for serving a supper by the society to the Federation of Men's Classes of the Norwich group in the vestry of the M. E. church here.

Owing to the continued snow and unfavorable weather conditions, the affair has been postponed.

Because of the drifted snow in the roads, Miss Evelyn E. Whipple of the Lester district, teacher of the grammar school at Gales Ferry was unable to reach the school Thursday and Friday of last week.

The pupils of the primary school of which Mrs. Rogers W. Hurlbutt is teacher, owning to illness in the family of Mrs. Hurlbutt attended the sessions in the grammar school Monday and Tuesday of this week with Miss Whipple teacher.

Mrs. James Wallace has returned from a visit to her mother in New Jersey.

A party of young people from Gales Ferry coasted on the hill east of the Submarine base, Tuesday evening.

TELEPHONE MEN MAKE BIG CUT IN ACCIDENT RECORD

During the year of '925, the male plant employes of the Southern New England Telephone Company achieved a remarkable victory over accidents. According to the Connecticut Committee on Public Service Information, the male plant employes of the telephone company reduced the number of major accidents occurring within their group 51.5 per cent. during the year. This remarkable record in accident prevention work was accomplished through the vigilance and cooperation of the employes themselves acting under the advices of the safety department of the company.

The major accident figures upon which the percentage is based were taken from the accident records of the male equipment and construction forces in five of the larger telephone districts; namely, New London, Hartford, Headquarters, Bridgeport and New Haven, these districts ranking in the order named in accident prevention rating. In 1924, the New London forces were at the bottom of the list, but last year they reduced their number of major accidents 82 per cent., the New London equipment forces cutting down their mishaps by 81 per cent.

The safety department of the telephone company was organized less than a year ago with the object of increasing the efficiency and service by a reduction of serious mishaps among the employes. The work was begun with the plant men and is now being extended throughout the entire personnel of the company. During the present year, instruction in accident prevention will be given to all of the employes of the company.

If men had the courage of their convictions there would be more convicts.

NEEDING MONEY, NEW LONDON YOUTH FILLS OUT STOLEN CHECK FOR $25

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 11—Walter Perry, 18, residing at 106 Bank street, but whose home was originally in Waterford, where his father, Manuel Perry, resided many years, was taken into custody this morning by Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith charged with forgery. Perry was locked up at the police station in default of a surety on his bond of $1,000 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

Perry went to the residence of Mose Allard last night and observing a check book, he awaited an opportunity to scan the book. When this opportunity presented itself, Perry said that the book was issued by the Union Bank and Trust company and removed one of the blank checks. This morning Perry made out the check for $25 and payable to himself and signing Allard's name to it as the drawer he tendered the paper at the Union Bank and Trust company for negotiation.

Allard does not have an account at the bank at present although he did a few months ago, so when the check was handed to the paying teller, suspicion pointed to Perry as attempting to pass a fraudulent paper. The police were notified and when Sergeants Cavanaugh and Smith took Perry into custody he admitted the forgery and declared that he intended to get money any way he could and was not particular how he got it.

It is not possible to secure hard coal from the dealers in this city. Coke is being used by many householders and stores; bituminous coal is the other fuel that is obtainable.

There was no business to claim attention from the police court this morning, something that has not been known half a dozen times in the past year.

Lincoln's birthday will not be observed here except by the banks and the schools. Merchants have had too many a time of late to close their business places, unless there is abundant reason to believe that a real holiday is to be observed.

George T. Brown, Nancy Brown Morgan and the Union Bank & Trust company, trustees of the estate of Edward T. Brown, have sold a house and lot on Jefferson avenue to Lorenzo Fredella.

Miss Lucretia Holt Chappell, 85, died last night at her home, 49 Vauxhall street, after a lingering illness brought about by infirmities attending her advanced years. Miss Chappell was born in New London and was a member of St. James' Episcopal church.

John Saunders, 48, residing at 372 Williams street, died last night at Home Memorial hospital where he had been under treatment for a few days for pneumonia. Mr. Saunders, who was a carpenter, is survived by his wife and a son, Ernest Saunders of this city.

An automobile bearing Connecticut registration, No. 2575, was taken in charge by the police this forenoon, when complaint was made that the automobile had been parked on Hempstead street, corner of Hope street, two days. As the owner of the machine was not located, the car was taken to a garage to await its being claimed.

There is more snow on the ground here now than at any time in many years. The city got right at the task of removing it yesterday and today, and removed hundreds of tons of it from State street and from Bank street, so that by noon today State street was practically clean. Bank street was cleared later. Scores of trucks and a large number of men were engaged in the work. The sidewalks received earlier attention after the storm of Wednesday than they have ever received, a result attributable to the warnings by police officers that the snow must be removed.

The condition of Mrs. Arthur Crouch, High street Mystic, who sustained extensive burns at her home yesterday morning when her clothing became ignited as she was placing wood in a furnace, is reported this evening at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, as being slightly more comfortable.

Mrs. Edward Smith, 107 Main street; Mrs. William Stanton and infant daughter, Mystic; Miss Emily E. Dunham, and Miss Bessie Mueller, Groton, patients at Lawrence hospital, were dismissed today.

As a result of the activities of the highway department late yesterday and today, State, Main and Bank streets have practically been relieved of the snowfall of Wednesday. A large corps of shovelers and many automobile trucks were placed at work removing snow and ice and by night Thursday, the major portion of the snow on the city's busiest business streets had been carried to the municipal pier and deposited in the Thames river.

SHOT STARLINGS TO USE THEM FOR MEALS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 11—James LaFemina, 154 Shaw street, decided of late to reduce the high cost of living by hunting within the city limits and as a result of his activities along that line he was taken into custody this morning by Patrolman George Laboue and Game Warden Robert B. Chappell. He was charged with shooting starlings, a specie of song bird and with being an alien possessed of firearms. The accused furnished a bond of $200 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

LaFemina, it is alleged, has made it a practice to shoot starlings. This morning when three auto drivers were in the vicinity of Shaw street they heard the sound of the discharge of a firearm and then discovered that LaFemina was shooting starlings. They made known this fact to Game Warden Chappell, who secured the services of Patrolman Laboue. Arriving at the LaFemina house the accused was there and in the act of preparing some of the starlings for a meal, while those he had just killed were in a tin receptacle. These were taken as evidence against the accused, but there should be little difficulty convicting LaFemina, who admitted killing the starlings, but declared that he only killed two, despite the fact that several were found at the house by the officers.

NEGLECT OF SNOW REMOVAL NOT TO BE PERMITTED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON Feb. 11—The police have been busy this afternoon notifying owners of property to cause their sidewalks to be cleared of snow. Numerous complaints were made that sidewalks were in a dangerous condition. In some instances the complainants declaring that no attempt had been made to remove the snow. Richard W. Mansfield, probation officer and superintendent of the B. P. Learned mission complained that the sidewalks of the property of A. E. Fuller Hempstead and Mercer streets; Edward Cadman, Mercer street; Mr. Wolff, 58 Brainard street, Attorney Max Boyer, corner of Federal and Prospect streets and the former Crumb property, now owned by Sidney Sulman, corner of Church and Main streets, were in a dangerous condition.

Patrolman William Graham declared that property on Main street, owned by the Sebastian D. Lawrence estate, was in a dangerous condition. Belton A. Kopp, agent for the property, was notified to cause the sidewalk to be made safe for pedestrian traffic. Patrolman Thomas Cavanaugh reported that the sidewalk on Howard street, owned by Benjamin L. Armstrong and the sidewalk in front of the property, corner of Bank and Tilley streets, owned by a Boston gasoline concern, were also in a dangerous condition.

BANK STREET WIDENING MATTER OF DISCUSSION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 11—Now that the hearings by the Compensation Board of the city on the establishment of a building line on the west side of Bank street have been concluded, there are as many opinions on the course the city will pursue as there are ideas expressed on the subject. It is generally believed that the city will not attempt to condemn any land for the purpose, nor is it believed that land is needed. The purpose seems to be to designate a mark beyond which there shall be no building construction. That, of course, is the denial of property owners of the right to make use of land which they own and they may seek compensation for that encumbrance upon their possessions, for it is an encumbrance, and it is upon real estate on which they have been taxed for many years. The time when the land in question was made use of by the owners for business purposes was not so long ago. Then the land was earning money for the owners, but they temporarily abandoned the use of it, that the appearance of the street might be improved—for aesthetic reasons. It may be said. But aesthetic reasons do not actuate the owners when it becomes a matter of dollars and the city proposes to claim what is owned in fee simple by residents who are tax payers and who settle for what the city has the use of. It is claimed that if the street is widened by taking a few feet from the sidewalks an expense out of all proportion to the benefits attained will be occasioned. Merchants doing business on the street have resisted all attempts to restrict traffic by sending it in one direction, and they protested against restricting parking to one side of the highway, but that opinion is now changing and it is declared that the business men would prefer congestion of traffic rather than accept a narrow sidewalk. When the matter was before the council one of the chief arguments used was that wide sidewalks attracted business. Councilor Clark and Manager Holt are declared to have been advocates of the wide sidewalks at that time. To narrow up the walks would, it is represented, require the taking of two feet or more from the width of the walks. It would necessitate the removal of curbing and the destruction of the outer part of all the walks that are affected and that, with compensation for the damages to property owners by the establishment of a building line, would involve the city in an expense that would be staggering in proportions. Upon the report the director of law makes to the council the decision of the members of that body will be based. That report may be ready for the meeting next Monday evening and it may not be in shape for delivery then. The report is a paper that will require study of law points and in the preparation of which care must be exercised. Some members of the council have intimated that the work of widening the street will not be attempted. Others represent that the work can be done at a smaller cost now than it can ever be accomplished for. Still others say that the scheme is the wildest ever dreamed of while there are two streets that can be opened up and all congestion on Bank street can thus be relieved.

Entertained at Whist.

Miss Rae Zaslow of 27 West Colt street, New London, entertained 20 friends at a whist at her home Sunday evening. The prizes were awarded to Miss Minnie Camassar, Samuel Zaslow of New London, Miss Celia Charron of Norwich and Samuel Friedman of Colchester. The hostess was assisted in serving by Miss Florence Fiedler and Miss Camassar. Games and dancing were enjoyed to a late hour.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

A surprising program, one that met with instantaneous approval opened yesterday at the Broadway theatre and continues through Saturday.

A clever routine of balancing and juggling was offered by Nestor & Vincent. It is as difficult as it is unique, and novel and made a very smart opening for the Keith-Albee vaudeville.

Harry Gee Haw in second spot, once again had the pleasure to appear before the local public and was found to be even better than ever. As a proof he stopped the show with his splendid offering. He is a Chinese importation and is aptly termed "The Broadway Mandarin," and "The Celestial Impressionist." It is a treat.

Raines & Avery open with a special pretty setting and engage in rapid fire comedy patter that caught on with the crowd and then added a sprinkling of song and dance.

Laughter has always been considered a tonic and you'll agree with Malion & Cass that it is a cure for "Keeping the Doctor Away." That they were a record-breaking comedy sensation is putting it mildly. See these great comedians!

Al Laubscher & Family offered a real novel and original divertisement of song, dance and harmony. Buddy and Muriel are featured. It is said that they are New England's juvenile star artists with which we heartily agree.

All around, it is the finest vaudeville program in some time.

Hoot Gibson is seen in The Spook Ranch, which makes splendid screen material.

Palace Theatre

It is hard to tell just which is the headline act at the Palace the last half of this week. Emmet Omera, Irish tenor, can easily be said to be better than Gerald Griffin, who played the theatre last year. He is an artist as great as Berlin is a song writer and when you hear him you are going to hear a successor to John McCormack.

The Clark Dansetts is a dance revue all together different than anything that ever played the city and is 100 per cent. entertainment.

Herbert Leonard opens the show with a novel harmonica act.

Moran and Sterling furnish the fiery hokem.

The Three Hoskias' close the show with a strong posing act.

Bebe Daniels did not have to worry about being cheated of the exercise she derived from a daily visit to the Sunset Canyon Golf club during the filming of "The Splendid Crime," her latest starring vehicle for Paramount.

In the role of Jenny, the droll little girl crook of this human and humorous story, Miss Daniels obtained all the exercise she needed, fighting with burly police officers, climbing in and out of second story windows, and wrestling with her own crook companions.

Neil Hamilton plays the leading male role opposite Miss Daniels in "The Splendid Crime," which was written and directed by William de Mille. Anne Cornwall and Anthony Jowitt are the other featured players. Violet Clark wrote the screen adaptation.

Coming Sunday at the Palace

The largest motion picture set ever constructed and the greatest number of persons ever used for one scene in an American made motion picture are two of the outstanding features of "The Wanderer," famous Biblical spectacle which Raoul Walsh directed for Paramount, and which opens a 4 days' run at the Palace on Sunday.

The scene, which is that of an unnamed Biblical city, was built in the foot-hills of Santa Monica, California, and covers many hundred acres of ground. More than two hundred carpenters and scores of technical assistants were at work for more than three weeks constructing the hundred massive buildings and walls for the set.

"The Wanderer," according to critics, is the most titanic film effort of the season. More than two years were spent preparing for the production, and four months were required for the actual filming. Many thousands of costumes were prepared, occupying the time of one hundred seamstresses for almost a month.

The cast of "The Wanderer" includes the most distinguished acting talent in the motion picture industry. Among the featured players are listed such names as Ernest Torrence, William Collier, Jr., Wallace Beery, Tyrone Powar, Greta Nissen and Kathlyn Williams. Other players in the spectacle include Kathryn Hill, George Rigas, Holmes Herbert, Snitz Edwards, Lionel Brahm, Sojin and Duke Kahanamoku.

Breed Theatre

All sorts of thrills are shown in "Why Women Love," Blanche Sweet's current First National drama at the Breed theatre. Included are a great ship fire, terrific storms at sea, a vivid explosion in a lighthouse, a battle with rum runners, and many tender love scenes.

In the cast with Miss Sweet are Robert Frazer, Dorothy Sebastian, Russell Simpson, Charles Murray and other popular players.

The picture is an adaptation from Willard Robertson's stage sensation, "The Sea Woman."

Sale of Mitchell Property

Archa W. Coit has sold for Mrs. Archibald Mitchell and Miss Mitchell, the beautiful family estate on Broadway, to Jacob R. Sloaberg, president of the Shetucket Coal and Lumber company, who buys the property for his home. The house has historical interest, having been the home of the late Lafayette S. Foster, United States senator, and for a time acting vice president of the United States. It stands facing Chelsea Parade, one of the most imposing homes in the city, modernly equipped throughout, spacious and dignified both as to grounds and structure. For years it was a favorite meeting place for world famous musicians—when Archibald Mitchell, music lover, was its owner.

Robbins Court Residence Sold.

John A. Moran, the real estate broker, has sold for Lucian E. Perreault the modern two-apartment house desirably located at 5 Robbins court. The purchasers are George W. and Julian N. Pratt, who makes the purchase as an investment.

New Discovery Banishes Sleeplessness, Quiets Nerves and Stops Headache

The most wearing-out process which could afflict a person is that which is caused by lack of sleep. Fitful, insufficient slumber tears the nervous system to pieces and causes much of the weakness, irritability and susceptibility to disease which is often blamed on other causes.

Lack of sleep ages one, destroys beauty and certainly shortens your life. And yet it is so easy to have the deep refreshing slumber of childhood.

A sleep that will make you feel like a new person and add five years to your life—a slumber that will banish the "blues" and give you the strong, healthy nerves which mean a sunshiny, cheerful outlook on life. And you can get all these benefits from a new, harmless, easy-to-take preparation called Neura.

Neura contains no opiates or habit-forming drugs. AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

CORN BORER QUARANTINE EXTENDED

An amendment of the federal quarantine regulations governing the control of the European corn borer has been issued by the secretary of agriculture to become effective January 16, 1926. Additional territory in Maine, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio, will be added to hte area now under quarantine on account of the pest. This new territory was found to have become invaded during the past season by local spread of the corn borer.

The newly quarantined area includes townships and other political subdivisions in 16 counties in Ohio, in 14 counties in Pennsylvania, in 14 counties in western New York, in 12 counties in Michigan, and one township each in Maine, Rhode Island, and eastern New York.

The European corn borer which has been in this country comparatively few years has been found to be a dangerous crop pest. This insect has become a serious menace to a number of food plants and especially to the corn crop Federal and state forces, under the direction of the federal horticultural board, are trying to prevent its further spread to other parts of the country by regulating the shipment of products likely to carry the pest outside the areas already infested.

LATE LAMBING BETTER IN NORTHEASTERN STATES

Results from experiments in the relative economy of early and late lamb production show that late lambing is the more profitable under conditions of pasture and climate that prevail in New England and the adjacent part of New York state. The experiments were conducted by livestock specialists of the United States department of agriculture on the department farm at Middlebury, Vt., and covered a period of five years. In all of the years the results were in favor of late combing.

The early lambs were dropped in February and marketed in July. The late lambs were dropped in May and June and marketed in November.

During the five-year period, the results of the studies showed an average net profit of $5.47 per ewe for late lambing and only $2.41 per ewe for early lambing. The difference of $3.06 is unusually striking for experiments of this class, and the results are considered conclusive. During the last year of the experiment, which ended in November, 1924, the difference was even greater, the average net profit being $6.00 from the late lambing ewes and $1.95 from those lambing early.

REVIEW OF CONNECTICUT CROPS IN 1925

Following the winter of 1924-25 that was more open and mild than usual, with favorable temperatures the spring of 1925 opened early. Farm work and plans for the crop season began on time. Deficient rainfall, low temperatures and cold nights for a time, hindered growth of meadows and pastures but on the whole the season was favorable to good yields of most crops.

As in other New England states, hay is the crop most commonly grown throughout Connecticut and it usually has a total farm value second only to that of tobacco. In 1925 hay far surpassed tobacco in total farm value and was worth, on Dec. 1, prices, $11,050,000, or slightly more than in 1924 or the 5-year average. Hay production was a little above average, but prices somewhat below those of the year before and the 5-year average. Most of the crop is fed out on the farms.

Corn for all feed purposes is the principal grain crop, but the acreage of that raised for grain has declined rapidly since 1919, due to low prices of western corn. Yields and production of all corn were better than usual. Oats rank next to corn as a feed crop and turned out a high yield. Total production was figured at 463,000 bushels compared with the 5-year average of 227,000. Buckwheat and rye are grain crops of minor rank. Very little surplus of any feed crops is raised for sale away from the farms.

Dairying brings in the largest returns of any line of farming carried on in Connecticut. For several years the business has been prosperous, numbers of cattle and production of dairy products—mostly market milk—have been well balanced with demand. More general use, by farmers and their leaders, of current information about their business, its trends and outlook, is helping them towards stabalized and prosperous management of their industry. Prices of dairy products were well sustained during 1925, feed costs declined and there are ample United States crops of corn, cotton and oats. The outlook is for conditions favorable to dairying for some time yet.

Of all the crops tobacco usually ranks first in total farm value but in 1925, yielded to hay. During the growing season tobacco seemed likely to turn out a crop above average in yield per acre and in poundage of the more valuable grades. But while the average weights still appear at least up to average the crop is running heavily to the low value grades. This condition and the general disturbance in the industry have cut the total value. Total value of the crop in 1925, at present prices, is but little over half the five-year average value. Low prices are probably the most effective means of restoring production to its necessary relation with demand. Acreage of outdoor tobacco in 1926, is likely to be sharply reduced.

Potatoes of the cash crops, ranked next to tobacco in total value, being worth $5,063,000 on Dec. 1, prices, as against $1,950,000 in 1924, and the 5-year average of $3,635,600. Average farm price Dec. 1, was $2.50 per bushel as against $1.00 the year before and $1.30, the 5-year average. Prevailing high prices seem likely to cause considerable increase in potato acreage in 1926. Any extensive switching out of tobacco into potatoes will face this keener competition from commercial potato regions.

Apples ranked after potatoes in total value and were worth, on Dec. 1 prices, $2,269,000, as against the 5-year average of $2,051,020. Prices ranged above the previous year and average. Peaches, pears, grapes and strawberries rank below apples in volume and value but gave good yields.

CONNECTICUT FARMER'S INCOME INCREASES

The average Connecticut farmer will realize $91 more for his 1925 products than he did for the products of the year before, according to the Larrowe Institute of Animal Economics, which sets the average cash income per farm in this state for the current farming year as $2005 as compared to $1914 for 1924. These estimated gross farm income figures are based on the most accurate data available. While slight losses were encountered in the sale of poultry, fruit and vegetables, these were more than offset by the increased income from dairy cows, meat animals and tobacco.

The Connecticut farmer's apparent revival of interest in livestock, and especially dairy cows, betokens a new prosperity, particularly if followed up with a system of economic management of the herds, states the institute. The good dairyman keeps enough animals on his farm to consume the roughage which he produces, and is careful to supplement this with the right kind and amount of grain or concentrate feed. He makes every attempt to produce better hay and silage and more of it to the acre, the while keeping records of feeding and production to show him which cows must be weeded out. He keeps his cows in flesh and production by supplying the necessary feeds when the pastures are gone, and builds a more profitable tomorrow by improving his herds by good sires.

As an instance of the profit derived from good management, the institute points to a herd of 15 cows in Harrison County, Ohio. This herd produced $5,528.39 worth of milk in one year. The total value of the product over feed costs, including all roughage and pasture, was $3,941.71. The average value of the product of each cow over all feed costs was $23.32 a month, or $279.84 per cow for the year.

SHEEP AND WOOL GROWERS ASSOCIATION

Among the men who have been instrumental in founding the New England Sheep and Wool Growers association are Professor Harry L. Garriss of the Connecticut Agricultural college; William I. Cummings, breeder, of South Berwick, Me.; W. F. Robbins, breeder, West Rindge, N. H.; Willard Martin, breeder, Plainfield, Vt.; T. G. Fulton, breeder, Marblehead, Mass. and J. C. Cort of the Massachusetts department of agriculture. Mr. Cort is acting as secretary of the organization, and was secretary of a committee which framed the following constitution for it:

Article I. The association shall be known as the New England Sheep and Wool Growers' association.

Article II. The object of this association is to advance, encourage and protect the interests of the growers of sheep in New England; to advise the members of the market situation with special reference to the Eastern lamb trade in the larger cities; to aid the state wool pools to work for the enactment and enforcement of the dog laws; to assist in the organization of boys' and girls' sheep clubs; to foster the development of ram sales, and all other matters vitally affecting the industry.

Article III. It shall be the purpose of this federation to cooperate with all state and local sheep and wool associations in New England.

Article IV. Any person directly interested in the sheep industry living in New England may become a member upon the payment of a fee of $1.

Article V. The officers of this association shall consist of a president, one vice president from each state, and a secretary-treasurer. These officers shall constitute an executive committee with power to manage the affairs of the association subject to the provisions of these articles, and to fill all vacancies in their number. The officers shall be elected annually at the Springfield meeting.

Article VI. No regular dues shall be collected, but when funds are required a voluntary subscription shall be asked for.

Article VII. At least two meetings shall be held annually, one at the time of the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield and another to be held in rotation in the six New England states at the time and place fixed by the executive committee. Special field meetings may be held at the call of the executive committee.

Article VIII. These articles may be amended at any regular meeting of the association.

BONDING COMPANY GROWS UNDER FALVEY PRESIDENCY

The eighteenth annual report of the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company of Boston, Mass., which has just been issued, will be of local interest, inasmuch as the president of the company, T. J. Falvey, is a native of Norwich and an occasional visitor to the city where his early days were spent.

The report shows gross premiums written for the year 1925 of $10,374,079.31 and net premium income of $8,142,136.96. The company has made remarkable progress since its institution in 1907, when its net premium income was $286,876.49 for its first full year, up to 1925 when it reported the most successful year in its history. The directors of the company have recommended that the capital stock be increased from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. The adoption and completion of this recommendation will give the company a capital of $3,000,000 and a surplus of $3,000,000 or more, and total assets of more than $12,000,000.

This indication of the success of the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company, which was founded by Mr. Falvey in 1907 and whose business policy has been directed by him, as its president, since its institution, will be most gratifying to his many friends in Norwich.

TO INVESTIGATE SUICIDE OF THE PETEET FAMILY

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 11—(AP)—An investigation will be started by the American department into the circumstances surrounding the suicide here last Saturday of Thomas M. Peteet, his wife and two daughters. The two girls were abducted and attacked during a visit last week to Tiajuana, a Mexican resort town, and it is believed that the members of the family committed suicide because of the disgrace they felt.

Seven men, including the Tiajuana chief of police, have been arrested by Mexican authorities.

ANDOVER

The Men's Church Club held its February meeting Monday night in the town hall after the business meeting, a program of entertainment was carried out under the direction of Raymond Halsted.

Nathan Gatchell, Charles Phelps and Lawrence Stanley, students at Storrs college, were at their homes for the week end.

John Yeomans of Harvard Law school, Cambridge, Mass., and his sister, Miss Alice Yeomans of Dana Hall, Wellesley college, spent the week end at their home.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society held a meeting Thursday afternoon at Mrs. Emily Cobb's home.

The weekly whist that was to have been held Wednesday evening has been postponed a week, on account of the bad weather and traveling.

Practically all the back roads are filled up with snow and impassable from the severe snow storm of Wednesday, but they will soon be open to travel, as Selectman William Palmer is out with a gang of men opening up roads.

Edward M. Yeomans returned home Sunday, after a trip to West Palm Beach, Fla.

The Choir of the Congregational church met Thursday evening for rehearsal at the home of Mrs. Emily Cobb.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Frink and family of Manchester, were recent guests of Mr. Frink's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Frink.

Miss Clara Thompson, assistant at the post office, spent the week end in Springfield, Mass., at the home of her brother, Frank F. Thompson.

A great deal of praise is being given Mr. Nye, state road boss, for keeping the stretch of trunk line through this town, open to traffic all the time to the Willimantic line. He was working day and night in the storms with his men to do this, so traffic always finds one road open to travel.

At the morning service Sunday, a vocal duet, The Homeland, was sung by Misses Alice Yeomans and Lois Caswell and was greatly enjoyed by the Congregation.

Wednesday the rural carriers were unable to cover much of their route on account of the blocked roads. They were going to try Thursday with help to make their trips.

GURLEYVILLE

Beth Eveline, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cutler, born Thursday, February 4th, died Monday. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved family, who have lived here but a short time.

Although the last two snow storms were heavy ones, the fall of snow being about twenty inches. Automobiles have ploughed their way through to Willimantic every day.

Two of Wright's trucks came through the bad storm of Wednesday and returned with loads of cord wood.

MITCHELL COURTMARTIAL DISCUSSED IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—(AP)—Consideration of the war department appropriation bill served as a vehicle today for the house to engage in a general debate on various army activities and recent court martial of William Mitchell coming in for a share of the discussion.

After approving a section of the measure providing for maintenance of the army at its present strength—11,749 officers and 118,568 enlisted men—for another year, the house paused for debate, and later adjourned, without approving, a section carrying $70,000 for court martial expenses, of which amount one-half is for the Mitchell trial. Consideration of this section will be the first order of business tomorrow.

Representative Blanton, democrat, Texas, termed the Mitchell trial as "farcial" and asserted it was a "shame" that the people had to pay $35,000 for such an "exhibition", while Representative Rankin, democrat, Mississippi, urged that congress order an investigation of all court martial trials during the World war.

"The punishments meted out," he said, "frequently were out of all proportion to the offense. Most of these sentences undoubtedly should be reduced."

While Representative McLaughlin, republican, Michigan, expressed doubt as to whether accused military men always were properly defended, Representative Simmons, republican, Nebraska, maintained they were "as well defended as prosecuted."

Representative La Guardia, socialist, New York, offered and then withdrew an amendment to require general staff officers to spend at least three hours a month in the air in an airplanes.

Representative Wingo, democrat, Arkansas, asserted this requirement "would be cruel and unusual punishment."

"Oh, they wouldn't have to pilot the plane," replied Mr. La Guardia. "They would go up as passengers."

He withdrew the proposal after Representative Anthony, republican, Kansas, in charge of the bill, made a point of order against it as unauthorized legislation.

A $3,000,000 BID REJECTED BY THE SHIPPING BOARD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP)—The shipping board rejected today the $3,000,000 bid of Stanley Dollar for purchase of the five liners of the Admiral Oriental line operating out of Puget Sound ports to the Orient.

The board approved the recommendation of President Crowley of the fleet corporation in rejecting the bids on the ground that the offer was not responsive to the advertisement of the ship for sale.

Mr. Crowley was authorized to negotiate with Dollar or any other prospective purchaser to obtain better offers for the ships and was directed to report back to the board within ten days.

Discussion in the board meeting developed that members felt an offer of approximately $600,000 for each of the five ships could not be regarded as a bona fide bid. In view of the fact that President Crowley was authorized to continue negotiations, the board did not take up the question of placing the Admiral-Orient ships under the operation of some other agent than Dollar, who now runs the line which is more or less in competition with the Dollar liners out of San Francisco for the Orient.

The board has previously indicated that in the event that the Admiral-Oriental ships could not be sold advantageously, it would consider the advisability of putting the line under some other management which would not be susceptible to the same complaint made by both Pacific coast ports as to the Dollar concern.

RESIGNATION OF TWO CON. STOCK EXCHANGE OFFICERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP)—Thomas B. Maloney admitted today that he had resigned as president of the Consolidated Stock exchange, the affairs of which are being investigated by the attorney general's department. He also disclosed that H. M. Betts, treasurer, likewise had resigned.

Mr. Maloney said his resignation to be effective Feb. 15, was voluntarily submitted a week ago to the board of governors and immediately accepted.

Mr. Betts, confirming Mr. Maloney's announcement concerning his resignation said it was submitted last Tuesday and that the board had accepted it under protest. Although both declined to discuss their action in detail, Mr. Betts said he had contemplated resigning since the recent temporary injunction against the exchange was obtained.

R. Tracy Falk, first vice president Mr. Maloney's nominal successor to the presidency asserted that his offer to resign made last Monday, was rejected unanimously by the board. He denied reports that members who had looked with disfavor upon Mr. Maloney's tenure had sought to remove him also. Mr. Falk said he had not decided whether he would accept the presidency.

Attorneys for the exchange declined to make any statement.

Deputy Attorney General Reyes Winter, in charge of the states anti-fraud bureau, who brought about the crisis in the exchange's affairs by the investigation he conducted before Supreme Court Justice Ford, said he had no knowledge of the developments affecting the exchange's internal organization.

The application to continue the temporary injunction, which was to have been argued today before Justice Ford was postponed until next Thursday.

YALE GETS WORKS OF ART FROM HUNTINGTON MANSION

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 11—(AP)—Yale university has received from Archer M. Huntington, honorary M. A., 1897, the famous collection of mural paintings, wood carvings, marbles and objects of art which formed the interior decorations of the Huntington mansion at Fifth avenue and 57th street, New York city.

The house was built in 1895 by the late Collis P. Huntington as a monument to American architecture and art, and was left to his son, Archer M. Huntington. The building has now been sold and certain of its ornamentations have been given to the Yale School of Fine Arts by Mr. Huntington.

These include the celebrated lunettes and ceiling panels by Edwin H. Blashfield, Elihu Vedder and Henry Siddons Mowbray, which form a representative collection of decorations by America's leading contemporary mural painters. Augustus Saint Gaudens is represented in the Huntington gift by a monumental mantel and a series of carved wood panels in figure composition by Karl Bitter, is also a feature of the collection.

In addition to the pieces available for exhibition in the Yale galleries, Mr Huntington has presented to the university much material of unusual value which can be used in the construction of any future art museum.

This (Wednesday) evening at the meeting of Willington Men's Civic club William Pariseh is chairman of the entertainment committee. West Willington members, Edwin Carpenter, chairman, will furnish the supper.

ENSIGN NARRATES STORY OF WRECK

ed, but the men were unable to use it because of the high seas.

The six men huddled in the pilot house from 2 to 4 o'clock. They could not get their clothing because the living quarters of the ship were under water. Although flares were sent up no relief came. At 4 o'clock the boat keeled over on its side, waves smashing the windows of the pilot house and driving the men to seek safety on deck. Their attempts to build a fire were unsuccessful.

Soaking wet, they clung to the deck from the time of the pilot house wrecking until noon yesterday. Each had on a life buoy. Shortly after noon, they decided to try to abandon the ship and try to reach shore 100 feet away. Libby made the first attempt, swimming ashore through a heavy surf. When nothing had been heard or seen of him for about an hour, McQueen went over. When still no help came, Thornhill braved the heavy seas. After Simon had made the trip from ship to shore, there were only Ensign Fulford and Minnick on the vessel. The commander could not persuade Minnick, who could not swim, to risk going over the side. While trying to get Minnick to go overboard, the commander was washed off the deck by a mammoth wave. It was an hour later before Minnick got nerve enough to slip into the water and paddle ashore.

Both Thornhill and Libby had lost their shoes while in the water. Thornhill had kicked off his socks and coat because they were weighing him down. As each man reached shore, he had to climb a rocky cliff. From this point the water tower on the Jencks estate could be seen about a mile away. Libby, the first man to leave the ship, struggled through the snow drifts to the distant tower. As his comrades reached the beach they followed the trail Libby had made through the snow. When Libby got to the Jencks estate and found it closed and deserted, he huddled for some time in a doorway. When none of the others arrived, he attempted to make his way back to the point where the ship was aground but after wandering around through the blizzard found himself back at the starting point. One or two of the others of the crew soon joined him.

In desperation, Libby clambered up the tower in the hope that he might attract the attention of some one who could aid him. Waving his arms and shouting, he signalled a gang of men who were clearing a nearby road. The men came and found Libby had collapsed at the foot of the tower. Three of the crew of the 126 were struck along the path that led back to the ship. They were taken to the estate in an exhausted condition. McQueen was so far gone when the rescuers arrived that he had to be beaten with a stick to start circulation.

Inside the house a fire was started and the men were wrapped in blankets and given hot coffee by neighbors who had been summoned.

Captain C. I. Williams and four men were summoned from the Narragansett Pier coast guard station. They plowed their way for four miles through snow drifts up to their waists. They with the members of the crew, spent last night at the Jencks place. Early today, when coast guard headquarters learned of the whereabouts of the 126 crew, the cutter Mojave which had stood in the lee of Block Island since Tuesday, night, was ordered to Narragansett pier. They reached the place, where the smaller boat went aground early this morning. A small boat was put over the side and went ashore for the injured men, who were brought back to the Mojave and lifted aboard in slings. Then the trip back to New London was started.

Tonight the survivors of the wreck told of their thoughts during their experience on the battered craft and their suffering ashore. Simon said that all he could think of was his naturalization papers. McQueen had a new pair of shoes among his clothing on the ship and the loss of these shoes was uppermost in his mind.

When the rescuers arrived at the tower they found all of the men delirious.

STOCK PRICES FLUCTUATED.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(By The A. P.)—Wide fluctuations in prices of special stocks again featured today's stock market which developed alternate periods of weakness and strength. Active short covering in recent weak spots and aggressive pool operations in a number of industrial specialties impaired a strong tone to closing quotations. Total sales again ran close to the 2,000,000 share mark.

Easier call money rates and the appearance of additional favorable 1925 earnings statements helped revive bullish enthusiasm, but some uneasiness developed among professional operators on the long side on reports that the banks were exercising stricter supervision over the quality of collateral pledged for brokers' loans as a result of the figures recently made public by the New York stock exchange.

Weekly mercantile reviews reported little change in the general business situation. "There is rather more irregularity to trade dispatches," reports Dunn's Review, "but no indications of fundamental weakness or of change in sentiment," explaining further that the present period of "between-seasons" in some quarters, and that a lull in buying at this time is not unnatural. Bradstreet's states that "manufacturing and jobbing show the usual seasonal tendencies to draw away, apparently, from retail trade."

Bear traders went gunning for soft spots during the session and succeeded in bringing down a number of them. Devoe and Raynolds was hammered from 108 1-2 to 93 1-2 and then snapped back to 97 3-4, off 6 3-4 on the day. Foundation Company broke nearly 11 points to 153 and rallied to 165 1-2. Savage Arms was depressed from 102 to 95 but bounded back to 98 1-4. American Woolen common and preferred, Century Ribbon, General Cigar, National Dairy Products, National Lead and Pressed Steel Car all showed net losses of 2 points or more.

Weakness of these issues was offset by the buoyancy of several of the so-called "rich men's stocks." American Can soared 1-2 points to 211 1-2, Allied Chemical six to 146 and General Electric 7 1-4 to 365, all new record high prices. Selling of the motors was based on the widespread circulation of rumors that the directors of General Motors would declare only the regular payment of the common, but it was announced after the market closed that the annual rate had been raised from $6 to $7.

Revival of activity and strength in the Armour issues was based on reports of improvement in the packing industry. Phillips Petroleum assumed the leadership of the oil group by advancing over two points to 45 5-8 on total transactions of about 1,000,000 shares. Ward Baking B, which recently dropped from 85 3-8 to 55, rallied to 61 1-2 for a net gain of six points on the day. Good buying also was noted in American Radiator, the Commercial Solvents issues, Eaton Axle, National Cloak and Suit and United Fruit.

The brisk demand for the eastern coalers on reports that miners and operators were making another effort about a resumption of anthracite mining featured the railroad group. Some of the southwestern issues were heavy.

A partial recovery in wheat prices featured the commodity markets May futures showing a net gain of 1 3-4 cents a bushel at $1.49 1-8. Cotton fluctuated within extremely narrow limits, closing unchanged to 5 points net lower. The coffee and sugar markets also displayed an easier undertone.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent., and then dropped to 4 1-2. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were steady. Demand sterling ruled just under $4.86 and French francs were slightly firmer around 3.69 1-2 cents.

Norwich, Friday, Feb. 12, 1926

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The Atlantic coast disturbance has continued to move slowly northeastward and it now is centered near Sydney, Nova Scotia, where the barometer reads 29.16 inches.

The temperature has fallen along the middle Atlantic and South Atlantic coasts and in Florida and it is still considerably below normal in the Atlantic and east gulf states, Tennessee, the Ohio Valley and the lower lake region.

The weather will be fair with rising temperature Friday throughout the states east of the Mississippi River, and the eastward advance of a western disturbance will be attended by much cloudiness and considerably warmer weather on Saturday and light rains are probable in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the lower lake region.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook and Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Diminishing northwest winds and fair weather Friday.

Forecast

For Southern New England: Fair with slowly rising temperature Friday; Saturday increasing cloudiness and considerably warmer.

TAFTVILLE

With an attendance of 500, the joint carnival conducted by the Sacred Heart church and the Army and Navy club came to an end Saturday evening in Parish hall. The entertainment for the evening was a play in French, entitled "The Bird". Those taking part were Mrs. Caroline Dugas, Miss Yvonne Lambert, Miss Rolsa Tellier and Miss Germain Pion. The sketch showed that a great deal of time had been spent on it, and the efforts of the actresses were heartily applauded. A fiddlers' contest to decide the championship of Taftville proved a big drawing card. Five musicans appeared with their fiddles under their arms, and after each had played a solo, and then the quintette had played in unison, the judges awarded the prize to Leo St. Marie and he was crowned champion. The judges were Mrs. Ralph C. Dion, James Garvie and Adam Troeger. After the contest, the five fiddlers played for the old fashioned dancing, and Gus Csikowsky prompted. During the evening prizes were awarded, and many novelties introduced for the amusement of the patrons of the carnical.

The affair has been very successful and it is believed that both the church and the club will benefit financially in no small way as a result. The decorations have been greatly admired throughout the event, and many people from out of town have visited the carnival each night to see the decorations. The general committee in charge of the affair was Archie Molleur, John B. Benoit, Thomas Labbee, Alcime Lamorlex, Andrew Frohmuder, James Hanlon, Henry Pepin, Joseph Waldron, Wilfred Cormier and Arthur Roy. They have had the following assistants, Ferdinand Brodeur, James Nolan, Eugene Lambert, Ernest Phaneuf, Emile Raymond, Eugene Mercier, Romeo Paquette, John B. Frechette, Mrs. Antone Paquette, Mrs. William J. Malone, James Murphy, Napoleon Pepin, Ora St. Germain, Arthur Paquette, Lawrence Blanchette, Edward Gauthier, Patrick Sullivan, Edward Benoit, Joseph Guillotte, Harvey Pepin, Joseph Lemire, Emile Gauthier, Alfred Roberts, Isaac Lurette, Homer Pepin and William Pepin.

The Bulletin published the names of the ladies who had charge of the tables at the Ladies Benevolent society supper, incorrectly, Thursday. The committee in charge of the tables included Mrs. Adam Loupold, chairman, Miss Gertrude M. Young, Mrs. Elsie K. Pingree, Mrs. Eugene N. Monty, Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis, Mrs. Charles T Webster, Mrs. Walter S. Grant Mrs. Allan Bogle, Mrs. John Volkman, Mrs. Richard B. Snow and Miss Anna M. Beardow.

The Knights, esquires and pages of Castle Perilous held a business meeting Wednesday evening in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church. It was voted to hold a ceremonial conclave next week to celebrate the opening of the provincial conclave at Lynn, Mass., on February 22nd. It was also voted to co-operate with Castle Devonshire of Groton at an open conclave to be held later in the year. The annual tribute levied on the castle by the Province of Massachusetts, was ordered paid.

The Basketry class met Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Mr. and Mrs. David Murphy of South Fifth avenue have been in New York recently to meet a nephew who arived from Scotland, to make his home in Philadelphia, Pa. He was accompanied to that city by Mrs. Murphy who is spending a few days there as the guest of relatives. Mr. Murphy returned from New York early in the week.

A large crowd attended the whist and dance given by the Celtic Basketball team in Parish hall Wednesday evening. Music for the dancing was furnished by the Army and Navy club orchestra, and the feature of this part of the program was an exhibition of the Charleston by Thomas Marino of Westerly, R. I. At cards, the first prize for ladies went to Miss Loretta Sullivan, the second to Miss Emma Pion and the consolation to Miss Florence Arpin. A. Adams won the first prize for gentlemen, the second being taken by George Guillotte of Jewett City and the consolation by T. Sears, also of Jewett City.

The new theatre in Forty-seventh street, New York named for Richard Mansfield, famous actor, resident at Eastern Point and in New London up to the time of his death, is to be formally opened Monday evening. Mayor James J. Walker will represent the city of New York at the dedication.

SUPERIOR COURT HEARS SUIT WITH FRAUD ALLEGED IN SALE OF FARM

Allegations of fraud in the sale of a 45 acre farm in Lisbon is the defense made in a cross-complaint in a foreclosure suit that was on trial here Thursday in the superior court before Judge Allyn L. Brown. The arguments are to be made next week. Attorneys V. P. A. Quinn and H. H. Pettis are counsel for the plaintiffs, Thomas M. Shields for the defendants.

John Nazaruk and Fred Alaska of Lisbon are the plaintiffs seeking to foreclose a $3,700 mortgage on the farm owned by John and Katherine Krwosiuk, in which it was provided that $500 should be paid off annually. The mortgage was dated May 7, 1925 when Nazaruk sold the farm to the defendants for the sum of $4,300.

The cross-complaint by the defendant claims that the sale of the farm to them at the price named was fraudulent as it was not worth more than $1,200.

John Nazaruk, the plaintiff, was first called to the stand, testifying to buying the land for $1,200 and subsequently erecting a seven-room house, barn, garage shed and stable. After his testimony the plaintiff rested.

Attorney Richard J. Dudkowski was called upon as interpreter when witnesses for the defendant were called to the stand the first two being the two defendants. They were followed by Herman H. Stephens, Albertus C. Burdick, Harry L. Hull and Jesse C. Phillips. Several of them were called upon to place a valuation upon the farm. The testimony varies from $1,500 to $2,000.

In rebutial the plaintiffs' attorneys called several more witnesses to the stand before the testimony was closed. These included Nicholas Kronishri, Sam Green and John Ratchofski, all testifying as real estate agents. Three valuations for the farm ranged from $3,600 to $4,000 at the time of the sale to the defendants.

GAVE GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION OF THE MALAY JUNGLES

"My Six Years in the Jungles of Malay" was the subject of the lecture given by Carveth Wells, British official surveyor for the Malay railroad, at the Connecticut college convocation this week. Six years in a country described by Darwin as "topsy-turvy land," where winter and summer are the same in a temperature which varies from 80 to 82 degrees the year round; six years among the strange Malay folk who go clad in silks fantastically woven and dyed by their own hands, and who work ten minutes out of the hour to spend the rest of the time recovering from the shock of having worked at all; six years of struggling through the overwhelming life, animal and vegetable, of the jungle, where the butterflies grow a foot across, and the great vines, weaving tree to tree, make a playfield for monkey, peacock, black panther and other creatures of the tree tops—Mr. Wells had ample material in his long experience to make a "travel talk" of compelling interest.

Mr. Wells is a fellow of the Royal Geographic Society, and an explorer of considerable note. As surveyor of the British government he spent two years, directly after his graduation from the University of London, surveying for the Grand Trunk Pacific railway. His second pioneering experience was his trip through the Malay jungles as one of the four surveyors for the British railway there.

One is greeted at Singapore, the big port of the Malay peninsula, by the smell of spices, if the tide is high, or if it is low, by the unfragrant mud flats, where the climbing fishes grow. The climbing fish, which winks one eye from its perch in a tree on shore, was the first of a train of natural wonders which Mr. Wells described, as facts, stranger than fiction, about an extraordinary country. Lizards which climb on the ceiling, and can shake off and grow anew a wriggling tail, plants which fold up flower and and leaf and branch at the touch of a finger, deer seven inches high, snakes which make a meal of a Malay cow—all these and more.

The lantern slides which illustrated the talk gave vivid impressions of the Malay country, with its little rivers which swell so rapidly in the heavy rains, its high mountains, and heavy forests. The hazards which attended the engineering project through the uncut jungle, and the dangerous picturesqueness of Mr. Wells' life among his staff of native surveyors, trained by himself, were well brought out. Pictures were shown of Mr. Wells' jungle hut, roofed by thatch where snakes and lizards chased each other, of the boats in which he traveled, of his lumbering elephant steeds. Native customs and industries were described, such as the making of tapioca from a poisonous potato-like tuber.

As a conclusion to his talk Mr. Wells showed various weapons and trophies from his life among the Malay people, and using six Connecticut college girls as models, demonstrated the simple but colorful costumes which the Malay men and women wear, for their everyday work and for their festivities.

SUPERIOR COURT DOCKET HAS 445 CASES ON LIST

A new superior court docket has just been prepared by Clerk George E. Parsons and is ready for distribution to the attorneys. It contains 445 cases of which 883 are court cases and 62 jury cases.

SECOND LECTURE FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

Under the auspices of the Norwich Council of Religious Education, Rev. Walter P. Denny will give the second lecture in the lower rooms of the United Congregational church this (Friday) evening at 7.30 o'clock. For the first period, Rev. Mr. Denny will speak on The Message of John's Gospel and for the second period he will deal with some modern difficulties in Biblical interpretation, using the first chapter of Genesis, the book of Jonah and the accounts of the virgin birth, to illustrate his theme.

Those who attended the lecture last week found the speaker concise in statement with a full grasp of every subject and a sympathy with reverent and scientific scholarship. He is one who makes his point clear to the average hearer. Through the courtesy of the State Council of Religious Education this short course of two evenings is made possible for the Sunday school teachers of this vicinity.

PINOCHLE CLUB MET WITH WEST SIDE MEMBER

The Thursday Afternoon Pinochle club was entertained this week at the home of Mrs. Herman Pukalius, West Main street, and the prizes were awarded as follows: First, Mrs. Roswell J. P. Brown, 7,775; second, Mrs. Curran, 7,595; consolation, Mrs. Albert Johnson, 4,840. At the close of play delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and it was announced that the next meeting would be held at the home of Mrs. Samuel Wilson, Cliff street.

CUSTOMERS FOR GAS INCREASING IN STATE

Sales of manufactured gas in Connecticut made a gain of approximately two and one half per cent during the year of 1925, according to statistics of the Connecticut committee on public service information, based on ten months' record. The approximate number of cubic feet of gas sold in this state during the past year, according to the committee was 7,585,000,000, as compared to 7,400,000,000 cubic feet in 1924 and 7,342,478,000 cubic feet in 1923. This makes the gain in gas sales in this state during the past two years about 3.3 per cent. The larger gain of gas in 1925 is attributed by the committee to increased use of gas for cooking, house heating, and industrial heating.

The increase in the number of gas meters in Connecticut was only 1.3 per cent. during 1925, which shows that the greater part of the increased gas sales developed rather from a larger use of gas than by extension of service. The converse of this situation held true in 1924 when an increase of nearly five per cent. in the number of meters took place, and when gas sales themselves increased only 142,478,000 cubic feet. The increase in gas meters in Connecticut during the last two years was about 6 per cent., which brings the total number of meters in the state at present to about 268,368.

Statistics show that practically every person in the state is served by gas in one way or another, for while the population of the state is about a million and a half, the number of people served by gas in Connecticut is now about 1,341,840. Gas service was extended to about 23725 people in Connecticut in 1925, while the increase in the number of gas customers in the past two years was 76,940.

TROLLEY CARS WORKING IN SAFETY CAMPAIGN

In cooperation with the safety councils of the chambers of commerce of several cities in the state, the Connecticut Company is now conducting a vigorous campaign against two major types of street accidents which have figured prominently in accident statistics in Connecticut during recent years. "The Connecticut Company is one of the biggest factors in our accident prevention work," was the statement made by the secretary of the New Haven safety council in an interview with the Connecticut Committee on Public Service Information. Trolley cars in New Haven are now carrying signs outside of the cars, brilliantly lettered with safety slogans, while arrangements have just been completed to place similar signs inside the cars.

The Connecticut Company is combating in particular two types of accidents; namely, those which occur to passengers descending from the cars and stepping into the path of passing motor cars; and those which occur as the result of autoists pulling out from the curb without signal into the path of the trolleys. In two pedestrian deaths occurring in New Haven this year, the fault was chiefly upon the pedestrians themselves when they stepped from behind the cars directly in front of automobiles.

The safety slogans which the Connecticut Company cars are now carrying include cautions against the practice of motorists in pulling out of parking places without giving signals; warnings against speeding across the street intersections; admonitions against descending from trolley cars without first being assured that no danger is imminent; and cautions against "dreamy driving."

SPORTSMEN AND OTHERS FEEDING GAME BIRDS

Something between 200 and 300 pounds of feed for the game birds has been distributed in the past week through the efforts of the Norwich Fish and Game Association which has arranged to have the feed provided by the Yantic Grain Co. to any members of the association, who shows his membership card and is willing to scatter the feed where the birds can get it. Others have taken up the suggestion and have bought grain at their own expense for distribution.

President Arthur E. Story of the Fish and Game association said Thursday night that much interest was being aroused among the sportsmen and among others who are interested in feeding the birds. One rural school teacher had telephoned him that she was having her pupils distribute feed. The Norwich Boy Scouts are to participate today (Friday) and Saturday in distributing feed which will be furnished through the fish and game association.

Mr. Story made the suggestion that the proper way to place the food so that the birds would get the most of it and there would be little waste would be by clearing a space in the snow, down to the ground, and scattering the food there. The game birds are naturally looking for open ground at this time and would be attracted by an open cleared space 10 or 15 feet square where they would find feed. Scattering the feed on top of the snow will result in much waste as much of the feed will be lost to the birds in that way.

Scraper Blocks Paths

Residents of upper Washington street and nearby streets after heavy storms clear sidewalks of all ice and snow, also make paths from street to homes. The snow scraper when removing the snow and ice from the roads throws up the accumulated masses of snow and ice, not only covering the long stretches of sidewalk to a greater depth than was before, but also completely blocks paths made to the homes, piling up snow and ice, making the removal a more difficult task than at first. The house owners wish that men on the scraper would clear out the entrance to the homes and leave the paths as they were before.

GOV. TRUMBULL MAKES MAINE DAY PROCLAMATION

Governor Trumbull has signed a proclamation in which he designates Monday, February 15, as Maine Day, "to commemorate the tragic event which precipitated the Spanish War." The governor directs the observance of the day by suitable exercises in the public schools of the state. The proclamation is as follows:

By His Excellency
JOHN H. TRUMBULL,
GOVERNOR.
A PROCLAMATION

It is no small part of the honorable record of the United States that every war in which we have been engaged has been a struggle, not of greed and aggression, but of defense or deliverance. During the first century of our independence we fought for the life and integrity of the Union and of our own people. In 1898, for the first time, we were stirred to action in the interest of an oppressed people whose claim on us was only that of a common humanity. The Spanish war marked the beginning of a new era of international morality. It set new standards of responsibility. It gave new scope to that national conscience which responded so gloriously to an even greater wrong, twenty years afterwards.

Pursuant to the statute which properly directs a day to be set aside in memory of the tragic event which precipated the Spanish war, I designate Monday, February fifteenth next, as and I direct the observance of the occasion in all of the public schools of the state, by suitable exercises, according to law. All of us should have in mind that in honoring the first dead of the Spanish war, we commemorate also those great principles to which their sacrifice is a splendid and enduring monument.

Given under my hand and seal of the state at the capitol, in Hartford, this twenty-sixth day of January, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and twenty-six and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and fiftieth.

JOHN H. TRUMBULL.
By His Excellency's Command:
FRANCIS A. PALLOTTI, Secretary.

The standing: Lewis 36500, Pettis 34380, Underwood 33475, C. Peckham 33455, J. Jordan 33160, Ellsworth 32550, Boynton 32505, E. Peckham 31740, Parker 31640, A. Jordan 31560, Bailey 31500, Shuler 31365.

HERMAN JACKEL BREAKS HIS LEG IN FALL

Herman Jackel, Jr., of 58 Hobart avenue, who is employed as shipping clerk at the Mohegan mills, is confined to his home with a broken leg, which he suffered in a fall on Hobart avenue Wednesday morning.

Mr. Jackel was on his way to work and was passing the house at the corner of Hobart avenue and Hamlin street, where he fell on an icy spot. His left leg was broken below the knee. A letter carrier, who was on his way to work, helped Mr. Jackel up and started back with him towards his home. On the way they were joined by another letter carrier and the two together assisted him to his home where a doctor was called.

J. FRANK COREY SURPRISED BY BIRTHDAY PURSE OF GOLD

When J. Frank Corey, of 25 Slater Avenue, assistant clerk of the court of common pleas, chanced to remark this week that his birthday and that of Thomas A. Edison, electrical wizard, fell on the same day which was Thursday he did not suspect that any little bird would pass the news along to his friends in Christ Church parish. This, however, was just what happened; for Thursday evening Mr. Corey was a greatly surprised man, when a company of fourteen appeared at his home, all set to give him a big celebration.

This purpose was carried out in full form. Numerous references were made, meantime, to the valuable service Mr. Corey has rendered the parish, during over 30 years, 28 years as clerk, also as a member of the vested choir, at various times as chorister, and as organist whenever a supply was needed.

The surprising party came well equipped with good things for a birthday feast, during which a gift cake was featured, bearing candles—number not stated.

It bore more than this; for when, on suggestion of his callers, Mr. Corey pulled a cord extending from the handsomely decorated cake a box popped out, which held a substantial purse of gold. There were several impromptu speeches, in explanation to Mr. Corey that this gift was in a appreciation of his years of activity and helpfulness in the church and parish.

A social hour and a radio concert rounded out the very pleasant evening. Mr. Corey received other gifts from individual members of the company. George W. Adams, a prominent member of the church, made the address expressing the value set upon Mr. Corey's years of faithful service by those present.

Mr. and Mrs. Corey, their daughter and son and the other members of the household had a cordial welcome for their callers, who spent a delightful evening.

RHODE ISLAND HIGHWAYS ARE WORST SNOWED-IN

Rhode Island is the smallest state in the Union and some Norwich automobile operators are ready to aver that it is the worst snowed-in state at the present time. One of these is Hawkins the florist who started out Wednesday afternoon in his motor truck to carry a load of decorations to Attleboro, Mass. On the way Mr. Hawkins put up the decorations at Plainfield for a dance by the high school, but when he went on through Moosup and Sterling towards Providence, he found the highways in Rhode Island still blocked with snow and impassable. He and the crew of three men with him had to turn back, reaching here again about 2.30 Thursday morning.

MISSION IS OPENED AT CHRIST CHURCH

A preaching, teaching and healing mission was opened Thursday evening at Christ Episcopal church by Rev. D. Robert Bailey, M. A., B. D. The mission was to have opened Wednesday but the missioner was unable to get to Norwich from Boston, owing to the heavy snowstorm which tied up traffic. He came on to Norwich Thursday by train. Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong, rector of the church, led the service Thursday evening.

Preceding his sermon the missioner gave a lecture on the Episcopal church. I find by kneeling that the creed has a new meaning to me, he said in the course of his lecture.

When Adam and Eve sinned they lost the light of God in their souls. When you were baptized you received the light of God in your soul. It needs the sunshine of prayer. If we can bow to an earthly throne can't we bow to God's throne? If your altar means anything on earth, it is the throne of God. Every time I cross the chancel I reverence that altar.

Express what is in your hearts. If you love your baby tell him so. If you love your wife, tell her so. If you love your husband, tell him so. Speaking of the candles on the altar the missioner said: They signify to me that Jesus is the Light of the World. Jesus is the Light of every sorrow. Jesus is the burdon bearer for all cross bearers. Jesus is the perfect Man and the perfect God.

People are asking lots of questions about the ritual. The ritual is only manners. It belongs to His majesty and shows our respect for His law. Instead of binding our congregation, let us love them. Teach them the way and keep your eyes on the cross.

Rev. Dr. Bailey explained the vestments worn by the clergy saying that they are symbolic of Christ. We in a small way represent the great high priest, Jesus Christ, he said. Some people object to the garments but they do not object to them after they know the reason they are worn, he said. A higher conception of the church is what we need.

Following the singing of a hymn Rev. Dr. Bailey preached his sermon, taking his text from the 1st chapter of Timothy. In his sermon he said that a great many people have but a vague idea of what Christianity means. For 1900 years we have been celebrating Christmas. It is all bunkum? Is it true? Is it worthwhile? Nations rise and fall yet the truth goes on. In the first four centuries Christmas was kept in the tomb and underground, because those who knelt at the altar, knelt at risk of their lives. Now everybody keeps Christmas, unbelievers and believers. The only song that separates the unbelievers from the believers is, O, Come All Ye Faithful. All through the Old Testament days it is a story of God working with man preparing him for the great event of history. The woman that God chose was Mary of Nazareth. She was chosen because of her close communion with God. She is the Mother of our Lord. She is the queen of saints. Beauty comes from within. Beauty is the soul. There was never a more beautiful woman than Mary.

God can come to be a power to you. The greatest thing in your life can be God. God can heal you, God can make you happy.

Rev. Dr. Bailey will be here today (Friday), Saturday and Sunday concluding his mission here with a song service and preaching Sunday evening.

CHOOSES HER PROGRAMME FOR NORWICH FRIENDS

Selections chosen with special reference to her musical friends in Norwich, have been chosen for her numbers, by Elena Andrews Merrill, soprano, wife of Frank H. Merrill, formerly general secretary at the Norwich Y. M. C. A., when she broadcast Saturday evening, between 7:30 and 8:30, from WGBS (361 meters), a New York station. Mrs. Merrill is appearing in an hour on the air by the Near East Relief, in which Clyde F. Armitage is to be the speaker. Mildred Sage Tarbell is accompanist for Mrs. Merrill, and violin numbers will be given by Miss Charlotte deVolt.

To Visit Leipzig Exposition

Nash of the Eastern States Exposition of Springfield, Mass., will sail Tuesday, Feb. 16, from New York for Germany where they will investigate and study the famous Leipzig industrial exhibition and buyers' fair conducted annually for more than 600 years in this German industrial center, in addition to representing the Eastern States Exposition, Mr. Nash will also attend as the official representative of the International Association of Fairs and Exposition of which he is a member of the board of directors, being named this week as the American representative by Frank D. Fuller, of Memphis, Tenn., manager of the Tri-State Fair and president of the International association. Mr. Brooks and Mr. Nash will remain in Germany during the entire period of the Leipzig Exposition, returning to America about April 1

BAD CHIMNEY FIRE IN BROADWAY RESIDENCE

A bad chimney fire in the house owned and occupied by C. D. White, 248 Broadway, was instrumental in calling out the fire department at 6:13 o'clock Thursday evening. Several gallons of chemical were used in extinguishing the flames, which had gained some headway by the time the firemen arrived. A small amount of damage was caused by the blaze.

The Huntingtons Recalled

A former Norwich resident, referring to a recent story in The Bulletin regarding Pelatiah Webster Huntington, writes: "I knew Webster Huntington when I was a boy. He used to come on from Columbus to visit his parents. He was named after Pelatiah Perit, an uncle, who was a sea captain, and used to visit the Huntingtons. He lived on the banks of the Hudson, about where Seventy-second street, New York, would be now. He had a beautiful residence, surrounded by wide grounds.

"The Huntingtons were very nice people. Retta and Sarah were the two daughters. The flower of the family was Tom Huntington—he died at the beginning of the Civil War—was only seventeen years old."

SENATE LAST NIGHT PASSED TAX BILL PROVIDING $456,000,000 REDUCTION

Passage of the Bill, 58 to 9, Came as Somewhat of a Surprise Even to Senate Leaders—Action is Expected to Assure Benefits of the Proposed Tax Cut in the Payment of First Income Tax Installments March 15—The Senate Accepted All Reductions Voted by the House and Slashed Taxes by Another $125,000,000—House and Senate Conferees Are Expected to Reach an Agreement Within a Week.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—The senate late tonight passed the tax reduction bill by a vote of 58 to 9, providing a saving of $456,000,000 in taxes this year to federal taxpayers, and sent it to conference for adjustment of differences with the house.

Passage of the bill, which came suddenly and somewhat as a surprise even to senate leaders, is expected to assure benefits of the proposed tax cut in the payment of first income tax installments March 15.

Going far beyond the appointed hour set for adjournment, the senate accepted all reductions voted by the house and, in addition, slashed taxes by another $125,000,000.

The administration has declared the extent of reduction provided by the bill excessive, but confidence was expressed at the white house today that the measure, as finally drafted by the conference committee, would lower the total cuts to within limits acceptable to President Coolidge.

Not more than a week is expected to be taken by the conferees in reaching a compromise, after which the senate and house must ratify the agreement before the bill is sent to the white house for the signature of the president.

Thirty-four republicans and twenty-four democrats voted for the measure, while six republicans, two democrats and the one farmer-labor member opposed it.

The final roll call follows:

For the bill:

Republicans—Cutler, Cameron Capper Cousens, Dale, Deneed, Edge, Fernald, Fess, Gillett, Goff, Hale, Harreld, Jones of Washington; Keys, Lenroot, McLean, McNary, Metcalf, Moses, Oddie, Pepper, Phipps, Pine, Reed of Pennsylvania; Robinson of Indiana; Sackett, Shortridge, Smoot, Stanfield, Warren, Watson, Weller, and Wills—34.

Democrats—Ashurst, Bayard, Broussard, Copeland, Dill, Edwards, Ferris, Fletcher, George, Gerry, Glass, Harris, Harrison, Heflin, Kendrick, King, McKellar, Neely, Ransdell, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Trammel and Tyson—24. Total 58.

Against the bill:

Republicans—Frazier, LaFollette, McMaster, Norbeck, Norris and Nye—6.

Democrats—Reed of Missouri, and Wheeler—2.

Farmer-labor—Shipstead—1. Total 9.

SEEDS OF PROPAGANDA IN PRIMARY PUBLIC SCHOOLS

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 13—(AP)—Big commercial organizations as well as religious organizations are attempting to sow seeds of propaganda in primary public schools as a means of ultimately influencing public life for their own aggrandizement, according to Ernest W. Butterfield, of Concord, N. H., commissioner of education of that state, who made this declaration at the annual joint dinner of the Connecticut School Superintendents' association and the Headmasters club, here tonight. The dinner was one of a series of the Connecticut State Teachers' association and other state educational organizations.

"The religion of belief has no place in the public schools," said Commissioner Butterfield. "It is the duty of the parents and religious organizations to teach this. The religion of behavior has a proper place in the public schools and has always been taught there."

Other speakers were Carroll Reed, superintendent of the schools in Bridgeport, and Franklin E. Pierce of Hartford, state supervisor of secondary education.

The program for tomorrow includes meetings of the superintendents association, the state teachers' association, the teachers' college club and the schools for foreign-born adults.

RIOT IN DUBLIN THEATRE DURING PERFORMANCE

DUBLIN, Feb. 12—(AP)—Police patroled the Abbey Theatre throughout the day to prevent possible disturbances as an aftermath of last night's riot within the theatre when Sea O'Casey's play "The Plough and the Stars," had its initial showing. The performance had to be stopped several times because of demonstrations by those in the audience who considered the drama which depicts happenings of the rebellion of Easter week in 1916 as "detrimental to the cause of Ireland."

It was noted that the greater part of the audience was in sympathy with the play, and there has been a heavy advance sale for the remaining performances. The author has already received an offer for a season in London.

When interviewed today, O'Casey said the incident was a great advertisement for the play, the theme of which was humanity's outcry against war.

YOUNG WOMAN CALLED TAXI TO CALL AT JAIL

BOSTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—The young lady in the Gilbert and Sullivan opera who mourned that "no telephone connects me with his cell" had an opposite today. A woman hurrying to telephone passed a heavily-grilled doorway and was shown by an attendant through offices and into a booth,—also with barred door.

She didn't notice the bars, but telephoned for a taxicab after swinging the door shut.

"Where shall I tell him to call?" she asked the attendant.

"The Charles street jail," he replied.

BOY SCOUTS SEARCH FOR BODY OF JAMES DEVERY

HARTFORD, Feb. 12—(AP)—Between fifty and 100 Boy Scouts of Hartford, and West Hartford, will search isolated sections of this city and West Hartford tomorrow under police direction in an effort to locate the body of James Devery, eight years old, of 351 Broad street, who disappeared last Sunday. Detective Sergeants Madigan and Keefe will lead about fifty Hartford scouts while Chief Grogan, of West Hartford, will lead as many of the fifty-seven members of Troop 12, of West Hartford, as report to him.

TWO MEN KILLED BY TRAIN NEAR HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Feb. 12—(AP)—William Cameron, 60 years old, of 469 Park avenue, Burnside, and James B. Daley, 42 years old of 472 Park avenue, Burnside, were both instantly killed when struck by a west-bound train on the New Haven tracks, about 600 feet west of the Burnside station, early tonight.

There were no witnesses, so far as is known, as the train which killed the men apparently went on its way without the engineer or any other member of its crew being aware of what had happened. The tragedy was not discovered until Eugene Callahan, a call boy employed by the New Haven railroad, came upon the bodies at 9.30 p. m. Both bodies were badly mangled and it is believed that death came quickly.

Cameron and Daley were employed by the Billings and Spencer company in Hartford. It was their custom each night between 6.30 and 7.45 o'clock on their way home from work to cross the railroad tracks at the point where tonight they met their deaths. It is that they were struck some time between these hours tonight.

Daley leaves a wife—who is an expectant mother, and two children, Helen, 12 years old and Bernard, 10 years old, also four sisters.

FOREIGN CLERGYMEN MAY BE DEPORTED FROM MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12—(AP)—Reports appear in the newspapers, but thus far they have not been confirmed officially, that foreign Protestant clergymen in addition to Catholic clergymen may be deported from Mexico under the constitutional requirement that a minister of any religion in Mexico must be native-born.

These reports were printed after it was officially announced today that ten foreign priests had been deported, either others were in the custody of the authorities awaiting expulsion, and that the police were searching for others alleged to have acted contrary to the constitution.

Several of the deported priests are Spanish and they are now on the way to Havana on the steamship Espagne.

Five churches in Mexico City where the deported priests officiated are closed, because they are now without clergymen.

CRIMINAL NEGLECTED TO ALTER HIS FINGER NAILS

DANVILLE, Ills., Feb. 12—(AP)—Although Luke O'Neill, 25, Alias Edgar aVnce, spent $1,000 for facial operations to disguise himself after murering Catherine Gore in New York city last September, he neglected to alter his finger prints. He was arrested here last week in an automobile stolen in St. Louis and following comparison of his finger prints with those in a New York police bulletin, confessed the murder.

GILPATRIC WILL LEAVE ATLANTA TODAY

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 12—(AP)—G. Harold Gilpatric, former Connecticut state treasurer, who is serving a 15-year sentence in the Atlanta federal penitentiary for embezzlement of funds from a Hartford, Conn., bank, will leave tomorrow for Hartford to testify concerning new developments in his case.

Last Christmas Gilpatric, who is blind, was recommended by Warden John E. Snook, as the prisoner most deserving of clemency, but opposition from his home city is said to have prevented his release.

Guardsmen Involved In Liquor Scandal

Exposure Predicted by Federal Agents Who Have Been Watching at New London.

NEW LONDON, Feb. 12—(AP)—Exposure of some of the methods used by Rhode Island and Connecticut rum smugglers to land liquors obtained at rum row off Montauk Point on Block Island, and then with alleged connivance of members of the coast guard to get that liquor safely ashore and transported to bootleggers, was predicted tonight by federal agents who have been working here. This prediction followed arrest of men in Providence charged with conspiracy with coast guardsmen to land liquor.

The federal agents have been at work here since the William J. Dwyer exposure in New York city, which involved a number of guardsmen of the local base. Today, John D. Teevans, a former boatswain was taken from the New London county jail here where he was serving a six months' sentence for being intoxicated while on duty and held as a material witness for the investigations. He will be questioned as to operations of a Block Island "liquor ring" Teevans during most of last summer and fall commanded a patrol boat operating out of Block Island.

After information came here of the arrest in Providence of four men, it was said that developments in those cases might show that the Block Island "rum ring" was a subsidiary of the Dwyer syndicate. Teevans as a federal prisoner, was turned over by the jail authorities to the federal agents, the request for such action coming from Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lincoln C. Andrews in charge of prohibition enforcement and the coast guard service.

Teevans was arrested with Boatswain John Stuart and Chis Hansen when Commander F. H. Young, head of Section Base Number 4, found them drunk on the patrol in Great Salt pond, Block Island, sometime ago. The last mentioned were indicted in New York by a federal grand jury for alleged participation in the Dwyer conspiracy. Stuart was taken from the county jail a week ago by federal agents and sent to New York to await trial. Hansen's term will expire tomorrow and agents are ready to take him to New York when he leaves the jail.

ADDITIONAL ARRESTS IN RUM CONSPIRACY

PROVIDENE, R. I., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Several additional arrests in the rum conpiracy involving alleged bribery of coast guardsmen and smuggling liquor into southern New England from the liquor fleet hovering off the shore along Long Island sound, are expected momentarily according to agents of the treasury department who have lodged a second campaign against the leaders of the bootlegging gang said to be financing the landing of liquor in the east.

With six men already held here on charges on conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act, special investigators under Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews are certain that the activities of the Rhode Island men are closely connected with the Dwyer Liquor Syndicate in New York which resulted in the indictment of more than a score of men including crews of two coast guard patrol boats.

Two of the six prisoners were arrested this afternoon. They are "Dutch" Reizman of Connecticut and Henry C. Johnson, former manager of the Hummocks at Hamilton. Johnson was brought before Commissioner Hart on conspiracy charges and held in $10,000 bail for hearing March 11.

Pictures That Pay.

Your mind registers hundreds of pictures every day. Faces on the street, people in the doorway, a tray of watches in the window, ribbon on a hat. Interesting, or amusing, maybe—but of what value are most of them to you?

Yet a vast number of pictures that can affect your daily living are waiting for your glance. Advertisements show you better things to ride in, eat, wear, enjoy—honestly pictured for you. Pictures that pay.

You can recognize them at once, link them at once with their advertised facts, know all about them before you buy. You don't have to test them. They are tested for you.

Pictures in advertisements are pictures of good things enjoyed in countless homes. Look at The Bulletin's advertisements and their pictures. They let you choose the best.

Vote Confidence in French Government

Premier Briand Upon Demand Received Vote of 327 to 102 in Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, Feb. 12—(AP)—For the first time in the long drawn-out discussions on the financial rehabilitation measures, Premier Briand asked and received a vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies today. The vote was 327 to 102—a greater majority than the premier had looked for.

M. Briand had demanded that the measure providing that the state should become equal heir with children in direct line inheritances be reserved for later consideration, and before the vote was taken he emphasized that he would consider the result as a show of confidence or non-confidence in the government. The shifting majority of the chamber went toward the right and supported the premier's demand, but the socialists and communists voted against him.

This, the first signal victory of the government in the financial debate, however, loses a certain amount of its significance because of the fact that it was due to a rupture in the ranks of the left bloc. The vote is taken as indication that M. Briand can count upon the radicals and moderates only to put through the financial measures.

In the course of the debate, Premier Briand made it clear that prompt action on the financial bills was necessary and he impressed it upon the chamber that it was face to face with the responsibility of providing the necessary means to enable the treasury to meet the pressing situation.

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE'S TRIBUTE TO LINCOLN

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—A tribute to the memory of Abraham Lincoln, whom he described as "belonging to the whole Anglo-Saxon family" was paid tonight by Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian troops in the world war, at the Lincoln Day dinner of the League for Political Education.

After picturing the emancipator as one who "embodied in his character and in his efforts the highest Anglo-Saxon ideals," Sir Arthur said that if he were alive today he would urge Canada and the United States to "retain as sacred their international friendship."

Sir Arthur now is principal of McGill University.

WORK ORDERED STOPPED ON GARDE THEATRE, NEW LONDON

NEW LONDON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Work on the new Garde theatre building on State street was ordered stopped this afternoon by H. R. Linicus, building inspector, when it was found that part of the wall as being built was only 13 inches thick. As provided in the plans and called for in the local building ordinances, the wall should be 16 inches thick. Officials of the construction company handling the job said that an unintentional mistake had been made and that steps would be taken immediately to make the wall as required in the local code.

RIVALRY FOR TREASURES OF LORD LEVERHULME

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—Rivalry between American and English bidders for the art treasurers of the late Lord Leverhulme has been so keen that, although the sale of the collection has been in progress only since Tuesday, that the returns so far total more than $500,000. Only a small part of the collection has been sold.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE SENT OUT HIS 1913 LINCOLN DAY PROCLAMATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—President Coolidge believes that nothing he could say in tribute to Abraham Lincoln would be better praise than the Lincoln proclamation he issued in 1913 as governor of Massachusetts.

As a result, the white house, responding to requests for an expression from the president, sent copies of the proclamation to be read tonight at Lincoln birthday meetings in various sections of the country.

In his proclamation, Mr. Coolidge said:

"Five score and ten years ago, that divine Providence which infinite repetition has made only the more a miracle sent into the world a new life, destined to save a nation. No star, no sign, foretold his coming. About his cradle all was poor and mean save only the source of all great men, the love of a beautiful woman. When she faded away in his tender years, from her deathbed in humble poverty, she dowered her son with greatness.

"There can be no proper observance of a birthday which forgets the mother. Into his origin as into his life men long have looked and wondered. In wisdom great, but in humility greater, in justice strong, but in compassion stronger, he became a leader of men by being a follower of the truth. He overcame evil with good. His presence filled the nation. He broke the might of oppression. He restored a race to its birthright. His mortal frame has vanished, but his spirit increased with the increasing years, the richest legacy of the greatest century.

"Men show by what they worship what they are. It is no accident that before the great example of American manhood, our people stand with respect and reverence. And in accordance with this sentiment, our laws have provided for a formal recognition of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, for in him is revealed our ideals, the hope of our country fulfilled."

UP TO MINERS TO RATIFY COAL STRIKE AGREEMENT

Ratification by Miners' Convention Next Week Would Definitely End the Controversy—Miners Are Claiming a Victory, But There is a Provisional Agreement For Arbitration—Union Leaders Maintain That the Operators Must Agree to Some System of Deducting Union Dues From the Miners' Wages—Credit For Settling the Strike is Given R. F. Grant of Cleveland, a Coal Operator Official.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12—(AP)—The settlement of the anthracite strike has been effected.

Ratification of the action taken today, which ends one of the greatest industrial struggles in the world's history of labor, will come through convention of miners the middle of next week and the following day will see the precious black diamonds rolling to market.

Two millions of people in the anthracite fields and nearby territory, including the 153,000 mine workers who stood solidly behind their leaders throughout the strike, celebrated tonight the ending of the suspension which had paralyzed business and brought bankruptcy and want to many.

A five year contract was agreed upon, the longest term ever negotiated in the hard coal industry.

The old wage scale, which expired last August was readopted, but after January 1, 1927, either miners or operators will have the right at least once a year to propose wage changes.

Arbitration, the principle which three times wrecked the peace negotiations, is provided for in the agreement if a dispute arises over wage adjustments, but it is only optional and is claimed by the union leaders to be a great victory for them. The word "shall" that has appeared in all the peace plans heretofore submitted by the operators in their arbitrary offers today was changed to "may."

The miners also claim a victory on the check-off demand for which they have been fighting for 25 years, first under the leadership of John Mitchell and then under successive presidents of the United Mine Workers.

The word "check-off" does not appear in the agreement, but it is covered in the agreement in the phrase, "Shall work out a reciprocal program of co-operation and efficiency."

Union leaders said that this means the operators are obligated and understand that they must agree to some system of deducting union dues from the miners' wages. To fail to do this, union leaders said would be an act of "bad faith" under the agreement.

Leaders among the operators and miners tonight were emphatic in their declarations that the settlement was made "within the industry" and without any outside influence.

It was stated by the highest authority in each camp that neither the president of the United States, nor the governor of Pennsylvania and no federal department had a hand in the settlement.

The figure that stands out tonight as the one man who did most to bring about an end to the long and disastrous struggle is R. F. Grant, of Cleveland, Ohio. He is vice president of the M. A. Hanna company, soft coal operators and president of the Susquehanna Collieries company, an anthracite subsidiary of the Hanna concern.

Both miners and operators bestowed the highest praise on his ability as a mediator. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, said that Mr. Grant was the "mediator and instrumentality" in bringing an end to the strike and performed a wonderful service. This statement was echoed by the operators.

Mr. Grant was quite modest in explaining his activities. After caustic reference to "many champions of the people with political hopes" who capitalize situations for their own benefit, Mr. Grant gave unstinted praise to President Coolidge for his non-interference.

"I call attention to the great common sense and wisdom of President Coolidge," said Mr. Grant. "It is my firm conviction that if he had yielded to the great pressure upon him and had tried to intervene, this contract would not be signed today. The American people are entitled to know this solemn conviction of mine and to honor this great president of ours who has shortened the strike by his wisdom."

Mr. Grant quietly began his work of bringing about a settlement last Saturday when he saw Major W. W. Inglis, chairman of the anthracite operators negotiating committee, in Scranton. Whether it was the "psychological moment" to act or whether the operators were ready for a settlement is not revealed, but after getting Major Inglis and other operators in a receptive mood to consider concessions, he got in touch with President Lewis in Wilkes-Barre late on Tuesday.

The leaders of the miners, who had known Mr. Grant for years and trusted him, showed willingness to reopen negotiations and Wednesday found the Cleveland man in Philadelphia with the operators.

From then on things began to move rapidly, including the miners headquarters from Wilkes Barre to Philadelphia, Newspaper men who had the scent could not be shaken off and yesterday morning the Associated Press was able to make known with accuracy that another effort to end the strike was being made, despite denials from both sides.

TILSON TELLS HOW HOUSE STOOD ON COAL STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Feb 13—(AP)—Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the republican floor leader, issued the following statement today in explanation of the attitude of the house during the anthracite suspension:

"I am glad, of course, that the coal strike has been settled. Some criticism has been directed against the house of representatives, and especially against the committee on interstate and foreign commerce for not having attempted to take action of some kind to bring about an earlier settlement.

"At the opening of this session of congress, the president in his annual message, recommended certain legislation which would have the effect of extending the present powers of the executive branch of the government with reference to mediation in future labor disputes in the coal mining industry. Since that time the house has been busy on the revenue bill and the important appropriation bills and the interstate and foreign commerce committee has been particularly busy with numerous legislative proposals of great importance.

"The chairman of the interstate and foreign commerce committee and the leadership of the house were and are of the opinion that no good purpose would be served by attempting to formulate permanent legislation of this character at a timew hen the existing circumstances might arouse false hopes in the minds of the warring factions, and might bias the judgment of the congress.

"I believe that in delaying action on the president's recommendation for permanent legislation on this subject the chairman of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce and the leadership of this house acted wisely and that the recent settlement was expedited by reason of the refusal of the congress of the United States to attempt interference or to influence the chief executive to that end.

"Now that the strike is settled, the congress may proceed to consideration of the president's proposals for extending the executive's powers to meet a further emergency in the calm and dispassionate frame of mind which will be conductive to sound legislative action.

PREDICTS COAL LEGISLATION AT THIS SESSION OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—Passage of comprehensive coal legislation at this session of congress was predicted tonight by Chairman Parker of the house commerce committee, in a statement reviewing the attitude of his committee toward the anthracite suspensions and the coal industry generally. The statement follows:

"It is my opinion that no legislation that could have been passed by the present congress would have affected the settlement of the coal strike, which has been in existence for the past six months. The advocates of legislation to bring about a settlement of the strike have been very ready to point out the emergency, but none of them has suggested a remedy that was practical.

"The anthracite mines are entirely within the state of Pennsylvania and there are laws in the state of Pennsylvania affecting the condition of labor and the tax on coal, which virtually means an export tax. It is very difficult to draft federal legislation abridging these laws of the state of Pennsylvania to a commodity entirely within that state.

"It always has been my intention to take up the recommendations of the president regarding coal, but I did not think it wise to do so during an emergency, for it has been my experience that general legislation passed under an emergency was rarely in the public interest. The emergency affects the cool, judicial judgment of the men drafting the legislation.

"In my judgment, there is no doubt but what, before the present congress adjourns, legislation will be adopted and enacted into law that will carry out the recommendations of the president regarding coal, repeatedly given in his messages."

DAMAGING TESTIMONY AGAINST MAYOR QUIGLEY

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Testimony that Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley of Chelsea "saw to it" that there was no prosecution after a police liquor raid had uncovered quantity of moonshine in a garage rented by him was given today in federal court by Jacob London of Revere, former Chelsea barkeeper. London was called as a government witness in the trial of Mayor Quigley and 26 others for conspiracy to violate the liquor laws.

London said the raid was made by Thomas Quigley, Chelsea police inspector and brother of the mayor, another defendant. The garage was rented London said, from Samuel Gerscovitz, who was indicted in the conspiracy and pleaded guilty.

A week after the raid London said he went to the mayor and told him that he was interested in the garage and did not want any prosecution. According to London the mayor said "I'll see Tom and see to it that there is no prosecution."

"Were you or Gerscovitz ever prosecuted?" London was asked.

"No."

G. B. CHANDLER CHOSEN SEC'Y OF THE OHIO C. OF C.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 13.—(AP)—George B. Chandler, executive vice president of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce was unanimously chosen secretary of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce by the board of directors meeting today. He will assume his duties March 1.

HARTFORD, Feb. 13.—(AP)—No consideration has yet been given to the matter of a successor to Mr. Chandler, President Ernest E. Rogers of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce said tonight. It was hoped that he might remain here, although the new position is expected to allow greater scope and the salary offer was considerably in excess of the $10,000 he received in this state. A meeting of the board of directors is expected to be called soon to consider a successor.

TWO ENGINES WERE IN COLLISION AT HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Feb. 12—(AP)—Two light engines, engaged in switching, crashed into one another on the "New Haven" tracks at the east end of the Connecticut river bridge tonight about 5:30 o'clock. No one was injured. The damage was estimated by officials to be slight and the tracks were cleared for traffic at 9:15. There were no serious delays in schedules because of the crash it was declared.

UNIFORM FLAG DISPLAY MEETS WITH PUBLIC FAVOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 12.—The business streets of Willimantic were beautified and made patriotic in appearance Friday, Lincoln's birthday, with the display of the Shenandoah flag system for the first time. Fanned by a light breeze 145 flags waved gloriously in avenues of red white and blue. With touches of remaining snow here and there and crowds of pedestrians and motor traffic marching on and with the national colors so prominently displayed, Main street presented a pretty picture which received much favorable comment. The uniform flag display came about here in a project fostered by the local post of the American Legion and backed up by members of the Willimantic Business Men's association. There were but very few exceptions to the number of those who refused to adopt the decorative method. With all the flags out Friday people on the streets spent considerable time looking about and picking out here and there these stores which represented a break in the uniformity of the display. Many opinions were expressed that these "breaks" expressed something of the shirker or the miser. In various other ways Willimantic noted the birthday of the great emancipator. Business houses, residences and public buildings displayed the colors. Some questioning arose when the flag failed to appear on the mast of the town building. It was found that aerial wires had become twisted in the halyard ropes and Engineer Joseph Ellis was unable to raise the flag.

Two women and a man suffered injuries and other passengers were slightly shaken up when one of the passenger busses operated between Willimantic and Hartford by the Hartford-Willimantic Jitney association, plowed into a snow bank and struck a tree in Andover, some ten miles from here, about six o'clock Thursday night. Harold Cahill, the driver, was passing an automobile driven by Mrs. Albert E. Welch, of this city, when the left front wheel of the bus struck the snow bank causing the machine to veer to the left and come to a stop against a tree. The cars were traveling in the same direction. Mrs. Robert G. Remington, of 248 Lewiston avenue, this city, who was riding beside her husband on the third seat from the front, was thrown forward in the collision. She sustained two fractured bones in her right wrist. Miss Helen Boynton, of Ripley Hill, South Coventry, who was riding on the front seat, suffered a sprained ankle. The women were taken to this city by Mrs. Welch, and after receiving medical attention, were returned to their respective homes. A local young man who sat in a rear seat was scratched by flying glass. Cahill, driver of the bus, escaped injury. The bus was running on schedule time having left Hartford at 5:15 o'clock. The machine was backed onto the highway under its own power but as the collision with the tree had caused the radiator to leak it was towed to a local garage. The accident on the line is one of remarkably few over a period of several years.

Attempts to reach some country areas by automobile were unsuccessful Friday. The highway from Columbia to Hebron continued to be blocked, and residents on that road and the villages of Hebron and Amston continue to be isolated. Employes of the state department continued to labor in an endeavor to break through. Some of the drifts on this elevated and much exposed stretch of road were more than ten feet high. Continuing along to the tune of what February has brought us it is timely to mention some of the difficulties which the rural mail carriers have encountered since the first and second heavy snowstorms. Practically all of the carriers have returned to the horse and wagon or sleigh outfit. It has not been unusual for them to come face to face with drifts which were high enough to engulf horse, wagon and all. In such cases as this a detour is taken through lots and meadows. Harry N. Moseley, the Scotland mail carrier, shoveled for two hours Friday morning before he could extricate his automobile from a drift on Cary Hill, near the village.

A patriotic program was carried out at the February meeting of the Brotherhood of the First Congregational church, held in the church house Thursday evening. State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown, of Jewett City, delivered the address of the evening, his subject being, Lessons from the Life of Lincoln. He was introduced by Justice George E. Hinman. Negotiations for Attorney Brown's appearance here were made by Albert B. Smith. The meeting was in charge of President Clifford E. Williams. The Ladies' society served supper. Patriotic songs were rendered by a quartet composed of Arthur L. Clark, Harry W. Standish, Raymond A. Parker and Dr. R. Bullock Jones. At the close of the supper William A. Dawson, as George Washington, and Charles B. Pomeroy, as Abraham Lincoln, entered the room. Yankee Doodle was sung. Mr. Dawson read part of Washington's farewell address and Mr. Pomeroy read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. The entertainment committee in charge of the program was composed of Albert B. Smith, chairman; Dr. R. Bullock Jones, Harry W. Standish, Alfred P. Beebe, A. Wilson Greer, George H. Shafer and Robert C. Rose.

Much enjoyment was derived and many useful kitchen utensils received at a kitchen shower given at the Windham Girls' club meeting Thursday night. Mrs. Arthur Racicot presented the club a tea wagon. Arrangements were made to have The Candlelight Sextette, of the Century Symphony orchestra, give a concert here next month. Miss Barbara Kruger, state secretary of the Connecticut League of Girls' clubs, will assist with the concert. Miss Mildred Moulton, as chairlady and assisted by the entire club membership, will preside. Miss Margaret Ronan was hostess for the evening. Those appearing on the program included Miss Winifred Kelley, pianist, Miss Loretta Denesuk, solo dancer and Miss Alice Carey, accompanist.

Mrs. Emelie Lafontaine, wife of Adolphe Lafontaine, died at the home of her son, Heliodore Lafontaine, in Lebanon, Thursday afternoon. She was a member of St. Mary's parish of this city and of the Ladies of St. Anne and Holy Cross societies. The deceased was born in Yamachiche, Canada, August 18, 1863, a daughter of Thomas and Rose Delima Ricard Vellemure. She leaves her husband, and seven children, Heliodore Lafontaine, of Lebanon, Omer, Walter and Miss Floretta Lafontaine, of this city; Mrs. Eugene Bellemore, of St. Flore, Canada, and Sister Mari Elisa and Sister Marie de la Pratecteur, of the Congregation of the St. Famille, Canada, one brother, Mezime, of Yamachiche; two sisters, Mrs. Atanasse Dugas, of Maskienonge, Canada, and Mrs. Joseph Dupuis, also of Maskienonge; and ten grandchildren.

Atanasse Dugas of Maskienonge, Canada, and Mrs. Joseph Dupius also of Maskienonke, and ten grand children.

Mrs. Sarah Montgomery, 79, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs Elizabeth Hanson of 84 High street late Thursday. She was born in Ireland, January 27, 1847, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Forsythe. Surviving is her daughter, Mrs. Montgomery, two sons, George F., and William J. Montgomery of Whitinsville, Mass., three grand children and one great-grandchild. The remains were prepared for burial and taken on the 3.35 o'clock train Friday afternoon for Whitinsville. The J. C. Lincoln company are in charge of the arrangements.

With Louis H. Arnold as chairman the financial campaign for new members of the Welfare Bureau is under way and will continue for several weeks. Other members of the committee are, John F. Ahern, Robert O. Branch, Mrs. George E. Hinman, Mrs. A. E. Greene, Roland B. Jordan, Robern H. Fenton and Nelson A. Daniels, and President John P. Carlsen. The Welfare Bureau is a local charitable endeavor and specializes in distress cases giving the following phases of assistance: Prompt visits, medical aid, pensions, allowances, loans, legal aid, milk and various other forms of relief.

Leslie Kearns, about 55 years of age died at the Norwich state tuberculosis sanatorium Thursday. The deceased resided in Mansfield. Surviving him is a sister, Mrs. C. A. Sweet, of Manchester.

Filed with the secretary of the state at Hartford Thursday was an incorporation certificate by the Gem Theatre Co. of Willimantic. The capitalized capital of $50,000 to begin with capitalized capital of $550,000 to begin with $1,000. The incorporators are Bernhardt E. Hoffman and Samuel Campner of New Haven and Morris Pouzzner of South Manchester.

Engine Company, No. 1, answered to a call for a chimney fire in the residence occupied by B. C Greene and owned by Joseph Caldevado at 217 Mansfield avenue at 9.30 o'clock Friday morning. Nine gallons of chemical were used.

In the presence of many parents and friends over 100 couples were present at the annual Junior Promenade of Windham High school, held at the Al-Pierre Tabarine Thursday night. The Peerless Eight played. John Buck president of the class of 1927, and Miss Elinor Stanley, led the grand march. The patronesses were: Principal and Mrs. Egbert A. Case, Miss Frances Hyde, Miss Catherine Wheeler, Lawrence King, J. Zaimon S. Hunt, Thomas A. Callaghan, Miss Craire Calner and John B. Sullivan. The arrangements committee was composed of Miss Lois Holman, chairman, Miss Virginia Hinman, Miss Laura Belanger, Roderick Besulieu and Edward Gatchell.

The following arrangements committe for the Easter Monday annual ball has been named by Patrick A. Connor, grand knight, of San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus: Thomas O'Brien, J. Francis Moriarty, James Healy, Daniel Graff, Luke Revrin, Conrad Dubeau, Gilbert P. Flynn, Robert Casey and Paul Moran.

The meeting of the Mansfield town school committee scheduled for Thursday night was postponed until next Tuesday evening due to present traveling conditions.

Joseph Lefebvre was installing officer at the installation of officers of Les Artisans, affiliated with the French Federated societies, held at St. Mary's hall, Thursday night.

Personal and Social.

Mrs. George F. Stiles entertained the Windham Road Bridge club on Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. Florence H. Fitch of New London as guest. Mrs. Fitch won first prize, Mrs. F. M. Smith, second, and Miss Elizabeth Hardman, third.

Most Women

Have stopped old hygienic methods to assure real immaculacy. NEW way gives true protection—discards like tissue

FEW modern women but employ a new and different way in hygiene. A way that supplants the old-time "sanitary pad" with true protection.

Wear filmy frocks and light things . . . any time. Dance, motor for hours without doubt or fear.

It is called "KOTEX"—five times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad!

Thoroughly deodorizes . . . thus ending ALL fear of offending.

✓ Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it without hesitancy at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." Costs only a few cents. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, tallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

INTEREST IN COUNT SALM AND HIS ESTRANGED WIFE

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12—(AP)—Palm Beach was speculating today over the next move of Count Ludwig Salm Hoogstraeten and his estranged wife, the former Millicent Rogers.

The count is expected Sunday and probably will make immediate use of the order signed by Justice O'Malley in New York allowing him to see his young son four afternoons a week between 2 and 4 o'clock.

Meantime the countess is not leading a cloistered existence. Two nights ago she attended a dance given in honor of herself and her closest friend, Mrs. Fiji Widener Leidy. She attends theatres and supper clubs and is a regular attendant at the weekly boxing bouts where she occupies a ringside seat.

She avoids the casino beach, however, taking her son, Peter, for a dip each morning from the private beach of the Pillsburys where she is stopping.

She has intimated through friends that she does not expect the count to attempt to force an unwelcome interview with her, adding that she always has found him to be a gentleman, and that should she meet him in a public place she might even acknowledge his presence by a slight nod.

The Countess, however, appears to be the only person in Palm Beach who is not excited over the Count's approaching visit. Extensive preparations are being made, and fashion editors are prepared to note every item of his dress.

A prominent hotel has announced the count has reserved through a friend a suite for Sunday. He is expected to be accompanied by his mother.

Other parents also are arriving. H. H. Rogers, Standard Oil magnate, father of Millicent already has reached here and Mrs. Rogers is expected at any time.

WOULD EXPERIMENT WITH FIGHTING PLANE SQUADRON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—Creation of an experimental fighting plane squadron in the naval air service with ships manned entirely by enlisted pilots is recommended by the special board appointed by Secretary Wilbur to outline a policy for the department on the proportion of commissioned on the proportion of commissioned and enlisted fliers to be maintained.

"After a year of this experiment," the report added, "consider the results obtained as a basis for the future number of assignments of enlisted men to operating squadrons.

Under the plan three experienced naval officers will be placed in command of the enlisted pilot experimental squadron, and there would be a readjustment of enlisted ratings in the naval air service. The pilots would be selected carefully from available personnel and the year would be devoted to an intensive program of maneuvers and training calculated to give reliable information as to the practicability of the enlisted pilot plan.

The special board was headed by Rear Admiral M. M. Taylor and included five naval aviators and two other officers who have commanded aircraft carrier squadrons. It was directed by Secretary Wilbur to study in addition, a system for the naval service under which officers specializing in aviation can be fitted also to command the sea fleets and not be narrowed exclusively to aviation units.

REVIEWED THE RECORD OF PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 13—(AP)—Postmaster General New reviewed the record of President Coolidge and the republican congress here tonight and advised the country to follow the slogan of Mark Hanna and "let well enough alone."

"When well enough is the best for which anyone could wish," said the postmaster general, "why not accept it, why not perpetuate it by re-electing the men and the party under whose administration these conditions have been brought about?"

Mr. New's address was delivered before the Lincoln club of Kentucky. After a eulogy to Abraham Lincoln, he sketched the country's expansion since the Civil war and declared that "under this republican administration of Calvin Coolidge we are at the high point of our prosperity." The democrats, he said, had been searching vainly for an issue for the approaching campaign.

"What is to be the democratic issue?" he continued. "Are they to assail Coolidge? As man and individual his life has been unassailable.

"I undertake to say that no president that has ever occupied the white house has enjoyed the confidence of the whole American public to the same degree as has Calvin Coolidge. Even Washington, Lincoln, Grant, Cleveland, Wilson, had their enemies and detractors within their own parties. No where is there a voice raised against Coolidge.

"It it to be the world court? All but two of the democrats who voted at all voted for it.

"It it to be the tax law? The public has not only approved all that in advance, but has clamored for it and has served notice on the democratic minority that it will brook no trifling with it.

"Is it to be the tariff? We hear intimations to that effect. One would think that the record of the democratic tinkering with the tariff at more than one period of the past would have convinced even them that this is not their forte. It is just plain fact that this country has invariably prospered under a protective tariff and has invariably languished under a tariff for revenue only."

PRACTICAL COURSE IN MARINE ENGINEERING

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 12—(AP)—The annual trip on coastwise vessels of the Propeller club, of Yale university, consisting of students in the graduate course in marine engineering given by Professor Herbert L. Seward, was made during the mid-year examination period. Through the generosity of J. Howard Gardiner, vice president of the New England Steamship company all transportation and subsistence were provided without cost to the club.

Leaving here late Tuesday the party spent the night in the engine room of the steamer "City of Taunton." Various power houses in New York city were visited Wednesday. All equipment on the Fall River line steamer Providence" which was forced to anchor that evening in the East river because of the storm was inspected during the evening. Thursday the Providence made the trip to Fall River through Long Island sound and around Point Judith.

Continuing its journey by rail from Fall River, to New London, the party Friday inspected the submarine base at the latter city. Friday night was spent in the engine room of the twin-screw steamer "Richard Peck," in which practical points of operation were observed, such as oiling, maneuvering and answering signals.

MAIL TRANSFERRED FROM PLANES TO SLEDS

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The oldest and the newest forms of transportation combined today to get part of New York's mail delivered on time. Mail sacks arriving at Hadley Field, N. J., by airplane from Chicago were carried on horse sleds to the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad and continued their trip to this city on the Broadway Limited.

RURAL CARRIER DELIVERED HIS MAIL ON HORSEBACK

EAST HAMPTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—Because of the snow drifts on the back roads, Crosby Cook, mail carrier on rural route number 3, was forced to deliver his mail today on horseback. Other mail men here used snow shoes in delivering mail at many stops where the snow was deep.

THE STILLMANS NOW AT A HOTEL IN PARIS

PARIS, Feb. 12—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman reached Paris from honbourg this afternoon on their honeymoon of reconciliation, and tonight were settled in a Paris hotel impatiently awaiting the arrival of their daughter, Mrs. Henry P. Davison, formerly Anne Stillman, who is believed to have been largely instrumental in reuniting them after their sensational separation of five years.

Mrs. Davison and her husband landed at Marseilles today, returning from India, and tonight Mrs. Davison was on her way to Paris, her husband having gone to Mentone on the Riviera.

Mr. and Mrs. Stillman have no plans more definite than that they expect to stay three weeks in Paris and to unite indefinitely in Europe. On their arrival at Cherbourg on the Olympic early today Mrs. Stillman declared they were "perfectly reconciled." "I am a new woman to him now," she continued, "he had not seen me for almost five years."

THEODORE AND KERMIT ROOSEVENT ARE IN PARIS

PARIS, Feb. 12—(AP)—Tanned and hardened by their Asiatic hunting trip Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and his brother, Captain Kermit Roosevelt, reached Paris tonight from Marseilles. They were accompanied by their wives, both of whom displayed their pride at having shot tigers in India.

Theodore and Kermit expressed elation over the fact that they had collected between sixty and seventy rare specimens of the zoological and ornithological order.

"We had a bully time in Turkestan and elsewhere," said Theodore. "We got everything we went after, including the giant mountain sheep, ovis poli. But we are delighted to be back in Paris and civilization."

LYNN AUTHORITIES TO WATCH BEAUTY PARLORS

LYNN, Mass., Feb. 12.—(AP) — The women and girls of Lynn are pretty enough to get through Sunday without treatments at beauty parlors, in the opinion of Mayor Ralph S. Bauer. The mayor ordered the police today to keep watch over the city's beauty parlors to see that they refrain from operating on Sunday. Complaints had reached the mayor.

The mayor contends that six days of labor with lip stick, powder puff, scissors and rouge, should in a general way, make any woman attractive enough to carry her over the seventh, without further treatment.

PRESIDENT ORDERS DUTY INCREASE ON STRAW HATS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Under the flexible provisions of the tariff act, President Coolidge today ordered the duty on men's straw hats valued at $9.50 or less a dozen, increased from 60 to 88 per cent. ad valorem. The present rate he found does not equalize differences in cost of production in the United tates and Italy, the principal competing country.

OLD-FASHIONED WOMAN HEALTHIER THAN FLAPPER

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—The woman of the old "red flannel days" was more sensibly dressed and healthier than the modern flapper, E. M. Thirkfield, 79-year-old merchant, of Franklin, O., said today at the closing session of the fifteenth annual convention of the National Retail Dry Goods association.

"In those days," he said, "we used to sell 20 yards of silk for one dress. Now a woman buys three yards and considers that it is more than enough. Then there were only three or four shades of silks to be obtained; now there are hundreds.

The men of 50 years ago were superstitious beyond all believing in the matter of what they wore. In winter it had to be medicated red flannel underwear and only a few people of the better class could be induced to wear white merino."

The speaker pointed out that there are 4,500 different articles of women's underclothing on the market today and 1,800 different kinds of stockings for the fair sex.

Craighton C. Hill of the Babson Statistical organization, warned the merchants of the "serious evils" connected with installment selling, which, he said, were certain to bring trouble to merchants who do not put a check on this practice.

COMMENT ON EXCLUSION OF COUNTESS CATHCART

LONDON, Feb. 12—(AP)—That section of the British press which has commented on the ruling of the Ellis Island immigration authorities excluding Countess Cathcart from the United States, is disposed to be sarcastic. The Star says:

"The American attitude strikes us as really comic. We hear of American divorces where the details are quite as lurid as anything in the British courts. One of the first things American divorcees do seems to be to make a honeymoon trip to Europe."

The Evening Standard editorial compares the moral standards of Ellis Island with those of Hollywood, saying:
